With Thanksgiving Week in the offing, visitors are coming into town for the holiday. An especially pleasant aspect of the season is the gathering of out-of-town family members.

LYDIA NICHOLS is expecting a house full of guests. Included in the party will be her brother, CLAUDE OAKLAND of San Francisco; another brother and family, JOHN B. OAKLAND, wife VIRGINIA, and children, MARY, BERNIE, and CELESTE, from St. Louis, Missouri; and JOHN GADWAY, a Tulane student whose home is in Homestead, Florida. They will arrive on Wednesday and be in town until next Sunday.

Flying in today from New Orleans are LOUISE NORMANN and CONNIE FAUST. They will spend the week with their grandparents, the TOM LEIGHS, on South Grand.

Also here from New Orleans this week were TOM MILES and STEWART MILES, who left yesterday after a visit of several days. They were guests of their grandmother, DAISY TERZIA, and other relatives here.

Speaking of Lydia Nichols, a, we were above, she and VERA TROY were hostesses at a charming little party Friday afternoon. Lydia has been this year's director of the Friday games for Bayou Bridge club, while Vera is past director. Games are played at Bayou DeSiard country club. Vera and Lydia invited those taking part in the games this week to come by the Nichols' home for refreshments Friday afternoon. Arrangements of pink, white, and lavander chrysanthemums decorated the living room and den for the party. Iced drinks and light snacks were served.

Last Friday afternoon, BROOKSIE HAMAKER and JO MATTISON entertained at a bridge party at Bayou DeSiard country club. Arrangements of fall leaves and bronze chrysanthemums were used in the club ballroom. Before the games, apple dumplings with whipped cream were served. Ten tables of players took part, with prizes going to JEAN WILLIAMS, high; MARY LEE KING, second; and GWEN HARDY, travelling prize for slam.

An elegant assortment of desserts were served with coffee and spiced tea when JEANNETTE AYCOCK invited a group of friends in on Wednesday afternoon. American Beauty roses in a silver vase formed the focal decor in the living room. Yellow and bronze chrysanthemums filled a silver Revere bowl on the dining table, while the same blossoms were used in brass scales on the buffet. Choice of goodies included mincemeat tarts, miniature pumpkin pies, luscious prune cake with caramel icing, Brownies, pound cake with orange glaze, and salted nuts.

At this season of the year, football - listening parties are a popular form of informal entertainment. Last Saturday night the home of EVELYN and ROY COLE, JR., was scene of this type of party. Five couples attended, each contributing a dish to the potluck supper. The buffet, which included ham, potatoes augratin, green salad, and hot breads, was decorated with an arrangement of fruit. Guests served themselves in the dining room and then were seated around radios in living room and den to hear the LSU - TCU game.

A goodly number of local football fans drove to Jackson, Mississippi yesterday for the LSU-Mississippi State game. Among the Tiger fans were JANE and DAN SARTOR, PAT and DICK BLANCHARD, DIBBLE and BARNEY PATE, JAKE USSERY with son JIM and guest DAVID KELLY, the BUDDY BODRONS, JUDY and GENE WORTHEN, the LARRY ROBERTS.

Due home today are the W. E. DENTS, JR., sons BUDDY and MARK. They attended the game in Jackson yesterday, and spent the night with MRS. W. E. DENT, SR., there.

Celebrating her twelfth birthday with a trip to the game was ANN HAMMONDS. Others in the party included her parents, the HENRY HAMMONDS, brother HANK and his guest, RANDOLPH BOWLES; the W. L. STOVALLS and daughters, GLORIA and ASHLEY.

A harvest theme was carried out in decorations when VERA HOWELL and ELOISE BAILEY entertained at a coffee Thursday morning at the Howell home. Yellow chrysanthemums were used on a bowl table in the living room, and again in a silver sugar bowl on the coffee table. Centering the dining table was a wooden tray overflowing with glided fruit and yellow chrysanthemums. Hot shrimp dip, cheese straws, rum muffins, and salted pecans were served with coffee to about eighteen ladies invited for the morning.

Some twenty - five couples surprised the SHELBY HILLS with a house-warming Wednesday night in their recently renovated home on Marie Place. The guests arrived together, bringing refreshments of roast beef, hot biscuits, lobster mousse, and deviled oysters. CLAY WILSON accompanied the group on the guitar as they sang Juanita's original song "This New House".

On Thursday, Babette DOERNBERG was hostess at luncheon on the porch of Bayou DeStard Country club. Pink roses arranged with purple ageratum and grapes centered the pink-covered table. The menu served to twelve guests included Waldorf salad in apple shells, turkey mornay with asparagus, and baked butterscotch custard.

Invitations were in the mail this week for the Revelers' Dance club fall party, scheduled for Wednesday evening, Thanksgiving Eve, from nine until one, in the Paragon ballroom. Jerry Lane and his orchestra will provide music for the semi-formal affair.

Cleverest invitations of the season were those mailed to MYLA LANCE and JIMMY BRIGHT's party last Friday night. These showed a boy and girl entering a gate marked "Club 13", and stated "We've joined the club. Come help us celebrate." The club theme was carried out in green and white decorations used in the Westminister recreation center. Thirteen tall slender tapers burned in a cornucopia of white flowers, and the numerals "13" marked individual petit fours. About one hundred members of the junior high set attended the party.

For his fifth birthday, ROBBIE CURRY entertained with a cowboy party at home. Ten little boys, wearing their jeans, arrived for play in the yard. Favors were tiny locomotives filled with candy cigarettes. Hamburger lunch, with cupcakes and ice cream, was served.

Charming party for seven-year-old girls was that honoring DEDE FRAZIER on her birthday Wednesday. A Raggedy Ann theme was carried out with the use of a Raggedy Ann table decoration and a large cake baked in the shape of the doll. Places for eighteen little guests were each marked by a favor, consisting of a Raggedy Ann doll holding a placecard. Raggedy Ann stories were read to the group as refreshments were served. Later a program was presented by the guests, each contributing an entertainment. A Twist contest climaxed the party, with the prize going to CHRISTIE CLEMENTS.

Ten girls of the junior high set were invited to spend the night party Friday at the home of CYNTHIA TERZIA. Festivities began with supper at five - thirty. The buffet, decorated with bronze chrysanthemums and pyracantha, was set up in the new family room of the Terzia home. The menu included shrimp Creole, salad, and French bread. Games were planned for the evening, with hot chocolate and popcorn served later.

Jean Gentry honored her granddaughter, Sylvia Jean Huenefeld on her fourth birthday when she entertained eight little guests with a luncheon at home. The menu included creamed turkey, congealed fruit salad, banana splits and cherry birthday cake.

Our poem for the Thanksgiving season is by Monroe's own EULALIA M'COY.

When evening skies are blending blue
With red and gold in every hue
Reflected from the leafy spread
Where once a golden harvest grew—
That is Thanksgiving
When earth, once green, turns brown instead
And trees are bare when trails are tread
And woods in stalwart stateliness
Arise to weather winter's dread—
That is Thanksgiving.
When all about is happiness—
So much that life and love possess!
And loved ones gather, festive,
gay
And joyous in their thankfulness—
That is Thanksgiving.
When happy hearts look up to say,
In gratitude for God's good way,
"We thank Thee for our land, and pray
Long wave our Flag!" then is the day
That is Thanksgiving.

PROTECT HOOD

After washing a hooded sweater, stuff the hood with tissue to hold it open. This helps it to dry in shape, and lets air circulate so that it will dry faster.

Make Frame For Small Window

Dress up a window that's too small for frilly curtains or draperies by making a thin plywood cornice for the top. Then, cover it with one of the new patterns or colors in adhesive coverings. The material can be pressed smoothly into place in minutes.

Outline the window, too, if you like, by pressing strips of the adhesive covering on the window molding, the sill and on the apron under the sill.

FBI Smashes Cuban Sabotage Ring; Explosives, Arms Seized

Cuba Soviets Are Forming Armed Units

Reason Unclear To Intelligence Analysts In U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U. S. officials said Saturday that several thousand Soviet "technicians" still in Cuba are being organized into regular military units for reasons as yet unclear to intelligence analysts here.

The development was being watched with increasing concern because it could balloon into another sticking point in the efforts to solve the Cuban crisis by diplomatic negotiations.

FORM BATTALIONS

Officials said the Russian "technicians" remaining on the island, estimated at approximately 4,000, were "looking more like regular soldiers every day." There were indications they were being formed into groups of approximately battalion strength.

Meanwhile, it appeared to diplomatic authorities that President Kennedy may have set some sort of deadline for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to give definite assurances that he intends to remove the Soviet jet bombers still in Cuba. This was described by top officials as being the key issue holding up consideration of all other aspects of the problem.

The White House continued its silence on Cuban developments. However, officials said that Kennedy, in scheduling a "live" radio-television news conference for Tuesday evening at 6 p.m. EST, obviously expected to have some major news on Cuba for the American public.

It could be an announcement that Khrushchev had agreed to pull out the IL28 twin-jet bombers without attaching unacceptable conditions. Or it could be a declaration that the United States was being forced to take tougher measures—including a cut-off of petroleum for Cuba—because the Soviet leader had not come to terms.

Officials were frank to acknowledge that they had no clear idea yet why the Russians remaining in Cuba were being formed into military type groups. There were about 6,000 Soviet technical personnel in Cuba at the time Khrushchev began pulling out his 42 medium range missiles. Officials said some 2,000 appeared to have left since, some of them accompanying the rockets.

Cuban Military Orders Airline Flights Halted

MIAMI (UPI)—Cuban military authorities Saturday ordered the skies over Cuba cleared of all domestic commercial airline flights by 4:30 a.m. Sunday, according to a Havana Radio broadcast monitored here.

The broadcast gave no reason for the order, but there was immediate speculation that it could be connected with Premier Fidel Castro's threat to shoot down U.S. surveillance planes flying over Cuba. The warning was delivered to U. N. Acting Secretary General Thant at the United Nations last Thursday.

The broadcast said the new order will remain in effect "until further notice."

There was no indication how it might affect a Mexican commercial airline that has been flying into Cuba from time to time.

Friday U. S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean said at the United Nations that the United States would use "all means necessary" to protect the western hemisphere against danger from Cuban soil. Pentagon sources said the United States was prepared to protect its reconnaissance flights with fighter plane escorts.

MONROE IMPROVEMENTS

Election Set On Bond Issue

Monroe property owners vote Tuesday on five separate projects in a special bond issue election called to finance a proposed $11,250,000 capital improvement program.

Over 10,000 property owners are eligible to vote when the polls open at 6 a. m. and close at 8 p.m. in an election that climaxes three years of planning in City Hall.

The five projects, which will be voted on separately, are as follows:

Proposition No. 1 — Sewage treatment plant, $2,750,000.

Proposition No. 2 — Civic center, $4,650,000.

Proposition No. 3 — Fire department improvements, $650,000

Proposition No. 4 — City Hall, $2,800,000.

Proposition No. 5 — Airport facilities, $400,000.

The proposed improvements would mean an increase of two additional mills to property owners in 1963 based on the retirement of present bonds and the city's property assessment growth.

BATTLES STILL RAGING

Chinese Troops Advance In India

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Chinese Communist troops, carrying out their biggest offensive in nearly a month, drove outnumbered Indian troops from defense positions in the Walong area at the extreme end of the Sino-Indian border, a defense spokesman said Saturday.

The spokesman said there were heavy casualties on both sides and that fierce fighting was still raging in the area where a Chinese breakthrough would imperil the borders of Burma 25 miles away and India's rich Assam valley and the Digboi oil fields 80 miles to the south.

The Chinese Communist news agency reported "Chinese frontier guards advanced to Walong" and said a Communist counter-offensive sent Indian troops fleeing southward. It said an Indian attack had been "smashed" but did not actually report the captur of Walong.

3-PRONGED DRIVE

The Communist broadcast said 2,500 Indian troops launched a three-pronged offensive in the Walong area Wednesday under cover of a heavy artillery and mortar bombardment. It said the Indians overran front Chinese positions before the attack was "smashed."

In the day's only good news for the Indiana a Defense Department spokesman said Chinese Communist "aggressors in some strength attacked one of our forward positions early this morning" in the Jang area five miles from Towang and were driven back. Three other attacks also were repulsed.

BIG DRAWING CARD

U.S. Decrees Zoo Mongoose To Die

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—A furry little alien mongoose is turning out to be the biggest drawing card at the Duluth Zoo since the place got a hippotamus four years ago.

But, the question of whether Mr. Magoo, the mongoose, will survive to greet many more visitors remains in doubt this weekend.

The issue was joined when the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service informed the city that a 1909 law prohibits the importation of a mongoose into this country. Why? Because a pair of them can multiply at a rate that would put rabbits to shame.

Zookeepers say they get a call a minute, many of them on the side of the little visitors, who was donated by a Great Lakes sailor.

"Take Mrs. Magoo and hide out until this blows over," advised one imaginative caller.

More realistically, City Atty. Harry Weinberg has advised zoo officials to plot a delaying action when federal officials arrive for the execution. Weinberg said he feels something might be worked out if city and federal officials can talk things over.

In Washington, officials of the Interior Department said they have no special animosity for Mr. Magoo, but they noted that the Virgin Islands have been overrun by mongoose which were brought in to control rats.

Trouble was, they ran out of rats and ate their way through crops.

Duluth officials have offered to provide surgery for their bachelor visitor to insure against any reproduction should he by chance come in contact with a lady mongoose.

Yemen Gains By Royalists Are Claimed

Forces Reported Near Capital In Furious Fighting

CAIRO, U.A.R. (UPI) — Mecca Radio said Saturday Yemeni royalists have driven within 12 miles of Yergen's capital of Sanaa in "ferocious fighting" and that fall off the northern revolutionary stronghold of Saada appears imminent.

Mecca Radio, the pro-royalist Saudi Arabian station, reported "some victories" in the Yemeni capital area and a stiff siege at the Saada fortress which it said was "about to surrender."

DOWN AIRCRAFT

The Republican government did not immediately comment on the claims. The Republicans Friday admitted fighting still exists in Yemen but said royalists backed by Jordanians and Saudis were on the run. An appeal was made to tribesmen to unite behind the two-month-old Red Sea republic.

Mecca Radio said tribesmen loyal to the deposed Imam El Badr killed 24 Egyptian officers and soldiers and shot down a U.A.R. bomber and helicopter, both Soviet-made.

It said 20 U.A.R. bombers and fighters participated in a desert battle but the location was not immediately clear.

The Republican garrison in Saana offered to surrender if safe conduct was granted but Royalists "refused to accept any surrender terms," Mecca radio said.

It said Egyptian planes made unsuccessful attempts to parachute supplies and provisions to the garrison. The U.A.R. has supported the Republicans since the Sept. 26 revolt ousted the monarchy.

Judge Refuses To Void Order For 20 Lashes

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The Delaware judge who ordered a lashing penalty for a 19-year-old parole violator criticized Saturday what he called "bleeding hearts and nice Nellies" and said he would not void the sentence.

Superior Court Judge Stewart Lynch said, "For some reason a lot of people want to strangle anything to do with the administration of criminal justice." The judge said he cannot now legally change the sentence of 20 lashes he's ordered for Franklin Wesley Cannon Jr., of Dover, and said even if he could he would not. The judge said it will probably be mid-December before he sets the date for the flogging.

Cannon is also serving a three-year sentence imposed by the judge for auto theft.

The jurist said he has no second thoughts about the whipping he ordered for Cannon. He described the youth as a "boy I spent hours with trying to give him some decent motivation."

He called whipping, legal in Delaware for 300 years, a good law and a "punishment which ought to be resorted to more frequently."

U.N. Attache Among Three Leaders Held

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fast moving federal authorities Saturday smashed a ring of pro-Castro Cubans who allegedly planned a widespread sabotage-terror campaign through two states with explosives supplied by the Cuban mission to the United Nations.

The FBI arrested three leaders of the campaign—including a newly arrived attache to the Cuban U.N. mission—and said 10 members of their sabotage "school" had been subpenaed by a New York grand jury.

DEMAND RECALL

The FBI also said that two other members of the Cuban United Nations mission took part in the conspiracy but could not be arrested because of diplomatic immunity.

At the United Nations, the United States demanded the immediate recall by Cuba of the two Cuban diplomats and told Cuba the attache was held for prosecution under U.S. law.

"It was a question of moving in before they had a chance to use the equipment," said John Malone, assistant director in charge of the FBI office here who helped lead the raids.

The agents found hand grenades, incendiary devices, detonators and other sabotage and guerrilla warfare material in a jewelry workshop operated by

British Justice Is Stymied By Indian's Trance

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — British justice was stymied Saturday by a defendant who goes into a trance every time he appears in court.

A somewhat dazed judge ordered 19-year-old Sat Pall Najran back to the prison hospital to come out of it after he appeared in court Friday in a self-induced trance for the second time in 10 days.

"I gather that it is when he hears any mention of a court hearing that he goes into his trance," said Najran's defense counsel, R. L. Renton.

Najran, wrapped in blankets, was carried into court on a stretcher for the hearing on charges he stole $8,960 from the handbag of Mary Rogers, a barmaid. It was inheritance money she had just received from a lawyer.

The judge ordered Najran, who who was born in Kenya of Indian parents, carried out into a corridor. He gave doctors an hour to bring him out of his trance. They failed.

"He is conscious just to the extent that he knows a doctor is there," prosecutor Ian Manson said. "Otherwise, he is unconscious."

Marines Fire Big Guns At Guantanamo

GUANTANAMO Bay, Cuba (AP)— The thunder of artillery boomed across Guantanamo Bay on Saturday as Marine batteries test-fired their big guns for the first time since the United States clamped an arms blockade on Cuba on Oct. 22.

Along the fence that separates this U.S. Navy base from Communist Cuba, the boom of the 105mm guns punctuated the steady rumble of digging and building as Leathernecks toughened their defensive positions on the steep hillsides.

CUBANS WATCH

On the other side of the barrier, khaki-clad Cuban sentries watched and waited.

Adding to the battlefield look, a brush fire erupted on a fortified hillside near one U.S. outpost. It raced through the dry underbrush swept along by a stiff breeze, and touched off a case full of rifle cartridges. No one was hurt.

Base fire fighters and a bulldozer brought the blaze under control.

The Marines called the booming artillery practice routine.

For nearly an hour, the Marines' big guns fired shells harmlessly into tidal flats off the base. In combat, the jeep-hauled weapons can boom a 37-pound shell up to 8½ miles.

EXTENDS INTO TEXAS

Heavy Snowfall Plasters Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy, wet snow plastered a wide area in the West on Saturday.

The first big snowstorm of the season went into its second day in Colorado. A foot of snow piled up in the mountains and more than 6 inches on the state's drought - parched eastern Great Plains.

The Colorado Mines-Colorado College football game was postponed because half a foot of snow blanketed the field in Colorado Springs.

ACCIDENTS RISE

The storm slowed traffic throughout Colorado and figured in many minor accidents.

The storm dumped up to 6 inches of snow on northern New Mexico. A series of minor accidents occurred on icy highways.

Seven inches of snow formed a slushy cover on the Texas Panhandle. Farmers were elated because the land had been dry for some time.

Sleet and snow fell as far south as Lubbock on the southern plains of Texas. The rough weather caused two traffic deaths in the state.

Two inches of snow accumulated on the Oklahoma Panhandle.

The Weather Bureau issued a warning to travelers in the area from the Texas Panhandle to southern Kansas.

Rain, rain, more rain and cooler temperatures are what the weather watcher predicts for the Twin Cities today and tonight.

Slightly over two inches of the cool, clear water — 2.3 to be exact — fell on the Twin Towns in 24 hours, ending at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Forecast calls for more rain this morning, mostly cloudy this afternoon, colder tonight and more rain likely Monday. The mercury is expected to rise to 48-52 today before dipping to 36-42 tonight.

Saturday's warmest reading was 54, and the coolest was 48.

The barometer rose from 29.77 at 6 p.m. Friday to 29.82 at the same time Saturday.

DAMAGED BY STORM

High Waves Batter Tower, 7 Airlifted

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—A helicopter lifted seven U.S. Navy men from a storm-battered steel radar tower in the Atlantic 28 miles southwest of Bermuda on Saturday. A Navy spokesman said the men were removed as a precautionary measure.

He said stormy seas with waves up to 60 feet and winds up to 60 miles an hour had damaged the lower part of the steel structure but that the area above where the men worked and lived was not damaged. He said an inspection of the tower will be made Sunday and if the tower is found to be safe the men will return.

The tower is the "Argus Island Research Station" located southwest of Bermuda, in an area through which the big Atlantic storm passed.

It is similar in appearance to the "Texas towers" used for radar warning stations. One Texas tower, located off the northeast coast of the United States, was destroyed with a loss of all aboard in a hurricane a year ago.

FBI Smashes Cuban Sabotage Ring; Explosives, Arms Seized

Cuba Soviets Are Forming Armed Units

Reason Unclear To Intelligence Analysts In U.S.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U. S. officials said Saturday that several thousand Soviet "technicians" still in Cuba are being organized into regular military units for reasons as yet unclear to intelligence analysts here.

The development was being watched with increasing concern because it could balloon into another sticking point in the efforts to solve the Cuban crisis by diplomatic negotiations.

FORM BATTALIONS

Officials said the Russian "technicians" remaining on the island, estimated at approximately 4,000, were "looking more like regular soldiers every day." There were indications they were being formed into groups of approximately battalion strength.

Meanwhile, it appeared to diplomatic authorities that President Kennedy may have set some sort of deadline for Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev to give definite assurances that he intends to remove the Soviet jet bombers still in Cuba. This was described by top officials as being the key issue holding up consideration of all other aspects of the problem.

The White House continued its silence on Cuban developments. However, officials said that Kennedy, in scheduling a "live" radio-television news conference for Tuesday evening at 6 p.m. EST, obviously expected to have some major news on Cuba for the American public.

It could be an announcement that Khrushchev had agreed to pull out the IL28 twin-jet bombers without attaching unacceptable conditions. Or it could be a declaration that the United States was being forced to take tougher measures—including a cut-off of petroleum for Cuba—because the Soviet leader had not come to terms.

Officials were frank to acknowledge that they had no clear idea yet why the Russians remaining in Cuba were being formed into military type groups. There were about 6,000 Soviet technical personnel in Cuba at the time Khrushchev began pulling out his 42 medium range missiles. Officials said some 2,000 appear to have left since, some of them aeroexpertsing the rocket.

Cuban Military Orders Airline Flights Halted

MIAMI (UPI)—Cuban military authorities Saturday ordered the skies over Cuba cleared of all domestic commercial airline flights by 4:30 a.m. Sunday, according to a Havana Radio broadcast monitored here.

The broadcast gave no reason for the order, but there was immediate speculation that it could be connected with Premier Fidel Castro's threat to shoot down U.S. surveillance planes flying over Cuba. The warning was delivered to U. N. Acting Secretary General Thant at the United Nations last Thursday.

The broadcast said the new order will remain in effect "until further notice."

There was no indication how it might affect a Mexican commercial airline that has been flying into Cuba from time to time.

Friday U. S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean said at the United Nations that the United States would use "all means necessary" to protect the western hemisphere against danger from Cuban soil. Pentagon sources said the United States was prepared to protect its reconnaissance flights with fighter plane escorts.

MONROE IMPROVEMENTS

Election Set On Bond Issue

Monroe property owners vote Tuesday on five separate projects in a special bond issue election called to finance a proposed $11,250,000 capital improvement program.

Over 10,000 property owners are eligible to vote when the polls open at 6 a.m. and close at 8 p.m. in an election that climaxes three years of planning in City Hall.

The five projects, which will be voted on separately, are as follows:

Proposition No. 1 — Sewage treatment plant, $2,750,000.

Proposition No. 2 — Civic center, $4,650,000.

Proposition No. 3 — Fire department improvements, $650,000.

Proposition No. 4 — City Hall, $2,800,000.

Proposition No. 5 — Airport facilities, $400,000.

The proposed improvements would mean an increase of two additional mills to property owners in 1963 based on the retirement of present bonds and the city's property assessment growth.

BATTLES STILL RAGING

Chinese Troops Advance In India

NEW DELHI (UPI)—Chinese Communist troops, carrying out their biggest offensive in nearly a month, drove outnumbered Indian troops from defense positions in the Walong area at the extreme end of the Sino-Indian border, a defense spokesman said Saturday.

The spokesman said there were heavy casualties on both sides and that fierce fighting was still raging in the area where a Chinese breakthrough would imperil the borders of Burma 25 miles away and India's rich Assam valley and the Digboi oil fields 80 miles to the south.

The Chinese Communist news agency reported "Chinese frontier guards advanced to Walong" and said a Communist counter-offensive sent Indian troops fleeing southward. It said an Indian attack had been "smashed" but did not actually report the capture of Walong.

3-PRONGED DRIVE

The Communist broadcast said 2,500 Indian troops launched a three-pronged offensive in the Walong area Wednesday under cover of a heavy artillery and mortar bombardment. It said the Indians overran front Chinese positions before the attack was "smashed."

In the day's only good news for the Indians a Defense Department spokesman said Chinese Communist "aggressors in some strength attacked one of our forward positions early this morning" in the Jang area five miles from Towang and were driven back. Three other attacks also were repulsed.

BIG DRAWING CARD

U.S. Decrees Zoo Mongoose To Die

DULUTH, Minn. (AP)—A furry little alien mongoose is turning out to be the biggest drawing card at the Duluth Zoo since the place got a hippotamus four years ago.

But, the question of whether Mr. Magoo, the mongoose, will survive to greet many more visitors remains in doubt this weekend.

The issue was joined when the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service informed the city that a 1909 law prohibits the importation of a mongoose into this country. Why? Because a pair of them can multiply at a rate that would put rabbits to shame.

Zookeepers say they get a call a minute, many of them on the side of the little visitors, who was donated by a Great Lakes sailor.

"Take Mrs. Magoo and hide out until this blows over," advised one imaginative caller.

More realistically, City Atty. Harry Weinberg has advised zoo officials to plot a delaying action when federal officials arrive for the execution. Weinberg said he feels something might be worked out if city and federal officials can talk things over.

In Washington, officials of the Interior Department said they have no special animosity for Mr. Magoo, but they noted that the Virgin Islands have been overrun by mongoose which were brought in to control rats.

Trouble was, they ran out of rats and ate their way through crops.

Duluth officials have offered to provide surgery for their bachelor visitor to insure against any reproduction should he by chance come in contact with a lady mongoose.

Yemen Gains By Royalists Are Claimed

Forces Reported Near Capital In Furious Fighting

CAIRO, U.A.R. (UPI) — Mecca Radio said Saturday Yemeni royalists have driven within 12 miles of Yemen's capital of Sanaa in "ferocious fighting" and that fall off the northern revolutionary stronghold of Saada appears imminent.

Mecca Radio, the pro-royalist Saudi Arabian station, reported "some victories" in the Yemeni capital area and a stiff siege at the Saada fortress which it said was "about to surrender."

DOWN AIRCRAFT

The Republican government did not immediately comment on the claims. The Republicans Friday admitted fighting still exists in Yemen but said royalists backed by Jordanians and Saudis were on the run. An appeal was made to tribesmen to unite behind the two-month-old Red Sea republic.

Mecca Radio said tribesmen loyal to the deposed Imam El Badr killed 24 Egyptian officers and soldiers and shot down a U.A.R. bomber and helicopter, both Soviet-made.

It said 20 U.A.R. bombers and fighters participated in a desert battle but the location was not immediately clear.

The Republican garrison in Saana offered to surrender if safe conduct was granted but Royalists "refused to accept any surrender terms," Mecca radio said.

It said Egyptian planes made unsuccessful attempts to parachute supplies and provisions to the garrison. The U.A.R. has supported the Republicans since the Sept. 26 revolt ousted the monarchy.

Judge Refuses To Void Order For 20 Lashes

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The Delaware judge who ordered a lashing penalty for a 19-year-old parole violator criticized Saturday what he called "bleeding hearts and nice Nellies" and said he would not void the sentence.

Superior Court Judge Stewart Lynch said, "For some reason a lot of people want to strangle anything to do with the administration of criminal justice." The judge said he cannot now legally change the sentence of 20 lashes he's ordered for Franklin Wesley Cannon Jr., of Dover, and said even if he could he would not. The judge said it will probably be mid-December before he sets the date for the flogging.

Cannon is also serving a three-year sentence imposed by the judge for auto theft.

The jurist said he has no second thoughts about the whipping he ordered for Cannon. He described the youth as a "boy I spent hours with trying to give him some decent motivation."

He called whipping, legal in Delaware for 300 years, a good law and a "punishment which ought to be resorted to more frequently."

Marines Fire Big Guns At Guantanamo

GUANTANAMO Bay, Cuba (AP)— The thunder of artillery boomed across Guantanamo Bay on Saturday as Marine batteries test-fired their big guns for the first time since the United States clamped an arms blockade on Cuba on Oct. 22.

Along the fence that separates this U.S. Navy base from Communist Cuba, the boom of the 105mm guns punctuated the steady rumble of digging and building as Leathernecks tough-ened their defensive positions on the steep hillsides.

CUBANS WATCH

On the other side of the barrier, khaki-clad Cuban sentries watched and waited.

Adding to the battlefield look, a brush fire erupted on a fortified hillside near one U.S. outpost. It raced through the dry underbrush, swept along by a stiff breeze, and touched off a case full of rifle cartridges. No one was hurt.

Base fire fighters and a bulldozer brought the blaze under control.

The Marines called the boom ing artillery practice routine.

For nearly an hour, the Marines' big guns fired shells harmlessly into tidal flats off the base. In combat, the jeep-hauled weapons can boom a 37-pound shell up to 8½ miles.

EXTENDS INTO TEXAS

Heavy Snowfall Plasters Areas

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Heavy, wet snow plastered a wide area in the West on Saturday.

The first big snowstorm of the season went into its second day in Colorado. A foot of snow piled up in the mountains and more than 6 inches on the state's drought - parched eastern Great Plains.

The Colorado Mines-Colorado College football game was postponed because half a foot of snow blanketed the field in Colorado Springs.

ACCIDENTS RISE

The storm slowed traffic throughout Colorado and figured in many minor accidents.

The storm dumped up to 6 inches of snow on northern New Mexico. A series of minor accidents occurred on icy highways.

Seven inches of snow formed a slushy cover on the Texas Panhandle. Farmers were elated because the land had been dry for some time.

Sleet and snow fell as far south as Lubbock on the southern plains of Texas. The rough weather caused two traffic deaths in the state.

Two inches of snow accumulated on the Oklahoma Panhandle.

The Weather Bureau issued a warning to travelers in the area from the Texas Panhandle to southern Kansas.

Rain, rain, more rain and cooler temperatures are what the weather watcher predicts for the Twin Cities today and tonight.

Slightly over two inches of cool, clear water — 2.3 to be exact — fell on the Twin Towns in 24 hours, ending at 6 p.m. Saturday.

Forecast calls for more rain this morning, mostly cloudy this afternoon, colder tonight and more rain likely Monday. The mercury is expected to rise to 48-52 today before dipping to 36-42 tonight.

Saturday's warmest reading was 54, and the coolest was 48.

The barometer rose from 29.77 at 6 p.m. Friday to 29.82 at the same time Saturday.

DAMAGED BY STORM

High Waves Batter Tower, 7 Airlifted

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP)—A helicopter lifted seven U.S. Navy men from a storm-battered steel radar tower in the Atlantic 22 miles southwest of Bermuda on Saturday. A Navy spokesman said the men were removed as a precautionary measure.

He said stormy seas with waves up to 60 feet and winds up to 60 miles an hour had damaged the lower part of the steel structure but that the area above where the men worked and lived was not damaged. He said an inspection of the tower will be made Sunday and if the tower is found to be safe the men will return.

The tower is the "Argus Island Research Station" located southwest of Bermuda, in an area through which the big Atlantic storm passed.

It is similar in appearance to the "Texas towers" used for radar warning stations. One Texas tower, located off the northeast coast of the United States, was destroyed with a loss of all aboard in a hurricane a year ago.

The seven men were uninjured. Waves had stripped ladders, a boat landing and other appendages from the steel legs of the tower up to a level of 48 feet. The platform upon which the men lived and worked, however, was higher than that.

The removal of the men was completed about noon with the helicopter landing on the platform and then taking off in two round trips. Pilot of the helicopter was Capt. D. B. Maurras. He brought back three men on the first trip, four on the second.

The Navy said the seven men are:

Anton Savarcs, Chicago; Modris Avotins, Chicago; William Krogman, Marine-on-St. Croix, Minn.; Raymond Wills, Marysville, Ind.; Johnny Prince, Gastonia, N.C.; Ben Sullivan, Winona, Miss.

U.N. Attache Among Three Leaders Held

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fast moving federal authorities Saturday smashed a ring of pro-Castro Cubans who allegedly planned a widespread sabotage-terror campaign through two states with explosives supplied by the Cuban mission to the United Nations.

The FBI arrested three leaders of the campaign including a newly arrived attache to the Cuban U.N. mission and said 10 members of their sabotage "school" had been subpenaed by a New York grand jury.

DEMAND RECALL

The FBI also said that two other members of the Cuban United Nations mission took part in the conspiracy but could not be arrested because of diplomatic immunity.

At the United Nations, the United States demanded the immediate recall by Cuba of the two Cuban diplomats and told Cuba the attache was held for prosecution under U.S. law.

"It was a question of moving in before they had a chance to use the equipment," said John Malone, assistant director in charge of the FBI office here who helped lead the raids.

The agents found hand grenades, incendiary devices, detonators and other sabotage and guerrilla warfare material in a jewelry workshop operated by

British Justice Is Stymied By Indian's Trance

BIRMINGHAM, England (UPI) — British justice was stymied Saturday by a defendant who goes into a trance every time he appears in court.

A somewhat dazed judge ordered 19-year-old Sat Pall Najran back to the prison hospital to come out of it after he appeared in court Friday in a self-induced trance for the second time in 10 days.

"I gather that it is when he hears any mention of a court hearing that he goes into his trance," said Najran's defense counsel, R. L. Renton.

Najran, wrapped in blankets, was carried into court on a stretcher for the hearing on charges he stole $8,960 from the handbag of Mary Rogers, a barmaid. It was inheritance money she had just received from a lawyer.

The judge ordered Najran, who who was born in Kenya of Indian parents, carried out into a corridor. He gave doctors an hour to bring him out of his trance. They failed.

"He is conscious just to the extent that he knows a doctor is there," prosecutor Ian Manson said. "Otherwise, he is unconscious."

Bureau Forecasts Surplus Problem

The Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation said Saturday that the system of administering the federal cotton legislative act of 1958 has resulted in surplus problems.

In a Farm Bureau Fact Sheet entitled, "The 1963 Cotton Situation for Louisiana," the organization said, "There is no need for new cotton legislation if the act of 1958 would be administered as intended by Congress."

The Bureau reported that its Cotton Advisory Committee had adopted the following goals:

1—Retention of the release and apportionment program.

2—An effective selling price of 30 cents a pound, basis middling inch or SLM 1 1-32 inch, with an acreage allotment at least equal to the 1962 level.

3—Reduction of the export subsidy by at least two cents a pound to reduce pressure on domestic mills, and still provide opportunity to move U. S. cotton into world markets.

Bureau officials said if these goals can be achieved the 1963 Louisiana cotton crop will be worth about $88,000,000 to farmers on the basis of average plantings, with a potential value of $94,500,000 if all acres are used.

The fact sheet estimated the value of cotton harvested in the Fifth Congressional District this year as "at least $53.6 million," and said minimum loss from acreage cut next year would be $6.7 million. And if release and reapportionment program fall through it "could be in the neighborhood of $12 million."

Viewing the situation on a statewide basis, the Fact Sheet stated:

"On Oct. 15, Agriculture Secretary Freeman announced that the 1963 cotton acreage allotment would be cut to 16 million acres, the minimum permitted by the Agricultural Act of 1958. In Louisiana this 12 per cent reduction in acreage will result in a base allotment (including reserves) of 556,931 acres. If the same percentage of acres are utilized (93 per cent) as have been used in the past two years, actual acreage planted to cotton in Louisiana in 1963 will be in the neighborhood of 515,000 acres.

"Using an average gross of $160 per acreage, our 1962 cotton crop was worth $93,700,000 to Louisiana farmers. The 1963 crop value probably will drop to $81,400,000, a slash of $12,300,000 from farm income, or more than three per cent of the total gross farm income in Louisiana.

"Of even greater long - range significance is the possible adverse effect this action will have on the release and reapportionment program, which has permitted unused cotton acreage to move within the state to areas where farmers are willing to plant it. In 1962, there were 85,168 acres released by more than 15,000 farmers. This was divided among 10,000 farmers who wanted to increase their plantings. This program, together with the distribution of the state reserve, permitted farmers in the 20 major cotton producing parishes to plant an average of 20 per cent more acreage than their base allotment would have permitted. While it is impossible to estimate how seriously the reduction in acreage will aeffct the 1963 release and reapportionment program, it is probable that there will be a considerable drop in the acreage available for reapportionment."

Kennon Says He's Running For Governor

BATON ROUGE (AP) — "Yes," former Gov. Robert Kennon said Saturday, "I'm running for governor."

But other than that, Kennon chose not to go splashing around in the political seas this early in the game.

Kennon has no intention of making a formal announcement of his candidacy until next summer, possibly in July, when the people's appetite for gubernatorial politics will be ready.

So far, Public Service Commissioner John McKeithen of Columbia, hoping for support of Sen. Russell B. Long and all the Long forces, and former Lt. Gov. C. E. (Cap) Barham of Ruston, have issued early bids in the 1963 campaign.

The first primary is Dec. 7 next year.

Former Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans, State Supt. Shelby M. Jackson and Public Works Director Claude Kirkpatrick have dropped repeated hints they would be happy to occupy the mansion, they have offered only hints, so far.

If the Longs all swing together behind one challenger—and U. S. Rep.-elect Gillis Long has been mentioned as one possibility—they could speak with a heavy voice in the coming campaign. But even the best known of the Longs will admit they're not together right now.

In 1952, when Kennon won the governorship, the Longs were split wide open. Sen. Long backed Rep. Hale Boggs of New Orleans and his uncle, the late Earl K. Long pushed Judge Carlos Spaht of Baton Rouge.

The 60-year-old Kennon, engaged in Baton Rouge law practice, was an appeal judge and at one time occupied a seat on the state supreme court before he began challenging the Long dynasty.

He became an Eisenhower Democrat, and the former Republican president came within 38,000 votes of carrying Louisiana in 1952. The Longs supported Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic nominee.

Kennon is a self-styled Jeffersonian Democrat. His was one of the first voices in the South—after the 1954 Supreme Court decision on school desegregation—to warn that the high court was stepping outside its judicial boundaries.

Cullipher Retrial Scheduled Monday On Docket Loaded With Eleven Cases

Eleven cases running the gamut from theft by check and theft of building materials to murder and manslaughter are slated for jury trials in Fourth District court this week with Judge Jesse S. Heard presiding.

The eleven cases will involve only nine persons with one man facing two counts of attempted murder and another facing two counts of theft by check.

The cases and dates for each trial are:

Monday, Nov. 19:

The group reported April 6, 1962, indicating he was capable of standing trial, and April 11 of this year, a trial for Cullipher ended in a mistrial. The case will be retried this week. Frances Lavell Griffith, Ouachita Parish woman, was charged on Oct. 5 of last year with abortion after she was taken into custody in West Monroe. She has been free on bond.

BROADWAY SLOWS DOWN

NEW YORK (UPI)—About 40 new shows are scheduled to open this season on Broadway — 10 less than last season and the lowest number this century. Among the reasons cited for the decline is the difficulty of lesser known producers in finding backers and the lengthening time a show must run to clear a profit.

MRS. ROLAND COLVIN

Candlelight Vows Unite Couple In Sarepta Church

In a candlelight ceremony solemnized at 7 p.m. Saturday, November 17 in New Sarepta Baptist Church, Miss Dolores Ann Dean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dean of Sarepta, became the bride of Roland Colvin of Cotton Valley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer S. Colvin of Start.

Rev. Scott Turner performed the double ring ceremony before the altar which was decorated with myraid tapers in branched candelabra, garlanded with plumosa fern and white satin bows. Antique Danish silver candle trees held votive lights and the candelabras were connected with satin ribbon. Pews on either side of the aisle were marked with white hearts, plumosa, satin bows and candles.

Miss Nancy Gray sang "Because," "Wither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Rankin.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white silk peau de soie. The moulded bodice featured long fitted sleeves and scalloped scoop neckline appliqued with reembroidered Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls. The controlled skirt was designed with unpressed pleats over the hips and a detachable full chapel train, extending from an Alencon lace midriff. Aurora crystal beads accented her scalloped pearl crown which held her fingertip veil of silk illusion. She wore a diamond pendant, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and pearlized leaves centered with a yellow-throated white orchid, on a white Bible.

Mrs. Billy Dean, matron of honor, wore a gown of orchid starlight satin with a tiara of aurora sequins and lace and an aurora crystal necklace. She carried a crescent bouquet of orchid pompons with maline and ribbon streamers in deeper shades. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendant were Misses Rose Mary Dean, Linda Weaver, Betty Ray Ellis, Nina Sue Smith, Peggy McGraw and Rose Mary Brown. They carried round bouquets of orchid pompons.

Serving Mr. Colvin as best man was Billy Dean. Groomsmen-ushers were Bruce Dean, Bobby Dean, Jimmy Smith, Billy Brown, Wayne Sandlin and Dwayne Mason. Kelly Beasley acted as ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Dean wore a green lace jacket dress with matching satin shoes and bag, green feather hat and white kid gloves. Her corsage was a cymbidium orchid in white and fuchsia. The bridegroom's mother wore a rose lace dress with matching shoes and bag, white gloves and hat of white velvet flowers. Her corsage was a rose and white cymbidium orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, decorated throughout with candelabra. The memory candle, encircled with orchid maline and pompons graced the table with the guest book. The bride's bouquet and those of her attendants formed the central decor for the serving table which also held two five-branched silver candelabra with the silver punch bowl and tiered wedding cake at opposite ends. A massive arrangement of white gladioli and pompons combined with orchid maline, pompons and silver wedding rings graced the piano.

Orchid tulle rice bags were presented the guests from silver trays by Jan Peters, Carla Ellis and Kathy Ellis, who wore orchid frocks with matching tulle and sequined headbands and white corsages.

For a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, the bride changed into a beige wool crepe suit with hat in complementary tones of orange, green and beige. She wore matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will establish a home in Sarepta.

The bride graduated from Sarepta high school, received her B.S. degree from Louisiana Tech and took graduate work at Stephen F. Austin. Mr. Colvin graduated from Start high school, received a B.S. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College and took graduate work at Louisiana Tech.

Women Borrow Men's Fashions

There seems no end to the men's styles which women will swipe. Just when a lull appear, an entire new batch of swiped fashions turns up. This year the swiping has been done from cowboys and French sailors.

The cowboy suit look is a high fashion rage, with jean jacket, swingy skirt, cowboy scarf and sombrero hat. Cowboy scarves decorate every other casual dress in the sportswear market. Cowboy hipster pants and skirts are the rage of the young crowd.

Now comes the French sailor look, launched by the new Gallic movie, "Jules et Jim." The sail or cap, flat and visored, is one of fall's big millinery styles. Skinny striped pullovers and bell bottomed pants will be the resort look come January.

Lutheran Faith

To have faith is to trust.

Here's an example:

In a past generation, Blondin walked across Niagara Falls on a tightrope. One of his friends was once asked if Blondin could carry a man on his back while crossing the Falls.

The friend's answer was yes. But when asked if he would get on Blondin's back and allow Blondin to carry him across the Falls, his answer was no, adding, "I believe Blondin can do it, but I don't trust him."

Lutherans not only believe Jesus Christ can be their Lord, they trust Him moment by moment—as their Lord.

Women's Dorm At Tech Slated To Be Removed

RUSTON (Special) — For 60 years Harper Hall has been a landmark on the campus of Louisiana Tech and now it is to be torn down. A remnant of the past, Harper is almost as old as the college itself. Built in 1902, it was the second women's dormitory to be erected here. What is now a part of Hale Hall was the first women's dormitory.

For many years Harper was known only as the "women's dormitory," but in 1937 it was named Richardson Hall in honor of former Tech president, Dr. E. S. Richardson, who, at that time, was still in office.

The name had to be changed, however, in 1940, when a state law was passed prohibiting the naming of any state building after a living person.

Harper in that year received its present name as a tribute to the memory of Miss Jean Maud Harper, former dean of women and professor of English and psychology at Tech. Miss Harper joined the teaching faculty in 1920, and served as dean of women only one year before she died in office following an operation in 1929.

The name of Richardson Hall was changed to Harper Hall in 1940 by the then dean of women, Miss Caroline Cochran.

Last fall, a record number of 175 women were living in Harper. This year, however, only 82 coeds could be housed there. These occupants were recently moved into Dudley, Aswell and Harper Annex when old age finally caught up with Harper, making it necessary that the old dormitory be demolished to make way for progress.

A government loan from the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency will be sought to replace old Harper with an air-conditioned building to accommodate 400 women students, according to Dr. F. Jay Taylor, Tech president.

TO WEST MONROYAN

Train-Car Crash Injuries Slight

A 33 - year - old West Monroe man luckily escaped with only minor injuries when his car skidded on rain - slick pavement into a AL&M train on Louisville Avenue late Saturday.

Monroe police identified him as Laurence D. Green, of 114 Hayes St., West Monroe. He was rushed to E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment of lacerations and bruises by Mulhearn ambulance.

The day - long drizzle helped to account for a deluge of automobile accidents Saturday that left four injured, none seriously, and a total of 26 collision. Monroe police reported 14 wrecks; state police recorded six late Saturday while West Monroe also had six shown on their records.

Injuried in accidents other than Green include Kathaleen Chandler, 36, of 5204 DeSiard St., Hastings L. Cleveland, 66, of 1709 Cole Ave., Monroe; and Margie F. Eaves, 35, of 3901 Whites Ferry Rd., West Monroe.

According to investigating officers, Green was traveling east on Louisville Avenue and smashed into the train at the AL&M railroad crossing near Breard Street around 10 p.m. His car was dragged a short distance by the train engine, engineered by Ralph Newman, route one, box 308, West Monroe, and totally demolished. He said he saw the blinking red warning lights, but when he applied his brakes, the car skidded on into the train. Police ticketed him with reckless driving.

Mrs. Chandler was struck by a car on U. S. Highway 80, just east of its intersection of Kansas Lane, Saturday around 11:30 a.m.

State police said she was attempting to cross the highway with her children when she was struck and knocked around 35 feet by an eastbound car operated by Daisy N. Black, 64, Phoenix, Ariz. Mrs. Chandler was being treated at St. Francis hospital for multiple injuries Saturday. No charges were filed in the accident.

Mrs. Eaves sustained a whiplash at the neck when her car was struck from behind by a vehicle at the foot of the new traffic bridge. Mrs. Eaves, and the other car, operated by Leonard C. Tucker, 61, route one, Bernice, were both traveling west when the accident ocurred. West Monroe police made no charges in the accident.

Cleveland sustained lacerations of the neck and head when he was involved in a collison with a car driven by Charles E. Crawford, 51, of route one, box 295, West Monroe, and was traveling north on Walnut. Monroe officers ticketed Cleveland for running a stop sign.

Twin City officers filed three driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages late Friday and Saturday. Monroe police booked Rex Skipper, 36, of route one, Calhoun, at 12:45 a.m. Saturday for DWI, reckless driving, speeding and resisting arrest. He was held under bonds totaling $905. They also booked Vincent C. Balsamo, 44, 405 Thomas Ave., Monroe, for DWI and reckless driving around 9:30 p.m. Friday. He was held under a $500 bond.

West Monroe officers logged DWI and reckless driving counts against Elmore Shorts, Negro, 33, of 130 Lee St., West Monroe, after he was involved in an accident on North Seventh Street around 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Monroe firemen quickly brought a blaze under control in Dr. W. E. Smith's offices, located at Louisville Avenue and North Third Streets late Saturday. A back room of the office was heavily damaged, and cause was undetermined. Trucks one, three and ladder truck two made the fire, along with Cars four and two.

Demo Attacks Gold Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., attacked Saturday the Kennedy administration's methods of trying to halt the flow of gold overseas. He said they accomplish nothing but economic stagnation.

The attack came in a statement accompanying the release of studies by four economists. The studies were prepared for the House subcommittee on International Exchange and Payments. Reuss is the subcommittee's chairman.

The economists analyze the American deficit in balance of payments—more American money is going overseas than foreign money is coming here. One cause, in the view of some economists, is that American goods have not been competing well with foreign goods on the world market.

"We are mistakenly following a 19th century policy of high interest rates and domestic economic restriction in order to reverse the outward gold flow," Reuss said, "but all it has accomplished is economic stagnation."

Reuss suggested "Our solution lies elsewhere than in a static domestic economy. We must concentrate on measures to stimulate domestic economic growth which will, in turn, increase productivity and output and make for lower competitive prices."

The administration has tried to halt the flow of gold by, among other things, (1) holding down prices, (2) convincing America's allies to spend more on defense and foreign aid, and (3) spending U.S. defense and aid money on U.S. goods.

The subcommittee studies were prepared by Seymour E. Harris of Harvard University, Bela Balassa of Yale University, Robert E. Baldwin of the University of California, and Walther Lederer of the Department of Commerce.

Harris noted that the United States lost $6 billion in gold reserves since 1951.

"This country cannot afford to lose billions of reserves year after year," he said.

The economist reported that the deficit had gone down in 1961 and the beginning of 1962, but he added: "We should not be overly enthusiastic about the gains." He said special factors had caused the improved situation.

Harris opposed radical solutions to the problem like devaluation of the dollar and, in general, appeared to endorse much of the administration's program.

Bureau Forecasts Surplus Problem

The Louisiana Farm Bureau Federation said Saturday that the system of administering the federal cotton legislative act of 1958 has resulted in surplus problems.

In a Farm Bureau Fact Sheet entitled, "The 1963 Cotton Situation for Louisiana," the organization said, "There is no need for new cotton legislation if the act of 1958 would be administered as intended by Congress."

The Bureau reported that its Cotton Advisory Committee had adopted the following goals:

1—Retention of the release and apportionment program.

2—An effective selling price of 30 cents a pound, basis middling inch or SLM 1 1-32 inch, with an acreage allotment at least equal to the 1962 level.

3—Reduction of the export subsidy by at least two cents a pound to reduce pressure on domestic mills, and still provide opportunity to move U. S. cotton into world markets.

Bureau officials said if these goals can be achieved the 1963 Louisiana cotton crop will be worth about $88,000,000 to farmers on the basis of average plantings, with a potential value of $94,500,000 if all acres are used.

The fact sheet estimated the value of cotton harvested in the Fifth Congressional District this year as "at least $53.6 million," and said minimum loss from acreage cut next year would be $6.7 million. And if release and reapportionment program fall through it "could be in the neighborhood of $12 million."

Viewing the situation on a statewide basis, the Fact Sheet stated:

"On Oct. 15, Agriculture Secretary Freeman announced that the 1963 cotton acreage allotment would be cut to 16 million acres, the minimum permitted by the Agricultural Act of 1958. In Louisiana this 12 per cent reduction in acreage will result in a base allotment (including reserves) of 556,931 acres. If the same percentage of acres are utilized (93 per cent) as have been used in the past two years, actual acreage planted to cotton in Louisiana in 1963 will be in the neighborhood of 515,060 acres.

"Using an average gross of $160 per acreage, our 1962 cotton crop was worth $93,700,000 to Louisiana farmers. The 1963 crop value probably will drop to $81,400,000, a slash of $12,300,000 from farm income, or more than three per cent of the total gross farm income in Louisiana.

"Of even greater long - range significance is the possible adverse effect this action will have on the release and reapportionment program, which has permitted unused cotton acreage to move within the state to areas where farmers are willing to plant it. In 1962, there were 85,168 acres released by more than 15,000 farmers. This was divided among 10,000 farmers who wanted to increase their plantings. This program, together with the distribution of the state reserve, permitted farmers in the 20 major cotton producing parishes to plant an average of 20 per cent more acreage than their base allotment would have permitted. While it is impossible to estimate how seriously the reduction in acreage will aeffct the 1963 release and reapportionment program, it is probable that there will be a considerable drop in the acreage available for reapportionment."

Kennon Says He's Running For Governor

BATON ROUGE (AP) — "Yes," former Gov. Robert Kennon said Saturday, "I'm running for governor."

But other than that, Kennon chose not to go splashing around in the political seas this early in the game.

Kennon has no intention of making a formal announcement of his candidacy until next summer, possibly in July, when the people's appetite for gubernatorial politics will be ready.

So far, Public Service Commissioner John McKeithen of Columbia, hoping for support of Sen. Russell B. Long and all the Long forces, and former Lt. Gov. C. E. (Cap) Barham of Ruston, have issued early bids in the 1963 campaign.

The first primary is Dec. 7 next year.

Former Mayor deLesseps S. Morrison of New Orleans, State Supt. Shelby M. Jackson and Public Works Director Claude Kirkpatrick have dropped repeated hints they would be happy to occupy the mansion, they have offered only hints, so far.

If the Longs all swing together behind one challenger—and U. S. Rep.-elect Gillis Long has been mentioned as one possibility—they could speak with a heavy voice in the coming campaign. But even the best known of the Longs will admit they're not together right now.

In 1952, when Kennon won the governorship, the Longs were split wide open. Sen. Long backed Rep. Hale Boggs of New Orleans and his uncle, the late Earl K. Long pushed Judge Carlos Spaht of Baton Rouge.

The 60-year-old Kennon, engaged in Baton Rouge law practice, was an appeal judge and at one time occupied a seat on the state supreme court before he began challenging the Long dynasty.

He became an Eisenhower Democrat, and the former Republican president came within 38,000 votes of carrying Louisiana in 1952. The Longs supported Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic nominee.

Kennon is a self-styled Jeffersonian Democrat. His was one of the first voices in the South—after the 1954 Supreme Court decision on school desegregation—to warn that the high court was stepping outside its judicial boundaries.

League Supports Sewage Issue

The Monroe League of Women Voters — after conducting a study of water pollution, with special reference to the Ouachita River and the sewerage system of Monroe — has endorsed Proposition 1, —a $2,750,000 bond issue for remedying or expanding the conditions that affect these — in Tuesday's election in Monroe.

"We feel that this proposal is mandatory, not only for the progress of Monroe, but for the health and well - being of her citizenry," stated Mrs. H. S. Chilton, president of the league.

BROADWAY SLOWS DOWN

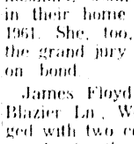

NEW YORK (UPI)—About 40 new shows are scheduled to open this season on Broadway — 10 less than last season and the lowest number this century. Among the reasons cited for the decline is the difficulty of lesser known producers in finding backers and the lengthening time a show must run to clear a profit.

DANNY KAYE PIC

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)— Filming on the Danny Kaye comedy, "The Man From The Diners Club," has begun.

The Columbia Picture comedy also stars Cara Williams, Martha Hyer and Telly Savalas.

U.N. Attache Among Three Leaders Held

Jose Garcia Orellana, 42, near busy Pennsylvania Station.

In addition to Garcia, agents picked up Antonio Sueiro Cabrera, 22, treasurer of a Cuban social club, and the U.N. attache, Roberto Santiesteban Casanova, 27.

Agents said Garcia and Sueiro were members of the Communist Party.

Also named as conspirators but not arrested because of their diplomatic status were Jose Gomez Abad, 21, and his wife, the former Elsa Montero, 20. A federal complaint said the couple supplied incendiary material and explosives to Garcia.

Santiesteban could not claim diplomatic immunity because he arrived in this country only Oct. 3, and his request for diplomatic status was still being processed.

The sabotage material, Malone said, "came from the Cuban mission to the United Nations."

Garcia, said to have been active in Premier Fidel Castro's 26th of July Revolution, was identified as a naturalized American citizen.

Agents said the Cubans had lined up 10 saboteurs and had been running schools for them in "private rooms" in the city, where they plotted how to plant bombs in New York City department stores and touch off explosives in gasoline and oil refineries across the Hudson River in New Jersey.

Picked up along with the three men was pretty brunette Marie Dritsas, 26, who was held as a material witness.

Election Set On Bond Issue

committee composed of businessmen and professional men, the City Council called the bond issue election after plans for the proposed projects were coordinated by the Monroe - Ouachita Regional Planning Commission with architects, engineers and specialists.

For instance, a Kansas City firm, Black and Veech, that specializes in sewage plants designed the proposed plant for Monroe, which would be located on 123 acres of land south of town on the Ouachita River.

The plant is designed to cure Monroe's pollution problems with the Ouachita River, a stream that runs from Arkansas into Louisiana and thus places it under federal law which forbids pollution.

At present the city dumps an estimated three million gallons of raw, untreated sewage in the Ouachita.

Total cost of the proposed plant is $3,350,000, including a $600,000 federal grant appropriated through the Louisiana Department of Public Health.

John Trigg, director of public health engineer, said he selected Monroe to receive the $600,000 grant.

Proposition No. 2 is the major expense of the proposed program, which would be completed by late 1967 and in use by early 1968.

No. 2 calls for the construction of an arena - type Civic Center to be located along with a new City Hall, No. 4, and Utilities Commission collection office in a new city government area in the vicinity of Oak Street.

The civic center, which would serve multiple purposes, would cost $4,650,000 and is designed to seat a capacity of 6,600 persons for all types of events, ranging from sports events to conventions.

City officials contend that the construction of a civic center that includes a municipal auditorium would be like bringing a new industry to Monroe in that it would produce additional revenue by attracting crowds to town.

Over 20 acres of residential property would be purchased and cleared for the civic center, City Hall, Utilities Commission collection office, new jail and judges' offices — all to be located in an area that could serve about 2,000 automobiles.

City planners say the Oak Street area would be the most accessible section for the facilities, since the new I-20 overpass is being constructed nearby. In addition, the planners point out that a near-slum section in the area would be eliminated.

Constructed in 1910, the present City Hall is inadequate, outmoded and condemned. Its jail was built to house about 30 prisoners, but presently houses over 100 daily.

Proposition No. 3 includes the spending of $650,000 to improve and expand the city fire department in order that Monroe can maintain its present fire insurance rates.

A bond issue passed several years ago enabled the city to improve its fire department standards, meaning a savings of over $1-million in fire insurance rates paid by city property owners.

No. 3 would enable the fire department to at least hold on to the present rating with chances of more improvements and savings to property owners.

For instance, a new fire station would be added at Selman Field to serve that area plus the Edgewater Gardens section that has been incorporated.

In addition, the station on Lee Avenue would be moved about a mile south so that better fire protection could be offered to the charity hospital area, which is now inside the city limits.

No. 5 calls for a $400,000 program on the Selman Field municipal airport, topped by the construction of a new terminal building to meet the city's air traffic growth.

Built in 1945, the present terminal, according to the City Council, must be replaced. Other improvements call for work on the landing strips, airlane lights, a whiteway from the main street through Selman Field to the airport and street improvements.

The City Council plans to place the bond issue revenue in the hands of local banks for investment in government securities. Money would be drawn on the bond issue accounts as the projects go under construction.

Pentagon Warns Key Missile Firm

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pentagon told Lockheed Aircraft Corporation Saturday it may look elsewhere for missiles if a strike hits the giant aerospace manufacturing firm.

Lockheed promptly declared that it is ready to continue vital missile work in event of a strike —and the machinists union continued plans for a strike vote Sunday among the 20,000 members it claims at Lockheed.

Lockheed manufactures the Polaris missile, a key weapon in the United States' arsenal, which can be fired underwater from a submarine to drop a nuclear warhead on an enemy target 1,200 miles away.

The Pentagon warning came in a statement declaring that Lockheed "stands alone" among missile firms in refusing to accept recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board in settling a labor dispute.

The board had recommended that Lockheed permit its employes to vote on a proposal for a union shop, which would require all workers to join the union. Lockheed, in contrast to other aerospace firms, has refused to accept this recommendation.

Therefore, the Pentagon said, it is looking into alternate means of missile production "so that work on the vital programs can go forward in the event of a stoppage at Lockheed."

Courtlandt S. Gross, Lockheed board chairman, said if the union calls a strike, "we believe (it) would involve only a part of our work force.

"At Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., the machinists have only 5,700 members out of a total work force of 31,200," Gross said. "At Lockheed-California Co., the machinists have 10,000 members out of a total work force of 24,000."

He added:

"The more critical programs at these two companies are research, development, engineering and testing. We are confident we can sustain these programs with minimum delay."

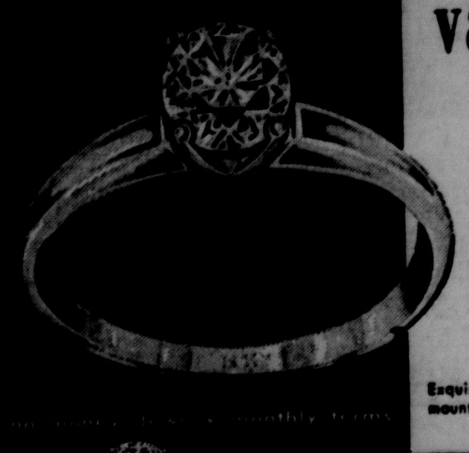

Gross added that Lockheed does not want a strike. He said the key issue in dispute "is the union's demand that over 14,000 of our employes be forced into the union against the wishes they thus far have expressed."

Thomas E. McNett, president of District Lodge 727 of the machinists union, noted that the union twice had canceled a strike date—once in July at President Kennedy's request and again in September at the urging of Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz.

Help Santa

Do you have a broken or unused toy lying around your house? If so, and you would like to help Santa Claus fulfill his obligations to some of the more unfortunate children in the Twin City area, pick up that broken or unused toy and bring it to the ROTC supply room at Northeast Louisiana State College before noon on the 19th of December.

Jimmy Herren, of West Monroe, has volunteered his services to repair and repaint any and all toys donated to this most worthy cause.

The toys will then be turned over to the charitable organizations of the Twin Cities for distribution to needy youngsters.

The invitation to participate in this program is extended to students, faculty and staff, and to any other interested persons.

New Arrival

One of Monroe's newest residents made a safe landing Saturday when that old bird, the Stork, delivered her to the home of Katie and Bobby Barker, 1303 Parkview Dr., Monroe.

The Barker's "pride and joy," Sherrie Lynn, weighed in at 7 pounds, 10 ounces, and is the young couple's initiation into the ranks of parenthood. The father works in the city water department, while Mrs. Barker is a former secretary for the Monroe Police Department.

Mrs. Barker said that this isn't the first grandchild, but the little lass holds the distinction of being the first "granddaughter." Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Culp, 300 Montgomery St., West Monroe, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Barker, 409 Orleans St., Monroe.

Clothesline Disappearing From Scene

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The clothesline's going the way of the buggy whip. Ditto for clothes pins.

They're not being used much in many homes. In some homes, the clothesline these days functions as a jump rope.

The reason: More and more homemakers are switching to automatic clothes dryers.

The facts: Since 1945 some 12.4 million dryers have been sold in the U.S. Sales have shown increases each year. In the next month, for example, 25 times as many dryers as were sold in all of 1946 will be sold.

Dryer Saves Time

The savings in time heads the list of reasons homemakers are giving up hanging on the line. An industry time and motion study indicates that the average homemaker with an automatic dryer saves 300 hours of work a year. Said another way: 37.5 eight-hour working days.

The statisticians also figure the use of a dryer saves the typical homemaker lifting and carting nearly three tons of laundry in a year.

Clothesline users also have to contend with specks of soot. But professional observers with special scientific equipment find other problems in the seemingly simple task of getting the wash dry on the line.

One of these, Frank Lindsay, manager of a testing laboratory for an appliance firm, said modern detergents contain fluorescent brighteners -- chemical compounds that give clothes a super white zing.

Seems the woman who couples detergents with the old-fashioned clothesline on washdays not only mixes the old with the new but mixes the benefits of the brightener.

"The sunshine greatly reduces the effect of these fluorescent brighteners," Lindsay said.

Other studies by the U.S. Department of Agriculture indicate that line drying outside in the sun causes more grayness and weakening of fabric than dryer drying.

As with every advance, clothes dryers heap one new headache on homemakers: How to get a repairman in a hurry.

MRS. JOHN JOSEPH SPATAFORA JR.

John Joseph Spatafora Jr., Shreveport Girl Are Wed

Miss Doris Elane Wallace, daughter of Mrs. J. J. Wallace, Shreveport and the late Mr. Wallace, became the bride of John Joseph Spatafora Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph Spatafora Sr., of Monroe, on Saturday, November 3. The 5 p.m. ceremony was solemnized in St. John's Catholic Church at Shreveport.

Bouquets of white gladioli and pompons decorated the altars.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Harold Olive. Her ballerina length bridal gown of Chantilly lace with jewelled basque bodice featured a scalloped scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. Back of the bouffant shepardess skirt had tiers of crystal pleated tulle edged with the Chantilly lace. Her bouffant veil of illusion was attached to a pearl crown and she carried a white Bible, with a bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and miniature ivy.

ALL IN THE MIND

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) -- Your heart pounds. You overperspire. You overeat. You can't sleep. These symptoms may tell your doctor that the disorder is not at all somatic but psychosomatic, reports Dr. Ivan C. Berlein, University of Miami School of Medicine. Pounding heart, cold sweats, feeling of jitteriness are but ways in which the body is saying --"I feel threatened."

Dr. Berlein noted also that if one cannot sleep or wakes too early and cannot get to sleep, the meaning can be that the patient fears self - destruction or sex impulses. The doctor said these are but a few among the many signs of mental illness a physician should be able to recognize.

Miss Barbara Kennedy, Shreveport, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of aqua blue taffeta with overskirt of lace and carried a bouquet of white pompons.

Steve Spatafora, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a royal blue Italian silk dress in shirtwaist style with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Spatafora, mother of the bridegroom, wore a turquoise sheath in lightweight wool with accessories to match and a pink carnation corsage.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. John J. Phillips, Mrs. Lewis Hunter and Mrs. Ben McDonell.

The bride is a graduate of Shreveport high school and attended a business college there. Mr. Spatafora graduated from St. Matthew's high school in Monroe and received his degree in pharmacy from the University of Mississippi at Oxford, Miss. Following a wedding trip to Texas the couple has established a home in Monroe.

Gay Decor Transforms Bathroom

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: My bathroom is too plain. The tiled half of the walls are yellow with a black border. We first had the painted portion of walls in yellow but this seemed dull. Now they are turquoise and this doesn't look right. Two doors and window trim are blue. Should these be the color of the tiles? What color would you suggest for walls, ceiling and swag curtains?

A: It is usually better to keep walls in same color range as the tile, however, the yellow could be a sunny or citrus shade. Doors, woodwork and ceiling should be the color of the tile and painted walls. For a gay note have towels, soap and other accessories in vivid yellow and brilliant orange. Use a stripe in white, yellow and orange for the curtains and have a fluffy, washable orange rug. If you follow this plan and the bathroom still seems dull to you, you might consider one wall decorated in drawings or prints.

Q: Walls and woodwork in one of the bedrooms in our house are in a petal pink. The bedspread is pink and the rug a dark rose. What colors would you recommend for the dust ruffle and the draperies?

A: I think a small scale floral print in a petal pink ground with deeper pink, green and white in the design would be pleasant for both dust ruffle and draperies. Accessories could be white and green.

Q: I selected a pale blue for the walls in my living - dining room. What color would you suggest for the upholstery on sofa and two chairs? Also what color carpet should I have? I would like the dining room chairs covered in a practical color.

A: A soft shade of gold is a good contrast with blue. I would have this color for the carpet and sofa. Have a fabric in a small or medium design of blue and gold for the two chairs. The draperies could be blue, a shade deeper than walls, or they could be a pale gold. Have the dining room chairs in a deep, rich blue.

Q: Please tell me what is wrong with my living room. Walls are white, rug is gray and draperies are gold. The sofa upholstered in a black and white tweed, a chair is teal - blue and a black Early American rocker has an afghan in teal, melon and black thrown over the back. Toss pillows are teal and melon.

A: To give a more unified feeling to the room, have white draperies. I suggest eliminating teal - blue and substitute a melon color for teal chair and cover the teal pillows in white. Have white and melon accessories. Touch of teal in afghan will contribute interest without being conspicuous.

Women's Dorm At Tech Slated To Be Removed

RUSTON (Special) — For 60 years Harper Hall has been a landmark on the campus of Louisiana Tech and now it is to be torn down. A remnant of the past, Harper is almost as old as the college itself. Built in 1902, it was the second women's dormitory to be erected here. What is now a part of Hale Hall was the first women's dormitory.

For many years Harper was known only as the "women's dormitory," but in 1937 it was named Richardson Hall in honor of former Tech president, Dr. E. S. Richardson, who, at that time, was still in office.

The name had to be changed, however, in 1940, when a state law was passed prohibiting the naming of any state building after a living person.

Harper in that year received its present name as a tribute to the memory of Miss Jean Maud Harper, former dean of women and professor of English and psychology at Tech. Miss Harper joined the teaching faculty in 1920, and served as dean of women only one year before she died in office following an operation in 1929.

The name of Richardson Hall was changed to Harper Hall in 1940 by the then dean of women, Miss Caroline Cochran.

Last fall, a record number of 175 women were living in Harper. This year, however, only 82 coeds could be housed there. These occupants were recently moved into Dudley, Aswell and Harper Annex when old age finally caught up with Harper, making it necessary that the old dormitory be demolished to make way for progress.

A government loan from the Federal Housing and Home Finance Agency will be sought to replace old Harper with an air-conditioned building to accommodate 400 women students, according to Dr. F. Jay Taylor, Tech president.

Train-Car Crash Injuries Slight

A 33 - year - old West Monroe man luckily escaped with only minor injuries when his car skidded on rain - slick pavement into a AL&M train on Louisville Avenue late Saturday.

Monroe police identified him as Laurence D. Green, of 114 Hayes St., West Monroe. He was rushed to E. A. Conway Memorial Hospital for emergency treatment of lacerations and bruises by Mulhearn ambulance.

The day - long drizzle helped to account for a deluge of automobile accidents Saturday that left four injured, none seriously, and a total of 26 collision. Monroe police reported 14 wrecks; state police recorded six late Saturday while West Monroe also had six shown on their records.

Injured in accidents other than Green include Kathaleen Chandler, 56, of 5204 DeSiard St., Hastings L. Cleveland, 66, of 1709 Cole Ave., Monroe; and Margie F. Eaves, 35, of 3901 Whites Ferry Rd., West Monroe.

According to investigating officers, Green was traveling east on Louisville Avenue and smashed into the tram at the AL&M railroad crossing near Broad Street around 10 p.m. His car, totaling $900, was dragged a short distance by the train engine, engineered by Ralph Newman, route one, box 308, West Monroe, and totally demolished. He said he saw blinking red warning lights, but when he applied his brakes, the car skidded on into the tram. Police ticketed him with reckless driving.

Mrs. Chandler was struck by a car on U. S. Highway 80 just east of its intersection of Kansas Lane, Saturday around 11:30 a.m. State police said she was attempting to cross the highway with her children when she was struck and knocked around 35 feet by an eastbound car, operated by Daisy N. Black, 64, Phoe nix, Ariz. Mrs. Chandler was being treated at St. Francis hospital for multiple injuries Saturday, two

No charges were filed in the accident.

Mrs. Eaves sustained a whiplash at the neck when her car was struck from behind by a vehicle at the foot of the new traffic bridge. Mrs. Eaves, and the other car, operated by Leonard C. Tucker, 61, route one, Bernice, were both traveling west when the accident occurred. West Monroe police made no charges in the accident.

Cleveland sustained lacerations of the neck and head when he was involved in a collison with a car driven by Charles E. Crawford, 51, of route one, box 295, West Monroe, and was traveling north on Walnut. Monroe officers ticketed Cleveland for running a stop sign.

Twin City officers filed three driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages late Friday and Saturday. Monroe police booked Rex Skipper, 36, of route one, Calhoun, at 12:45 a.m. Saturday for DWI, reckless driving, speeding and resisting arrest. He was held under bonds totaling $900. They also booked Vincent C. Balsamo, 44, 405 Thomas Ave., Monroe, for DWI and reckless driving around 9:30 p.m. Friday. He was held under a $500 bond.

West Monroe officers logged the DWI and reckless driving counts against Elmore Shorts, Negro, 33, of 130 Lee St., West Monroe, after he was involved in an accident on North Seventh Street around 8:30 p.m. Saturday.

Monroe firemen quickly brought a blaze under control in Dr. W. E. Smith's offices, located at Louisville Avenue and North Third Streets late Saturday. A back room of the office was heavily damaged, and cause was untied by Daisy N. Black, 64, Phoe determined. Trucks one, three and ladder truck two made the fire, along with Cars four and

Demo Attacks Gold Policy

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Henry S. Reuss, D-Wis., attacked Saturday the Kennedy administration's methods of trying to halt the flow of gold overseas. He said they accomplish nothing but economic stagnation.

The attack came in a statement accompanying the release of studies by four economists. The studies were prepared for the House subcommittee on International Exchange and Payments. Reuss is the subcommittee's chairman.

The economists analyze the American deficit in balance of payments—more American money is going overseas than foreign money is coming here. One cause, in the view of some economists, is that American goods have not been competing well with foreign goods on the world market.

"We are mistakenly following a 19th century policy of high interest rates and domestic economic restriction in order to reverse the outward gold flow," Reuss said, "but all it has accomplished is economic stagnation."

Reuss suggested "Our solution lies elsewhere than in a static domestic economy. We must concentrate on measures to stimulate domestic economic growth which will, in turn, increase productivity and output and make for lower competitive prices."

The administration has tried to halt the flow of gold by, among other things, (1) holding down prices, (2) convincing America's allies to spend more on defense and foreign aid, and (3) spending U.S. defense and aid money on U.S. goods.

The subcommittee studies were prepared by Seymour E. Harris of Harvard University, Bela Balassa of Yale University, Robert E. Baldwin of the University of California, and Walther Lederer of the Department of Commerce.

Harris noted that the United States lost $6 billion in gold reserves since 1951.

"This country cannot afford to lose billions of reserves year after year," he said.

The economist reported that the deficit had gone down in 1961 and the beginning of 1962, but he added: "We should not be overly enthusiastic about the gains." He said special factors had caused the improved situation.

Harris opposed radical solutions to the problem like devaluation of the dollar and, in general, appeared to endorse much of the administration's program.

NEW U.S. STUDIES

Living Standard Gains Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported Saturday that American families are enjoying a steadily mounting standard of living as income gains continue to outstrip price increases.

New studies made public by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz showed, moreover, that the average family is required to spend a significantly smaller share of its income for the basic necessities of food, shelter and clothing than it did a decade ago.

More income is therefore available for health care, savings, recreation and study and the things widely regarded as making life worth while.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics made the comprehensive studies by sampling consumer income and buying patterns in Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Detroit, New York City, San Francisco and Washington.

"It is a measure of both the fuits and the potential of our free economy," Wirtz said, "that the residents of these seven cities enjoyed an increase in their real purchasing power, over the past decade, of from 15 to 44 per cent."

Here are some of the survey highlights:

— Average after-tax income ranged from $5,412 in Atlanta to $6,869 in Boston with families spending around 86 to 95 per cent of this income, on the average, for current consumption.

—The proportion of income devoted to food, clothing and shelter has declined from 62 per cent in 1950 to 55 per cent in 1960. Shelter alone, however, takes a big more share of income than it did.

—Family home ownership has increased by a third.

—Each of the seven cities surveyed reflected greatly increased outlays for personal insurance, a form of savings. The rise in insurance purchase over the decade ranged from 56 per cent in Chicago to 144 per cent in Detroit.

—In all the cities, the proportion of after-tax income going to gifts and contributions showed an increase.

—Seven to eight of every 10 families in the cities surveyed reported coverage under some type of health insurance plan.

"These and other facts uncovered in the survey point clearly to a continuing and substantial increase in the nation's living standards," Wirtz said.

"They should also serve as a pointed remainder of an unacceptable contrast in American life today that there still exists areas of severe want in our most abundant society. Until this contrast is eliminated, our satisfaction must be limited."

Ewan Clague, Labor Statistics commissioner, explained the survey data to newsmen. He said that when average family after-tax income reported in the seven-city survey is adjusted for intervening price changes, the real income gains for the decade are as follows:

San Francisco 15 per cent, Atlanta 20, Washington 20, Detroit 23, Chicago 17, New York 20, and Boston 44.

Family living expenditures, adjusted for inflationary effect, have increased as follows: San Francisco 9 per cent, Atlanta 17, Washington 12, Detroit 18, Chicago 10, New York 13, and Boston 23.

The studies are the first batch this year and next that will cover 66 metropolitan areas, including all having 1,250,000 population or more, as well as selected smaller communities and rural areas.

CONTAINMENT POLICY

Red Chinese Pose Problems For U.S.

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Red Chinese troops poised at points from which they might surge southward over India and toward Indian Ocean ports pose new problems in the U.S. doctrine for containment of communism.

The ultimate objective of the undeclared but expanding war which China launched against India remained unclear Saturday although the intensity of the campaign stepped up in heavy fighting in the already invaded areas.

One of the more immediate goals could be capture of oil fields within fairly short distance of one sector of the Red campaign. Soviet coolness toward her big Asian ally could cut off a major source of fuel for both industry and the military of China.

However, one of the possibilities on which U.S. military officials were keeping an eye was that the Chinese may attempt to press on down across Assam and around Burma toward the Indian Ocean port cities.

This would create one more rat hole to be watched by the already heavily committed U.S. fleet.

The normal present U.S. naval force in the area between the western Pacific and the Mediterranean is a tiny detachment of about three ships from the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean. This so-called Persian-Gulf unit consists of a seaplane tender and two destroyers. Its function is essentially to show the flag.

In the past, the policy has been for the United States to deploy a substantial force of ships into the areas of any free nation threatened by Communist expansion, for a show-of-force effect.

However, in this case, the New Delhi government so far has asked for no help beyond some basic weapons and other military equipment.

Deployment of any additional naval strength to the Indian Ocean area could impose increased burden on either the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean or the 7th Fleet in the western Pacific, or both. In some quarters of the Navy there has been belief for several years that another fleet should be organized for patrol in the Indian Ocean. This would create another budgetary load.

Discussions are under way in New Delhi and here regarding additional arms aid for India but there is nothing which indicates any request by India for help in military manpower.

Can Property Owners Bear This Burden?

Responsible citizens who are sincerely interested in civic progress have questioned the cost and practicality of various parts of the proposed civic improvement program, that they are being asked to approve on November 20th.

An intelligent judgement of the merit of the various projects being presented in this bond election cannot be made without consideration of the following:

OVERALL COSTS

This Bond Election seeks approval of a debt of $11,250,000.00 to be assumed by the property owners, who will have to pay it off over a 30 year period. The interest alone on this debt at 4% will amount to approximately $6,750,000.00. Thus, the total obligation is about $18,000,000.00. The cost of operating, maintaining and adding to these proposed projects is NOT INCLUDED in this $18,000,000.00.

This sum together with the presently outstanding bonds and interest to be due thereon would amount to approximately $37,000,000.00, which is about 66% of the total assessed value of all property in Monroe.

Just to pay off the $18,000,000.00 mentioned above will require a tax of approximately 10 mills, although we are asked to agree to increase our taxes by only 2 mills. The difference between the 2 and 10 mills is to be made up by means of the city rededicating taxes from old bond issues as they are paid off. Instead of taxes being reduced, we would be pledging old taxes to these proposed new bonds.

Since some of the old bonds being retired are school bonds, it is important to understand that within the next five years it will be essential to vote even more taxes to support our expanding school system. What other civic needs might arise that may require that additional taxes be voted?

For a more complete understanding of your current tax obligations refer to your 1962 tax bill, which is usually mailed to all taxpayers in October. In reviewing same keep in mind that taxpayers approved a bond issue in 1960 to build an underpass on Monroe's Northside. This has not yet been done, and so the tax to support it will not appear on your current tax bill.

Considering (1) present bonded indebtedness, (2) actual cost of the proposed new program, (3) our truly essential needs and (4) our recognized future requirements, are we being asked to shoulder too much debt?

Let's examine the need for civic improvements and our desire for real progress in the light of what we might like to have.

PROJECT NO. 1
SEWAGE TREATMENT PLANT.

Sewerage facilities can be financed by a Sewerage Use Charge. Unlike the bonds proposed in this issue, which only property owners must pay, this charge would be paid by those individuals and businesses who actually use the service. An additional feature of this type financing is that it can provide for repair and maintenance as well as provide additional funds for future expansion.

Proposal No. 1 does not provide for financing our sewage plant by means of a use charge and does not provide any money for operation, maintenance or expansion.

PROJECT NO. 2
ARENA-TYPE AUDITORIUM & EXHIBITION HALL.

The proposed price of $4,650,000.00 plus the interest charges of approximately $2,790,000.00 makes a total cost for this project of about $7,400,000.00. If this expenditure is approved, it would have to be paid back at an average rate of $20,000.00 per month for the next 30 years. Remember, this cost does not include any money for operation or maintenance, nor for the building of a theatre-type auditorium that the planners suggest can be added later.

Unlike this expensive arena-type auditorium that we are asked to build, consider the auditorium built in Lafayette, Louisiana in 1960. Our mayor has told us what a fine building it is and how much it has meant to Lafayette citizens. Ironically, it is a theatre-type auditorium and cost only about $1,500,000.00 to build. Realistically Lafayette citizens voted an additional tax for maintenance and operations since it was apparent that their auditorium would not be self supporting for several years.

PROJECT NO. 3
FIRE DEPARTMENT IMPROVEMENTS

We have an outstanding fire department. There are few, if any, cities in Louisiana that have a better fire insurance rating than Monroe. The proposed expenditure of $650,000.00 for fire department improvements may not result in a reduction in our fire insurance rates, but will allow us to maintain our present rating.

PROJECT NO. 4
CITY HALL, JAIL, CITY COURT, UTILITIES OFFICE

The bond issue proposes that new and expensive land be acquired for these facilities. Downtown Monroe is now the true governmental center, with City, Parish and Federal offices in close proximity. It would seem that these needed improvements could be built in a multi-story structure on sites presently available in the downtown area with substantial saving in land costs. The City already owns two possible sites and the City School Board owns a third.

PROJECT NO. 5
AIRPORT TERMINAL BUILDING

It is not clear what amount of money will be spent on each of the proposed airport improvements.

Consistently, the various airport facilities have created revenues in excess of operating costs. Since an improved facility should further increase these revenues, a project of this type should be self-supporting.

Thai Fashion Show Staged In Palace Setting

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)—A fashion show, U.S. style, rates as a prosaic affair compared to one when the Thais turn on the "works" for visitors.

For one thing, the setting was a palace occupied by a Thai princess.

For another, everyone except the models was barefoot—reporters, photographers, princess, and guests including ambassadors' wives.

And for a third, the "audience" included lizards, people's best friend in this mosquito-ridden city, because the lizard diet is one of insects. The lizards slithered around the ceiling as if they thoroughly enjoyed the limelight of photographers' flash and strobe.

The setting for a show of sports, daytime and evening clothes, all of silks made in Thailand, was Suan Pakkard Palace, a series of five wooden houses with their open-to-the-air construction dating to the 19th Century of this country.

They're furnished with Thai antiques dating to the second century and are set among formal gardens with pools filled with water lilies. The group of houses includes a lacquer pavilion, called an outstanding example of Thai architecture.

The pavilion originally stood in the grounds of a Buddhist monastery near Ayudhya, Thailand. It was dismantled, brought to Bangkok and re-erected as a 50th birthday present to its owner—Princess Chumbhot of Nagor Svarga—from her husband, who was a member of the family now the reigning dynasty in Thailand.

Prince Chumbhot died three years ago, and his widow, a tiny, handsome woman with flashing white teeth and a coil of dark hair wound at the nape of her neck, has continued the family project of collecting Thai works of art and craft for public enjoyment.

The princess explained in English as she took a group of 12 visiting women reporters on a tour before the fashion show, "I know you understand why we remove our shoes.

"Those needle heels, you know."

She added that the palace, except for her own living quarters, was open to the public and the wear and tear of shoes generally on the polished teak floors are tremendous. Rugs protected the runway area used by the models.

The fashions shown won't set Paris or New York back as style centers, but all from the star of Siam, a firm which handles Thai silk from the weaving and dyeing stages through to the finished garment, were handsomely done.

The firm is managed by Lewis Cykman, a native of San Francisco, Calif., whose wife, Vera, is head designer.

Clothes from casual capri trousers with tunic tops to formal wear adapted from old-time Thai costumes stressed clear, brilliant colors.

Not a little basic black dress in the lot.

Mrs. Kenneth Todd Young, Jr., wife of the U.S. Ambassador to Thailand, explained to me why. "Here, she said, "black is worn strictly for mourning."

DRY SKIN CARE

For exceptionally dry skin, try this: spread a film of petroleum jelly over your throat and face. Then follow up by applying warm soapy lather with circular motions, using lukewarm water. Finish up with a warm rinse.

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Brenda Hornsby, daughter of Mrs. Augusta Hornsby, 107 Standifer and the late David A. Hornsby, to Jimmy Doolittle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Doolittle, Stone Avenue, is announced today by her mother. The couple will exchange wedding vows on December 7 in Southside Baptist Church.

Fashion Dictates Spats For Miladv's Frigid Toes

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the weather's frigid, we women who can't head for California, Florida or some other sunny place usually shiver.

But shivering, even in Maine, won't happen as much this winter as it did last — or so dame fashion dictates.

Just in time for lowly temperatures is the dame's edict that spats for a dame are the highest of fashion. Ditto for high-top shoes — some reaching almost to the knees.

But what's most remarkable, the hat makers somehow struck the cover-up note at the same time. It's the greatest of contemporary fashion sense to wear a hat with its own smartly styled scarf to keep ears, neck and chin warm.

Shivers are banished further by the fur-lined coats — and it's so warming to note, most of the coats have full-length sleeves. You know, the old-fashioned kind that reach to the wrist.

Heaven knows when there will be a winter when it's so absolutely fashionably correct to face the cold weather perfectly dressed for it.

The sporty knitted hats and fur pull-downs made their debut a few years ago and are still popular for casual wear. But when they made their debut, coat sleeves started crawling up the arm. Some didn't stop until just beyond the elbow.

The dame says it's now also perfectly chic for dressier wear to be seen in the chic hats that keep ears toasty warm via a hatched scarf or hood.

Most of the scarves of jersey or lightweight wool, or even suede are attached to the hat and tucked under the chin into a tuck-on ascot or wrap completely around the neck.

Some come in the shape of hood, or baby caps, and the hat is put on over them.

An added attraction of the attached-scarf hats is that a big hat can be worn and cold gusts of wind won't blow it off.

Sombreros, rollers, bretons, brimmed clouches and large berets in fur or felt come with matching attached scarves.

Satin and velvet evening hats offer graceful hoods to wear under or over the hat.

A few toques and pillboxes come with hoods or scarves that are tied over them, a la Yves St. Laurent.

If bundling has anything to do with fighting off colds, females, at least, will be reaching less frequently for the pill box this winter.

SAVING BABIES

CHICAGO (UPI) — Over 300,000 babies born last year are alive today as a result of advances in medical care since the turn of the century. The Health Information Foundation, making this point noted that these infants represent the number of additional lives saved in a single year because the infant mortality rate has declined so sharply.

"Measured by any yardstick, this is wonderful progress," the Foundation said. "Yet no matter how satisfying an analyses of infant deaths shows that much remains to be accomplished. If the level of survival attained in Utah — the state with the best record — had been achieved throughout the country last year, for instance, some 27,000 more infants would have lived."

Christmas Gift Ideas Shown West Oak Club

Mrs. D. V. Loflin, presented original and clever ideas for Christmas gifts and decorations when she appeared as guest speaker of the West Oak Garden club Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. L. T. Harper on Beechwood Drive. Mrs. P. L. Foreman was co-hostess.

Mrs. August Danti, president, conducted the meeting during which plans were discussed for the Twin City Garden Council spring flower show.

Following Mrs. Loflin's program presentation, plans were made by the club members for their annual Christmas party to be held December 13 in the home of Mrs. L. R. Anderson with Mrs. Leslie Clark as co-hostess. A Christmas gift exchange will be held at this meeting.

At conclusion of the evening refreshments were served from the dining table, overlaid with a cutwork cloth. Centerpiece for the table was an arrangement of radiant zinnias in hues of orange, flanked by brass candlesticks holding orange candles.

Members present were Mrs. P. L. Foreman, Mrs. N. L. Rogers, Mrs. J. F. Heimgartner, Mrs. John Otnott, Mrs. William Mobberly Jr., Mrs. Carey Thompson Jr., Mrs. Guy H. Popham Jr., Mrs. Leslie H. Clark, Mrs. L. Ray Anderson, Mrs. Margaret Taichman, Mrs. Robert L. George Jr., Mrs. H. B. Cruthirds, Mrs. Roy G. Colquette, Mrs. Fred E. Poe, Mrs. Joe Messina, Mrs. L. T. Harper, Mrs. A. S. Danti, and two guests, Mrs. J. A. Monfort and Mrs. D. W. Tilman.

REVIVE BLOSSOMS

To revive weary flower blossoms, try using a household detergent, the Society of American Florists suggests. Mix a level teaspoonful of detergent in a quart of water, and let the flower stems soak in it for an hour. Then place the stems in a quart of fresh water into which a chemical preservative has been added, or six teaspoonsful of sugar and one of vinegar.

USE OF COLOR

If you doubt your judgment on flower color combinations, follow these general rules. It's always safe to combine pink with lavender, white, lime or blue; blue with white, dark green, shrimp or yellow. Green goes well with any flower color because most flowers have green foliage. Deep shades of any color look well with light shades of any directly contrasting color, as deep blue with pale green.

'Carnival' Production Slated Here

Elaine Malbin, glowing young soprano and a star of the NBC Opera on television, will star in the role of Lili when the smash hit musical "Carnival" is presented Monday, Dec. 10, by the Northeast State Concerts Association.

The production will be in Neville High School Auditorium, starting at 8:15 p.m.

Miss Malbin won nation-wide acclaim in the title roles of such notable NBC Opera television productions as "Madame Butterfly," "Salome," "La Traviata," and "Dialogues of the Carmelites."

She recently scored in the London BBC production of "Il Tabarro" and was asked to return one month later for a second appearance. She also appears regularly on such popular television shows as "The Voice of Firestone" and the Ed Sullivan show.

Her co-star will be David Daniels, no stranger to theatre-goers since he has appeared in such musicals as "Plain and Fancy" and "Call Me Madam."

As a straight actor, he was seen for months in the television day-time drama, "From These Roots." As Paul in "Carnival" Daniels will portray the crippled puppeteer in a European touring show who falls in love with Lili, an innocent waif who joins the show.

Enraged with jealousy over her acceptance of the attentions of Marco, the evil magician, and embittered by his physical handicap, he mistreats her. Only through his puppets does he convey his true affections. At the romantic climax of "Carnival" the puppets are instrumental in bringing the lovers together.

As the evil magician Marco, Michael Davis has a fine outlet for his dancing and acting talents. He is the lascivious manipulator who, tired of his paramour assistant, attempts to cultivate the loyalty of young Lili. At the end of "Carnival" he is back with his Rosalie and Lili is united with her true love, but not before a series of song and dance intervals which highlight the plot.

He has appeared in such musicals as "The Most Happy Fella," "Bells are Ringing," "Beg, Borrow or Steal," and "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

BETH ROBERTS daughter of Dr. and Mrs. W. O. Roberts of Farmerville, has won her second trip to the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago. Beth, a Farmerville Senior 4 - H Club member, will leave Monday and return Nov. 28. She will exhibit one of 10 market barrows from Louisiana.

Barnett Case Seen As Trial Of Mississippi

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — The chairman of the state Democratic executive committee said Saturday if the government brings criminal contempt charges against Gov. Ross Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, "Mississippi will be on trial."

Bidwell Adam, in a statement to the press, said the government will have to prove the state has broken the law "because the manhood and womanhood of Mississippi have supported the cause of segregation from the date of our admission into the American union."

Adam said, 'Barnett and Johnson are actually standing in our shoes."

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals earlier this week ordered the Justice Department to prefer criminal contempt charges against the two officials. The appeals court has already held them guilty of civil contempt.

TWO ROBBERS SLAIN

Abortive Holdup Suspect Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — Police named an aged hoodlum Saturday as the mastermind of an abortive holdup of a bank messenger, which cost the lives of his son and grandson and netted 34 cents.

They quoted him as saying he did not participate in the actual robbery attempt because, "I wasn't feeling too good yesterday."

The two robbers died in a hail of bullets Friday as police shot it out with the gunmen on a crowded Manhattan street. A third robber and a detective were wounded critically.

Police charged William (Dummy) Taylor, 73, of Copiague with conspiracy in the robbery that also produced $54,593 in checks made out to a department store chain, and were thus virtually non-negotiable.

Taylor, who came by his nickname by refusing to talk when taken in custody in the past, was arrested Friday night at his home and was held without bail.

One of the dead men was Albert Taylor, 48, of Queens, his son. The other was Kenneth Cavanaugh, 33, son of Albert's sister. The victims were uncle and nephew.

Detective Jeremiah J. Howard, 30, wounded in the fight, was reported in "critical by improving" condition at a hospital.

Detectives had tailed the men since February and only Friday had watched as the gang studied the movement of a bank messenger. Police said the elder Taylor had been around the scene of the robbery as it was being planned.

The third robber, Patrick Huston, 35, was hit with seven bullets and was in critical condition.

Police said the elder Taylor had a criminal career covering 52 years, with 29 prior arrests on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to homicide. He had won dismissal of 18 of those charges, and most of his convictions brought light sentences.

The robbers pushed the bank messenger, Herman Levine, to the floor and handcuffed him, but he managed to pull a wire setting off a smoke bomb in the bank deposit bag. When the trio emerged into the street, 10 detectives were waiting.

East Carroll's School Bond Issue Vote Is Slated Tuesday

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — East Carroll Parish property owners will voted Tuesday on a proposed $1.2 - million bond issue to finance what local school officials call a "badly-needed expansion program" of the East Carroll system.

The proposed expansion program calls for additions at five schools, but is topped by two 20-classroom elementary schools — one for whites and one for Negroes.

Supt. M. M. Walsworth described the proposals as "a comprehensive school improvement program."

Biggest item in the program is the proposed construction of a new elementary school for white children o na 15 - acre site, which would enable the School Board to move the present elementary school away from Lake Providence High School.

Commenting on the new school, Walsworth said, "This modern school plant is designed for 600 students located on a spacious 15 acre campus to meet the educational needs of our children in the space age.

"The total project cost will include an $11,000 package sewer treatment plant and all utilities," he added. "Removal of the elementary grades from the high school campus will provide classrooms needed for expansion and future growth."

Cost of the school is $290,000.

Also included in the program is a $275,000 elementary school for colored children located near the Griffin High School site.

Other projects in the program are as follows:

1. Eight additional classrooms at Griffin High School including the enlargement of the present lunchroom — $58,000.
2. Lunchroom at Carroll Elementary School — $40,000.
3. Lunchroom at Monticello High School — $40,000.
4. Convert the present gym at Lake Providence High School into an auditorium — $150,000.
5. New girls and boys gymnasium at Lake Providence High School — $200,000.
6. Warehouse at the School Board Office — $25,000.
7. Furniture and equipment for new building — $50,000.
8. Architects fees and purchase of sites — $72,000.

School officials said the program can be financed by an addition of 4.5 mills to be paid by parish property owners.

"Based on the present tax assessment, this program can be financed by a maximum addition of 4.5 mills," Walsworth said. "As present outstanding bonds are paid and as the assessemnt increases, the millage will be reduced accordingly."

Probe Launched In Attempt To Derail Train

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—The FBI, area police and special railroad officers launched a probe Saturday into an apparent attempt to derail a 96-car Southern Railway freight train Friday night.

Police said a lock had been removed from a switch north of nearby Chickasaw on Southern's main line and the switch thrown to send the train onto an old siding.

However, the alert train engineer, identified only as 'Cunningham", saw the red light on the switch and braked the engine, preventing a possible serious disaster.

U.N. Attache Among Three Leaders Held

Jose Garcia Orellana, 42, near busy Pennsylvania Station.

In addition to Garcia, agents picked up Antonio Sueiro Cabrera, 22, treasurer of a Cuban social club, and the U.N. attache, Roberto Santiesteban Casanova, 27.

Agents said Garcia and Sueiro were members of the Communist Party.

Also named as conspirators but not arrested because of their diplomatic status were Jose Gomez Abad, 21, and his wife, the former Elsa Montero, 20. A federal complaint said the couple supplied incendiary material and explosives to Garcia.

Santiesteban could not claim diplomatic immunity because he arrived in this country only Oct. 3, and his request for diplomatic status was still being processed.

The sabotage material, Malone said, "came from the Cuban mission to the United Nations."

Garcia, said to have been active in Premier Fidel Castro's 26th of July Revolution, was identified as a naturalized American citizen.

Agents said the Cubans had lined up 10 saboteurs and had been running schools for them in "private rooms" in the city, where they plotted how to plant bombs in New York City department stores and touch off explosives in gasoline and oil refineries across the Hudson River in New Jersey.

Picked up along with the three men was pretty brunette Marie Dritsas, 26, who was held as a material witness.

Election Set On Bond Issue

committee composed of businessmen and professional men, the City Council called the bond issue election after plans for the proposed projects were coordinated by the Monroe - Ouachita Regional Planning Commission with architects, engineers and specialists.

For instance, a Kansas City firm, Black and Veech, that specializes in sewage plants designed the proposed plant for Monroe, which would be located on 123 acres of land south of town on the Ouachita River.

The plant is designed to cure Monroe's pollution problems with the Ouachita River, a stream that runs from Arkansas into Louisiana and thus places it under federal law which forbids pollution.

At present the city dumps an estimated three million gallons of raw, untreated sewage in the Ouachita.

Total cost of the proposed plant is $3,350,000, including a $600,000 federal grant appropriated through the Louisiana Department of Public Health.

John Trigg, director of public health engineer, said he selected Monroe to receive the $600,000 grant.

Proposition No. 2 is the major expense of the proposed program, which would be completed by late 1967 and in use by early 1968.

No. 2 calls for the construction of an arena - type Civic Center to be located along with a new City Hall, No. 4, and Utilities Commission collection office in a new city government area in the vicinity of Oak Street.

The civic center, which would serve multiple purposes, would cost $4,650,000 and is designed to seat a capacity of 6,600 persons for all types of events, ranging from sports events to conventions.

City officials contend that the construction of a civic center that includes a municipal auditorium would be like bringing a new industry to Monroe in that it would produce additional revenue by attracting crowds to town.

Over 20 acres of residential property would be purchased and cleared for the civic center, City Hall, Utilities Commission collection office, new jail and judges' offices — all to be located in an area that could serve about 2,000 automobiles.

City planners say the Oak Street area would be the most accessible section for the facilities, since the new I-20 overpass is being constructed nearby. In addition, the planners point out that a near-slum section in the area would be eliminated.

Constructed in 1910, the present City Hall is inadequate, outmoded and condemned. Its jail was built to house about 30 prisoners, but presently houses over 100 daily.

Proposition No. 3 includes the spending of $650,000 to improve and expand the city fire department in order that Monroe can maintain its present fire insurance rates.

A bond issue passed several years ago enabled the city to improve its fire department standards, meaning a savings of over $1-million in fire insurance rates paid by city property owners.

No. 3 would enable the fire department to at least hold on to the present rating with chances of more improvements and savings to property owners.

For instance, a new fire station would be added at Selman Field to serve that area plus the Edgewater Gardens section that has been incorporated.

In addition, the station on Lee Avenue would be moved about a mile south so that better fire protection could be offered to the charity hospital area, which is now inside the city limits.

No. 5 calls for a $400,000 program on the Selman Field municipal airport, topped by the construction of a new terminal building to meet the city's air traffic growth.

Built in 1945, the present terminal, according to the City Council, must be replaced. Other improvements call for work on the landing strips, airlane lights, a whiteway from the main street through Selman Field to the airport and street improvements.

The City Council plans to place the bond issue revenue in the hands of local banks for investment in government securities. Money would be drawn on the bond issue accounts as the projects go under construction.

Pentagon Warns Key Missile Firm

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Pentagon told Lockheed Aircraft Corporation Saturday it may look elsewhere for missiles if a strike hits the giant aerospace manufacturing firm.

Lockheed promptly declared that it is ready to continue vital missile work in event of a strike —and the machinists union continued plans for a strike vote Sunday among the 20,000 members it claims at Lockheed.

Lockheed manufactures the Polaris missile, a key weapon in the United States' arsenal, which can be fired underwater from a submarine to drop a nuclear warhead on an enemy target 1,200 miles away.

The Pentagon warning came in a statement declaring that Lockheed "stands alone" among missile firms in refusing to accept recommendations of a presidential fact-finding board in settling a labor dispute.

The board had recommended that Lockheed permit its employes to vote on a proposal for a union shop, which would require all workers to join the union. Lockheed, in contrast to other aerospace firms, has refused to accept this recommendation.

Therefore, the Pentagon said, it is looking into alternate means of missile production "so that work on the vital programs can go forward in the event of a stoppage at Lockheed."

Courtlandt S. Gross, Lockheed board chairman, said if the union calls a strike, "we believe (it) would involve only a part of our work force.

"At Lockheed Missiles and Space Co., the machinists have only 5,700 members out of a total work force of 31,200," Gross said. "At Lockheed-California Co., the machinists have 10,000 members out of a total work force of 24,000."

He added:

"The more critical programs at these two companies are research, development, engineering and testing. We are confident we can sustain these programs with minimum delay."

Gross added that Lockheed does not want a strike. He said the key issue in dispute "is the union's demand that over 14,000 of our employes be forced into the union against the wishes they thus far have expressed."

Thomas E. McNett, president of District Lodge 727 of the machinists union, noted that the union twice had canceled a strike date—once in July at President Kennedy's request and again in September at the urging of Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz.

Help Santa

Do you have a broken or unused toy lying around your house? If so, and you would like to help Santa Claus fulfill his obligations to some of the more unfortunate children in the Twin City area, pick up that broken or unused toy and bring it to the ROTC supply room at Northeast Louisiana State College before noon on the 19th of December.

Jimmy Herren, of West Monroe, has volunteered his services to repair and repaint any and all toys donated to this most worthy cause.

The toys will then be turned over to the charitable organizations of the Twin Cities for distribution to needy youngsters.

The invitation to participate in this program is extended to students, faculty and staff, and to any other interested persons.

New Arrival

One of Monroe's newest residents made a safe landing Saturday when that old bird, the Stork, delivered her to the home of Katie and Bobby Barker, 1303 Parkview Dr., Monroe.

The Barker's "pride and joy," Sherrie Lynn, weighed in at 7 pounds, 10 ounces, and is the young couple's initiation into the ranks of parenthood. The father works in the city water department, while Mrs. Barker is a former secretary for the Monroe Police Department.

Mrs. Barker said that this isn't the first grandchild, but the little lass holds the distinction of being the first "granddaughter." Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Culp, 300 Montgomery St., West Monroe, and paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Barker, 409 Orleans St., Monroe.

OIL, GAS MAGAZINE

Local Field Topic Of Journal Article

The Monroe Gas Field — after 46 years, still called one of the world's greatest gas reservoirs— is the subject of a two - page picture story in the newest issue of the authoritative weekly, Oil & Gas Journal.

Duncan S. Cook of the Louisiana Conservation Commission, manager of the 14 parish Monroe Oil & Gas District, in whose province the field lies, called attention to the article in remarks Friday.

Prefacing the piece, Howard Wilson, Gulf Coast Editor of the Journal, declares, "The Monroe Field isn't acting its age.

"By all rights, this old Louisiana giant should be on the decline. But instead it's growing every day."

Pointing to an approximate 300 new wells completed within the two parish (Ouachita and Union), 439 sq. mile scope of the field in the past 20 months, Wilson attributes strong activity to three factors:

— Economics — "The increase in the value of gas began spurring new development about five years ago."

— Fracturing — "The discovery that the Monroe Gas Rock sand . . . could be fractured and made to produce at much higher rates made new development at a profit a dead cinch."

— New Gas — "The new drilling has resulted in extending the boundaries of the field in three directions and in finding the new Harrell sand about 150 feet deeper than Monroe Gas Rock on the west side."

The article cites a geologist's estimate of the field's reserves at eight trillion cubic feet of gas, updated from a Journal estimate of six trillion cubic feet in Spring of 1961.

Production over the life of the field, according to Louisiana Conservation Department figures, is set at 5.9 trillion cubic feet.

The field today has about 2400 wells.

Columbia Will Award Contract For Building

COLUMBIA (Special) — The City Council of Columbia will meet Dec. 3 to award a contract for the building of a new town hall, jail and fire station to replace the present structure.

Columbia property taxpayers several months ago passed a five-mill tax for the purpose of building the new structure and to purchase a new and modern fire equipment.

The town council has already spent about $10,000 on a modern fire truck for the town but conditions under which the taxpayers authorized the buying of the fire apparatus was that it would not be used outside the incorporated limits of Columbia.

The town is presently operating without a jail, using the parish jail also located in Columbia, when it has prisoners. But when the new town hall is built, it will include a small jail with several cells.

Presently housing the town hall is a small wooden building with one room. Next door is the present town hall, made of tin. These buildings will be sold and moved and the new town seat will be constructed on the site.

According to Mayor John Brockner, the new town hall, jail and fire station will be a brick building with the latest in modern styling.

Searchers Find Bodies Of Seamen

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP(— American craft located several bodies in the Atlantic 280 miles northeast of Berumda on Saturday in their hunt for 18 seamen missing since they abandoned the burning Greek freighter Captain George in a storm Tuesday.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Mendota, coordinating an air-sea search that covered a 2,500-mile area, picked up two of the bodies. "Several others are in view," it reported.

A U.S. Navy plane circled the area to mark the spot for other air and sea craft. Two U.S. Coast Guard planes, with fuel low, returned to Bermuda to refuel for an effort to pick up the rest.

Jostled along by the wind, the Captain George drifted at three knots far east of the position at which the bodies were found.

Seven of he 25-man crew have been rescued.

Visibility improved under clear skies to 15 miles. The wind dropped somewhat, to 30 knots, but the ocean still was churned by waves 15 feet high.

Crippled by an explosion Wednesday night, the Captain George remained adrift with a cargo of dynamite caps and other explosives, destined for Mediterranean ports, that made her a floating powderkeg.

Metal of the afterdeck glowed red hot from flames below.

The cutter Mendota coordinated the search for the missing 18, including the freighter's captain, George Karemezis.

The U.S. submarines Torsk and Cutlass cruised the surface. A U.S. Navy plane, a U.S. Air Force plane and four Coast Guard craft made up the aerial contingent.

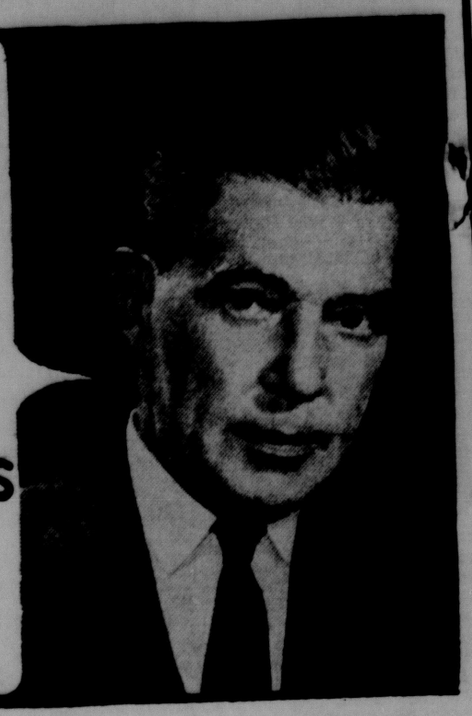

Two Liberian-flag tankers were en route to North American ports with the seven men rescued from two lifeboats Thursday — six Greek seamen and radio operator Walter Fisher, a British subject.

The Virginia, with two aboard, headed for Montreal. The Trinity Navigator, carrying five, was due at 11 a.m. Sunday at Paulsboro, N.J.

The owner of a home assessed at $1,000 will pay only $2.00 extra per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $2,000 will pay only $4.00 per year.

Holiday Centerpiece Can Match China Pattern

Highlight your table settings for holiday or other special entertaining, with flower centerpieces that harmonize with your favorite dinnerware patterns.

Whether you plan a formal, or informal, sitdown or buffet dinner, the dinnerware you propose to use should determine your choice of flowers, and of the colors of your linens and dining accessories, advises the Society of American Florists.

Use the color or design of your dinnerware as a guide in planning a floral centerpiece, giving first consideration to color. However, try to achieve a definite harmonious link between your centerpiece and dinnerware in both color and design motif, SAF says.

Since flowers are available in such wide varieties and colors, you should be able to match almost any color in your favorite dinnerware. Should your plates have more than one color, your centerpiece can be made to harmonize with any one color, or with several colors in combination.

You can create interesting, unusual and striking centerpieces to highlight your table settings by using fresh flowers alone or combined with foliages, fruit and vegetables, and dried material.

If your china is of floral or fruit design, for instance, you often can duplicate in your centerpiece the actual flowers, or fruit, depicted on your plates. Where your plates have a center design and a colored border, even the border color can be repeated in the flower container.

For example, let's assume you are planning an informal, sitdown dinner. You decide to use your favorite fruit pattern dinnerware — with olive - green border — depicting, against a white background, a red and a yellow-red apple, with stems and foliage attached, and a few yellow-colored grapes. You plan to use a tablecloth which is a lighter shade of the yellow - green colors of the pattern, and yellow napkins.

To highlight this table setting, a good choice for your centerpiece would be a combination of yellow fugi mums and maroon-colored pompons, supplemented by brilliant red and yellow apples, bunches of wine - colored grapes and grape ivy. Your use of an olive - green flower container would echo the border color of the plates giving you a perfectly coordinated setting.

Often, the design motif of dinnerware can be repeated in an accessory included in the flower arrangement. If you were using, for an informal buffet dinner, plates designed with a large rooster, in red, brown and yellow colors against a white background, your centerpiece could contain one or two miniature rooster figures. An arrangement of red carnations, variegated eroton leaves and dock with a few wood shavings at the base of the arrangement, would add to the air of informality and duplicate the colors of the dinnerware.

For a formal sitdown dinner, if your dinnerware featured a few delicate blue flowers against a white background, a centerpiece of blue cornflowers combined with agapanthus, sweet peas and white pompons would be an excellent choice, displayed on a light blue tablecloth with white napkins.

The bride-elect, who is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Marks of this city, attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston and is now a student at the University of Texas. Burlap Coats Require Lining To Keep Shape

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Q. A friend and I are making coats out of burlap. What would you suggest for a lining, to avoid the scratchiness when worn? We want the coats for spring, since the fabric is tan slubbed with orange, and don't want to quilt line it.

A. Burlap must have some kind of body in the lining, if only to keep its shape. I would suggest Pellon interfacing, then taffeta rayon. Rayon alone isn't enough, as the burlap fibres will stick through it.

Q. I am going to a wedding in Mobile, Ala., late in December. Should I wear dressy black to the wedding, with a mink stole, or a cashmere coat, mink collared, with mink hat? What dress with it? What would be suitable for my teenage daughter?

A. No black for a wedding! Cashmere coat and mink hat are fine. Dress can be simple silk, in beige, off white, even soft colors (pink, orange, green) which blend with its tone. Watch out for cloth ing being too heavy. Mobile is no cooler in December than fall here.

For your daughter, a dress such as she would wear to church here, her usual dress coat, simple hat and pumps are in good taste.

Q. Can bride-maids wear both white fur muffs and long gloves? The dresses have short sleeves.

A. Both muffs and gloves are too much. Muffs are used usually only with such fabrics as velvet or peau de soie for the dresses. If your dresses are in a suitable fabric, choose muffs if you like, but not gloves, too.

Q. Is there anything special about a wardrobe for a trip to Australia? I am going there next summer.

A. Consult a travel bureau for likely winter climate, since you will be going there in their winter, and temperatures ranged from tropical in the north to freezing in the south. But as for fashions, no differences that need worry you.

Second Kitchen Meets Needs Of Changing Times

A second kitchen for the home —a trend brought on by changing living patterns — is making a strong bid for the attention already granted the second bathroom and the second car.

The second kitchen serves admirably when:

The family room is at the other end of the house or on a different floor from the kitchen; there are semi-detached quarters for other members of the family, such as parents - in - law or grown children; there is a need for late snacks or baby's midnight bottle without long treks; and when the recreation room is far removed from the kitchen.

In every case, it is important to have the same intrinsic quality features as the master kitchen. These include easy-to-clean surfacing materials, plenty of light and electrical outlets in the immediate area, and adequate working and service space.

However, a second kitchen need not be an entire food preparation or serving center; in fact, it often consists mainly of a refrigerator and sink. Some of the self - contained units on the market combine heating and cooking facilities with beverage glasses, coffee pot outlets, storage areas and utensil holders.

Cozy Hats Seen For Winter

Mata Hari has done a good deed at last. In her new fashion incarnation, she has brought in wrapped, warmly cozy hats for this winter.

Big fur hats with jersey scarves attached wrap up models' heads and necks. Designers made them for slinky, spy - style glamour, but women have unanimously approved them for warmth.

Favorite shapes are the beret and the toque. Irene of New York does a Russian - looking toque with matching muffler stole, both in curly unshorn lamb. Halston does a beaver pillbox over jersey scarf. Sally Victor's high toque of leopard cuffed in leather also goes on over a wrapping jersey scarfhood.

Berets in fluffy furs like kit fox, lynx and opossum are set on satin bands, completely cover ears and head. Matching fur ascots or muffling scarves go with these. John Frederics' snood beret is in precious sable fur.

GOES OUT OF CONTROL

Test Of Advanced Polaris Is Failure

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A Navy attempt to score the first full success with its highly advanced Polaris "A-3" missile was spoiled Saturday when the rocket went out of control and had to be destroyed.

It was the fifth frustration in as many attempts for the stubby little rocket, which gets off the pad all right but which has yet to fly more than a few miles.

The Polaris "A-3" still has a long test flight program ahead of it. The rocket won't be combat-ready until mid-1964, and there will be many test flights between now and then to iron out the troubles.

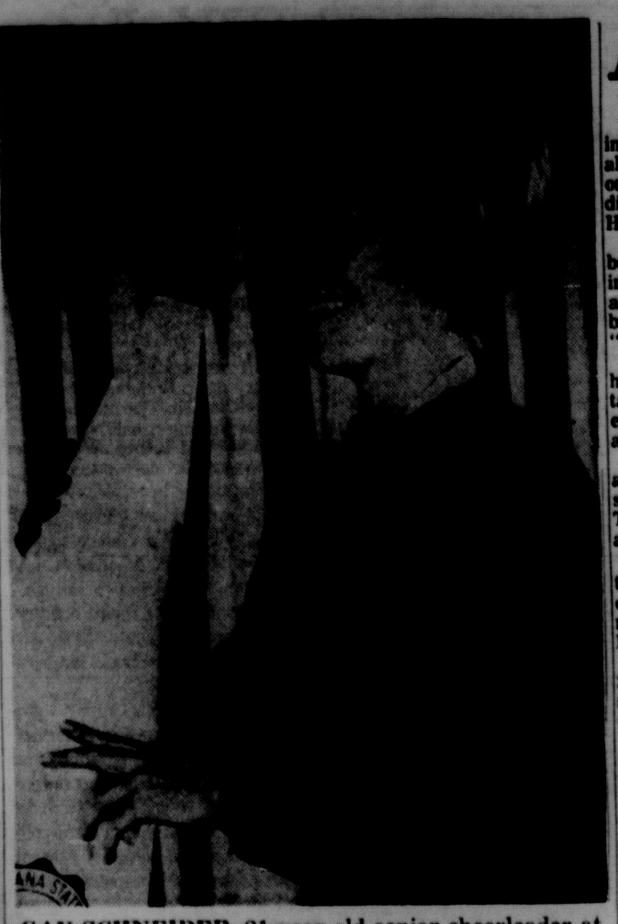

The 'A-3" is envisioned as a submarine-launched missile that can hurl nuclear warheads from beneath the ocean's surface into the heart of any continent. No city or military installation will be beyond its 2,880-mile range.

But that is on paper. There is more to the problem than just loading more fuel into a rocket and firing it further, as the first five shots of the "A-3" have demonstrated.

All five go into the Defense Department's books as "partial" successes—meaning simply that they got off the launching pads. All were planned for flights of nearly 2,000 miles, but all fell way short of that.

The rocket Saturday thundered from its launching pad at 12:06 P. M. EST and streaked into a clear blue sky. The booster stage seperated on time one minute later. Then the shot fell apart.

The second stage, carrying a dummy warhead made up of test instruments, corkscrewed out of control. A range safety officer on Cape Canaveral followed the course for a few seconds, then tripped two switches that triggered an explosive package aboard the errant rocket.

GAY SCHNEIDER, 21-year-old senior cheerleader at LSU, has been chosen to compete in the most attractive cheerleader contest sponsored by Winter Haven, Fla. A blue-eyed blonde, Miss Schneider is a fine arts major and a native of Lake Providence. The contest winner will receive a trip to the Orange Bowl game and have Christmas vacation in the sponsoring city.

Aluminum Industry Co-Founder Dies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Arthur Vining Davis, who helped found the aluminum industry and became one of the richest men in America, died at his home early Saturday. He was 95.

The silver-haired man with a booming voice had not been feeling well since Thursday. He died at 2 a.m. in the pink mansion he built recently on his estate, "Journey's End," south of Miami.

With the multimillionaire when he died were his personal secretary and official hostess for several years, Miss Evelyn Mitchell, and other members of his staff.

The vigorous, energetic man—about 5 feet 4 and 120 pounds—suffered a heart attack in 1956. Three years ago, he collapsed in a barber's chair in Miami.

Davis, who had been married twice, was a widower and had no close living relatives. Private funeral services will be held here Monday.

Born in Sharon, Mass., on May 30, 1867, Davis was the top scholar in his class at Amherst College when he graduated in 1888.

He immediately went to work for the Pittsburgh Reduction Co., founded that same year to make aluminum by the electrolytic process discovered by Charles Martin Hall, an Ohio scientist.

"I first worked in the plant, sort of a handyman," Davis said. "Kept mill books, helped in the mill, took an occasional selling trip, nailed up boxes. My starting salary was $60 a month—when I got it."

Hall's process and Davis' leadership in commercial ventures resulted in widespread use of a practical metal one-third the weight of steel.

They developed the versatility of aluminum and with help from the Mellon family of Pittsburgh, founded the Aluminum Co. of America in 1907. Davis became President of Alcoa three years later.

He became chairman of the board in 1928 when a new company was founded to take over all the company's foreign properties, many of which Davis had built.

Late in Davis' life a part of his holdings was $100 million worth of Alcoa stock.

Davis moved to the Miami area in 1948, spreading his wealth and business acumen into a maze of enterprises on both Florida coasts and into the Bahamas.

He bought more than 125,000 acres of Florida land and such diverse properties as an ice cream plant, vegetable farms, a cement plant, road-building firm, steel-fabricating plant and furniture factory, and went into the transportation business with an airline and shipping interests.

He acquired 30,000 acres of land on Eleuthera Island in the Bahamas and developed a resort there. He bought acreage and hotel property at Sarasota for $13.5 million and the Boca Raton Club and hotel south of Palm Beach for $22 million.

In the personal conduct of his business, Davis held a tight rein and had a keen eye for detail. He appeared at his office in downtown Miami daily and was deeply interested in affairs until shortly before his death.

Outside working hours, he was a flower-growing devotee and about half the books in his study were on horticulture. He was witty and charming and was known as a gracious host.

Davis received numerous honorary degrees. He was appointed a trustee of the University of Miami (Fla.) in April 1953 and was named an honorary trustee in 1960.

LOW-RATES ATTACK

Nixon Comments On Hiss Incident

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Former vice president Richard M. Nixon, in his first public statement on the television appearance of Alger Hiss, Saturday low-rated the importance of the incident.

"What does an attack by one convicted perjurer mean when weighed on the scale against the thousands of wires and letters from patriotic Americans," Nixon asked.

The remark was a clear referance to Hiss, target of Nixon's 1948 congressional probe which helped send the former U.S. State Department official to prison.

Hiss commented on Nixon on a nationally televised (ABC) program called, "The Political Obituary of Richard Nixon." Hiss' appearance brought numerous protests.

Nixon made his observation in a telegram to George W. Healy Jr., editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Nixon, who lost to Gov. Edmond Brown in the recent California gubernatorial race, said in the telegram:

"Looking to the future, I hope that my voice can help to preserve and extend the kind of opportunity for all Americans which it has been my privilege to enjoy.

JFK Appoints Study Group For Domestic Peace Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy appointed a Cabinet-level committee of seven Saturday to determine whether it would be a good idea to launch a domestic "national service program" similar to the Peace Corps operating overseas.

The President picked his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to be chairman. The attorney general already has made a preliminary study and turned in a report that favors the new program.

The attorney general envisioned it as a method for giving Americans of all ages a chance to answer the President's challenge in his inaugural address to ask what they can do for their country. Robert Kennedy said: "We need to offer visible avenues for service to these people."

Robert Kennedy's report proposed that the national service corps be open to all persons from high school graduates to retired people, with a one-year term of voluntary enlistment, compared with two years for the present Peace Corps. Volunteers would get enough pay to cover living expenses and would receive a small sum in addition at the end of their enlistments.

In addition to Robert Kennedy, the committee will consist of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, Budget Director David Bell and Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver.

Kennedy asked the committee specifically to look into the size, training requirements and costs of setting up a volunteer service corps. He asked it to assess also what sort of response would be forthcoming to an opportunity to enlist, and to say what the objectives should be, how the program should be administered, and how it would fit in with operations of state and local agencies.

As the attorney general viewed it, the projected new service corps could play an important role in helping states and communities in slum schools, recreation centers, mental hospitals, Indian reservations, migrant labor camps and correctional institutions. The report said there is a shortage of trained workers in these fields, and volunteers, directed by professionals and working under local direction could lighten the burden.

Kennedy's original report made no effort to determine how big the service corps should be other than to suggest that it be relatively small.

The President asked him to submit recommendations by Jan. 1. This would be a preliminary to possible introduction of legislation to set up the service corps by action of the next Congress. The President himself has been interested for months in this possibility and has mentioned it in a number of speeches.

President Kennedy established the Peace Corps by executive order shortly after his inauguration and it won Congressional approval on Sept. 21, 1961. Last session a pleased Congress voted greatly increased funds for it and authorized a 9,970-member corps by next fall. There are now about 5,000 members serving in 38 countries.

Bills calling for a form of domestic Peace Corps were introduced in both the House and Senate last year but the House version died in the Rules Committee and the Senate did not act. These bills would have permitted teenage boys and girls, out of school and unemployed, to work in public service institutions. Its author, Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., plans to reintroduce it early in the next session.

OFF FLORIDA COAST

Troops Practice 'Invasion' Tactics

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Elements of the 1st Armored division, staging mock maneuvers off the Florida coast, wrestled with tricky ocean currents Saturday to land the remainder of an "invasion" force.

Officers said the operation probably will occupy most of Sunday and Monday.

The first war games of the Cuban crisis—using troops rushed to the area when the Cuban situation erupted — opened Saturday when helmeted troops stormed the beach from Army LCUS (landing craft, utility).

Big bulldozers rumbled on to the beach after them.

The tankers of the "Old Ironsides" division struggled under floodlights during the night unloading tanks, jeeps, trucks and ambulances from a big Navy LST (landing ship, tank) which worked for more than three hours to clear a sandbar.

The tanks clanked over a 360-foot floating steel causeway flung out to sea. The rough surf snapped the anchor cables after one LST was unloaded and the causeway was towed back to sea for repairs. Additional sections were ordered from Fort Lauderdale, 113 miles south of deserted Hutchinson Island, the invasion scene.

The new sections will stretch the causeway beyond the trouble-some sandbar. Three more LSTs bobbed at sea, waiting to be unloaded.

Silver F104 Air Force jets, reportedly acting in enemy role, flashed low over the beach in repeated passes Friday.

Soldiers and tanks fanned out after they hit the beach, with the tanks taking up positions along the shoreline. Other vehicles were camouflaged in sand and scrub brush of the island, which was the training base for the Normandy invasion of World War II.

Soldiers battled sand fleas and heated C-rations over open fires. Some shaved in the mirrors of their vehicles, using their helmets as washbasins.

A Havana television commentator described the maneuvers as part of a "plan to invade Cuba."

Mario Kuchilan, whose broadcast was heard at Key West, quoted a Prensa Latina dispatch as saying the troops had been mobilized "for an eventual invasion of Cuba." He said the operation at Fort Pierce apparenly was designed to "maintain tension in the air of the Caribbean."

Prensa Latina is Cuba's government-controlled news agency.

Election Loser Pays Off Bet

QUEBEC (AP) — Police Friday blocked off a quarter-mile of highway northeast of Quebec so R. T. Lawson, who picked the Union Nationale in Wednesday's provincial election, could pay off an election bet.

Lawson, 160 pounds, wheeled 230-pound Ray Power from a sawmill to a restaurant in a wheelbarrow. On his chest, in French, he wore the sign:

"I have lost my election."

There Can't Be Too Much of a Good Thing!

Our little friend probably wouldn't agree while standing knee-deep amid ever-hungry little piggies, but we doubt there can ever be too much of a really good thing.

Take food for example. In this hungry world, this era of high costs, it is still among our best dollar bargains . . . thanks to the efficiency of our farmers.

Some would have the nation believe we have too many farmers . . . too much food and fibre. How they curse a blessing. We just thank God our country has never known hunger.

What about the laments over farm programs? We're told farmers are gouging taxpayers. Don't you believe it. Since 1933, farm programs have cost taxpayers $5.174-billion. But, if the farm prices had increased the same rate as non-farm prices, the cost of living would have risen but 8.9% since 1933.

Here's still another side of the "subsidy" story that makes us really grateful to our farmers... sorry for them, too:

If decreasing prices paid farmers had NOT SUBSIDIZED the housewife's food budget, she'd have paid $6.23-BILLIONS MORE last year for food than she actually did.

In 1860, one farmer fed two people, in 1910, he fed 11. Today one farmer feeds and clothes 25. No other industry is so efficient!

Speaking of efficiency, few things have helped the farmer and the consuming public more than the REA lending program. Repayable loans, with interest, to Louisiana's 13 member-owned Electric Cooperatives have raised the rural electrification level from a miserable 1.7% in 1938 to 99% today.

Farmers are just beginning to put electricity to work here in Louisiana. They'll need 8-times more power by 1985, a challenge their non-profit, member-owned Electric Cooperatives are accepting and meeting with advance planning—including generation of power when necessary to help rural Louisiana grow and prosper.

Electric Co-ops, belong to your rural friends and neighbors who couldn't get electricity any other way. These private enterprises are the ONLY way ALL rural folks, especially isolated farmers, can have electricity at rates ALL can afford.

Think what this means to both town and country prosperity . . . to the pocketbooks of the consuming public—to YOU.

Womanly Sin Is Age-Old Lie

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Every now and then a family asks Robinson Pre-brey, monument maker, not to chisel the vital statistics onto a certain tombstone.

The deceased, usually a woman who has spent a lifetime battling to keep her age out of print, has requested that she also be permitted to spend the hereafter confusing the graveyard historians.

However, gravestone sculptors are more charitable about the vanities of women than are agencies which issue drivers licenses, marriage licenses and passports.

Clerks in these places will add 10 to 15 years to the most ingenuous looking female just about as fast as she will reluctantly admit the accurate number.

But a woman's word (and certainly not her looks) is not enough in other states where drivers licenses expire according to birth dates. Her story must be corroborated with the ruthless truth of a birth certificate.

WHITE LIES

In marriage bureaus, if New York City's is any criterion, women would rather risk perjury than confess their age to the clerk and the man they hope to marry.

A few flip replies such as "old enough," or "over 21" But when these won't do, they blush furiously, and scribble out the awful num

"They'll shave their age a lot," admits Deputy of the New York Marriage Bureau Thomas A. Lenane. "And then maybe an hour or two later they'll come back wanting to get the whole matter straightened out."

If it isn't, the bride's vain fib bing may complicate matters in later life.

"Sometimes they come back here years later chagrined because they lied. They can't get their birth records, and they need the marriage license to verify their age to social security, or life insurance people."

In New York it takes a supreme court ruling to amend a marriage license.

FEMININE PROTESTS

Perhaps because a woman, Miss Frances A. Knight, is director of the U. S. Passport office, this legal agency is more sympathetic.

During the past 10 years a number of recommendations to omit ages on passports have been made to Congress. But they never got anywhere. They probably would have if the Congressmen's wives had been passing on them.

"We get an awful lot of complaints from women and I think their arguments are well founded," says soft-hearted Joseph R. Callahan, head passport deputy here.

"Since you really can't tell how old a woman is these days, I don't see that listing her age proves much."

Still he insists that his agents are always adamant about getting the correct birth date, "as long as it's the law," despite pathetic feminine pleadings.

Survey Reveals Men's Secrets At Housework

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Half the men in the country wash dishes. Two-thirds of them also wash windows but draw the line at waxing floors—plainly, woman's work.

The facts about housework habits of the nation's males were considered "secret and confidential" until William J. Cohlhan blabbed.

The way he talked about his fellow man, he's likely to rate as a contemporary Benedict Arnold in the battle of the sexes.

His report about "Some Secrets We Know About Men" plainly betrayed members of his sex.

But Cohlhan, an advertising executive, thought it only fair to blab. Last year about this time he revealed "Some Secrets We Know About Women." Females in his life—and many he didn't know—caused such a fuss that he had to put the shoe on the other foot.

Cohlhan did it before the same group, wives of members of the National Wholesale Drug Association meeting in San Francisco. The secrets he revealed are based on enough surveys to line a 25 foot book shelf in his office.

Every secret, you see, is well documented—so no male need try denying the facts. Samples:

—The more intelligent a man is, the more likely he is to read comic sections of newspapers.

—If a man buys cheap whiskey or cannot afford a new car, he will say so. A woman will hedge.

—Men are not unwilling to work around the house, as their dish washing records show.

—Men on shopping sprees like to get into a store and get out. But men don't get the emotional satisfaction out of shopping that women do.

—During interviews when husbands were present, the wife claimed responsibility for making certain decisions 12 per cent of the time. When he wasn't present, her authority suddenly jumped to 26 per cent.

—Alcoholic beverages are first introduced to the household through the husband's influence. But after the marriage, the husbands tend to drink less, wives more.

—When it comes to dieting, men are more determined to stick to the diet. Women are more diet conscious, but weaker in the will-power department.

DETERMINE HEIGHT

To determine how tall to make a flower arrangement for the center of a dining room table, use this "rule of thumb" provided by the Society of American Florists: Place your elbow on the table in front of the arrangement and clench your fist. The flowers should be no higher than your fist, to permit cross-table conversation.

Glamorous 'Glamellias' Keynote Fall Wedding

Our enterprising florists, not content with what nature and the hybridizers can do, have invented a new flower. Made of gladiolus petals and formed like a camellia, it is called, logically enough, a glamellia. To make glamellias, florists dismember several gladiolus flowers and then wire selected petals together at the base. The result is a lovely and distinctive blossom.

Glamellias, of course, have no natural stems, and they were originally intended for use in corsages. The Society of American Florists points out that they also make ideal wedding flowers. The wide range of colors and the ready availability of gladioli make glamellias the answer to a bride's flower problems at almost any season of the year.

For autumn weddings, the Society suggests a white gladiolus tiara for the bride, with a large flower in the center and buds at the end. Big white glamellias, with sprays of smaller gladiolus flowers, make up her bouquet.

For the bridesmaids and maid of honor, glamellias should be in appropriate autumn colors. Light red or yellow glamellias combine with sprays of matching pompon chrysanthemums to make a distinctive and charming bouquet. A single large glamellia of the same color is worn in the hair. And for a finishing touch, pompons edge elbow-length gloves.

Many other combinations may be worked out, of course. Since gladioli come in every flower color but blue, and in a wide range of shades within each color, glamellias can be fitted into any color scheme at any time of year. For autumn, there are the deep yellows, corals and light reds. For winter, consider the deep reds, which combine beautifully with holly and other evergreens. And for spring and summer, nothing could be lovelier than the light yellows, the various shades of pink, and the pinkish lavenders.

DAD PROPOSES, MOM DISPOSES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dad still makes the final decision when it comes to buying the family car—but his choice is depending more and more these days on what Mom wants.

The power of the distaff side in influencing car-buying verdicts has increased in direct ratio to the increase in the number of women drivers, reports C.I.T. Credit Corp., auto financing firm. The number of women drivers has burgeoned from 15 million in 1950 to more than 36 million this year.

Marines On Guantanamo Want To Fight Or Get Out

By JACK V. FOX

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (UPI)—On a cactus-covered hill above Kittery Beach and overlooking Guantanamo's steel fence border with Cuba, the Marines of Baker Company have slept in foxholes for three straight weeks and they would like to know two things:

Why didn't they bust into Fidel Castro's Oriente Province as soon as they got here?

If they are not going to fight, when are they going to get out?

Their chaplain tells them they will be out by the first frost. This week it was 95 in the shade every day.

It's not that morale is low in the company commanded by Capt. Barry Colassard of Great Neck, C.Y. This unit, in fact, is in high and joking spirits despite the heat, the bugs and the sitting tight. One reason is that Colassard, a handsome young Syracuse graduate, has a tremendous sense of humor which communicates down to his men.

On Tuesday Colassard's outfit was involved in a mock battle with an enemy theoretically coming across the fence. The captain had been tremendously busy supervising Seabees who are erecting pillboxes and fortifications on the hill until it resembles a tropical Maginot Line.

Unable to spare the time for the exercise, Colassard instructed his radio man to inform battalion headquarters:

"The captain died a heroic death. He was last seen running toward the fence with a grenade."

Colassard said he deliberated first reporting that he had fled to the rear but decided against it.

Baker Company flew here from Camp LeJeune, N.C., arriving on Saturday, Oct. 20—two days before Kennedy's speech announcing the crisis.

"We didn't know where we were going until the plane landed and we stepped out in Cuba," said Cpl. Robert Sweda of Dunkirk, N.Y.

The men almost unanimously thought they were going into combat immediately and they were keyed up to it.

As the days pass, they grow more frustrated—particularly because they are so cut off from news of the high-level maneuverings in the Cuban crisis.

On the immediate front, only a few of them even got a look at a Cuban militiamen.

Along the road which parallels the fence, sentries stand rotating four-hour guard duty at hilltop posts, and a few patrol up and down the road. In the course of the day, they see perhaps 20 Cubans carrying Czech-made rifles and wearing Russian style helmets.

One of them waved to Pfc. William Bosley of Charleston, W. Va., inviting him to come over to the fence. Then he shouted in Spanish. Bosley ignored him.

On the hills on their side the Cubans have been busy photographing the Marine fortifications. An officer in the typical beret of the militia supervised the telescopic camera work.

Executive officer of Baker Company is Lieut. Joseph Allegretti of Chicago. The 25-year-old Allegretti has been married only 13 weeks and he is one of those most anxious to get the answer whether they stay or go.

Colassard has been trying to get each man back once a week to the harbor area of the naval base. Located there are swimming pools, bowling alleys, baseball fields, fishing and sailing boats, nightly movies and well-stocked clubs for all ranks.

Not until a few days ago did the men get anything except C rations on the hilltop position. Now they are brought up one hot meal a day.

Negro Is Held In Murder Of His Wife

A 46-year-old Negro man was in the Ouachita Parish jail Saturday night, held on a murder charge in the iron pipe slaying of his wife at a Negro nightspot.

Monroe police who investigated the death identified him as Frank Daniel Hill, 4108 Elm St., and the dead woman as Henrietta Hill, Negro, 37, of the same address.

Dr. John P. Burton, Ouachita Parish coroner, said the woman died from blows on the head, inflicted with a four-inch long, 1½-inch width section of iron pipe. The incident occurred at the Owl Street Bar around midnight Friday, apparently resulting from a disagreement between the couple.

Hill, booked at 1:05 a.m., surrendered to the police and admitted weilding the pipe length with which the woman was struck several times in the head outside the bar. However, the incident was still under investigation late Saturday.

Both Monroe and West Monroe police were kept busy Saturday investigating a number of minor thefts and burglaries.

Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly said the Negro American Legion Hall, on Powell Avenue, was broken into and between $8 and $5, four cartons of cigarettes and two cartons of gum taken. Entrance to the building was gained sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning by tearing off a screen and breaking though a window.

Monroe officers were also investigating the burglary of a soft drink machine located inside Ritters' Wrecking Yard, 1919 DeSiard St. The machine was looted after the party or parties entered the building through a hole in the roof. Less than $2 was believed taken.

In West Monroe, two power chain saws were reported stolen from separate homes Saturday. West Monroe officers received a report Saturday morning from Clifton Williams, 206 Lee St., West Monroe, that a 20-inch blade saw, yellow brown in color, was taken from outside his residence sometime Friday night. He said the saw was valued at $230.

Saturday afternoon, another report was received of a saw missing from the home of F. D. Nelson, 2106 Cypress St., West Monroe. Nelson described the saw as a Sears product with an 18-inch blade. It was taken sometime between Wednesday afternoon and Saturday morning.

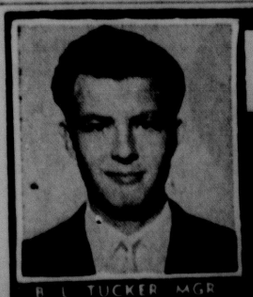

Austria Votes On Parliament

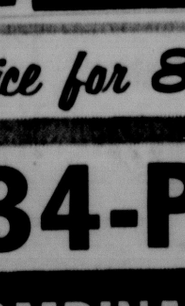

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Austrians will elect their sixth postwar Parliament Sunday. Both the Conservative People's party and the Socialists, coalition partners since 1945, hope to win additional seats, but no major upheaval is expected.

A total of 4,805,409 persons out of a population of nearly seven million is eligible to help choose 165 deputies for four-year terms. Election authorities expect a turnout of more than 90 per cent.

In the outgoing chamber, the Conservatives of Chancellor Alfons Gorbach held 79 seats and the Socialists of Vice Chancellor Bruno Pittermann had 78. The only opposition group, the right-wing Freedom or liberal party, held eight seats.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT BY JUDGE HARPER SPEAKS FOR ITSELF!

Reprinted from the Monroe Morning World of Friday, Nov. 16th. just in case you might have missed these profound observations by one of Monroe's most respected citizens.

Judge Harper Gives Support To Bond Issue

Monroe City Judge W. M. Harper Thursday endorsed the $11,250,000 bond issue which will be voted on next Tuesday by Monroe property owners.

Judge Harper's statement on the issue, which pointed out the necessity for it, follows in part:

When I settled in Monroe over a half-century ago the townspeople were still openly criticising Mayor Forsythe for acquisition of Forsythe Park as an unneeded luxury. A few years subsequently bitter opposition was registered by the same group against construction of a too elaborate power and water plant. The passing years have proven the wisdom of both Forsythe Park and the utility plant.

Mayor Arnold Bernstein was bitterly assailed for extravagance in over - building Neville High School and equally condemned for acquisition of Bernstein Park. Time has wholly vindicated the wisdom and farsightedness of Mayor Bernstein in both projects.

Actually I do not recall a single public improvement issue ever presented in Monroe that did not draw some degree of opposition, but time and experience have always justified the improvements.

Today, Monroe is asked, not solely by the Mayor and City Council, but equally by a representative group of leading, farsighted citizens to present to you the present bond issue at the polls next Tuesday. The entire issue is in group or package form in obedience to public demand in order to obviate multiple bond elections.

The proposed bond issue covers improvements needed citywide. There are strong and compelling reasons for each project offered, if Monroe is to adequately care for the needs not only of today but of tomorrow's bright and promising community.

The only issue I have heard questioned in the least is the public auditorium. But have we not badly outgrown the facilities of both Brown Hall and Neville Auditorium? Can we longer usurp both institution's facilities? Actually, as a cold matter of law, either institution could deny the use of its auditorium for public uses other than those of the institution itself, because they were provided with funds dedicated for institutional use only. Neither Brown Hall or Neville auditorium has facilities or capacity adequate to accommodate activities that could and would come to Monroe if proper auditorium facilities were available. Unquestionably it will cost. But must we go into a state of retrogression because of cost? Relatively, I submit, today's costs are no more than yesterday's. I well remember when a 24 - pound sack of flour cost only 75 cents. I also remember as forcibly that the average daily wage then was $1.25. Doubtless, future costs will be correspondingly more. However, I predict that Monroe's posterity will applaud the unselfish foresightedness of today's citizenry in providing an auditorium that will lend itself to entertainment and cultural betterment for many decades to come. Nearby El Dorado and Lafayette, both of which are smaller than Monroe in population, have fine public auditoriums that have proven blessings to both communities. So, frankly, I do not see how any citizen endowed with average vision and perspective can be heard to oppose the needs of present and future citizens of our fair city of the manifold benefits that flow from an up-to-date public auditorium.

We simply will not discuss the need for a new City Hall. Everyone recognizes the present antiquated, delapidated structure to be a humiliating, national disgrace.

W. M. HARPER.

NEW U.S. STUDIES

Living Standard Gains Reported

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported Saturday that American families are enjoying a steadily mounting standard of living as income gains continue to outstrip price increases.

New studies made public by Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz showed, moreover, that the average family is required to spend a significantly smaller share of its income for the basic necessities of food, shelter and clothing than it did a decade ago.

More income is therefore available for health care, savings, recreation and study and the things widely regarded as making life worth while.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics made the comprehensive studies by sampling consumer income and buying patterns in Atlanta, Ga., Boston, Chicago, Detroit, New York City, San Francisco and Washington.

"It is a measure of both the fuits and the potential of our free economy," Wirtz said, "that the residents of these seven cities enjoyed an increase in their real purchasing power, over the past decade, of from 15 to 44 per cent."

Here are some of the survey highlights:

—Average after-tax income ranged from $5,312 in Atlanta to $6,369 in Boston with families spending around 86 to 95 per cent of this income, on the average, for current consumption.

—The proportion of income devoted to food, clothing and shelter has declined from 62 per cent in 1950 to 55 per cent in 1960. Shelter alone, however, takes a big more share of income than it did.

—Family home ownership has increased by a third.

—Each of the seven cities surveyed reflected greatly increased outlays for personal insurance, a form of savings. The rise in insurance purchase over the decade ranged from 56 per cent in Chicago to 144 per cent in Detroit.

—In all the cities, the proportion of after-tax income going to gifts and contributions showed an increase.

—Seven to eight of every 10 families in the cities surveyed reported coverage under some type of health insurance plan.

"These and other facts uncovered in the survey point clearly to a continuing and substantial increase in the nation's living standards," Wirtz said.

"They should also serve as a pointed remainder of an unacceptable contrast in American life today that there still exists areas of severe want in our most abundant society. Until this contrast is eliminated, our satisfaction must be limited."

Ewan Clague, Labor Statistics commissioner, explained the survey data to newsmen. He said that when average family after-tax income reported in the seven-city survey is adjusted for intervening price changes, the real income gains for the decade are as follows:

San Francisco 15 per cent, Atlanta 20, Washington 20, Detroit 23, Chicago 17, New York 20, and Boston 44.

Family living expenditures, adjusted for inflationary effect, have increased as follows: San Francisco 9 per cent, Atlanta 17, Washington 12, Detroit 18, Chicago 10, New York 13, and Boston 23.

The studies are the first batch this year and next that will cover 66 metropolitan areas, including all having 1,250,000 population or more, as well as selected smaller communities and rural areas.

JANE LEE WARE, 4-H Club member from West Monroe High School shows one of her prize lambs that helped merit her an all-expense-paid educational trip to Chicago Nov. 22-27. The trip was won from records Jane kept and achievements in the 4-H sheep project.

CONTAINMENT POLICY

Red Chinese Pose Problems For U.S.

By ELTON C. FAY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Red Chinese troops poised at points from which they might surge southward over India and toward Indian Ocean ports pose new problems in the U.S. doctrine for containment of communism.

The ultimate objective of the undeclared but expanding war which China launched against India remained unclear Saturday although the intensity of the campaign stepped up in heavy fighting in the already invaded areas.

One of the more immediate goals could be capture of oil fields within fairly short distance of one sector of the Red campaign. Soviet coolness toward her big Asian ally could cut off a major source of fuel for both industry and the military of China.

However, one of the possibilities on which U.S. military officials were keeping an eye was that the Chinese may attempt to press on down across Assam and around Burma toward the Indian Ocean port cities.

This would create one more rat hole to be watched by the already heavily committed U.S. fleet.

The normal present U.S. naval force in the area between the western Pacific and the Mediterranean is a tiny detachment of about three ships from the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean. This so-called Persian-Gulf unit consists of a seaplane tender and two destroyers. Its function is essentially to show the flag.

In the past, the policy has been for the United States to deploy a substantial force of ships into the areas of any free nation threatened by Communist expansion, for a show-of-force effect.

However, in this case, the New Delhi government so far has asked for no help beyond some basic weapons and other military equipment.

Deployment of any additional naval strength to the Indian Ocean area could impose increased burden on either the 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean or the 7th Fleet in the western Pacific, or both. In some quarters of the Navy there has been belief for several years that another fleet should be organized for patrol in the Indian Ocean. This would create another budgetary load.

Discussions are under way in New Delhi and here regarding additional arms aid for India but there is nothing which indicates any request by India for help in military manpower.

Can Property Owners Bear This Burden?

Responsible citizens who are sincerely interested in civic progress have questioned the cost and practicality of various parts of the proposed civic improvement program, that they are being asked to approve on November 20th.

An intelligent judgement of the merit of the various projects being presented in this bond election cannot be made without consideration of the following:

OVERALL COSTS

This Bond Election seeks approval of a debt of $11,250,000.00 to be assumed by the property owners, who will have to pay it off over a 30 year period. The interest alone on this debt at 4% will amount to approximately $6,750,000.00. Thus, the total obligation is about $18,000,000.00. The cost of operating, maintaining and adding to these proposed projects is NOT INCLUDED in this $18,000,000.00.

This sum together with the presently outstanding bonds and interest to be due thereon would amount to approximately $37,000,000.00, which is about 66% of the total assessed value of all property in Monroe.

Just to pay off the $18,000,000.00 mentioned above will require a tax of approximately 10 mills, although we are asked to agree to increase our taxes by only 2 mills. The difference between the 2 and 10 mills is to be made up by means of the city rededicating taxes from old bond issues as they are paid off. Instead of taxes being reduced, we would be pledging old taxes to these proposed new bonds.

Since some of the old bonds being retired are school bonds, it is important to understand that within the next five years it will be essential to vote even more taxes to support our expanding school system. What other civic needs might arise that may require that additional taxes be voted?

For a more complete understanding of your current tax obligations refer to your 1962 tax bill, which is usually mailed to all taxpayers in October. In reviewing same keep in mind that taxpayers approved a bond issue in 1960 to build an underpass on Monroe's Northside. This has not yet been done, and so the tax to support it will not appear on your current tax bill.

Considering (1) present bonded indebtedness, (2) actual cost of the proposed new program, (3) our truly essential needs and (4) our recognized future requirements, are we being asked to shoulder too much debt?

Let's examine the need for civic improvements and our desire for real progress in the light of what we can afford instead of what we might like to have.

PROJECT NO. 1
SEWAGE TREATMENT PLANT.

Sewerage facilities can be financed by a Sewerage Use Charge. Unlike the bonds proposed in this issue, which only property owners must pay, this charge would be paid by those individuals and businesses who actually use the service. An additional feature of this type financing is that it can provide for repair and maintenance as well as provide additional funds for future expansion.

Proposal No. 1 does not provide for financing our sewage plant by means of a use charge and does not provide any money for operation, maintenance or expansion.

PROJECT NO. 2
ARENA-TYPE AUDITORIUM & EXHIBITION HALL.

The proposed price of $4,650,000.00 plus the interest charges of approximately $2,790,000.00 makes a total cost for this project of about $7,400,000.00. If this expenditure is approved, it would have to be paid back at an average rate of $20,000.00 per month for the next 30 years. Remember, this cost does not include any money for operation or maintenance, nor for the building of a theatre-type auditorium that the planners suggest can be added later.

Unlike this expensive arena-type auditorium that we are asked to build, consider the auditorium built in Lafayette, Louisiana in 1960. Our mayor has told us what a fine building it is and how much it has meant to Lafayette citizens. Ironically, it is a theatre-type auditorium and cost only about $1,500,000.00 to build. Realistically Lafayette citizens voted an additional tax for maintenance and operations since it was apparent that their auditorium would not be self supporting for several years.

PROJECT NO. 3
FIRE DEPARTMENT IMPROVEMENTS

We have an outstanding fire department. There are few, if any, cities in Louisiana that have a better fire insurance rating than Monroe. The proposed expenditure of $650,000.00 for fire department improvements may not result in a reduction in our fire insurance rates, but will allow us to maintain our present rating.

PROJECT NO. 4
CITY HALL, JAIL, CITY COURT, UTILITIES OFFICE

The bond issue proposes that new and expensive land be acquired for these facilities. Downtown Monroe is now the true governmental center, with City, Parish and Federal offices in close proximity. It would seem that these needed improvements could be built in a multi-story structure on sites presently available in the downtown area with substantial saving in land costs. The City already owns two possible sites and the City School Board owns a third.

PROJECT NO. 5
AIRPORT TERMINAL BUILDING

It is not clear what amount of money will be spent on each of the proposed airport improvements.

Consistently, the various airport facilities have created revenues in excess of operating costs. Since an improved facility should further increase these revenues, a project of this type should be self-supporting.

MILK PURIFIER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The principle of ion exchange through a plastic membrane can be employed to remove radioactive substances from milk at a cost of perhaps a half cent a quart, reports Dr. Harry P. Gregor, of Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.

The machine invented by Dr Gregor, described in "Dental Times," resembles in its operation the so - called artificial kidney which removes uric acid and other substances from the blood of persons whose kidneys are temporarily non-functioning.

Logtown PTA Approves Budget

Budget for 1962-63 was presented and approved at the monthly meeting of Logtown P-TA held November 8 in the school cafeteria with Mrs. G. L. McQuiston presiding. A report was also made on the supper and cake walk.

Highlight of the meeting was a discussion by Miss Gertrude Gregory, elementary supervisor of Ouachita Parish, on Education. She gave advice on homework, critera for homework and also advice for good study habits of children.

Mrs. McKenzie's fourth grade won room count. A social hour followed the meeting with refreshments served by the third grade room mothers.

The Monroe Chapter of the National Association of Women in Construction held its monthly meeting Monday, November 12 at the Embers Restaurant. Guest speaker for the evening was Miss Eleona Brimsmade, visiting teacher for the City of Monroe schools, who gave an informative talk on the purpose of visiting teachers.

Mrs. Clarie Hickey was welcomed into the club as a new member. Guests present were Mrs. Charles E. Henson and Mrs. Grabia Whitlock

Mrs. David Denson, chapter president, conducted a short business session at which time plans were completed for the annual Christmas party. Members and guests are invited to attend the event on December 8, beginning at 8 p.m. at Highland Park Country Club in West Monroe.

Members present were Miss Elizabeth Shaughnessy, Mrs. James Pickens, Mrs. Sid Lancaster, Mrs. Joe Jacola, Mrs. Sam Rizzo, Mrs. David Denson, Mrs. E. D. Elmore, Mrs. Ken Case, Miss Joanne Caskey and Mrs. Birdie Shepard

'CRASHING' COLOR?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — One cause of head - on collisions could be the color of the car. Studies at the University of California in Los Angeles show a driver's judgment of how far away an approaching car may be influenced by the color. Blue and yellow make an object seem closest. Gray makes the oncoming car appear farthest away.

Tests proved that at 200 feet objects colored blue or yellow seem as much as six feet closer than objects colored gray — a discrepancy great enough to explain fatal errors in judging distance.

BRAISED TURKEY

If turkey wings are available in your market, you might like to try braising them. Count on the meat needing about two hours of simmering.

THANKSGIVING DAY, November 22 is the date chosen for the wedding of Miss Myra Lee Avery and Jimmy Van Brown, which will take place in Zion's Rest Primitive Baptist Church at 6:30 p.m. Elder Reuben R. Monk, uncle of the bride-elect, will officiate. Parents of the betrothed couple are Mr. and Mrs. Durward R. Avery and Mr. and Mrs. Hurshel P. Brown, all of Jonesboro.

Cultura Book Club Welcomes New Members

Two new members, Mrs. Brent Hulsey and Mrs. Breard Frantom were welcomed into the Cultura Book Club at its monthly meeting held last Monday night in the home of Mrs. Donald Logan on Dondee Drive, in West Monroe.

Mrs. Thomas Pitt was guest speaker and gave pointers on being a gracious hostess.

During the business session final all plan were made for the Cerebral Palsy school Christmas party to be held December 19.

Co-hostesses with Mrs. Logan were Mrs. Richard Curry, and Mrs. James Henderson. At conclusion of the evening they served refreshments to the guest and Mrs. Kenneth Adams, Mrs. Bill Armstrong, Mrs. Bob Branch, Mrs. Henry Camp, Mrs. Harold Crew, Mrs. Joe Carter Jr., Mrs. Dale Hendricks, Mrs. Conley Hogan, Mrs. Harry Liner, Mrs. Hulsey, Mrs. Roland Nix, Mrs. Charles Oxford, Mrs. Lake Oxford, Mrs. Ralph Reed, Mrs. Bud Shepard, Mrs. W. T. Silmon, Mrs. Tommy Spurlock, Mrs. Charles B. Welch, Mrs. Gene Williams, Mrs. Bobby Wilson, Mrs. Breard Frantom and Mrs. Robroy Young.

Alpha Chi Alumnae Club Elects Officers

Members of the Monroe Alpha Chi Omega Alumnae club met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Warren Maddry on Sterlington Drive. Prior to the business meeting an informal social period was held at which time a dessert course was served.

Mrs. John Goorley, retiring president, turned the meeting over to the new president, Mrs. Evelyn Curry. Other officers for the new year are Mrs. Goorley, vice-president; Mrs. James Griffin, secretary; Mrs. L. A. Newman, treasurer and Mrs. Warren Maddy, reporter.

It was decided to cancel the December meeting and plans were made to hold a bridge - scrabble get acquainted party in January.

Those present were Mrs. John Goorley, Mrs. Evelyn Curry, Mrs. Charles Vaughn, Mrs. James Griffin and the hostess.

MEAN THINGS!

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Robin King has a theory about inanimate objects. They hate people, says he. As a result, the mean things make people angry.

He has a whole alphabet full of them. Take "B" — for buttons. He says they fall off, roll under tables. Drawers are mean because they wrinkle shirts, they stick, they fall on toes. King's ABC of mean things — "The Angry Book" (Norton) — is for children. He lists "washing" as a mean thing invented by parents.

LEANING BLUEPRINT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Obesity in school - age children is much more likely to be due to lack of physical activity than to eating unusually large amounts of food," Dr. Frederick J. Stare of the Harvard School of Public Health, said at a recent meeting of school lunch officials.

Dr. Stare recommended physical activity, not only in games and sports, but also in properly supervised exercise or calisthenics. He also suggested that plump school children drink skim milk — or one of the newer skimmed milks in which the nonfat milk solids have been increased.

SPICY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fennel was once believed to be one of the nine sacred herbs which could counteract the nine causes of disease. Now it imparts a distinctive flavor to pastries, candies and boiled fish.

Rich Furs Top New Fall Suits

This fall the world of suit styles is a wide and wonderful one, and you can write your own passport into high fashion from the many flattering suit models available.

First — it's a season of fine fabric . . . with elegant mohairs, in loopy or souffle cuts; there are a wide variety of soft woolens in brushed surfaces; worsteds in diagonals, chevrons, pettipoints and basket weaves; and plaids, checks and tweeds — all scoring for high fashion favor.

There's also a fabulous fabric group of handsome wool jerseys, double knits, paisley - printed wools and wool challis to give under stated elegance to the new suits.

Again color comes to the fore, with a wondrous range of browns — in hues to please every woman's taste. Creamy cocoa tones and deep burnished browns go along with softer brown neutrals. Reds are as clear as can be, with a fresh vibrance and brilliance.

A greyed winter white shows up as a rice tone, while winter navy is brighter and bluer; greens are reminiscent of glowing pines and such familiar standbys as gold, wine and taupe are reminiscent of sparkling vintages.

Black continues to be a favorite for fall. In addition to its smart solo performances, black creates a harmonious duet with other colors in plaids, tweeds and checks.

However, the big news in fall-into-winter suits is — FUR! Fur is the final lavish iflip of elegance to an already lovely suit picture.

Fur at collars, cuffs, hemlines and at borders blend beautifully with the basic elegant, understated lines of new suit fashions.

Fur runs the gamut from smooth, shiny lustre of persian is the final lavish fillip of elegance of long - haired lynx and fox.

In silhouette, suits — fur trimmed or untrimmed — are neat, pared - down and youthful looking. Every curve is controlled, and tailored to hold its shape.

Jackets vary in length from top of the hips to the ¾ walking length. No matter what length, they gently skim the body yet give vital definition to the bosom and waistline.

Sleeves on suits generally return to narrow full lengths, while set-in sleeves, small notched collars help heighten the lean, relaxed look.

Suit skirts have trouser-type pockets, panel fronts and are newly eased and gored.

Blazer type jackets over pleated skirts; variations on Norfolk-belted styles, and fly - front chesterfield styles give credence to fall's popular "Bond Street" look.

Suits often wear an easy princess cut with raised bustline and higher waistline. The back is usually rounded while the front looks concave. Under - bosom seams or flap pockets and buttons are placed just above the natural waistline to enhance this look.

Curved seams appear everywhere. Skirts are most often A-line or slightly flared. Collars, when not small and pointed, are usually flatteringly ring-shaped.

Collarless, side closing jackets are new on the scene and give flattery to many of the fall '62 suits.

Walking suits or tunic suits most often point up the curved shape and are usually shown with a tunic blouse sashed at the waist.

In the fur trimmed suit collections, it's a veritable zoo parade of furs. Mink, persian lamb, otter, sable, and sable - dyed baum marten, opposum, fitch, leopard, beaver, lynx and fox are happily giving flattery to the newest suits.

Scarves, stoles and muffled necklines lend intrigue and excitement to many of the newest styles.

The new flame reds and bewitching browns are fabulously flattered with the fur touches.

In colder climates women will welcome the group of new suits with cuddly fur linings that match the trim of fur collar and cuffs.

In addition to the effective trim the various seam handlings give to new suits, flap pockets, bows, big bold buttons and braid also give spicy accents.

The overall suit scene has much fashion elegance — with a host of flattering detail to give milady an eminently suitable look for fall '62

LEATHER TOUCHED

To the simple and classic shapes of young fall fashions, leather trims add luxury touches. There are leather buttons, leather pockets, and, of course, leather belts in wide to spaghetti-string versions.

Grand Docteur

By PETER GROSE

LAMBARENE, Gabon (AP)—The old man in the dirty cream trousers smoothed his mane of white hair and moved around the long dining table to an old upright piano.

He played a few strong and simple chords as his two dozen co-workers and guests sang a hymn. It was their second hymn of the evening, after the dinner dishes had been cleared away.

Then in silence the old man made his slow way back around the table. He bowed his head and, in the soft German accents of his native Alsace, Albert Schweitzer said the Lord's Prayer.

WORK DAY ENDS

It was the end of another workday at Dr. Schweitzer's hospital on the banks of the Ogowe River at Lambarene.

Africa's political revolution has transformed the map of the continent, but Schweitzer's world here remains virtually untouched by the winds of change.

The most famous doctor in the world still displays the missionary vigor and ideals of the day 50 years ago when he first set foot in the equatorial forest, but some aspiring African leaders today find both the ideals and the vigor distasteful.

Schweitzer has turned his medical work over to a staff of young doctors. Now nearly 88, he passes his own days in strenuous physical labor, building for the future. His birthday is Jan. 14.

Bent, but unfaltering, he works a seven-hour day with his African building crews, directing in detail the erection of new wings for his hospital village houses, a new pier for the river canoes and a new bridge across a meandering forest stream.

WIELDS SHOVEL

With unbelievable energy the old man—doctor, philosopher and musician—wields a shovel and hoe to show African laborers how to make brick foundations level and true.

At night, with the physical work done, Schweitzer reads and writes by gaslight until midnight or after never losing touch with the outside world that has showered him with as much honor as any living man.

When relaxed Schweitzer talks in a high, musical voice. His youthful eyes twinkle, he winks at visitors as he teases them gently and parries their questions. The smile under his walrus moustache is broad and quick.

On the job he is a ruthless taskmaster, upbraiding Europeans and Africans alike who fall short of his exacting standards.

"They will not work if I do not stand over and show them," he said. "The work must be done, so this is what I have to do."

Schweitzer's camp at Lambarene, the presence and attitude of the old man himself, are controversial in modern Africa.

To the new generation of Africans in their boastful capitals he is an embarrassing 19th-century figure, patronizing and domineering, as outmoded as his old colonialist's white sun helmet.

"He is doing things for us, not with us," said one of the most thoughtful nationalist leaders, now a high official in the United Nations.

His devoted co-workers, however, argue that the modern Africa of the United Nations and Capital cities is a far cry from the palm - lined banks of the Ogowe River where the Schweitzer hospital serves a vast bush population.

Schweitzer is outspoken in his belief that independence came to many parts of Africa too soon, but he confronts the new situations with humility.

When Schweitzer arrived in French Equatorial Africa in 1913, he built his hospital in an area remote from modern facilities. Now there is an impressive government hospital in Lambarene just a few miles from Schweitzer's village.

It was 50 years ago when Dr. Albert Schweitzer first set foot on African soil. In the years since then he has alleviated the suffering of many natives who have come to his hospital for medical help.

SPECIAL TREATMENT

But instead of drawing patients away from Schweitzer's old and makeshift center the modern hospital regularly sends the more difficult patients scross the river for treatment only Schweitzer can provide.

Western visitors have criticized the seemingly filthy conditions at the Schweitzer hospital, where goats and chickens roam within a few feet of the patients' straw beds.

Schweitzer's reply is that where rigid cleanliness is medically important — around the operating table and maternity section — the sanitary standards are up to any hospital in Africa.

"For the rest," he tells visitors, "it must be understood this is not a hospital like those we have in Europe. It is an African village to which people can come to receive medical treatment."

The villagers do come, in droves from miles around.

"There is no doubt they prefer to walk miles to the hospital of the "grand docteur' than any of the more modern hospitals around," said a young missionary not associated with Schweitzer. "They know they will be better cared for."

LIKENED TO PARABLE

Schweitzer's work at Lambarene has been likened to the parable of the Good Samaritan in the modern world. The old man insists the work he is now doing is more important than any traveling or lecturing. He has never been in an airplane.

At his desk after dark Schweitzer reads countless letters from friends and admirers, answering them in his own precise hand — he has never used a typewriter. On the corner of the desk he places some bread and leftover food to feed the ants swarming around as he works.

Respect for every being that lives is Schweitzer's basis philosophy. Flies, bees, even cockroaches that may appear in the dining room are neatly scooped up in a bottle and taken to the door to be let free.

Over 300 pet animals run free around the camp — goats, turkeys, monkeys, chickens, dogs and cats. Each member of the staff is charged with feeding one group of pets with leftovers. Schweitzer himself tends to his antelopes and a pelican named Parsifal.

Meals and work hours are signalled by large church bells, gifts from Germany on Schweitzer's birthdays.

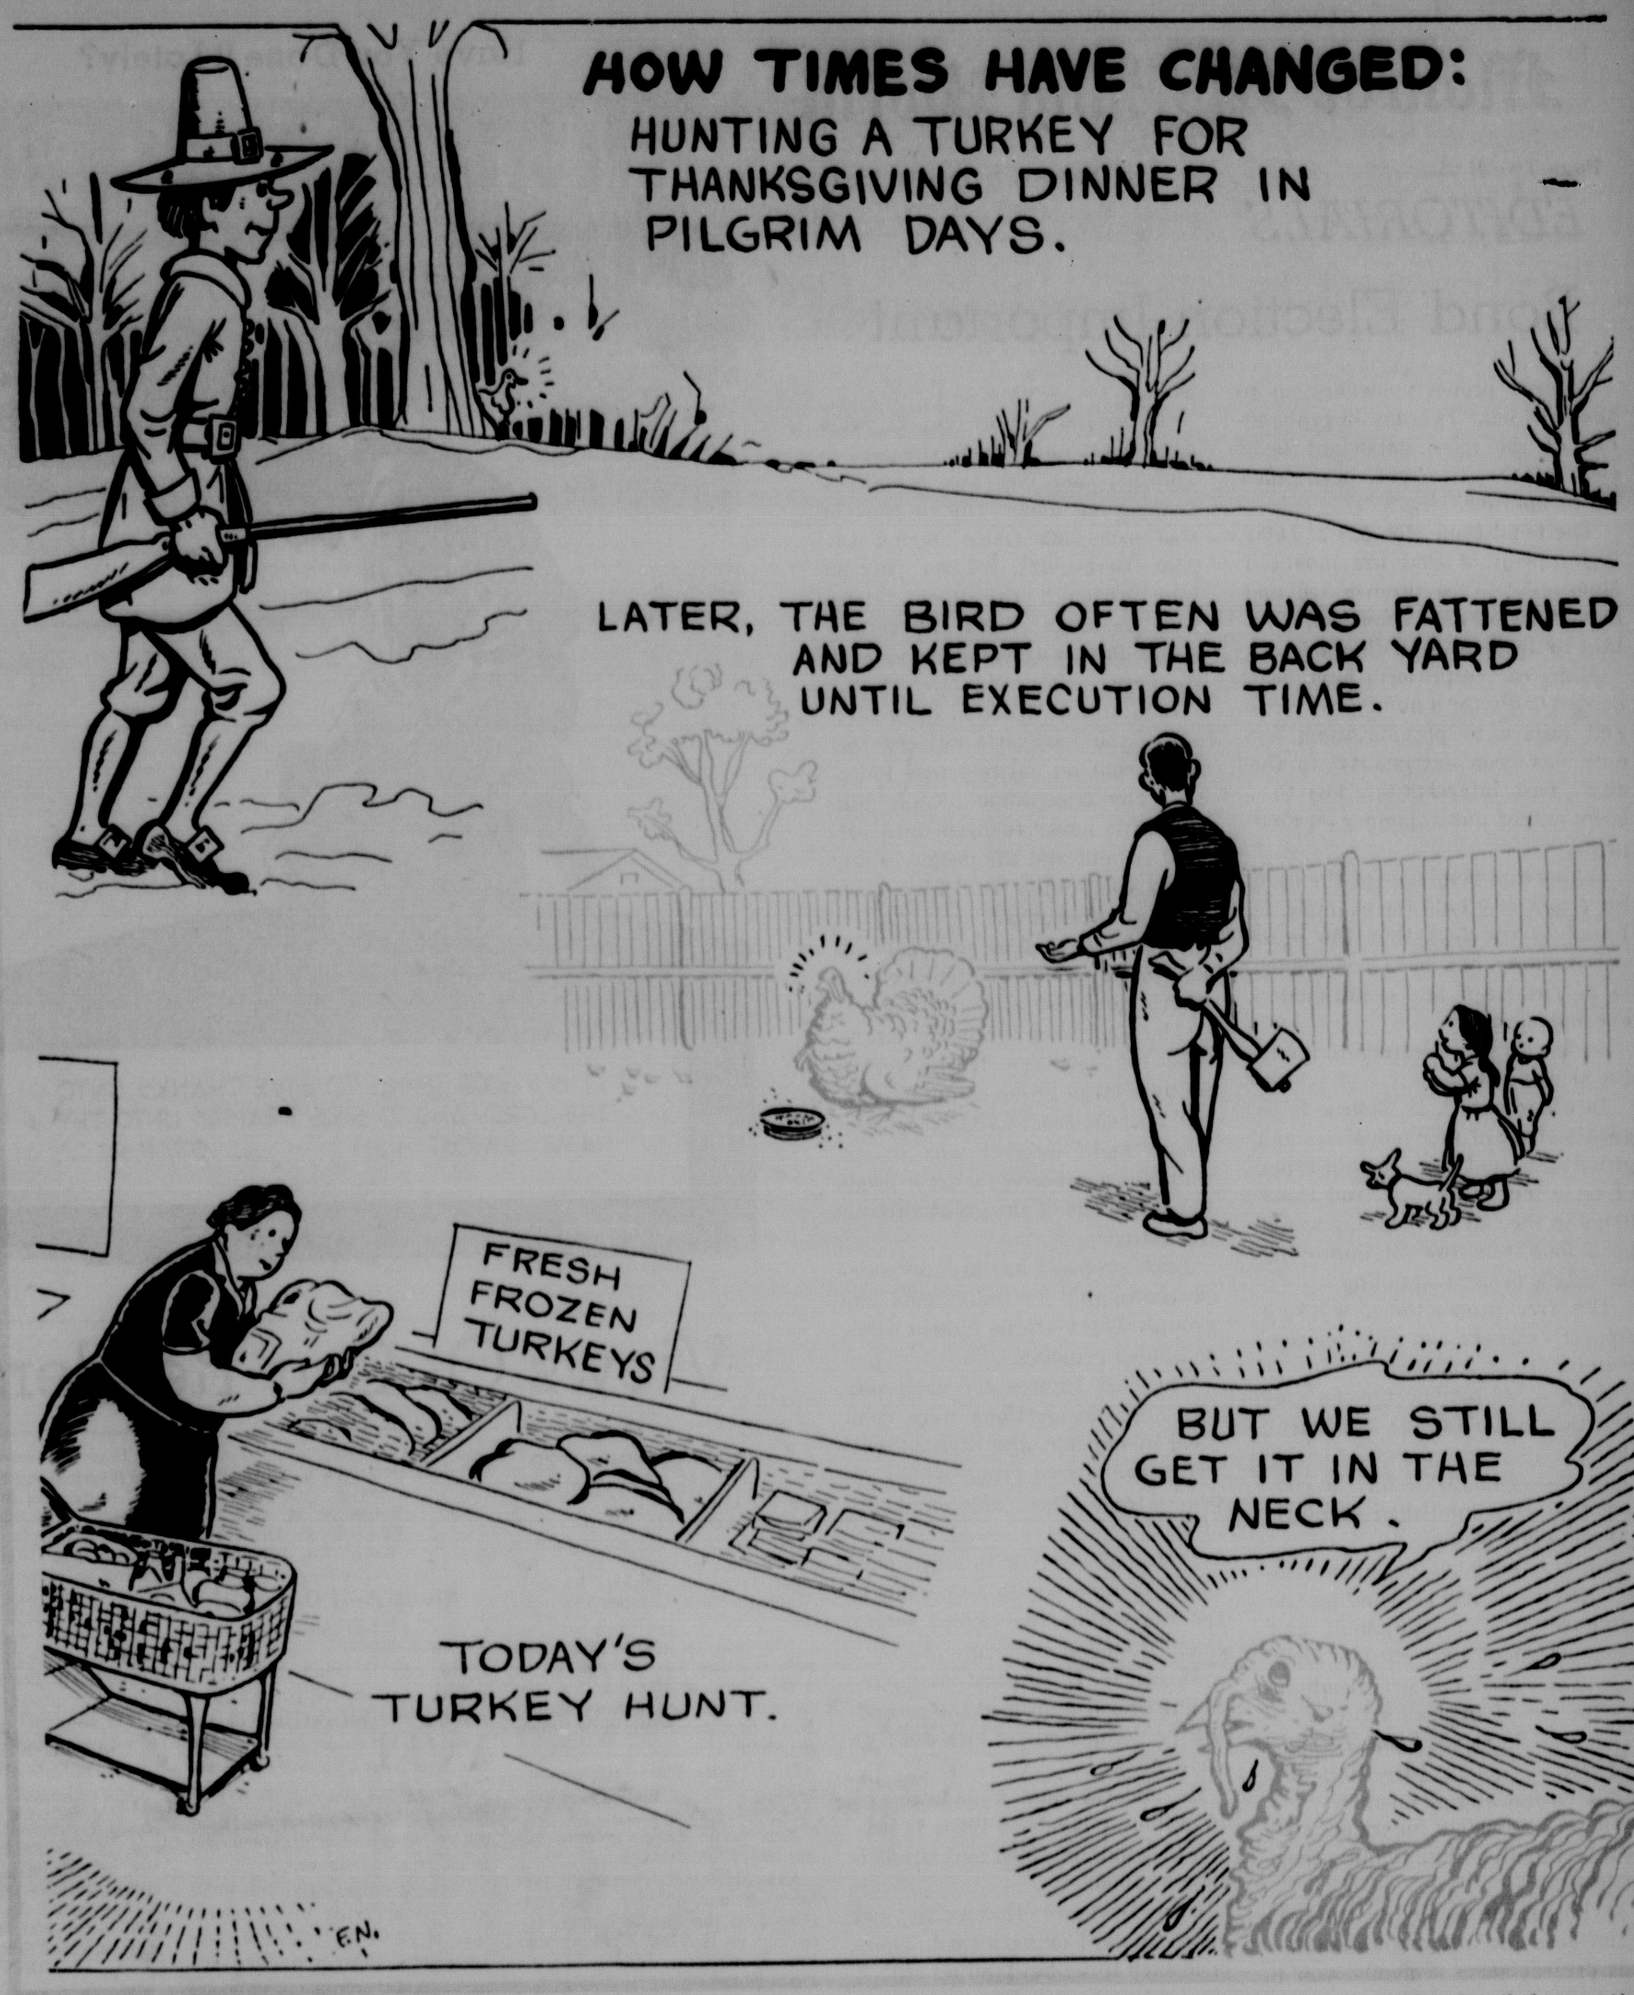

The hospital compound sprawling through the trees accommodates patients and their families. No sick person is ever turned away, no matter how crowded the hospital may be.

GRAND DOCTEUR

At Lambarene and other villages in Gabon, Schweitzer is known simply as the "grand docteur."

"They know nothing about me except that I have worked here for a long time," he said. "It is because I am a little bit old that they respect me."

Schweitzer and his European staff live in a cluster of frame row houses around a central dining room where all meals are served. Every evening the doctor-theologian leads his household in a devotional service, playing hymns on a piano almost as old as he is and discussing each night a passage of Scripture.

Though one of the world's leading organists, Schweitzer has never been able to keep an organ at Lambarene. "The dampness and heat would ruin any organ in a few weeks," explained Schweitzer's daughter, Mrs. Rhena Eckert. "We have tried everything — it's a miracle even this old piano will still play."

Over the years various proposals have been made to install running water and electricity in the camp, but Schweitzer has rejected them as unnecessary. The hospital, however, has modern generators for x-ray equipment and operating lights.

SUPPORT

Schweitzer's work is supported by national committees in Europe and America. The hospital has no organizational structure or budget.

"If we have to do something we just ask the committees if there is money available," explained Miss Ali Silver, a Dutch nurse who has worked with Schweitzer since 1947.

Miss Silver and Miss Mathilde Kottmann, a gentle Alsatian lady of 38 years' experience at Lambarene, look after the doctor's affairs and the detailed operation of the hospital.

"We never stop to count how many workers we have," Miss Silver said. "We just assign jobs to everyone until there is no one left.

"There is no question of hierarchy or status — we all work together for one man, and he has no title in the hospital. He is just Dr. Schweitzer."

Quest For Treasure Is Promising

A Spanish fleet carrying 20 million pesos in silver from Mexico to Spain was caught in a hurricane off the Florida Keys 229 years ago. The search for the lost loot started as soon as the wind died and has been going on ever since. Recently, a quartet of amateur treasure hunters found what they believe is a hull overlooked by all of their predecessors

By ROBERT D. CLARK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — For the best of all reasons, four weekend treasure hunters are fitting out to dive full-time in the Straits of Florida.

They figure they've found a long - sought Spanish treasure galleon of the 18th century. The wreck is at working depth and appears untouched since it sank more than three miles off Islamorada in the Florida Keys.

Martin Meylach, boat carpenter; Don Thomas auto glass dealer; Don Gurguilo, charter boat captain, and Art Sapp, aircraft electrician, are confident their discovery is a ship listed as Tres Puentes.

That could translate to Three Bridges, an odd name for a ship. Or it might mean the craft was a three-decker.

CAUGHT IN STORM

Spanish annals say Tres Puentes and about 20 sister ships were caught off the Keys by a hurricane on July 15, 1733, as they wallowed toward Spain on an annual treasure run from the rich colony in Mexico.

The storm dashed most of the fleet against coral reefs just south of the Keys. A few were refloated. Some that were not, have been located since and stripped by generations of divers, but Tres Puentes, farther offshore, apparently escaped searchers until now.

Is she a bonanza? The finders aren't sure. They say official accounts show that Don Rodrigo de Torres y Morales' fleet was lugging 20 million pesos worth of silver when it came to grief, but that, over several months, the Spaniards recovered 12 million pesos worth before the hulks broke up and settled beyond reach of primitive diving methods.

HARD WORK

"You can bet there'll be a lot of hard work before we can tell what the Tres Puentes is worth," Meylach said.

"It was work finding her, too, even though we had help from the old Spaniards as well as the advantage of modern equipment."

Help from the past was a quaint - looking chart. Meylach said salvage - minded Spaniards marked on it the graves of their hurricane-shattered galleons. The chart somehow came into possession of the British Museum, and the southern Florida quartet obtained a photographic copy of this to go by while peering, day after day, into the reef-strewn ocean from an airplane.

"You have to hand it to Don Rodrigo's navigators," Meylach said. "They had pretty crude instruments. I have some from other wrecks.

"Land and reef areas on the chart were out of proportion. Yet certain measurements and comparisons with Coast Guard charts of today could be made.

"The wreck we found was only about half a mile from where the chart indicated it should lie."

Disaster, not discovery, nearly befell the treasure hunters on the day they met success. An oil-line break in their amphibian plane forced an emergency set-down and time - consuming repairs. The takeoff—for home—was gloomy.

"It was then, with water-visibility and light poor, that we found it," Meylach related.

"Only we didn't know it at the time. What we saw prompted just another routine drop of a marker - buoy on a spot of only moderate promise. A farewell gesture, so to speak, because as you may imagine we had had it.

"Checking the buoy—by diving under it—the next day was just a formality. It was in this spirit of depression that we found the ancient ship."

It would be a mistake to think the find still resembled a ship after 229 years in Davy Jones' locker. Not a timber was in view. What made the divers happy were scores of round stones, softball to basketball sized, lying in a cigar - shaped mound about 65 by 12 feet in a patch of grass-grown sand.

To treasure divers in south Florida's seas, boulder heaps mean only one thing—the ballast of a ship, a real old-timer. After 1800, most ocean craft were ballasted with pig iron.

As swiftly as they could work under water, the treasure seekers dug beneath an edge of the mound. They unearthed what they expected, Meylach said — massive ribs from a ship's hull.

"We always find ballast on top," said Meylach. "The cargo, the hardware, the guns, even the structural timbers of these old wrecks seem to work their way into the sand underneath.

"From other wrecks, in several years of diving, we have brought up coins, rings, weapons, pottery, mugs and religious medallions. To recover some of them, we had to go as far as six feet into the ocean floor.

AIR LIFT

"Now we have air lifts—pipes that work something like a vacuum cleaner. With these bringing up sand and small objects, we can go through the wreck and its relics in about a month."

The discoverers, all working men, hope to find backing for a full-time assault on their wreck. Meylach said the Old Mystic Seaport Museum near Groton, Conn., underwrote a similar exploration of the Tres Puentes' sister ship, San Francisco, not long ago with good results.

But with or without backing, the four treasure hunters expect a lot of toil.

'Carnival' Production Slated Here

Elaine Malbin, glowing young soprano and a star of the NBC Opera on television, will star in the role of Lili when the smash hit musical "Carnival" is presented Monday, Dec. 10, by the Northeast State Concerts Association.

The production will be in Neville High School Auditorium, starting at 8:15 p.m.

Miss Malbin won nation-wide acclaim in the title roles of such notable NBC Opera television productions as "Madame Butterfly," "Salome," "La Traviata," and "Dialogues of the Carmelites."

She recently scored in the London BBC production of "Il Tabarro" and was asked to return one month later for a second appearance. She also appears regularly on such popular television shows as "The Voice of Firestone" and the Ed Sullivan show.

Her co-star will be David Daniels, no stranger to theatre-goers since he has appeared in such musicals as "Plain and Fancy" and "Call Me Madam."

As a straight actor, he was seen for months in the television day-time drama, "From These Roots." As Paul in "Carnival" Daniels will portray the crippled puppeteer in a European touring show who falls in love with Lili, an innocent waif who joins the show.

Enraged with jealousy over her acceptance of the attentions of Marco, the evil magician, and embittered by his physical handicap, he mistreats her. Only through his puppets does he convey his true affections. At the romantic climax of "Carnival" the puppets are instrumental in bringing the lovers together.

As the evil magician Marco, Michael Davis has a fine outlet for his dancing and acting talents. He is the lascivious manipulator who, tired of his paramour assistant, attempts to cultivate the loyalty of young Lili. At the end of "Carnival" he is back with his Rosalie and Lili is united with her true love, but not before a series of song and dance intervals which highlight the plot.

He has appeared in such musicals as "The Most Happy Fella," "Bells are Ringing," "Beg, Borrow or Steal," and "The Unsinkable Molly Brown."

Barnett Case Seen As Trial Of Mississippi

GULFPORT, Miss. (AP) — The chairman of the state Democratic executive committee said Saturday if the government brings criminal contempt charges against Gov. Ross Barnett and Lt. Gov. Paul Johnson, "Mississippi will be on trial."

Bidwell Adam, in a statement to the press, said the government will have to prove the state has broken the law "because the manhood and womanhood of Mississippi have supported the cause of segregation from the date of our admission into the American union."

Adam said, "Barnett and Johnson are actually standing in our stead."

The U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals earlier this week ordered the Justice Department to prefer criminal contempt charges against the two officials. The appeals court has already held them guilty of civil contempt.

TWO ROBBERS SLAIN

Abortive Holdup Suspect Charged

NEW YORK (AP) — Police named an aged hoodlum Saturday as the mastermind of an abortive holdup of a bank messenger, which cost the lives of his son and grandson and netted 34 cents.

They quoted him as saying he did not participate in the actual robbery attempt because, "I wasn't feeling too good yesterday."

The two robbers died in a hail of bullets Friday as police shot it out with the gunmen on a crowded Manhattan street. A third robber and a detective were wounded critically.

Police charged William (Dummy) Taylor, 73, of Copiague with conspiracy in the robbery that also produced $54,593 in checks made out to a department store chain, and were thus virtually non-negotiable.

Taylor, who came by his nickname by refusing to talk when taken in custody in the past, was arrested Friday night at his home and was held without bail.

One of the dead men was Albert Taylor, 48, of Queens, his son. The other was Kenneth Cavanaugh, 33, son of Albert's sister. The victims were uncle and nephew.

Detective Jeremiah J. Howard, 30, wounded in the fight, was reported in "critical by improving" condition at a hospital.

Detectives had tailed the men since February and only Friday had watched as the gang studied the movement of a bank messenger. Police said the elder Taylor had been around the scene of the robbery as it was being planned.

The third robber, Patrick Huston, 35, was hit with seven bullets and was in critical condition.

Police said the elder Taylor had a criminal career covering 52 years, with 29 prior arrests on charges ranging from disorderly conduct to homicide. He had won dismissal of 18 of those charges, and most of his convictions brought light sentences.

The robbers pushed the bank messenger, Herman Levine, to the floor and handcuffed him, but he managed to pull a wire setting off a smoke bomb in the bank depost bag. When the trio emerged into the street, 10 detectives were waiting.

East Carroll's School Bond Issue Vote Is Slated Tuesday

LAKE PROVIDENCE (Special) — East Carroll Parish property owners will voted Tuesday on a proposed $1.2 - million bond issue to finance what local school officials call a "badly-needed expansion program" of the East Carroll system.

The proposed expansion program calls for additions at five schools, but is topped by two 20-classroom elementary schools — one for whites and one for Negroes.

Supt. M. M. Walsworth described the proposals as "a comprehensive school improvement program."

Biggest item in the program is the proposed construction of a new elementary school for white children on a 15 - acre site, which would enable the School Board to move the present elementary school away from Lake Providence High School.

Commenting on the new school, Walsworth said, "This modern school plant is designed for 600 students located on a spacious 15 acre campus to meet the educational needs of our children in the space age.

"The total project cost will include an $11,000 package sewer treatment plant and all utilities," he added. "Removal of the elementary grades from the high school campus will provide classrooms needed for expansion and future growth."

Cost of the school is $290,000.

Also included in the program is a $275,000 elementary school for colored children located near the Griffin High School site.

Other projects in the program are as follows:

1. Eight additional classrooms at Griffin High School including the enlargement of the present lunchroom — $58,000.
2. Lunchroom at Carroll Elementary School — $40,000.
3. Lunchroom at Monticello High School — $40,000.
4. Convert the present gym at Lake Providence High School into an auditorium — $150,000.
5. New girls and boys gymnasium at Lake Providence High School — $200,000.
6. Warehouse at the School Board Office — $25,000.
7. Furniture and equipment for new building — $50,000.
8. Architects fees and purchase of sites — $72,000.

School officials said the program can be financed by an addition of 4.5 mills to be paid by parish property owners.

"Based on the present tax assessment, this program can be financed by a maximum addition of 4.5 mills," Walsworth said. "As present outstanding bonds are paid and as the assessmnt increases, the millage will be reduced accordingly."

Probe Launched In Attempt To Derail Train

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI)—The FBI, area police and special railroad officers launched a probe Saturday into an apparent attempt to derail a 96-car Southern Railway freight train Friday night.

Police said a lock had been removed from a switch north of nearby Chickasaw on Southern's main line and the switch thrown to send the train onto an old siding.

However, the alert train engineer, identified only as "Cunningham", saw the red light on the switch and braked the engine, preventing a possible serious disaster.

Bond Election Important

Monroe property owners go to the polls next Tuesday in probably one of the most important bond elections they have ever been called on to approve.

The bond issue, for $11,250,000, is for projects that are musts if Monroe is to be progressive and move forward as it should to maintain its leadership in this area.

Many of the projects have been needed badly for a number of years and failure to provide them not only has been detrimental to the city's best interests but has to a large extent put a damper on civic pride.

A constant reminder of the need for a new city hall, for example, is found in the fact that the present building has been condemned as a "fire trap" and is antiquated and inadequate.

In fact, it is a disgrace to a city the size of Monroe.

In other words, if Monroe is to get its share of new industries and growth, it must have certain types of civic improvements. And those listed in the call for Tuesday would go a long way toward improving the city's present standing.

The five propositions, which property owners can vote on separately, are as follows:

No. 1 — $2,750,000 for the construction of a sewage treatment plant.

No. 2 — $4,650,000 for the construction of a municipal auditorium and civic center.

No. 3 — $650,000 to expand the city fire department, including the purchase of new equipment and construction of new station facilities. This, in itself, will result in a reduction of insurance rates.

No. 4 — $2,800,000 for the construction of a new City Hall, including a jail and city court.

No. 5 — $400,000 for a new airport terminal building and other facilities.

As important as any on the list is the need for a new auditorium. This project alone probably would mean more in actual money for the city and its residents than any of the others.

It is interesting to note what other cities have done with this type of auditorium.

For example, here are just a few of the events that the city of Corpus Christi, Tex. has held in its auditorium, which is similar to the one proposed here, during the past year:

Book reviews, lectures, band concerts, musicals, stage shows, banquets, public meetings, conventions, disaster headquarters, graduation exercises, receptions, ice shows, basketball tournaments and games, tennis, wedding receptions, theater-in-the-round, summer melodramas, name-band concerts, beauty pageants, home shows, art fairs, antique shows, flower shows, Boy and Girl Scout expositions, religious meetings, political rallies.

M. Brown, manager of the Corpus Christi auditorium, said:

"After eight years of working with an arena-type auditorium and exhibit facility I find there is no limit to the uses the public will find.

A similar report comes from Lafayette, La. During the past 15 months, that city has hosted 67 conventions alone. The auditorium was used 329 times during the year 1961-1962; 131,384 persons went through the doors, there were 55 stage shows and even a major Broadway company appeared there.

Said Harold Weston, manager:

"To the Lafayette citizens this has meant an entirely new industry. The true value of an auditorium is never realized until after it is built and the people of any given community can then see what an asset it is."

Possibilities of using the building for a fallout shelter are also worth considering.

The bond issue is not the "brainchild" of just a few. It was worked up by a large group of public-spirited citizens from all walks of life, whose main interest was to see that Monroe receives what it needs to become one of the great cities of the state.

Each proposal has been explained thoroughly to individuals and groups. There are no hidden costs, no hidden projects.

The cost figures for each project and the locations were compiled by experts, and then submitted to the citizen group which approved them after many long hours of study.

It was after all of this was done that the Monroe City Council, at the request of the citizen group, called the bond election.

Mayor W. L. Howard has pointed out that if approved the project will be completed by late 1967 or early 1968.

He said the council plans to sell $6 million in bonds in 1963, $3 million in bonds in 1965, and the baiance in 1966.

Everyone knows that a city must move forward or backward. There is no such thing as standing still. A city either keeps step with progress and advances or it decays and falls by the wayside as more progressive cities attract industries and people.

Of course, there are always objectionable features to any bond issue; there always will be. Each of us can see things we would like to have a little different.

But in considering a major improvement program, the overall picture must be viewed. This has been done in this case and the best possible program has been placed before the citizens of Monroe.

The proposed additional two-mill tax, which is the total increase in present taxes for the projects, is not large. It will be a small price to pay for giving the city a handsome face, for providing civic advantages and for encouraging the economic growth of our city so our boys and girls can stay in their own progressive city instead of having to move to another.

We sincerely believe that if you vote yes next Tuesday on all five proposals you will be doing a great service for our city and our community.

Fitting Man To Space

In the opinion of Dr. Tobey Freedman, a physician specializing in space medicine problems for North American Aviation, Inc., man can be changed, in an amazingly short time, so that he will be able to live in comfort on planets of extremely high or low temperatures and with little oxygen.

Continuing, Dr. Freedman said, "People will change their failing hearts and livers the way we change tires after 30,000 miles.

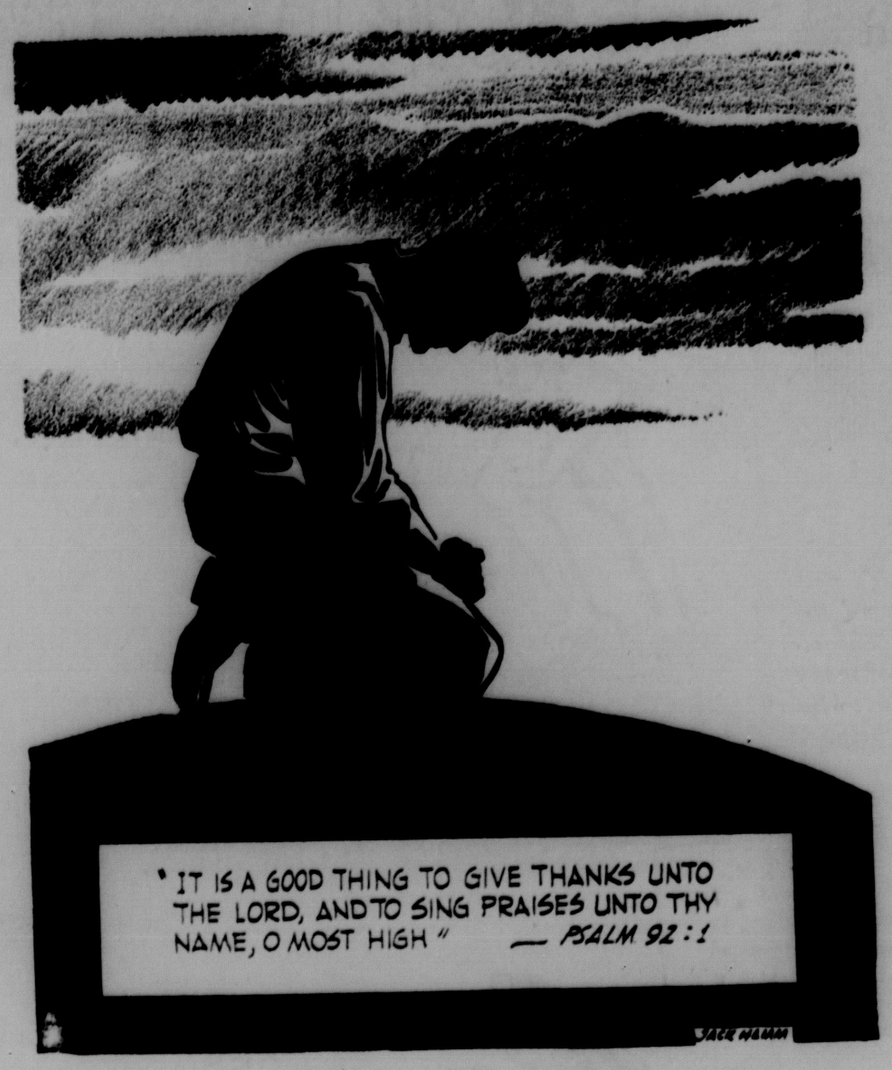

He pictured a new race of supermen — radiation-proof, incredibly strong and smarter than computers. He cited certain races which he said have developed literally superhuman abilities by hit or miss methods.

Dr. Freedman stated:

"Tibetan lamas can maintain normal skin temperatures in sub-zero cold. Yogis buried alive live on a fraction of normal oxygen consumption. Eskimos thrive on a high-fat diet that would give us all coronaries. Peruvian Indians do heavy labor at altitudes where you and I couldn't breathe.

"These remarkable adaptations have been accomplished without the benefit of science. Now science, for the first time, has taken the trouble to look into these phenomena. Trances and suspended animation, long in the same boat as the Indian rope trick, are now legitimate objects of research under the names of hypnosis and hypothermic hibernation."

Appeal To Veterans

MONROE, La.

To the Editor:

I am appealing to all veterans to wake up and come forward and be counted. The time is coming when you veterans who have not joined some veterans organization will wonder just what has happened.

The veterans organizations of Ouachita Parish need all service men to join now, as the time is coming when there will be need for a strong membership to represent us in Washington. It is necessary that we have a large membership if we expect to pass any new bills in congress for the welfare of the veterans, or hold the ones we have now.

The Veterans of World War II and Korean War have received many benefits after being discharged, such as on the job training schooling, a chance to get a home without any down payment and many other things that the veterans of World War I did not get. These were obtained only through the long fight of the veterans of W.W. I.

What is the matter with the younger veterans? The small amount that it costs to join a veteran organization is mighty cheap Insurance. At one time L. B. Faulk Post had 835 W. W. I members but now we can hardly get 500 members any year, although there are many times more veterans in this parish. We should have three or four thousand members instead of four or five hundred.

I often hear some of the younger veterans say, "Oh, yes I will get my army pension when I become 65 years old. They don't act like they want to when they don't care enough to spend $5.50 a year to help the veterans that are in need now."

In numbers there is strength but you cannot expect some one to help you if you do not help yourself. And to help yourself you will have to join some veterans organization and continue to maintain your membership, as you cannot expect them to help you with your claims when you are not a member.

The last bill that was passed in congress affecting the veterans of World War I had a sliding scale. If you have an income less than $1,000 per year you get $90. per month. Over $1,000 you get $75 and on down according to your income, but they declared railroad retirement income, which was not fair, as the Railroad workers are paying much more per cent on the dollar earned than Social Security workers have to pay per dollar income but they did not declare it income. Just why did they take a bite at the Railroad workers. This will show you just why we need plenty of representatives in Washington. All I can say is, join some veterans organization at once.

River And Disposal

WEST MONROE, La.

To the Editor:

Our city is going to be compelled to attack the problem concerning the present use of the river for sewerage disposal. And we should not be reluctant in beginning negotiations with adjoining and other outlying areas in the parish where overall population is as great as our own.

Working cooperately with these areas is obviously to the advantage of all in the matter of costs per capita. And, too, it would give us a decided advantage in applying for grant - in -aid from our government.

It is our considered opinion that in going it alone without first consulting the other areas affected, such as Olin and Sterlington, would not be consistent with good will and overall costs.

J. H. WATKINS

On Nixon

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I have read your articles on this "Nixon Obituary" and I agree with your findings. I am not surprised at the program, due to having had some misunderstandings with the same commentator when he was with another network. I am surprised, though, that it was cleared for release by this network, one for which I have had a lot of respect in the past.

I guess networks, as well as people, have a way of changing, and not all for the better.

As for the ex - convict and his comments, it would take someone like this commentator to bring out his reactions to a man who, no matter what his shortcomings might be, was instrumental in bringing him to justice. I suppose he had his reason, if he has any such thing.

I have never been a strong Nixon follower, but regardless of my own opinion, I do think he has been a very honest, capable and courageous man, who had to vindicate himself 10 years ago from charges brought by his political enemies, standing alone on it, Ike remarked that Nixon would "have to be as clean as a hound's tooth" to be his running mate in the '52 elections. Well, at least, Nixon took it in South America, (tomatoes and all), much better than Ike took the tongue lashing from Khrushchev, neither did he promise to be good in the future. All in all, he did a good job.

It seems strange that, with so many in the Congress, that he, Nixon, was pretty well alone in his efforts to get at the truth on Alger Hiss and some of his associates, a thing which I have often noticed when a member starts fighting communism in this country. The late Senator McCarthy was given "the works" by the Senate, a dirty deal if ever there was one, could not get any help from the White House, nor a reason why Captain Peress was made a major before being released from the service. Senator McClellan is in the spot McCarthy held, and is finding it no bed of roses.

How a man such as Alger Hiss came to be high in the State Department before being brought to justice is another mysterious happening in Washington — none of which reflect much to the credit of those in power there. As for the broadcasting companies, I saw one white man interviewed out of several weeks blatting during the Albany, Georgia, case of several weeks ago. Numerous pictures, and a lot of time were taken up in interviews with King, Anderson and several Negroes in that thing, but just once did I see a white man questioned on the matters. I watch the newscasts regularly, too.

I really can't see where Nixon's talk to the press, where he was caustic in his remarks, are to be held against him. He was, and is a hard worker, a man with strong convictions, a lot of courage, and, whether I agree with him or not, he is no tool of any group; possibly never perfect, but always trying. As for that perfect man — we had one once — and they crucified him too.

Are We Prepared

To the Editor:

Are we prepared? That is the question. To put it bluntly, we, the people of the United States, are not prepared for war. We sit back and laugh at the people that get fallout shelters but those people are the wise citizens. Half the people do not know anything about nuclear war, which is a matter of very grave importance. A large number of American children do not know the first thing about war, therefore if we had a war they would not know where to go or what to do. I say a war is coming! It may be tomorrow or it may be five years from now, but it is coming.

Why do they print pamphlets on what to do and where to go in case of fallout? If you have ever asked yourself that question you probably got a plain, simple answer. You know as well as I know that if our government didn't think we were in danger of war they would never print these books. I urge each and everyone of the citizens of the United States to go to their local Civil Defense office and get pamphlets on how to protect yourself in case of radioactive fallout. I also urge the citizens of the United States to prepare their children in case of a nuclear attack. Don't be afraid you'll scare your child. I know you'd much rather know that they know what was happening and where to go and what to do in case of war. Remember, you may be at work when it happens.

By writing this article I hope I have waked up a few citizens of the United States.

New U.S. Airport

Built By Federal Aviation Agency At Cost Of $106 Million

President Kennedy has dedicated the huge $106 million Dulles International Airport at nearby Chantilly, Virginia.

Unlike any other airport in operation today, the all federally - built colossus located near the site of the Civil War battleground is the world's first airport designed primarily for jet age aircraft.

Built by the Federal Aviation Agency 27 miles west of Washington, D. C., the airport has been described by FAA Administrator N. E. Halaby as "an international gateway to this country of which every citizen can be proud."

Boldly conceived and strikingly executed, the airport was designed to satisfy both passenger needs and the challenge of complex airport operations posed by high - speed jets.

The need for a new airport in the Washington area was recognized some two decades ago—before commercial jet transports came into use. Even then, the project was not without controversy and it was to be a decade before Congress actually authorized its construction.

Approximately eight years after it was authorized, a site selection committee designated Chantilly in 1958, as the place for the super jet airport. The selection came after 45 previous sites had been discarded for one or a number of reasons.

No sooner had the site been selected than it came under fire from members of the Maryland Congressional delegation who contended Friendship Airport near Baltimore could better serve the Washington - Baltimore area.

Friendship had been suffering from lack of passenger traffic since it was established but came into its own with the advent of jet aircraft. Washington's National Airport was not considered adequate by government standards to accommodate jets.

A second jet airport in the Washington - Baltimore area constituted a threat to the financial success of Friendship and members of the Maryland delegation made no secret about their feelings for Dulles.

They contended Dulles was owned and operated by the FAA and charged pressure was being brought to bear to "force" airlines to schedule the majority of their flights into Dulles. These flights would by necessity be diverted from Friendship.

Since Friendship was paid for and is operated by Baltimore's taxpayers, its proponents contend Dulles, in effect, puts the federal government in competition with private enterprise.

FAA Administrator Halaby denies any pressure has been used to get Dulles more favorable treatment from the airlines. He contends that in time public demand for air transportation will be such that both Dulles and Friendship will be operating at capacity.

Other experts in the field disagree with Halaby's optimistic prediction. They see either Friendship or Dulles as capturing the jet trade with the loser becoming a ghost town.

The airlines themselves will be the key to which of the two airports survives, at least for the next few years. Will they switch the bulk of their flights to Dulles or try to juggle their schedules between the two or stay at Friendship?

It'll be the traveling public which will make the airlines' mind up for them. The airlines naturally go where the passenger dollar is and abandon unprofitable routes unless ordered to do otherwise by the government.

How the public will take to Dulles remains to be seen. Both airports are about equally available from downtown Washington with Dulles several minutes closer.

Dulles is by far the most modern airport in the world, featuring mobile lounges to whisk passengers from the terminal directly to the aircraft and the last word in terminal and baggage handling facilities.

The new airport is at a disadvantage, however, because unlike Friendship, which is 13 miles from Baltimore, Dulles has nothing on the other side of it to generate passenger volume.

All of Dulles' passenger traffic will come from the Washington area while Friendship can count on Baltimore and the metropoli-

Missile Threat

Ominous Danger Behind Kennedy On-Site Inspection Plans

An ominous new missile threat is behind President Kennedy's decision to continue pressing for "on - the - site" inspection of Soviet missile bases in Cuba.

The latest U-2 Intelligence-photo flights over Cuba uncovered four newly - installed medium - range "cruise" type missiles on their launchers near sites where Soviet military technicians dismantled their intermediate range ballistic missiles.

These winged missiles, capable of carrying a 4,000 - pound nuclear warhead, have a range of from 200 to 750 miles. Many of their features are similar to the Air Force's air - breathing Snark, except its longer (5,000 - mile) range.

The SS-N-3, as this missile is identified, has a speed estimated at around 500 miles per hour. It appears to be about two and one-half times longer than the SS-N-1s that now ring the Cuban coastline. There are 18 of these shorter-range missiles.

In the hands of the erratic Castro, the Joint Chiefs of Staff consider these new SS-N-3 missiles as dangerous as the IL-28s, the twin - engine jet bombers President Kennedy is demanding that Premier Khrushchev withdraw from Cuba.

The aerial photos show the Soviet bombers, similar to the Air Force's B-47s, now on three airfields. A total of 36 IL-28s have been photographed. Fourteen have been uncrated and are believed ready to be flown; four have been seen in the air.

This alarming intelligence is causing President Kennedy to seriously consider a J.C.S. recommendation to tighten up the "limited" naval - air blockade of Cuba.

Under the J.C.S. proposal, all military supplies to the island, including jet fuel and oil, would be banned. Ships carrying these supplies would be intercepted and turned back. At present, the Navy has been ordered to stop only ships carrying "offensive" weapons and their component parts.

Try Exotic Party Fare

Like a hero sandwich, the Anchoiade, an exotic Mediterranean specialty is made from a loaf of Italian bread, split in half lengthwise. To make this sandwich chop 24 figs, 20 anchovy fillets, 24 walnuts, 2 cloves garlic, and ¼ cup parsley, very fine.

Brush both sides of the bread with anchovy oil and add enough oil to the filling to make a paste. Spread the filling between the bread halves, press together firmly and bake for 15 minutes in preheated oven at 375 degrees. When the bread is hot and crisp, slice into 1-inch slices and serve very hot.

SEW SIMPLE

By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice:

"How can I insert corded binding between waist and skirt of a dress without the stitching being too far from the cording?"

Mrs. L.D.W.

Dear Mrs. L. D. W.:

When you cover the cording with the bias strip of fabric, use your zipper foot so you can stitch very close to the cord.

The first step in applying this covered cording to your dress is to pin it to the bodice so that the machine stitching will be exactly over the seamline. Machine stitch this to the bodice, again using the zipper foot. This stitching will be directly over the first stitching.

Last, pin the skirt over the bodice and machine stitch the two sections together, using the stitching that appears on the wrong side of the bodice as a guide. Once again, use the zipper foot, and if you have been accurate with each step, you will have professional results.

GOOD GIRL GIFT

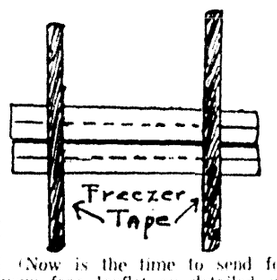

Mrs. B. R. says: "I put my scraps of fabric, bits of lace, bias tapes, left over trimmings, buttons, etc. in a gift box. I then add a spool of thread, a few pins and needles and a small doll and PRESTO, you have a Christmas gift that will make any little girl very happy (with very little cost to you)."

USE TAPE

Mrs. Barbara Averill, Fairfield, Ia., wins this week's Tailor Trix pressing board for this suggestion:

"The use of colored freezer tape is a simple way to hold the welts for your bound buttonholes in place as you are stitching. It also will provide an accurate mark for the stitching to begin and end.

"Use a narrow strip of colored freezer tape and lay it over the two welts for the buttonholes exactly even with your guide basting. Do the same for the other end of the buttonhole where the stitching will end." (This is especially helpful for the beginner and is the easiest way ever suggested to me as an aid.)

(Now is the time to send for your free leaflet on detailed instructions for "Bound Buttonholes." Send your request with a large, self - addressed, stamped envelope to Sew Simple in care of this newspaper.)

SNOW MITTS NEEDED

Mrs. D. L. of Vancouver, British Columbia, asks if anyone has a pattern for large snow mitts for children. The mitts are made of a soft plastic fabric with a jersey type backing and are so roomy they can be worn over other wool gloves. They are especially nice for keeping gloves and jacket sleeves from getting wet during the snow season.

If you know of such a pattern, please send it to Sew Simple.

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"My daughter is taking sewing in high school and needed a slide fastener for her dress. The only one available was made of plastic and I am wondering if there is any special information available on this new type of fastener?"

Mrs. F. V.

Dear Mrs. F. V.:

Yours is just one of many letters I have received concerning these new type fasteners. I have checked into them rather thoroughly and will relate the information I have gathered. As with any new product, we must be educated to the "do's and don'ts." The new fasteners you are referring to are NYLON, not plastic. If you will give them the care you would give any fine nylon product, they will respond by giving you many extra benefits.

The fastener is made of nylon coils which mesh together, leaving no sharp edges to catch threads or frayed fabrics. They are noticeably smaller, lighter weight, color fast and more flexible, yet the strength remains the same.

The only thing that can permanently weaken these nylon fasteners is EXCESSIVE HEAT. Close the fastener before ironing (this was always recommended for metal ones). If it must remain open while you press, use a press cloth over the fastener area. If it has been weakened by excessive heat, it will have a tendency to separate.

May I also suggest that if you are making any garment that will be fitted very tight at the waistline, such as a bathing suit, or a formal-type dress with a very fitted bodice, you use grosgrain belting at the waistline. It should be just slightly tighter than the dress and hook separately. In this way, the unusual strain will not be on the fastener itself.

(If any of you can add any additional information or tell of experiences concerning these fasteners, please write to me as soon as possible.) Send your letters to Sew Simple, in care of Monroe Morning World.

Hat Is World's Oldest Status Symbol

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

In these status - conscious days, paradoxically, a lady chooses a hat without regard to her social position.

Yet the head covering, from the queen's crown to the peasant's kerchief, is the most consistent prestige symbol in history.

Nor is any other article of apparel steeped in so much tradition, or even superstition.

It is doubtful that many women know that the pillbox, for example, was worn long ago by the Persian women in hopes that it would ease childbirth.

Nor is it likely that many devotees of the red hat realize that Roman Vestal Virgins wore red on their heads to ward off evil spirits.

Despite Queen Nefertiti's famous blue hat, which was actually a crown, the upper class Grecian ladies get historical credit for starting the hat fashion. They enjoyed wearing embroidered berets and pillboxes, too, but did not cotton to the Persian superstition.

Byzantine Empress Theodora added the jeweled cloche cap to history. And by the Middle Ages tailed hoods were getting admiring glances. By the middle 1400's Queen Isabelle of France introduced a tall conical hat called the hennin which shared the stage with high rolled turbans for almost two hundred years.

Indeed, these grew to such heights that castle doorways and ceilings were ripped out and rebuilt so that women could pass through without knocking off their hats.

The expression, pin money, goes all the way back to this period for very costly pins were needed to fasten veil adornments to these hats. Women of all classes saved their money to buy the pins.

The word millinery grew out of the Renaissance when Milan, Italy, developed a reputation for such fine straw and superior hat craft that a person owning a hat from this city was ever so chic.

By the 17th century the ostrich was in danger of extinction. Women shocked their men-folk by stealing the style of their broad brimmed cavalier hat with rolled or cocked brim and ornamented them with all the weeping ostrich plumes they could afford.

Then, just as today's bouffant hairdo increased the popularity of the little hat, wide - wired-out coiffeurs of the late 1600s brought about the small cap and lace coif.

In Gainsborough's time the brimmed hat made a comeback in tremendous proportions, laden with plumes and ribbons and sometimes concealing little water glasses for fresh flowers.

But being feminine, and therefore fickle, the ladies also imitated the shepherdesses wearing simple straw hats tied with velvet ribbon.

On the other hand lace or gauze was wadded into wide puffed crowns, and hat brims and powdered wigs grew to such heights that just before the French Revolution pages walked behind them with long notched poles to hold up the headpiece construction.

Young Queen Victoria wore brimmed leghorns trimmed with lace flounces. And in America the Gibson girls fancied another type of broad brimmed hat called a skimmer.

All women wore lace caps indoors. There were night caps, rising caps, morning caps, and even lacy theater caps worn under large hats. Out of doors the lady wore her bonnet and carried her cap in a man's collar box in order to change at the next indoor destination.

As fashion does, millinery took the other extreme during the 1920s paring the head shape to cranium - hugging cloches and adding the barest of brims.

Today the legalities and superstitions are missing, but the hat shapes of centuries ago are still there. They are disguised a bit by modern fabrics, redesigned a bit to compliment contemporary fashion. But the romance of eras ago is stitched into every topper.

Wave Of Uneasiness Seems To Be Plaguing The World

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A wave of uneasiness seems to be plaguing the entire world Communist movement in the wake of the Cuban showdown.

The arguing, bickering, explaining and excuse-making now going on hint that confusion is building up toward a crisis for world communism.

One cause appears to be the anxiety of the Khrushchev leadership to keep Communist cold war maneuvers from getting beyond the point of no return and touching off a hot war.

Another source of burgeoning crisis seems to stem from a dilemma which will be brought strongly into focus when the Soviet party Central Committee meets Monday. Its agenda stresses the need for radical industrial and agricultural reforms. This suggests that to make the Soviet system function, Khrushchev must undermine some basic revolutionary theories.

IMPELLED

All this has impelled Red stalwarts in the West to search for excuses for a Soviet policy which, to many of the rank and file, must appear to be outrageous surrender of opportunities to advance the cause.

Thus, a veteran of Moscow's policy flipflops, Italian leader Palmiro Togliatti, told his own party that "uncertainties and ambiguities have become apparent" in the movement. These ambiguities must include:

The ideological wrangle with the Chinese and Albanian Communists. It is growing in violence. The Soviet party denounces Albania, and the Chinese by implication, as modern-day Trotskyites, which in itself is confusing. Trotsky was the enemy of Stalin, and the Chinese today, in defiance of Khrushchev, cling doggedly to Stalin as a hero and to his dogma.

The Chinese armed attack on India. This has alienated many in Asia and Africa who might have been easy prey to Red blandishments. It has set back what Red jargon calls "the national liberation movement," meaning revolutionary movements subject to infiltration and capture by the Communists.

Red China's insistence that Khrushchev is "denying the revolutionary character of Marxism-Leninism," and thus harming the world movement. It blasts "concessions" to the West, and the Kremlin admits it made concessions in the Cuban crisis. The Red Chinese and Albanians insist there is only one way to deal with capitalism: "by imposing victory on it, grabbing the power."

Inside the U.S.S.R., Khrushchev's attitude toward doctrine must be painfully obvious to the Communist world.

The newspaper Sovietskaya Rossiya reported Russian workers left a Siberian project, but the story had a doubtful aroma. The workers' action may have been taken with official approval as part of a campaign to dramatize what's wrong with the economy, to demonstrate what Khrushchev's supporters insist is a need for "material incentive," in a word, that's the profit motive.

Sovietskaya Rossiya quoted the boss of the Siberian workers as saying: "If you cannot interest a person from a material point of view you are not going to keep him on the job."

RANK HERESY

This is, at one and the same time, rank heresy and utter nonsense. It is heretical in Communist terms because it supports creeping capitalism. It is nonsense, because the Communists know well how to keep workers on the job, no matter what the aggravation. It was not a question of strikes, but of the inability to get the most out of workers on the job for lack of sufficient incentive.

Communism Now Loud In Turkey

By HAL MCCLURE

ANKARA, Turkey (AP)— Communism's clamoring voice is growing louder and stronger in Turkey.

Recent student riots and demonstrations have been blamed, in part, on Communist agitation.

Communist radio broadcasts, increasing in number and stridency, are pounding away at American and North Atlantic Treaty Organization bases in Turkey and demanding their removal.

The Soviet Embassy here has been accused of spending millions of lira to subvert Turks.

Government leaders, while confident Turkey will never move into the Communist camp, are worried. Prime Minister Ismet Inonu, at the height of the Cuban crisis, warned his people of the dangers of "outside" agitation—and sabotage — to "confuse and weaken Turkey's position."

Besides belonging to NATO, Turkey has a defense and economic pact with the United States. America has three big air bases here and there are an estimated 15 missile sites equipped with intermediate-range Jupiters.

"Why should U.S. rocket-nuclear weapons remain close to the borders of the U.S.S.R., including those in Turkey? Radio Moscow asked this week.

"The Soviet Union has never attacked Turkey and has in no way attempted to do so, while the U.S., in contrast to the U.S.S.R., embarked on an armed attack on Cuba last year," it added.

Apparently, Moscow still hopes to find support for dismantling American bases here. Premier Khrushchev, the day before he offered to stop work on his missile bases in Cuba, suggested removal of the weapons there be swapped for dismantling U.S. rockets here.

Besides Radio Moscow, Turkish-language broadcasts emanate from Baku on the Caspian Sea, Budapest and East Germany.

The noisiest of the Communist voices is that of a clandestine station called Bizim Radyo—our radio—which claims to represent the outlawed Turkish Communist party. That station is believed to be in East Germany.

Suicide-Proof Sleeping Pills May Be Made

By FRANK E. CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirteen years ago Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., suggested a way of preventing death from an overdose of sleeping pills. Kefauver's way that may prove right.

Dr. Theodore Koppanyi says Kefauver's lead prompted research—at the Georgetown School of Medicine—into making barbiturate sleeping pills suicide-proof and accident - proof. Koppanyi heads the school's department of pharmacology.

Koppanyi said the method involves incorporating into sleeping pills another drug called Metrazole which acts as a stimulant—thereby providing an antidote to a barbiturate overdose.

And, he told a reporter, research is still under way—with promising preliminary results—to improve on the method and eliminate one possible physiological drawback to it.

Kefauver, in 1949, gave national publicity to an idea—credited originally to German scientists—to incorporate into every barbiturate tablet a small quantity of ipecac, a drug commonly used in medicine to promote vomiting.

In This Week, Kefauver wrote: "Take a little impecac and it doesn't act at all—you don't even feel it. Increase the dose beyond a certain point, however, and it will make you vomit. You bring it up, together with anything else you've swallowed.

"Used in sleeping pills, therefore, it acts as a perfect safety valve. You can't overdose yourself because the overdose brings its own correction."

Venezuela Doesn't Fear Communists

By WATSON S. SIMS

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — During the tension created by the arms blockade of Cuba a form letter appeared in mail boxes of many of the 17,000 U.S. residents of Caracas.

"For each Cuba-bound ship sabotaged by you we will answer with drastic action that will make you reconsider your decision," said the letter. "In the case of a direct invasion of Cuba we will invoke a decree of war to the death until not one single American remains alive in our territory."

The letter, signed "National Guerrilla Command of Armed Forces of National Liberation," caused little stir in a country that has attracted United States investments and residents for decades.

The strongly pro-U.S. government of President Romulo Betancourt dismissed it as a sign of frustration in pro-Castro elements among Venezuela's 40,000 Communists, many of whom advocate the overthrow of the government.

NEVER HUNT

"Letters never hurt anyone," said a U.S. citizen who has lived in Caracas eight years. "You get used to things like this."

But precautions have been taken by dozens of U.S. firms operating in this city of skyscrapers and packed highways.

A typical front office boasts a shotgun guard as well as a pretty receptionist. Calling cards will not get visitors past the guard. Escort or other formal identification is required. The guards began appearing after a series of incidents involving United States establishments: A bomb went off in a bathroom of the U.S. Embassy; another bomb injured five persons at a hotel operated by a U.S. company; and five gunmen shot up offices of the English language newspaper. The most damaging blow came Oct. 27 when four substations of a U.S. petroleum company were dynamited.

Betancourt angrily declared the substations were blown up on direct orders from Havana. He has asked the Organization of American States to act.

There is little sign of flight by U.S. business interests which have some $4 billion invested in Venezuela, more than in any other country except Canada.

The U.S. businesses could not easily withdraw, even if they wished. Their interests have become closely allied with Venezuela's during the many years in which American capital has flowed into this country. U.S. oil companies alone have $3 billion invested here. Operating on a basis of 70 per cent of proceeds to the Venezuelan government, U.S. developers have made this one of the largest oil exporting countries.

They provide the Betancourt government more than $1 billion yearly, about 60 per cent of its total income.

WANTS MORE

Betancourt's government wants more, rather than less, foreign investment, and some U.S. capital is still coming in. A Ford assembly plant is among a half dozen enterprises under construction.

Measures have been taken to protect investors. After the hotel bombing the government suspended constitutional guarantees and began a roundup of terrorists. When the oil stations were dynamited army reservists were called up and marines were sent to patrol petroleum fields.

The president has asked the Supreme Court to outlaw the Communist party. Arrests seem likely even for Communist members of Congress. Many terroists are in prison.

Caught in the middle, the American community has generally maintained its composure, but few U.S. citizens lack some story. One was at a lawn dinner party when a homemade bomb rolled from a nearby cliff. The bomb came apart and failed to explode. Another resident had just left a bathroom when a bomb exploded in a water closet. Bombs or noisemakers are heard almost nightly in districts where Americans live.

A few Americans wear pistols, but most display philosophic calm.

"The president is determined to control the situation and things are getting better every day," said one. "People on the streets are friendly to Americans and you always have the feeling the police are on your side."

Others acknowledge a growing sense of insecurity.

"I get letters from the states saying I should bring the children home," said one housewife. "When I am left alone I get to thinking my parents may be right."

Queen Will Observe 15th Anniversary

LONDON (AP) — The 15th wedding anniversary of Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip, next Tuesday, will find them separated by thousands of miles.

The queen will be in London. Her husband will be in Australia for the British Empire Games.

Palace informants say they will unquestionably communicate with one another—a courtly way of saying they will exchange greetings by telephone or telegram.

Fifteen years after their wedding, the queen and her consort are considerably changed.

She is slimmer, trimmer and less retiring. She dresses better than she did as Princess Elizabeth.

Also, she's more relaxed. She seems to have acquired some of her husband's quick wit and ability to make people around her feel at ease in the presence of royalty.

The queen is 36, Philip 41. He has held his weight but his hair is thinning.

His influence on his wife and the palace has been enormous.

The court is less stuffy, more in touch with the times.

Informal palace luncheons—all sorts of people are invited—have become a regular institution.

An ardent polo player, but still no lover of horse racing, Prince Philip appears to miss as many of the traditional horsey events as he can.

The queen, on the other hand, is a horse owner, horse breeder, horse rider and horse racer.

The queen and Philip have three children—Charles, 14; Anne, 12; and Andrew, who'll be 3 Feb. 19.

Close friends say the royal couple would like at least another child.

UNRECOGNIZED CODE

GREENVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A federal judge sent two men to jail for adhering to "the code of the hills." The two, both identified as east Tennessee moonshiners, refused to tell where moonshiners or moonshine stills might be found — on grounds "the code of the hills" forbade them to do so.

U.S. Dist. Judge Charles Neese said his court didn't recognize that code, and sent the pair to jail for contempt.

Gambia Could Be A Political Test

By ROBERT N. LINDSAY

BATHURST, Gambia (AP) — This West African colony, Britian's oldest and poorest on the continent, has the makings of a test in power politics.

Neighboring Senegal would love to have Gambia join it. Some Gambia politicians say Ghana, far down the coast, is angling to have Gambia link up in a union involving Ghana, Guinea and Mali.

The bulk of Gambia's predominantly Moslem peasant farmers, struggling to make a living from growing peanuts, are not greatly interested in such things. They are more concerned with feeding their families and giving their children the education many of them lack.

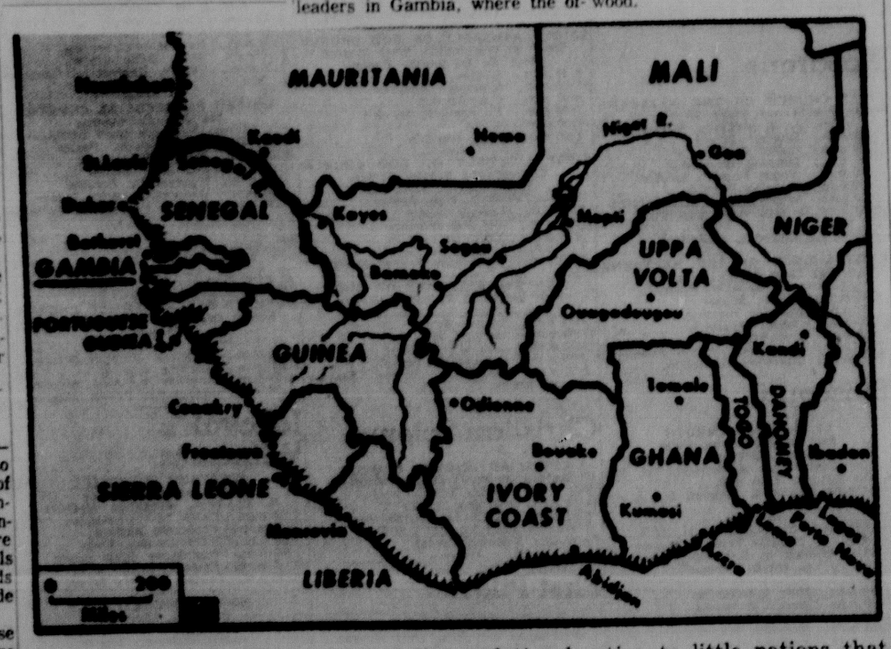

Gambia, with 4,000 square miles, is smaller than Connecticut and has a population of only 300,000. The colony pokes into Senegal like a long finger, and geography suggests that union with Senegal would be logical. But Senegal is French - speaking, and its administrative system and currency are different. Senegal, though independent, keeps very close to Metropolitan France if for no other reason than to insure continued economic assistance. Political leaders in Gambia, where the official language is English, are close to Britain, relying on it to prop up the country's shaky economy.

Gambian leaders do not seem in a hurry for full independence. They suggest two to three years of their present internal self-government before facing up to the hazards of independence. British officials hope Gambia will not delay too long. They want to avoid possible international criticism that they are holding onto their last west African colony.

Meantime there seems a reluctance on Britian's part to provide financing for development projects, including two the Gambians believe essential — a modern airport and port improvements. Gambians assert Britain hesitates to put more money into plans that could be absorbed by Senegal when the colony gets independence.

Nine out of 10 Gambians live on bare subsistence level, with the lowest per capita income in West Africa. Until less than 10 years ago farmers plowed with primitive tools, a kind of Dutch hoe and a sock-sock hand trowel. Efforts are being made to encourage ox plowing.

A by-product of this type of farming is ox-cart transportation to get rice from the fields and to carry building bricks and firewood.

THIS MAP shows the location of the West African colony of Gambia, and its relative location to little nations that would like to join it (AP MAP)

BOOKS

Biography Is Very Critical

JUSEP TORRES CAMPALANS. By Max Aub. Translated from the Spanish by Herbert Weinstock. Doubleday. $5.95.

Classification: artistic novelty.

The real question about this book is: how elaborate can a hoax be? And you might answer: pretty elaborate.

On the surface, this is a critical biography of a printer who was born in the Spanish province of Catalan in 1886, who took part in the cubist developments early in this century, and finally became an exile in Mexico.

All the trappings of art criticism are here. There is a long section of "annals" which really is fascinating. There are a biographical section, reproductions of criticisms in esoteric publications, a catalog of an exhibition that never was held, illustrations of the painter's works and copious footnotes.

Some of the great names of modern art are bandied about; particularly, there are passages describing Torres Campalans' relations with Picasso. And there are long quotations from the subject of this volume, very doubletalk pronouncements about art.

The catch to the whole affair is that Torres Campalans is a mythical figure.

So what does that make this book? It is a highly intricate burlesque of modern art, an ingenious and detailed flubdub of painterly gibberish that will amaze the reader. It is said that Max Aub is a real person, but the reader may wonder. Put this down as a remarkable tour de force.

Story About Alexander The Great Is Good

The Conqueror, by Edison Marshall (Doubleday $5.95); Nearly 2,300 years ago, a Macedonian barely out of his teens led an army into Asia on one of the most fantastic careers of conquest anyone ever undertook. History remembers him as Alexander the Great; legend calls him a demigod.

This is a biography of Alexander, who is said to have died at 33 lamenting there were "no new worlds to conquer." (The present biographer does not share this pessimistic view of Alexander's plans).

With an army amounting initially to no more than 30,000 men, Alexander took most of present-day Turkey, Syria, Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Iraq and Iran with parts of Russia, Afghanistan and India.

The two notable women in his life — Thais, the Athenian courtesan, and Roxana, the Bactrian princess — tried to dissuade him from the ruthlessness that grew more pronounced late in his life, when madness (intensified by a brain tumor?) encouraged his belief that he was the son of Zeus.

Civil War Diary Is Historical

A DIARY OF BATTLE, The Personal Journals of Col Charles S. Wainwright, 1861-65. Edited by Allen Nevins Harcourt, Brace and World $8.75.

The diary is truly a historical find. Historian Nevins, who edited it brilliantly, says this is the "most comprehensive and historically useful field diary by a Civil War officer that I have seen." It is not at all an extravagant evaluation.

Col. Wainwright was an artillery officer in the Army of the Potomac. He entered the service in 1861 and served through the Grand Review after Appomattox. He left his story in five notebooks — 525,000 words in all — and then vanished into the obscurity from which he came. It is too bad that more is not known known about him; he must have been a remarkable personality.

The value of his diary lies in the broad range of his observations. He reports on battles with appropriate criticism; he describes the towns and homes which he visits and the people with whom he talks; he speaks of generals and privates; horses and rations, picking black-berries and burying the dead.

Wainwright was not entirely an admirable character. He was a snob, for one thing; at one point he notes that he has not found one officer in his division "I care to be intimate with." Some of his opinions are violently prejudiced by his Democratic affiliation: President Lincoln was gawky, uncouth and lacking in dignity. But he rather admired George Brinton McClellan. Yet he is scrupulously honest — he could not bring himself to appropriate some stamps found in an abandoned home for his own collection — and he is forthright and sincere.

Nevins' footnotes and interpolative summations tremendously help in keeping Wainright's opinions in perspective, especially on incidents like an extremely biased account of Lincoln's visit to the battlefield of Antietam. He has not tampered with Wainwright's text, beyond deleting repetitious and arid sections. Thus we have a rich and revealing narrative of one man's experiences in the war. As Nevins remarks in his introduction, "not many men leave so imposing and valuable a monument for posterity to study."

We Seven; Top Story On Space

WE SEVEN. By the Astronauts. Simon & Schuster. $6.50.

You'd think that after the million of words that have poured forth from all the media of communications about the astronauts, little would be left to say.

Yet this volume has a worthwhile place in the chronicles of Project Mercury, as a collection of first person stories about how the seven men reacted to their training and their missions.

John H. Glenn leads off with the background information about his experience, selection and early training, followed by each of the other six.

Then comes a section on the team aspects of the training and flight programs, by Deke Slayton, Gordon Cooper and Walter Schirra. Glenn, Schirra and Scott Carpenter discuss the equipment of the space capsules and ground stations, after which Slayton, Glenn, Carpenter, Gus Grissom and Alan Shepard pile up detailed descriptions of the many training techniques that prepared the astronauts for space, and Glenn talks about some of the glitches (flaws) that had to be cleared up.

Shepard describes the first American suborbital flight, and Grissom the second, after which Glenn, Carpenter and Shepard build up the details — technical and psyehological — which surrounded the first orbital flights. The book ends with graphic, running accounts of the orbits of Glenn and Carpenter (Schirra's came too late for press time).

The reader will be impressed not only with the technical competence of these men, but also with their balance, their devotion to the over-all objectives of the project, and the little touches that show how they let off steam wth jocular pranks and small jokes.

Glenn emerges as the dedicated, avuncular type with a thorough grasp of every problem; Carpenter is perhaps the most articulate in describing the emotional and psychological reactions to space flight, and Schirra probably has the saltiest personality.

OIL, GAS MAGAZINE

Local Field Topic Of Journal Article

The Monroe Gas Field — after 46 years, still called one of the world's greatest gas reservoirs— is the subject of a two - page picture story in the newest issue of the authoritative weekly, Oil & Gas Journal.

Duncan S. Cook of the Louisiana Conservation Commission, manager of the 14 parish Monroe Oil & Gas District, in whose province the field lies, called attention to the article in remarks Friday.

Prefacing the piece, Howard Wilson, Gulf Coast Editor of the Journal, declares, "The Monroe Field isn't acting its age.

"By all rights, this old Louisiana giant should be on the decline. But instead it's growing every day."

Pointing to an approximate 300 new wells completed within the two parish (Ouachita and Union), 439 sq. mile scope of the field in the past 20 months, Wilson attributes strong activity to three factors.

— Economics — "The increase in the value of gas began spurring new development about five years ago."

— Fracturing — "The discovery that the Monroe Gas Rock sand . . . could be fractured and made to produce at much higher rates made new development at a profit a dead cinch."

— New Gas — "The new drilling has resulted in extending the boundaries of the field in three directions and in finding the new Harrell sand about 150 feet deeper than Monroe Gas Rock on the west side."

The article cites a geologist's estimate of the field's reserves at eight trillion cubic feet of gas, updated from a Journal estimate of six trillion cubic feet in Spring of 1961.

Production over the life of the field, according to Louisiana Conservation Department figures, is set at 5.9 trillion cubic feet.

The field today has about 2400 wells.

Columbia Will Award Contract For Building

COLUMBIA (Special) — The City Council of Columbia will meet Dec. 3 to award a contract for the building of a new town hall, jail and fire station to replace the present structure.

Columbia property taxpayers several months ago passed a five mill tax for the purpose of building the new structure and to purchase a new and modern fire equipment.

The town council has already spent about $10,000 on a modern fire truck for the town but conditions under which the taxpayers authorized the buying of the fire apparatus was that it would not be used outside the incorporated limits of Columbia.

The town is presently operating without a jail, using the parish jail also located in Columbia, when it has prisoners. But when the new town hall is built, it will include a small jail with several cells.

Presently housing the town hall is a small wooden building with one room. Next door is the present town hall, made of tin. These buildings will be sold and moved and the new town seat will be constructed on the site.

According to Mayor John Brockner, the new town hall, jail and fire station will be a brick building with the latest in modern styling.

Searchers Find Bodies Of Seamen

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — American craft located several bodies in the Atlantic 260 miles northeast of Berumda on Saturday in their hunt for 18 seamen missing since they abandoned the burning Greek freighter Captain George in a storm Tuesday.

The U.S. Coast Guard cutter Mendota, coordinating an air-sea search that covered a 2,500-mile area, picked up two of the bodies.

"Several others are in view," it reported.

A U.S. Navy plane circled the area to mark the spot for other air and sea craft. Two U.S. Coast Guard planes, with fuel low, returned to Bermuda to refuel for an effort to pick up the rest.

Jostled along by the wind, the Captain George drifted at three knots far east of the position at which the bodies were found.

Seven of the 29-man crew have been rescued.

Visibility improved under clear skies to 15 miles. The wind dropped somewhat, to 30 knots, but the ocean still was churned by waves 15 feet high.

Crippled by an explosion Wednesday night, the Captain George remained adrift with a cargo of dynamite caps and other explosives, destined for Mediterranean ports, that made her a floating powderkeg.

Metal of the afterdeck glowed red hot from flames below.

The cutter Mendota coordinated the search for the missing 18, including the freighter's captain, George Karemezis.

The U.S. submarines Torsk and Cutlass cruised the surface. A U.S. Navy plane, a U.S. Air Force plane and four Coast Guard craft made up the aerial contingent.

Two Liberian-flag tankers were en route to North American ports with the seven men rescued from two lifeboats Thursday — six Greek seamen and radio operator Walter Fisher, a British subject.

The Virginia, with two aboard, headed for Montreal. The Trinity Navigator, carrying five, was due at 11 a.m. Sunday at Paulsboro, N.J.

STARRING THE singing and speaking voice of the incomparable Judy Garland, UPA's animated full-length musical feature, "Gay Purr-ee," a Warner Bros. release in Technicolor opening Wednesday at the Paramount Theatre, recounts the rollicking adventures of a group of colorful French cats.

Curtain Call

If you missed reading about it elsewhere, tryouts for "Hansel and Gretel," are set for Monday and Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Strauss Playhouse.

Half a dozen children and three adults are needed for this full-length stage version of Grimm's classic fairy tale. Rehearsals will start at once under the direction of Raymond Lucero, our technical director, so that the play will be ready for the week after Christmas.

Little Theatre is pleased and proud to be associated with the Junior Charity League of Monroe in this venture.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Little Theatre members will be sent in the near future an announcement of the performance date for "Gigi," with the customary form for making advance reservations by mail. Toby Smith and Scherck Bogen complete the cast as Sidonie, the maid, and Victor, the chauffeur.

This will be Mrs. Smith's stage debut, although daughters, Ronnie and Patty, appeared in "Bye, Bye Birdie." Scherck Bogen's stage credits are too lengthy to enumerate, but he was last seen in "Inherit The Wind."

In tribute to "Gigi's" Parisian locale, plans are afoot to convert the lobby into a corner of France. A dozen of those fabulous travel posters have been received from Air France, while Marc Bloch is undertaking a background mural. Instead of a solid gold chaut four, we hope to have a gendarme at the door for this run.

The sets for "GiGi" are fast taking shape. They will reflect the ornate decor of the tura of the century. The period costumes now on order will add to the opulent atmosphere. We predict that our members are going to enjoy "Gigi" every bit as much as "The Solid Gold Cadillac."

ATTENDANCE

A handful from Monroe attended "Guys and Dolls," in El Dorado week before last. This was the most ambitious production of their Little Theatre so far and attracted the phenomenal box-office count of about 2,300 during a three night run. It brought back memories of our own "Guys And Dolls," in 1960, our last musical at Selman Field.

Little Theatre members who failed to attend Northeast's production of "Papa Is All," last week missed a good show with fine performances by Murray Burford, Mike Parkerson, Bill Wells, Karen Leach, Joan Machen and Charles Machen. We hope to see all of them on the stage at Strauss Playhouse before too long, as well as their director, Claude Fuller.

In town to visit relations during the past few weeks was Mrs. Carl B. Hupman, the former Lucyle Godwin, who as recreation director for Monroe 30 years ago played a vital part in the events that led up to the founding of Little Theatre.

She brought Charles Wells of the National Recreation Association here to give a drama workshop course.

The so-called Dramatic Institute gave several one-act plays which led to the organization of the Little Theatre of Monroe in May, 1932. We know that Mrs. Hupman was thrilled to visit Strauss Playhouse and see what has been accomplished since.

The first president of Little Theatre was Mrs. Elmer Richards who now lives in the suburbs of New York City. She writes that she has kept her love of the theatre and enjoys the memory of her part in holding together an organization of culture for Monroe during its difficult early days.

The word from Orange is that Slade Brown is directing their Little Theatre's production of "Bye Bye Birdie," which opens tomorrow for a week's run. Slade, of course, was co-producer of the Broadway show and will soon return to New York to get his new entry, "A Happy Lot," into production. Jane Brown, we are told, was recently offered the lead in a Beaumont opera production, but had to decline for lack of time.

'Gay Purr-ee' Set For This Week

Starring the voices of the incomparable Judy Garland and Broadway and TV singing sensation Robert Goulet, UPA's animated full length musical feature, "Gay Purr-ee," opens Wednesday at the Paramount Theatre. The singing and speaking voices of Red Buttons, Hermione Gingold and Paul Frees are also co-starred in the Warner Bros. release in Technicolor which details the adventures of a demure French kitten caught up in the glitter and glamor of Paris.

Harold Arlen and E. Y. "Yip" Harburg, whose many stage and screen hits have included the scores for "The Wizard of Oz" and "Cabin in the Sky" with songs like "Stormy Weather," "I Love A Parade" and the immortal Garland musical signature "Somewhere Over The Rainbow," wrote the score — with eight new songs — for "Gay Purr-ee."

Miss Garland sings four of the film's beguiling songs and duets a fifth one with Goulet, who soared to overnight stardom following his stage bow in "Camelot."

"Gay Purr-ee" revolves about the adventures of a beautiful young lady cat who lives in the south of France and dreams of seeing Paris. Eventually, the cat, named Mewsette takes off for the Champs Elysees, followed by her heartbroken boy friend, Jaune Tom. Tom is accompanied by his little friend Robespieere, whose voice is supplied by Red Buttons.

In Paris, Mewsette falls into the clutches of the villainous Meowrice, a slick boulevardier who takes her to the salon of Mme. Rubens - Chatte for grooming. When Jaune - Tom and Robespierre finally track Mewsette down, Meowrice has them shanghaied and shipped off to Alaska. Mewsette becomes the darling of Paris society and Meowrice reveals to her that he has made arrangements to marry her off to a rich old coal cat from Pittsburgh. Fortunately, Jaune Tom and Robespierre return in time to rescue her.

DAZZLING

Mewsette's triumph in Paris Society provides "Gay Purr-ee" with one of its most dazzling sequences. It is the Paris of the 1890's and Mewsette captures the fancy of the city's artists and the sequence shows her painted in the styles of Cazanne, Monet, Braque, Seurat, Modigliani, Degas, Toulouse - Lautrec, Rousseau, Gauguin, Renoir and Picasso.

"Gay Purr-ee" was produced by Henry Saperstein and directed by Abe Levitow. The story was written by Dorothy and Chuck Jones.

AT THE JIM

Skipper Presley Beauty Catcher

Elvis Presley becomes skipper of a fishing vessel and catches a lot of pretty girls in the Hal Wallis Technicolor production, "Girls! Girls! Girls!," opening Wednesday at the Jim Theatre.

The picture, directed by Norman Taurog for Paramount, has a corps of cuddlesome cuties which number more than three score girls, all of them in some degree of association with Presley.

Their principals include Stella Stevens and newcomer Laurel Goodwin and the beauteous Beall twins, Betty and Barbara, in addition to which there are 35 dancing beauties representing places of origin around the world, and more than a score of pulchritudinous American and tropical native types, variously encountered on beach, on boat deck and in night club.

PERSONALITY

In this, Elvis' eleventh picture, Stella Stevens already is a name personality, and Laurel Goodwin appears to be going places after her start here. In fact, enthusiastic reaction by Paramount executives to Miss Goodwin's performance in "Girls! Girls! Girls!," and after viewing the first rough cut of "Papa's Delicate Condition," starring Jackie Gleason, in which she portrays a two-o starring role, studio officials exercise their option on the services of the new young star.

VARIATIONS

It has been thus in varying degree ever since Elvis started out in pictures with "Love Me Tender," in which Debra Paget was his vis-a-vis. Then came "Loving You," with Lizbeth Scott, Jana Lund and Dolores Hart. Miss Hart, who repeated with Elvis two pictures later in "King Creole," is now a reckonable star in her own right.

"Jailhouse Rock" found Elvis beguiled by Judy Tyler, Jennifer Holden and Anne Neyland. Carolyn Jones and Dolores Hart were with him in "King Creole," and both have gone ahead to fame.

HOW MUCH ADDITIONAL WILL THE PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS COST ME?

ANSWER: At the end of 1963, two mills will be added to your present tax rate. This means that for each $1,000 of assessment, you will pay only $2.00 more per year.

EXAMPLES: The owner of a home assessed at $500 will pay only $1.00 extra per year, beginning at the end of 1963.
The owner of a home assessed at $1,000 will pay only $2.00 extra per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $2,000 will pay only $4.00 per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $3,000 will pay only $6.00 per year.

This is a very small increase for the long overdue and much needed improvements which are recommended to you. Vote yes on all five propositions in Tuesday's election.

Paid for by J. H. "Slim" Scogin, Chairman Citizens for Progress responsible citizens against $4,650,000.00 civic arena...

why?

BECAUSE of the cost — it costs too much. The proposed civic arena and exhibition center would cost a total of approximately seven and one - half million dollars ($4,650,000 principal and about $2,790,000 interest.)

BECAUSE of the cost — it's just too high! The price of this structure would cost taxpayers over $20,000 each month for the next 30 years.

BECAUSE of the cost — it's too much a luxury which taxpayers cannot afford. Interest payments, alone, o nthis structure would cost taxpayers approximately $7,750 each month for the next 30 years.

BECAUSE of the cost — almost five million dollars for an arena and exhibition center when a 1½ million dollar auditorium type structure will fill our needs, as it has done in Lafayette and similar cities of Monroe's size.

BECAUSE of the cost — it is entirely out of proportion with our needs and our means. Lafayette, a city of Monroe's size, has a theatre type auditorium and civic center which will seat 2,346 people and feed over 800 people banquet style — Lafayette's auditorium cost about 1½ million dollars.

BECAUSE of the cost — and the fact that it is not a theatre type auditorium, but an arena and exhibition hall. Architects have pointed out that a theatre type auditorium will be needed at a later date and would cost approximately 2 million dollars — requiring an additional Bond Issue.

BECAUSE of the cost — it's too much! The cost of operation, and maintenance is not included in the principal cost of $4,650,000 or the total cost, including interest, of about $7,440,000.

BECAUSE of the cost — everyone would like to have a new civic auditorium just as most folks would like to have a new car, a better home, a mink coat or a river yacht — but wanting and being able to afford are two different things. Can we afford a magnificient structure of this cost? Responsible citizens must live within their means. Monroe, which is made up of and supported by taxpaying citizens, must do the same.

BECAUSE of the cost – Monroe needs improvements—a new City Hall, Jail, City Court and Utilities Commission Office — Monroe needs a Sewerage Treatment Plant, improvements in the Fire Department and an Airport Terminal building. Though the cost is high, responsible citizens realize these needs and should be willing to bear the tax burden of $6,600,000 required to fill these needs.

HOWEVER — responsible citizens have a right to question the economic feasibility of an arena type exhibition center costing a total of over seven million dollars when faced with many other civic and educational improvement needs which should take the priority of taxpayers' money.

RESPONSIBLE CITIZENS realize that, regardless of the number of mills increase, a seven and one-half million dollar obligation costs seven and one-half million dollars. Money is money — cost is cost — and economy in government must begin at home.

RESPONSIBLE CITIZENS ARE FOR THE BOND ISSUES WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE CIVIC ARENA

BECAUSE IT COSTS TOO MUCH!

IT IS ENTIRELY OUT OF PROPORTION WITH OUR NEEDS AND OUR MEANS – VOTE AGAINST PROPOSITION 2

GOES OUT OF CONTROL

Test Of Advanced Polaris Is Failure

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—A Navy attempt to score the first full success with its highly advanced Polaris "A-3" missile was spoiled Saturday when the rocket went out of control and had to be destroyed.

It was the fifth frustration in as many attempts for the stubby little rocket, which gets off the pad all right but which has yet to fly more than a few miles.

The Polaris "A-3" still has a long test flight program ahead of it. The rocket won't be combat-ready until mid-1964, and there will be many test flights between now and then to iron out the troubles.

The 'A-3" is envisioned as a submarine-launched missile that can hurl nuclear warheads from beneath the ocean's surface into the heart of any continent. No city or military installation will be beyond its 2,880-mile range.

But that is on paper. There is more to the problem than just loading more fuel into a rocket and firing it further, as the first five shots of the "A-3" have demonstrated.

All five go into the Defense Department's books as "partial" successes—meaning simply that they got off the launching pads. All were planned for flights of nearly 2,000 miles, but all fell way short of that.

The rocket Saturday thundered from its launching pad at 12:06 P. M. EST and streaked into a clear blue sky. The booster stage separated on time one minute later. Then the shot fell apart.

The second stage, carrying a dummy warhead made up of test instruments, corkscrewed out of control. A range safety officer on Cape Canaveral followed the course for a few seconds, then tripped two switches that triggered an explosive package aboard the errant rocket.

GAY SCHNEIDER, 21-year-old senior cheerleader at LSU, has been chosen to compete in the most attractive cheerleader contest sponsored by Winter Haven, Fla. A blue-eyed blonde, Miss Schneider is a fine arts major and a native of Lake Providence. The contest winner will receive a trip to the Orange Bowl game and have Christmas vacation in the sponsoring city.

LOW-RATES ATTACK

Nixon Comments On Hiss Incident

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Former vice president Richard M. Nixon, in his first public statement on the television appearance of Alger Hiss, Saturday low-rated the importance of the incident.

"What does an attack by one convicted perjurer mean when weighed on the scale against the thousands of wires and letters from patriotic Americans," Nixon asked.

The remark was a clear reference to Hiss, target of Nixon's 1948 congressional probe which helped send the former U.S. State Department official to prison.

Hiss commented on Nixon on a nationally televised (ABC) program called, "The Political Obituary of Richard Nixon." Hiss' appearance brought numerous protests.

Nixon made his observation in a telegram to George W. Healy Jr., editor of the New Orleans Times-Picayune.

Nixon, who lost to Gov. Edmond Brown in the recent California gubernatorial race, said in the telegram:

"Looking to the future, I hope that my voice can help to preserve and extend the kind of opportunity for all Americans which it has been my privilege to enjoy.

Aluminum Industry Co-Founder Dies

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Arthur Vining Davis, who helped found the aluminum industry and became one of the richest men in America, died at his home early Saturday. He was 95.

The silver-haired man with a booming voice had not been feeling well since Thursday. He died at 2 a.m. in the pink mansion he built recently on his estate, "Journey's End," south of Miami.

With the multimillionaire when he died were his personal secretary and official hostess for several years, Miss Evelyn Mitchell, and other members of his staff.

The vigorous, energetic man—about 5 feet 4 and 120 pounds—suffered a heart attack in 1956. Three years ago, he collapsed in a barber's chair in Miami.

Davis, who had been married twice, was a widower and had no close living relatives. Private funeral services will be held here Monday.

Born in Sharon, Mass., on May 30, 1867, Davis was the top scholar in his class at Amherst College when he graduated in 1888.

He immediately went to work for the Pittsburgh Reduction Co., founded that same year to make aluminum by the electrolytic process discovered by Charles Martin Hall, an Ohio scientist.

"I first worked in the plant, sort of a handyman," Davis said. "Kept mill books, helped in the mill, took an occasional selling trip, nailed up boxes. My starting salary was $60 a month—when I got it."

Hall's process and Davis' leadership in commercial ventures resulted in widespread use of a practical metal one-third the weight of steel.

They developed the versatility of aluminum and with help from the Mellon family of Pittsburgh, founded the Aluminum Co. of America in 1907. Davis became President of Alcoa three years later.

He became chairman of the board in 1928 when a new company was founded to take over all the company's foreign properties, many of which Davis had built.

Late in Davis' life a part of his holdings was $100 million worth of Alcoa stock.

Davis moved to the Miami area in 1948, spreading his wealth and business acumen into a maze of enterprises on both Florida coasts and into the Bahamas.

He bought more than 125,000 acres of Florida land and such diverse properties as an ice cream plant, vegetable farms, a cement plant, road-building firm, steel-fabricating plant and furniture factory, and went into the transportation business with an airline and shipping interests.

He acquired 30,000 acres of land on Eleuthera Island in the Bahamas and developed a resort there. He bought acreage and hotel property at Sarasota for $13.5 million and the Boca Raton Club and hotel south of Palm Beach for $22 million.

In the personal conduct of his business, Davis held a tight rein and had a keen eye for detail. He appeared at his office in downtown Miami daily and was deeply interested in affairs until shortly before his death.

Outside working hours, he was a flower-growing devotee and about half the books in his study were on horticulture. He was witty and charming and was known as a gracious host.

Davis received numerous honorary degrees. He was appointed a trustee of the University of Miami (Fla.) in April 1953 and was named an honorary trustee in 1960.

Northeast Drops Final Game Of Season To Delta Statesmen, 12-0

Stovall Carries For Two Scores

By SAM HANNA
World Staff Writer

JACKSON, Miss. — Bowl-minded LSU, playing like the post-season classic are all taken, refused to swallow a second dose of Mississippi medicine here Saturday night, smashing Mississippi State, 28-0, before an umbrella crowd of 40,000 fans.

Generating a hot offense on a cold night, the Bayou Bengals ignored a pesky drizzle of rain to touch off their biggest offensive show of the season.

They scored in the first three quarters on a balanced ground attack that featured two touchdowns by All - American candidate Jerry Stovall of West Monroe.

And that ran Stovall's point total to 60 for the season, which ends next Saturday at New Orleans with Tulane — the last step to climb before the bowl bids are official.

Halbacks Bo Campbell and Ray Wilkins, both running on Coach Charley McClendon's Go Team unit, accounted for the Tiger scores in the second period.

With a 15-7 defeat by Ole Miss glaring on the Bengal record, the Tigers rolled to their seventh victory of the season for an over - all 7-1-1 record.

Mississippi State, outmanned by an obviously deeper LSU team, gained only two yards on the ground and 123 in the air in a battle that had the Bulldogs bottled up most of this chilly night.

Led by quarterback Charlie Furlow, the Maroons drove to the Tigers' 18 yardline mid-way of the fourth quarter for their deepest penetration of the game. But Tiger end Jack Gates made a shoestring interception to end the threat.

The Tigers, meantime, marched for 290 yards on a slippery field, threw only five times and completed two for a total of 318 yards gained.

But this tells only half the story as Mississippi State played the entire first half and most of the third period before making its first down.

While Stovall and Campbell and Wilkins scored for LSU, the Tiger attack was aided by the running blasts of fullback Charlie Cranford and halfback Danny LeBlanc.

Cranford carried nine times for 49 yards and sparked a fourth period drive with two long gains that ended on the Bulldog 19. At this point it appeared as though the Maroons of Mississippi State would score as Furlow connected on three consecutive passes, but LSU took over on its own 27.

The Tigers first touchdown, a 6-yard power sweep by Stovall, climaxed an 82-yard sustained drive that began the second time LSU got the ball.

Quarterback Lynn Amdee kicked all the LSU conversions.

Halfway in the second period, the Bengals marched 41 yards in eight plays to set the stage for Campbell's touchdown dash — the same power sweep that Stovall, scored on earlier.

LSU's Bob Flurry came through with a big play minutes later when he grabbed a Furlow pass that had been deflected on the Mississippi State 28.

With less than two minutes remaining in the half, Amedee hit Cranford on a 22 - yard pass play that carried to the three and from there Wilkins went in standing up.

Thus, LSU left the field at halftime with a 21-0 lead, biggest of the season.

Mississippi State, trying to square the season with its fourth victory, couldn't get rolling in the second half and the Tigers took over on their own 44.

With quarterback Jimmy Field engineering the drive, LSU followed the thundering drives of Lefrom Lake Charles, for the final touchdown of the night.

LeBlanc produced the big gains of the drive before Stovall scored from two yards out.

After the game, coach Paul Davis of Mississippi State couldn't compare LSU with Alabama who beat his Maroons 20-0 earlier in the season.

"There are too many different factors," Davis explained. "I had some boys hurt tonight and we were in much better shape when we played Alabama." He described the Tigers as a fine team."

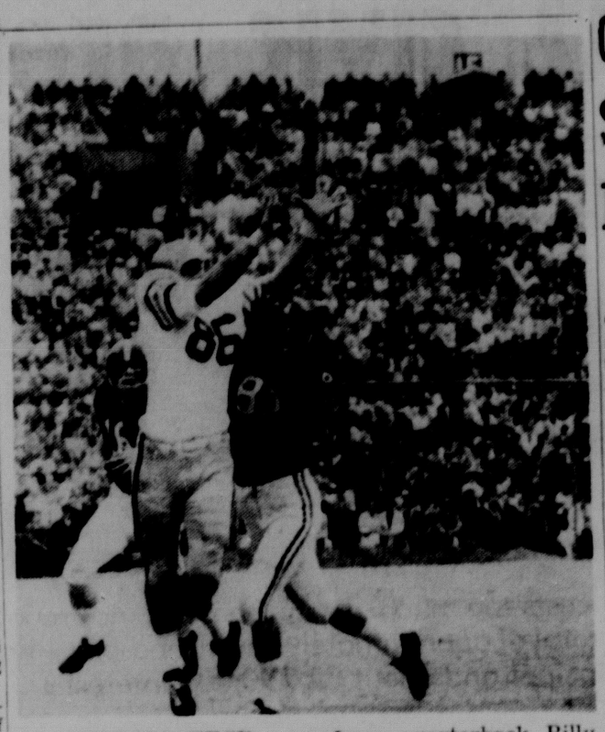

McClendon said he was pleased with LSU's performance, explaining, "We went after them. And we vowed to put some fun back into football and we did."

Cotton Paces Statesmen In Muddy Game

CLEVELAND, Miss., (Special) — Louisiana product Donnie Cotton skidded and squirmed for both touchdowns to lead Delta State to a 12-0 victory over Northeast Louisiana in a wet, muddy football game Saturday night, the last contest of the year for Northeast.

SUMMARY	Delta	NE
First Downs	14	9
Yards Rushing	232	95
Yards Passing	0	14
Passes	0-6	1-6
Passes Inc. By	1	0
Fumbles lost	1	0
Punting	8-32	7-37.1
Penalties	2-32	0-0

Cotton swept three yards in the third period for the game's first touchdown and went two yards off tackle for another mid - way in the fourth period.

The well - traveled Cotton, a Baton Rouge prep star played freshman ball at Tulane, signed with Southwestern and ended up at Delta, was easily the game's top star. He ran 18 times for 114 yards to lead all ball carriers and set up both of his touchdowns with long runs.

A scant crowd sat through rain to watch the game. The showers let up about five minutes before the game started, started at game time and lasted throughout the contest. The field was ankle deep in water.

Northeast ended its season with a 2-6 record. The loss was the Indians' fourth straight to Delta and the Tribe's inability to score made it three shutouts in a row for the Mississippi club.

Robert Payne was the leading ground gainer for Northeast with 35 yards in 10 carries, Joe Thrailkill got 23 yards in five tries and Ronnie Myrick 22 yards in five carries.

Payne injured a leg late in the game and had to be carried off the field. Myrick was also injured in the third period and did not return to the contest.

Both teams played around midfield most of the opening period but Northeast made its most serious threat of the contest early in the second.

After Robert Payne returned a Delta punt 17 - yards to the Delta 43, he and brother Devonne alternated in moving the ball to the 31. Ken Newton picked up one yard before Myrick swept wide for 14 - yards and a first on the 14. But Newton gained only two, a pass was incomplete and Devonne Payne got three yards.

On fourth down Pete Vincent attempted a field goal from the 19 which was wide.

Northeast made a mild threat in the third period thanks to a 50 - yard punt by John Kelly.

Kelly's punt went out of bounds on the three, Delta ran two plays and kicked, Northeast taking over on the Statesmen's 35 - yard marker.

Robert Payne gained three but then lost two. Then a Vincent pass was intercepted by Johnny Norquist on the 29.

The Statesmen then moved 71-yards in six plays for the first touchdown. Ken Farmer got 15 of the yards before Cotton real reeled off a brilliant 38 - yard scamper and then ran 13 - yards to the three. He carried it over from that point.

Farmer's PAT attempt was blocked by Tommy Latham.

Northeast took the kickoff and moved to the Delta 36, thanks mainly to a 14 - yard pass from Vincent to Latham, who made a great catch.

But the drive stalled and Kelly punted out of bounds on the 20. Delta then went 80 - yards in 16 plays for the second score with Cotton keeping this drive in high gear with a 26 - yard dash. He scored midway of the fourth, on a two yard smash off tackle.

Cotton's running try for the extra point was short.

Northeast reached the Delta State 19 thanks to a couple of penalties, one a personal four rap and the other a 17 - yard pass interference call on the last play of the game.

The pass interference penalty gave Northeast an extra play after the game was over but Vincent's desperation pass was no good.

The victory was Delta State's sixth of the year against two defeats. The Statesmen meet East Central Oklahoma Thanksgiving Day.

RONNIE GOODWIN (40) of Baylor is brought down by Tedd Jagerson of Air Force. Goodwin picked up three yards on this play during the second quarter. Baylor went on to upset favored Air Force by a 10-3 final score. (AP Wirephoto)

Baylor Takes Victory Over Air Force 11

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—Baylor stole an Air Force pass, turned it into a 21-yard touchdown aerial, then fought off the airmen for a 10-3 football victory on slippery, snow-trimmed Falcon Stadium Saturday.

A bitter 10 mile an hour wind and 25-degree cloudy weather chilled both teams and blew away Air Force's post - season bowl hopes.

Baylor's second victory in eight games left Air Force with a 4-5 record.

Halfback Kelly Roberts, a 168-pound offensive and defensive workhorse for the Texans, grabbed Air Force quarterback Terry Isaacson's second down pass and ran back to the Falcon 22 to pave the way for Baylor's second quarter touchdown.

On a third - and-nine situation, quarterback Don Trull passed down the middle to halfback Lawrence Elkins for a 21-yard touchdown strike.

Taking possession of the ball on his 48 with only 30 seconds left in the half, Trull connected on successive 17-yard passes to set up a 34-yard field goal by Carl Choate to give Baylor a 10-0 halftime lead.

Trull's throws were caught by Gwinn Corley and Ronnie Goodwin.

Demons Capture GSC; Roll Over Lions, 19 To 6

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Northwestern State, finally living up to its preseason rating, captured the Gulf States Championship Saturday night with a 19-6 victory over Southeastern Louisiana, the nation's ninth-ranked small college power.

Some 3,000 rain - drenched fans saw NSC quarterback Don Beasley flip two touchdown passes as the Demons ran up a 19-0 lead before SLC tallied late in the fourth period.

NSC, capturing its first undisputed GSC championship in the league's 15 - year history, took advantage of SLC miscues. The Lions fumbled nine times, losing the ball six times.

On the first play from scrimmage, SLC's Dickie Cothern fumbled and Sammy Odom recovered for NSC at the SLC 31. Sticking mainly to the ground, the Demons drove to the 13 where quarterback Herbie Smith tossed 11 yards to Glenn Talbert for a first down at the 2. Two plays later fullback Claude Patrick bulled in from the one. The kick failed.

In the second period, another SLC fumble gave NSC the ball at the SLC 48. Moving on the ground, the Demons carried to the 11, from where Beasley threw to Kenny Thompson for the score. Ed Horton converted.

The final NSC touchdown in the fourth period followed another SLC miscue. The Demons got the ball at the SLC 22 and on the third play Beasley passed 17 yards to end Jackie Smith. A 2-point conversion try failed.

Following the kickoff, SLC marched to its touchdown with junior halfback Charles Hayes going in from the 3. A 2-point running play failed.

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (UPI) —Halfback Billy Futrell scored three touchdowns and set up a fourth Saturday to lead Duke in a 50-0 shellacking of winless Wake Forest that put the Blue Devils one step away from an unprecedented third straight Atlanic Coast Conference football crown.

The longest of Futrell's three jaunts to the end zone was from 23 yards out. The Blue Devils also scored twice on pass interceptions.

Grambling Ties With Wiley, 0-0

MARSHALL, Tex. (AP)—Wiley and Grambling slushed their way to a 0-0 stalemate here Saturday in a driving rain that turned Wiley Field into a quagmire.

The tilt completed Wiley's conference scheduled to give the Texas school a 1-5-1 conference record. Grambling, now 2-2-2, still has Alcorn A&M on its schedule.

McNeese Downs USL By 19-0

LAKE CHARLES, La. (AP) — McNeese blanked Southwestern Louisiana 19-0 on a muddy field Saturday night for a share of second place in the Gulf State Conference race.

McNeese clinched part of the No. 2 spot with Southeastern Louisiana. Each has a 3-2 GSC record.

Memphis State Romps To Sixth Straight Victory

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) —Fireplug fullback Dave Casinelli rumbled for three touchdowns to ignite Memphis State to its sixth consecutive victory here Saturday with a never-in-doubt 50 - 0 win over helpless Arlington State.

The Tigers, who combined an air-tight defense with an awesome display of sheer might, crossed the Rebel goal line five times in the first half and added two more touchdowns in the final stanza.

A small crowd of 6,682 watched the massacre in chilly, rain-threatened weather.

Quarterback Russell Vollmer broke the scoring ice with a one-yard sneak. Casinelli, with a unique stand - up running style that left defenders horizontal, bulled over from the three for the Tigers' second tally to close out the first quarter.

HOMECOMING

Southern Beats Bulldogs, 29-18

HATTIESBURGH, Miss. (Special) — Halfback Johnny Sklopan scored twice here Saturday afternoon sparking the highly ranked University of Southern Mississippi to a 29-18 homecoming victory over a determined Louisiana Tech team.

The game closed season activity for both squads.

Sklopan scored Southern's second touchdown in the first quarter on a 73 - yard pass from quarterback Bill Coleman and plunged across from the one in the fourth quarter after combining with the game's leading rusher, fullback George Sekul, to carry the bulk of a 65 - yard drive.

Southern's first score in the initial period came when quarterback James Berry picked off one of Mickey Slaughter's passes, intended for Jerry Griffin, and raced 45 - yards for the tally. Fullback Jerral Wilson kicked the PAT.

Tech's Paul Labenne put the cap on a 45 - yard Bulldog drive in the first quarter and put the Techsters on the scoreboard with a three - yard plunge. Slaughter's passes of 18, 14 and nine-yards to Griffin sparked the scoring drive.

Slaughter attempted to pass to Labenne for a two - point conversion and missed.

Early in the third quarter defensive standout Robert Malone recovered a Southern fumble on the Tech 38 and the Bulldogs marchcd 62 - yards in eight plays to score. The longest play of the drive was a 15 - yard pass from Slaughter to Griffin. Labenne carried over for the score from the nine - yard line and took several Southern defenders with him.

Another two - point conversion attempt failed.

The second quarter was a scoreless standoff. Interceptions stopped scoring drives for both team's defenses. Berry intercepted another Slaughter pass for the Southerners and Slaughter snatched one out of the air for Tech.

Southern held a 15-6 lead over the Bulldogs at the half. Labenne's early third quarter run cut the margin to 15-12.

After Tech's third quarter kickoff, Southern marched to the Tech one yard line where the Bulldog Blue Team's defense threw the USM offense for a seven - yard fourth down loss.

Unable to move the ball, Tech was forced into a punting situation and Southern tackle Danny Salmon rushed in to block David Lee's punt and end Ben McLeod recovered in the end zone to increase Southern's lead to 23-12. Coleman passed to Jim Barbaree for the conversion and the quarter ended two plays later.

Tech cut the lead again early in the fourth when Billy Laird sparked a Bulldog drive with six straight completed passes, the last one a three - yarder to Mickey Strother for the score. Laird's conversion attempt to Wayne Davis fell incomplete.

Southern drove for its final touchdown on the next series and sent Sklopan over tackle for his second score. An attempted pass for the PAT failed.

Slaughter completed 11 of 24 passes for 122 yards and Laird threw six of 12 for 76 yards.

Sekul led Southern's rushers with a total of 82 yards and Sklopan followed with 64.

Griffin hauled in five Tech passes for 71 yards and Lee managed 63 - yards on five receptions.

The victory gave Southern a 16-6 lead in the overall series with Tech. Each team has won two games in the last four years during the series.

Halfback Labenne carried eight times for the Tech squad and netted 39 - yards. Wayne Nolan followed with seven carries for 31 - yards.

Xavier Whips Kentucky For Upset Victory

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Xavier's Musketeers pulled on of the big upsets of the 1962 college football season by defeating Kentucky 14-9 Saturday.

The underdog Muskies, outplayed in the first half, bounced back behind a hard-charging forward wall led by Fred Reherman from Hardinsburg, Ky., and ran at will against listless Kentucky in the final two periods.

Xavier put the clincher on with 5:12 to play when fullback Jim Korb scored from 2 yards out, capping a 66-yard drive. Quarterback Walt Bryniarski gambled for a two-point conversion and made it on a run. This gave the Musketeers a 14-7 lead.

Kentucky took the kickoff but was unable to move as Reherman led stubborn line resistance.

Xavier took over and put its strategy to work. Bryniarski, with the ball on Xavier's 25, took the snap and to the amazement of everybody raced into the Xavier end zone for a safety.

There was only 12 seconds left and Kentucky missed on two pass attempts to go down to only their second loss in 20 games to Xavier in the series finale.

Kentucky scored with 7:54 left in the first period when quarterback Jerry Wollum hit end Bill Jenkins on an 18-yard pass play. This drive covered 66 yards in nine plays.

The Wildcats missed a golden opportunity in the final seconds of the half when they moved to Xavier's 1-foot line for a first down. On the next play, Woolum attempted a pitchout. It was defected in the air and recovered by Xavier.

The Musketeers put their first touchdown on the board with 5:12 left in the third when Korb pushed over from the 2.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Artistry In Designs

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

A beautiful show was given by Mrs. Frank Kaylor of Ruston, last Wednesday for the Garden Center and T.V.

Many persons are familiar with the driftwood arrangements made by Mrs. Kaylor on past shows, and, I know you were really watching for this date to arrive so you could again enjoy her artistic hand in arranging this prized and sought-for "mystery wood."

Mrs. Kaylor opened her show by explaining just where the best places are for finding driftwood, and how to first mount it to obtain the best results in arranging.

She said she found that it was best to visit the beach early in the morning or soon after a storm in search of wood that has been blown to the shore. The hidden bays off the beaten path on the deserted beaches are good places to look. When driftwood is well seasoned there is very little to do to it except brush away the sand and sea moss.

NATURAL FINISH

The naturalness of it is much nicer than trying to give it a finish with paint or stain, unless, for some special type arrangement where this would add to it's mood. Mrs. Kaylor has a knack of using her wood in it's natural state.

One of her arrangements featured a black painted branch. It was very striking, however. She had a reason for painting this particular branch. The container used was a low black ceramic bowl on a black rectangular base. This created a bold, modern feeling.

For line material she used three branches of pussywillow and glycerinized French mulberry. The grey and wine colors contrasted with the black wood causing a striking, modern mood. The focal area contained a glycerinized banana blossom which held it's color perfectly. Two fresh castor bean leaves were placed low to cover the holder and complete the design.

DESCRIBED

Mrs. Kaylor made and described eight outstanding designs. I would love to describe each of them, but, due to lack of space I'll have to pick out just a few of them. Another design contained twisted branches anchored into a round, brown wooden bowl with styrafoam for a holder. She used the colorful leaves of the crape myrtle as a filler around the pomegranate in the focal area. Also, as a filler she used crooked neck squash, red and green peppers and a lime which added the necessary contrasting color — green with the red tones.

To finish this design Mrs. Kaylor wired pecans together to form a grape-like cluster and hung them from the edge of the design over the lip of the bowl. This arrangement was made for the dining table, Mrs. Kaylor explained.

A blue ribbon winner in a recent flower show contained an interesting upright piece of light brown wood which had been mounted on a large brown rectangular base. Three cattails with brown dock formed the tallest placement behind the wood. Following the line of the wood were dried okra pods curving in matching rhythm with the curve of the wood. There was more dock at the base with an interesting cluster of dried mushrooms which hid the needle cup holder and formed a natural setting for a real, life - like ceramic brown bear—the focal point of the design. Mrs. Kaylor uses this design on her buffet in the dining room.

EUCALYPTUS

A design that I cannot leave out is the one that contained lovely glycerinized eucalyptus branches for line, following a curving branch of wood that had been rubbed with hot linseed oil to give a deeper shade of tan. The container of this design is the eye-catcher, made of horse shoes. Two shoes were laid flat and welded together. Two more welded together form the stem of an oval shaped can which had been welded to the sides of the shoes.

The whole container was painted brown, then rubbed with black paint to give it a red - brown color. A tan base was used under this design, matching the shade of the wood in the arrangement perfectly. Brown dock was used low for filler with castor bean leaves at the base, and for the final touch — a bunch of poke berries hung over the end of the container.

For the holidays, Mrs. Kaylor used a lovely soft white ceramic madonna figurine which had the container attached. In this container (in a needle point holder) she placed a curving branch of wisteria which had been painted white. This formed a perfect halo above the madonna. Within the line of the wisteria she used holly sprayed pink and glittered slightly. Also, Christmas beads were sprayed with the same pink. Low in the design forming a background for the madonna was a cluster of skeletonized magnolia leaves, also sprayed a light pink. A pale pink cluster of artificial grapes hung from the container and curved around the feet of the figurine. Mrs. Kaylor made this design for her hall console table to be used during the Christmas holidays.

Wish I could go on, but, I'd have to save space for a final word. Thanks to Mrs. Kaylor from all of us. I hope you didn't miss this wonderful show. Better still, I hope you saw it at the garden center.

This week we have Dr. John Wright from Louisiana Tech at Ruston. As many of you already know, Dr. Wright is horticulture professor at Tech. He is a teacher of flower arranging, and is very talented in this line as well as in his great knowledge of horticulture. We are always so glad when he brings us a program. So, be watching Wednesday.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Garden Wall Adds Charm

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Southern gardeners often come home from vacations in England and France determined to build walls like those they have seen in those countries.

A great deal of the character and charm of English and French gardens comes from their enclosures of hedges and walls. In contrast to the great open spaces of our southern gardens, these enclosures give one the feeling of privacy.

The faces of walls provide a perfect background for both flower gardens themselves and for vines and espalliered shrubs.

PURPOSE OF WALLS

The walls around the most ancient gardens in the old countries were built for safety, protection from wild and domestic animals and for privacy. Now-a-days, the Englishman or the Frenchman builds a wall around his garden for privacy and beauty and for the winter warmth which gardeners in ancient times learned to value in growing tender fruits and flowers which would not survive the winters anywhere but close to the walls.

Before we southerners attempt to capture the old-world charm of garden walls, we must take several things into consideration. In our climate, high enclosing walls must be shaded. Unshaded walls collect heat during the day-time and give it off at night to such an extent that we cannot live near them in summer or have them around such areas as the sitting terrace. The patios of New Orleans are densely shaded against the summer sun. In winter, or course, they are sunny and cheerful.

HUMIDITY

The humidity of our southern climate is another thing that makes high solid enclosing walls impractical around living areas and small gardens. This is the reason for the great popularity of light brick walls with an open pattern which allows the air to flow through them. Such a design is not only graceful and lighter in effect than heavy solid walls but very practical for enclosing small areas.

For coolness and the flow of air, southern gardeners have always favored hedges over walls. Another consideration was the cost of walls. If they were costly in times gone by, the cost of wall construction is well nigh prohibitive today. Most of us can still afford, however, sections of wall at the end of our gardens or at the ends of the axes of garden walks. Free standing pieces of wall are often incorporated in hedge enclosures for gardens to good effect.

Sometimes small gardens or sections of gardens can be effectively enclosed with low walls

Stamp News

The first United States Christmas postage stamp, discussed previously in this column, depicts the traditional holiday symbols—burning tapers and an evergreen wreath with a red bow. The lettering is in Old English. The new 4-center which was first placed on sale in Pittsburgh will remain available for sale until Dec. 31.

Intended for use on season's greeting cards, the new stamp ties in with the Post Office Department's "Shop and Mail Early" campaign. According to Postmaster General J. Edward Day, the stamp will serve a double function. It will supply a colorful fillip to greeting cards and encourage the use of first-class postal rate for such cards thus providing preferred handling and return-to-sender service in the event of nondelivery.

Day also announced that there are plans to reissue a Christmas stamp during future holiday seasons.

The U.S. Post Office Department announced that precanceled postal cards designed to cut operating costs and speed delivery will go on sale in November for use next Jan. 7, when postal rates increase. The new 4-cent card, on white stock, is an improvement on the buff colored ones in use for many years. A light purple portrait of Abraham Lincoln appears on the card, replacing the purple Statue of Liberty 3-cent issue.

In addition, it was also announced that a new embossed 8-cent airmail stamped envelope will be first placed on sale at Chantilly, Va., Nov. 17, to coincide with the dedication of the Dulles International Airport. This new envelope also is being provided to meet the increase in the postal rates effective Jan. 7. The stamp on the envelope will depict a modern jet airliner in flight.

Soil Needs Some Humus

By AUDREY DAWSON

Many problems encountered by the gardener in growing annuals and perennials, shrubs and trees are directly associated with the lack of organic matter or humus in the soil.

These next two months gardeners have a real opportunity to use leaves, grass clippings and other vegetative waste in compost piles or as mulches in flower beds and around plantings of shrubs and trees.

If you want to build a compost pile, select a well drained area in the back yard and begin storing autumn leaves and other left over vegetation. A suitable container for the compost may be a pit in the ground or a low pen made of boards and wire.

To increase the plant food value and also to hasten decomposition, sprinkle a small amount of a well balanced fertilizer between layers. After six or eight months of rotting, add the humus to flower beds that are low in humus.

CONDITIONS

Gardeners have been especially conscious during this past summer of the hard compact soil conditions when existing soils were low in humus. Many plants suffered. Humus provides soils with the water holding capacity needed during periods of drought. Begin practicing conservation at home, save leaves, grass clippings and vegetative waste from the kitchen. These materials are available and valuable in building a better soil for a better landscape.

If you, Mrs. Young Homemaker, have never cooked a turkey here are some helpful hints for you. Frozen turkey must be thawed before roasting. An eight-pound turkey requires 15 to 20 hours in the refrigerator to thaw. That 20 pound turkey will require at least 2 days in the refrigerator to thaw enough to remove the giblets from the neck and body cavities.

Now the roasting guide. Fryers or roasters very young birds, 4-8 lbs., cook 3 to 4½ hours at 325 degrees F. Fully grown young birds 6-12 lbs., 3½ to 5 hours; 12-16 lbs. 5 to 6 hours; 16-20 lbs., 6 to 7½ hours, 20-24 lbs.; 7½ to 9 hours, at 325 degrees F.

Now for that left over turkey—be sure to freeze it. Strip off the white meat in big pieces and cut the dark meat from the thighs and leg bones. Next cut off smaller pieces of white and dark — then wrap portions of the cooked turkey in freezer wrap. Label and freeze quickly. You may simmer the turkey bones for a stock to be used in soup, gumbo or casserole.

NEW FURNITURE

If you are planning to buy new bedroom furniture for that Christmas present, the man of the family will welcome new units especially designed for men's clothing and accessories. The designers have measured space needs to form a skeleton of design for stacks of shirts, sweaters, underwear and other smaller items of apparel. The wardrobe units are about the size and shape of an average five or six drawer chest and they are available in several different styles. They're especially designed for men by men, meeting masculine need.

SURVIVAL

One of the best ways rural residents have of surviving a nuclear attack is by understanding radiation and avoiding it. A. V. Patterson Jr., of LSU Agriculture Extension Service and coordinator of Louisiana Rural Civil Defense, explains that any enemy attack would in all probability be directed against the military and large industrial centers.

He says that the biggest hazard in rural areas would be caused by fallout, most of which will fall within two days after a blast. Gamma rays are the greatest immediate danger as they are very penetrating and can injure living tissue.

Beta radiation is not penetrating, but can cause bad skin burns, and if ingested could seriously injure internal organs of man or livestock.

The best protection from Gamma rays is a good cover to absorb radiation, while the best protection for beta rays is to avoid contact with radioactive dust and keep it out of food and water.

A THOUGHT

The persons who are not thankful for the good things they have, would never be happy with the things they wish they had.

AFTER THANKSGIVING, can Christmas be far behind? No! That means it's time now to plan photographic greeting cards. Here's how our columnist used a picture of his house covered with appropriate atmosphere, for last year's holiday greetings. Finished prints were made on deckle-edge, double-weight matte paper.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

This is a get ready warning for camera fans.

Thanksgiving dinner is hardly digested when what's the Christmas holiday season is upon us or so it seems. And that means that now is the time to get started if you plan a personal photographic greeting card for Yuletide mailing.

PROPS

There may be prop to gather for a special picture with a topical theme or a clever idea to be dreamed up for shooting. Some photographers settle for a nice new portrait of the baby, the young'ters or the family. Others dig into their negative file and come up with an appropriate picture taken last Christmas, perhaps of a religious or spiritual nature. And for some, this is the opportunity to send their best picture of the past year—shot heaven knows when, using a photo they're proud of or days greetings in pen and ink. If which here where they've been for a long time), however, this will leave much work on vacation.

Then there's the rest of the card to look on. It's a good idea. Of course there are some who like to get the actual cards and envelopes who eliminate all that nature. In your pictures of these alternatives about how can be made for a specific size to get the message across, by in of your negative to a particular their original photograph. If has contrast grade of paper. That is, if it's a normal negative you'll need No. 2 paper, if it's a contrasty negative it'll require No. 1 paper and if it lacks contrast it'll take either No. 3 or No. 4 paper.

MASKS

Camera stores usually carry a assortment of negative masks with a variety of holiday messages to choose from. You can select either a horizontal or a vertical format depending on the photograph to be inserted.

Some photo hobbyists design, draw or assemble their own accompanying message. This is combined with the hobbyist's photograph and a photo copy is made of the combination. Finished cards are printed from the copy negative.

It requires far less work and photo technique in the planning stage if the camera fan merely takes room to accribe his holiday greetings in pen and ink. If you have to match the quality finding it in some manner in the original photograph. If has

RUNNING THE SCALES

Spirit Of 1920's In Dream Operetta

By JOHN CALE

(Editor's Note: Today's column was written by former Little Theatre President Robert Evans from information furnished in a program for a local song and dance review dated 1922. The writer's keen analytical sense shows how much history can be gleaned from notes, personalities and advertisements appearing on the program of what must have been the entertainment spectacle of the year about 40 years back.)

Discovery of a forty - year-old program sheds interesting light on our town as it was in 1922. Found by Mrs. Ben Marshall whose mother was in the cast, the program was printed for a show called "All At Sea" under the auspices of Monroe Community Service. It was apparently a composite of the more popular Gilbert and Sullivan tunes, some two dozen in all, woven into a so - called "Dream Operetta" with a complicated plot involving H. M. S. Pinafore, The Pirates of Penzance and The Mikado.

In addition to twenty - three leading roles, there were five choruses, numbering nearly 100, furnished by Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, the Woman's Department Club and Miss Armandine Renaud. "All At Sea" was presented on June 30, 1922 on a floating stage at the Riverside Club on the banks of the Ouachita.

EXPRESSION

Community Service was a national organization that had just established a chapter in Monroe. Its purpose was "to liberate the power of expression of people and communities" through the cultural and recreational use of leisure time. George G. Weaks, Sr., president of Monroe Community Service at the time, contributed a foreword to the program of "All At Sea" in which he summarized the activities of the organization in the Twin Cities. He reported that over twenty Community Sings had been held, with a combined attendance of more than 10,000. A story telling pageant for children on the court house square climaxed Public School Play Week during which every school child was instructed in playground games.

Then there was a Home Play Week campaign when over 3000 parents signed agreements to play a half hour each day with their children. Play leaders classes trained volunteers to conduct "Fun and Frolic Evenings" for local clubs and churches. A Community Chorus came into being which was responsible for promoting the operetta.

OUTSIDE

Outside talent was imported to assist with "All At Sea," for the director of production is listed as George Junkin of the department of educational dramatics of [illegible] been written on the children's blackboard, spelled out in toy blocks, unpainted in snow or sand, seen on a television or movie screen or lettered on a window in front. Undoubtedly there will be space age applications of some of these old ideas in this year's crop of cards.

The national organization, while the director of music was W. R. Waghorne of Houston Community Service. W. C. Bechtold was executive director for the Monroe group, Mrs. J. E. Doughtie general chairman of the music division and Leon Hammonds director of the orchestra and accompanist.

The program tells much about the Monroe of forty years ago. The combined population of the Twin Cities was given as 15,000. Arnold Bernstein was mayor of Monroe which he described in the program as "the most rapidly growing city in the South" with "something doing here all the time." The city - owned street cars operated on a 5 cents fare, school children half - price; one line ran to the salt water natatorium on Riverside which the city provided without charge to the public.

About 65 business firms took advertisements in the program. A cursory tally indicates that some twenty - five survive to this day. Allowing for death, war and depression, a loss of one a year on the average does not speak too badly for our local business climate.

Tired business men were urged to relax and enjoy themselves on the Ouachita Roof Garden at admission of 25 cents plus 10 cents a dance. One movie theatre charged 17 cents for adults and 5 cents for children. A console phonograph with a hand crank could be bought for $115 on easy payments.

EXTINCT CARS

The only hotels to advertise in the program were the Le Grand, listed as "the home of the traveling man" and the Monroe where European plan was $1 to $2.50. Three extinct cars, the Hudson, Essex and Packard, were offered, along with the Lincoln, Ford, Buick and Dodge. The Ouachita National Bank boasted capital and surplus of $900,000.

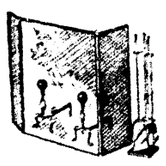

Time has taken a heavy toll of the men and women listed in the program. The street cars, the 5 cents fare, the old natatorium and Community Service itself are gone. But Monroe is still a growing city and there is still something doing all the time.

Popular taste in entertainment no longer runs toward community sings and the "fun and frolic evening" of 1922 might not go over so well today. Even Gilbert and Sullivan seem to have lost their appeal among the younger generation instead the Little Theatre of Monroe, the Northeast State Concerts Association, music and drama groups at the college, Cinema 63 and other special film showings, the community recreation centers and a wide variety of cultural and recreational events provide outlets for the leisure interests of the area.

As to how many parents are playing a half hour each day with their children against the distraction of television and activity outside the home, no reliable statistics are available.

Georgia Tech Upset Bama's Crimson Tide

By DAVID M. MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets came through with a gritty defense in the final period here Saturday to upset high-ranking Alabama 7-6 and hand the Crimson Tide its first loss in 27 games.

Linebacker Don Toner intercepted a pass with barely a minute left on the clock as the second-ranking Tideman appeared headed toward a cinch score that would have given them their 20th consecutive victory.

A record crowd of 52,971 went crazy as Tech ran out the clock.

Georgia Tech fullback Mike McNames, a defensive demon all afternoon who intercepted two Alabama passes himself, scored Georgia Tech's touchdown late in the second period on a fierce nine-yard burst off tackle, two plays after he had race down to the Alabama 14 on a 26-yard pass interception return.

Quarterback Billy Lothridge, Tech's triple-threat, kicked what proved to be the winning point.

Alabama, unable to get into Tech territory during the entire first half, put the pressure on in the final two periods, but the Tide's only score came on a break late in the final period.

Georgia Tech had been backed up to its own 15-yard line by a 63-yard quick-kick by Alabama halfback Cotton Clark when Lothridge attempted to punt Tech out of danger. He bobbled the snap and although he got the kick away, the officials ruled his knee had touched the ground at the Georgia Tech nine-yard line and gave the ball to Alabama there.

Alabama shrugged off a five-yard penalty for illegal motion and swept down to the Tech two-yard line on the passing of sophomore quarterback Joe Namath. From there, Clark, leading scorer in the Southeastern Conference, plunged in from two yards out for his 14th touchdown of the season.

Alabama gambled for the two points, but failed when McNames tackled quarterback Jack Hurlbut as he attempted to roll out to the right.

Alabama got the ball back on the next kick-off when Benny Nelson recovered an on-sides kickoff on the Tech 35-yard line. On the first play end Frank Sexton intercepted a Namath pass at the Tech 30, ran it back to the Alabama 42 and then fumbled it back to Alabama.

At this point, Alabama began driving relentlessly toward the Georgia Tech goal line. The Tide had a first down on the Tech 13 before Toner made the interception that doomed Alabama to its first defeat since early in the 1960 season.

Alabama was tied 3-3 by Texas in the Blue Bonnet Bowl on Jan. 1, 1960.

In the first half, Georgia Tech threw away two scoring opportunities, the first time losing the ball on an interception after sweeping down to the 'Bama 15 and the second time missing a field goal after driving to the Alabama 12.

gave Mississippi the undisputed lead in the Southeastern Conference.

Louis B. Guy, a lanky wingback on John Vaught's juggernaut from Oxford, flew an even 100 yards with a pass interception to break Tennessee's back in the third period. Guy, who hopes to be a doctor, had started it off with a touchdown before the game was two minutes old.

But two errors of judgment cost Tennessee its chance for an upset in a game that was broken up by a fist and foot-swinging battle in the final period.

Tennessee won the toss and chose to kick off. That was the first mistake.

Mississippi quarterback Glynn Griffing pitched out to Chuck Morris on a 52-yard play on the first effort, and five plays later caught Guy in the end zone with a four-yard pass and what looked like a coming rout.

But Tennessee fought back with an effort that pushed Ole Miss to the wall for the first time this year.

Tennessee tailback Mallon Faircloth pounced on Ole Miss fullback Perry Dunn's fumble as the second half started and powered the Vols to the Mississippi four-yard line. Then Faircloth tried to pass for the score, and that was the second mistake.

Guy came out of nowhere to grab the ball inside the Ole Miss end zone and outrace the Tennessee team up the field for the touchdown that made the difference.

Ig was rocking, socking football on a muddy field. Both teams forgot the strategy and buckled down to head-on running and tackling.

The massive Ole Miss line, anchored by 272-pound Jim Dunaway, rolled 46 yards to a score in the final period with Buck Randall going over from one yard out. But Tennessee never quit.

The Vols marched back 67 yards against the most powerful defense in the conference, and tailback Bobby Morton hit John Hudson with a 16-yard scoring pass with five minutes left.

Both teams left the bench and began a free-swinging fist battle at the goal line. Officials finally broke it up.

Trojans In Win Over Navy, 13-6

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Speedy halfback Willie Brown cracked open a tight and fumble-plagued football game with a 56-yard touchdown run in the third quarter and gave Southern California a 13-6 victory over a spirited Navy team that ran the Trojans' unbeaten streak to eight Saturday.

The dangerous Middies from Annapolis had a 4-4 record going into the game and were two-touchdown underdogs to the second - ranked Trojans but almost scored an upset in the closing minutes.

The heartbreaker occurred, with the ball on the Souther California 5, when fullback Pat Donnelly fumbied going into the end zone and the ball was recovered by Trojan Gary Potter.

It developed that Donnelly was hit hard on the goal line by quarterback Pete Beathard and a second jolt by a Trojan tackle, Gary Kirner, completed the disastrous moment.

Navy again got the ball in the final minute and 6 seconds and quarterback Roger Staubach sparked another rally and the Middies were threatening to score. Staubach completed a 10-yard pass to Jim Stewart on the Trojan 20 when time ran out.

Navy had its luck, too. Southern California fumbled the ball away four times and the first fumble on the opening kickoff set the stage for the Middies' touchdown.

Halfback Ken Del Conte took the kickoff, fumbled when hit by Fred Marline, and Ron Testa recovered on the Trojan 22. Staubach picked up 4 and then on a pass-run option play, ran to his right and on the final 18 yards for the touchdown. Potter blocked the try for the extra point.

State 20-7 in a fierce football game Saturday between the state rivals.

Florida State brought to Gainesvillege one of its finest teams, fresh from a tie with Georgia Tech a week ago, and the Seminoles were confident they had the horses to win for the first time in the five-year rivalry.

But the capacity crowd of 46,000 saw Florida also dominate the second half with its power runners, Larry Dupree and Jim O'Donnell, plus the timely passes of Tom Shannon and Tom Batten.

Shannon threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Bruce Starling after State scored first on Keity Kinderman's 2-yard smash that capped a 72-yard drive.

Doug Messer's place kick put State ahead 7-6 at halftime as Jimmy Hall had missed a conversion kick for Florida.

After Clarke's punt return put Florida in front, the Gators marched 66 yards, sending Ron Stoner the last 5 yards.

State moved on the passes of Eddie Feely and Steve Tensi and reached Florida's defense that triumphed as State made only 81 yards rushing.

After a slow start this season, the Gators have won five of their last six games and have a 6-3 mark with only Miami ahead Dec. 1—unless a bowl invitation should appear.

Florida's first touchdown came after a State fumble at the 25. The Gators had been stopped only seconds before at the 7 when they tried running. So this time they took to the air.

Shannon tossed to Tom Kelley for a first down at the 15 and on the next play he found Starling alone in the end zone.

Taylor Sets Mark As Harvard Wins

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Big Bill Taylor, a transplanted Midwesterner from Minnesota, set a Harvard record Saturday by scoring four touchdowns and leading the Crimson to a 31 - 19 Ivy League football victory over Brown.

Taylor, a 190 - pound senior from Crookston, Minn., scored on a 17 - yard run, a 21 - yard sweep down the sidelines, a 3 - yard run and a 77 - yard scoring pass from quarterback Mike Bassett to wind up his spree.

Taylor's four touchdowns were the most ever scored by a Harvard player in an Ivy League game.

Dartmouth Barely Gets By Cornell

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Highly favored Dartmouth escaped with its scalp Saturday outlasting a fired up Cornell eleven 28-21 and clinching the 1962 Ivy League football championship.

The unbeaten Indians, a game away from their first perfect season since 1925, found themselves in a rugged test from the opening minutes. The Big Red never relaxed and went down to the wire, scoring with four seconds remaining.

Clemson Takes Avenge Victory

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Rod Rogers kicked a field goal with little more than a minute to play Saturday as Clemson avenged close football shaves of the past three seasons and defeated Maryland 17-14.

Coach Frank Howard decided to go for the winning three points only after Clemson lined up on the 1 for a touchdown try and was penalized for illegal motion. Rogers' successful boot sailed 23 yards.

It capped a rally for Clemson, which had trailed 14-0 in the second quarter, and came after an apparent 50-yard touchdown run by quarterback Dick Shiner of Maryland was nullified by a clip-

Arkansas Fights Back, Edges Stubborn Ponies

By JOHN R. STARR

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—The Arkansas Razorbacks scrambled for a touchdown and a field goal in the fourth quarter and beat battling Southern Methodist 9-7 Saturday keeping alive their chances for a Southwest Conference football title and a bowl bid.

The field goal, a 27-yarder by Tommy (True-Toe) McKnelly, provided the winning points. Minutes before, Arkansas failed on a two-point conversion try after halfback Jesse Branch's 11-yard touchdown run.

But the real Porker hero was guard Mike Hales, who broke through and stopped a SMU field goal attempt with one minute left.

It was a third down try from the 17 by John Richey. Hales took the ball in the stomach and it bounced back to the 32. SMU had another try from there but quarterback Roger Braugh passed incomplete on fourth down with 22 seconds left.

Unitil the Razorbacks rose up in the final period, SMU appeared to have the game in its pocket. The Mustangs had put together a 78-yard scoring drive and Richey's extra point gave them a 7-0 advantage through three periods.

Twice the Mustangs turned back Porker scoring threats, first when Arkansas fullback Danny Brabham fumbled on first down at the 5 and again when McKnelly got a bad snap and had to pass instead of kick on a field goal try from the 25 in the second quarter.

LESESNE LEADS

Vandy Wins 20-0 Over Tulane Club

By RUSS DALEY

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Quarterback Hank Lesesne put on a one-man offensive show Saturday as long-frustrated Vanderbilt whipped Tulane 20-0 and broke a 16game losing streak.

Lesesne, a senior who has been an off-and-on performer this season, was definitely on Saturday as he passed and ran Vandy to one of its sweetest wins—and its first of the 1962 season. The loss kept Tulane winless, stretching the Green Wave's losing streak to nine straight.

When the afternoon ended, Lesesne had piled up more yardage running and passing than the whole Tulane team. When he found his receivers covered, he ran. When he passed, he had no particular favorite target, tossing to end Dick Teets, halfbacks Jeff Starling and Steve Shaw and even to fullback Charlie Trabue.

For a time it looked like another frustrating afternoon for both teams as they struggled through a scoreless first period. Lesesne got Vandy in the scoring column with a one-yard plunge in the second period and after that there was no doubt as to who would finally win.

The game was played under a lowering sky and the lights had to be turned on in the final period.

Lesesne led Vandy 86 yards in 16 plays for its second final-period score and from then on it was a case of Tulane trying to stave off the Commodores who knew they were finally going to win one.

The final TD was another Lesesne production, an 11-yard pass to Starling with less than one minute to play.

Vandy's eager line made Tulane's "shotgun" offense fire mostly blanks and Tulane never seriously threatened to score.

Halfback Shaw got Vandy's second score on a one-yard run.

The win came in the next to last game for Vanderbilt Coach Art Guepe who has resigned effective after the closing game Dec. 1 with Tennessee.

Jack Concannon Leads BC Victory

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Jack Concannon, making a shambles of Boston University's best-in-the-nation pass defense, threw four touchdown aerials Saturday and set up two others as the bowl-hopeful Boston College Eagles rambled to a 41-25 victory over their crosstown rival.

The rangy junior quarterback, bringing his touchdown pass total to 12 for the season, pitched scoring strikes of 68, 55, 34 and 13 yards.

Baseball Loop Planning Here Moves Ahead

Organization of an amateur baseball league for the immediate Monroe area seems assured and enough ground work has been done to bring about final organization at a meeting scheduled for Tuesday night, December 4, at 7:30 o'clock at the L. B. Faulk American Legion Home.

"Enough interest has already been stimulated from interested baseball fans and merchants who are willing to help to make the league a success," Saul Adler, member of the American Legion's stadium committee, said Saturday.

The American Legion Post here plans to join Ouachita parish merchants in sponsoring the league which will schedule all its games at Legion Memorial Stadium here. Preliminary plans already call for an eight - team league in which each club plays a game a week, giving the stadium four playing dates a week.

League planners are sticking to an all - amateur arrangement and say no professional or semi - pro talent will be used. But talent must be 17 years old or older.

Assurances of support have been forthcoming from Monroe city officials, the Monroe Recreation Department, and the Monroe Little League board of directors as well as L. B. Faulk Post of the American Legion and parish merchants.

JFK Appoints Study Group For Domestic Peace Corps

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy appointed a Cabinet-level committee of seven Saturday to determine whether it would be a good idea to launch a domestic "national service program" similar to the Peace Corps operating overseas.

The President picked his brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, to be chairman. The attorney general already has made a preliminary study and turned in a report that favors the new program.

The attorney general envisioned it as a method for giving Americans of all ages a chance to answer the President's challenge in his inaugural address to ask what they can do for their country. Robert Kennedy said: "We need to offer visible avenues for service to these people."

Robert Kennedy's report proposed that the national service corps be open to all persons from high school graduates to retired people, with a one-year term of voluntary enlistment, compared with two years for the present Peace Corps. Volunteers would get enough pay to cover living expenses and would receive a small sum in addition at the end of their enlistments.

In addition to Robert Kennedy, the committee will consist of Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz, Secretary of Welfare Anthony J. Celebrezze, Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall, Peace Corps Director Sargent Shriver, Budget Director David Bell and Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver.

Kennedy asked the committee specifically to look into the size, training requirements and costs of setting up a volunteer service corps. He asked it to assess also what sort of response would be forthcoming to an opportunity to enlist, and to say what the objectives should be, how the program should be administered, and how it would fit in with operations of state and local agencies.

As the attorney general viewed it, the projected new service corps could play an important role in helping states and communities in slum schools, recreation centers, mental hospitals, Indian reservations, migrant labor camps and correctional institutions. The report said there is a shortage of trained workers in these fields, and volunteers, directed by professionals and working under local direction could lighten the burden.

Kennedy's original report made no effort to determine how big the service corps should be other than to suggest that it be relatively small.

The President asked him to submit recommendations by Jan. 1. This would be a preliminary to possible introduction of legislation to set up the service corps by action of the next Congress. The President himself has been interested for months in this possibility and has mentioned it in a number of speeches.

President Kennedy established the Peace Corps by executive order shortly after his inauguration and it won Congressional approval on Sept. 21, 1961. Last session a pleased Congress voted greatly increased funds for it and authorized a 9,970-member corps by next fall. There are now about 5,000 members serving in 38 countries.

Bills calling for a form of domestic Peace Corps were introduced in both the House and Senate last year but the House version died in the Rules Committee and the Senate did not act. These bills would have permitted teenage boys and girls, out of school and unemployed, to work in public service institutions. Its author, Rep. Carl Perkins, D-Ky., plans to reintroduce it early in the next session.

OFF FLORIDA COAST

Troops Practice 'Invasion' Tactics

FORT PIERCE, Fla. (AP) — Elements of the 1st Armored division, staging mock maneuvers off the Florida coast, wrestled with tricky ocean currents Saturday to land the remainder of an "invasion" force.

Officers said the operation probably will occupy most of Sunday and Monday.

The first war games of the Cuban crisis using troops rushed to the area when the Cuban situation erupted — opened Saturday when helmeted troops stormed the beach from Army LCUS (landing craft, utility).

Big bulldozers rumbled on to the beach after them.

The tankers of the "Old Ironsides" division struggled under floodlights during the night unloading tanks, jeeps, trucks and ambulances from a big Navy LST (landing ship, tank) which worked for more than three hours to clear a sandbar.

The tanks clanked over a 360-foot floating steel causeway flung out to sea. The rough surf snapped the anchor cables after one LST was unloaded and the causeway was towed back to sea for repairs. Additional sections were ordered from Fort Lauderdale, 113 miles south of deserted Hutchinson Island, the invasion scene.

The new sections will stretch the causeway beyond the trouble of some sandbar. Three more LSTs bobbed at sea, waiting to be unloaded.

Silver F104 Air Force jets, reportedly acting in enemy role, flashed low over the beach in repeated passes Friday.

Soldiers and tanks fanned out after they hit the beach, with the tanks taking up positions along the shoreline. Other vehicles were camouflaged in sand and scrub brush of the island, which was the training base for the Normandy invasion of World War II.

Soldiers battled sand fleas and heated C-rations over open fires. Some shaved in the mirrors of their vehicles, using their helmets as washbasins.

A Havana television commentator described the maneuvers as part of a "plan to invade Cuba."

Mario Kuchilan, whose broadcast was heard at Key West, quoted a Prensa Latina dispatch as saying the troops had been mobilized "for an eventual invasion of Cuba." He said the operation at Fort Pierce apparently was designed to "maintain tension in the air of the Caribbean."

Prensa Latina is Cuba's government-controlled news agency.

Election Loser Pays Off Bet

QUEBEC (AP) — Police Friday blocked off a quarter-mile of highway northeast of Quebec so R. T. Lawson, who picked the Union Nationale in Wednesday's provincial election, could pay off an election bet.

Lawson, 160 pounds, wheeled 230-pound Ray Power from a sawmill to a restaurant in a wheelbarrow. On his chest, in French, he wore the sign:

"I have lost my election."

There Can't Be Too Much of a Good Thing!

Our little friend probably wouldn't agree while standing knee-deep amid ever-hungry little piggies, but we doubt there can ever be too much of a really good thing.

Take food for example. In this hungry world, this era of high costs, it is still among our best dollar bargains . . . thanks to the efficiency of our farmers.

Some would have the nation believe we have too many farmers . . . too much food and fibre. How they curse a blessing. We just thank God our country has never known hunger.

What about the laments over farm programs? We're told farmers are gouging taxpayers. Don't you believe it. Since 1933, farm programs have cost taxpayers $5.174-billion. But, if the farm prices had increased the same rate as non-farm prices, the cost of living would have risen but 8.9% since 1933.

Here's still another side of the "subsidy" story that makes us really grateful to our farmers... sorry for them, too:

If decreasing prices paid farmers had NOT SUBSIDIZED the housewife's food budget, she'd have paid $6.23-BILLIONS MORE last year for food than she actually did.

In 1860, one farmer fed two people, in 1910, he fed 11. Today one farmer feeds and clothes 25. No other industry is so efficient!

Speaking of efficiency, few things have helped the farmer and the consuming public more than the REA lending program. Repayable loans, with interest, to Louisiana's 13 member-owned Electric Cooperatives have raised the rural electrification level from a miserable 1.7% in 1938 to 99% today.

Farmers are just beginning to put electricity to work here in Louisiana. They'll need 8-times more power by 1985, a challenge their non-profit, member-owned Electric Cooperatives are accepting and meeting with advance planning—including generation of power when necessary to help rural Louisiana grow and prosper.

Electric Co-ops, belong to your rural friends and neighbors who couldn't get electricity any other way. These private enterprises are the ONLY way ALL rural folks, especially isolated farmers, can have electricity at rates ALL can afford.

Think what this means to both town and country prosperity . . . to the pocketbooks of the consuming public—to YOU.

FIFTH TRIUMPH IN ROW

Sooners Upend Missouri To Take Big Eight Lead

By NORMAN ROWLAND

NORMAN, Okla. (AP)—The Oklahoma Sooners, reborn footballand allowed them to take a big giants of the Midlands, crackedstride toward becoming the conthrough sixth-ranked Missouri'sference's representative in the vaunted defense for touchdowns atOrange Bowl New Year's Day.

The victory was Oklahoma's lost only one conference game and fifth in a row in Big Eight Confer-the Sooners must beat the Cornhuskers next week to take the conference crown.

Oklahoma's defense stopped Missouri's rushing attack, previously the best in the nation, as cold as the wet 40 degree day.

It was the Sooners' fourth straight shutout. Not since the Oklahomans defeated Kansas 13-7 a month ago has the Oklahoma goalline been dented.

NORMAN, Okla. (AP) — Statistics of the Missouri-Oklahoma football game:

	MISSOURI	OKLAHOMA
First downs	8	12
Rushing yardage	111	193
Passing yardage	32	70
Passes	4-11	3-8
Passes intercepted by	0	2
Punts	6-32.3	5-44.6
Fumbles lost	1	3
Yards penalized	0	76

The Sooners wasted no time warming up before the crowd of 61,826.

Oklahoma's Joe Don Looney brought the opening kickoff back 40 yards to the Oklahoma 44. Then on the second play quarterback Monte Deere flipped a screen pass to halfback Virgil Boll, who scampered 42 yards behind fine blocking to the Missouri 9. Looney took it over from the 3 after Deere picked up 6 yards on a pair of keepers.

Butch Metcalf's kick made it 7-0 with only 2½ minutes gone.

A big play also set the Sooners' on the way to their second score. After taking the ball on the 20, fullback Jim Grisham slashed 30 yards up the middle and from that point the Sooners ground out the remaining yardage on power plays through the line.

Deere masterfully kept the Missouri defense off balance throughout the drive as he mixed the timing of his counts. Time and again Deere took an agonizingly losing time between plays. Then with the Tigers expecting the long count, Deere would quicken the count to catch them flatfooted.

The expected running duel between Looney and Missouri's Johnny Roland did not materialize. Looney, third-ranked rusher in the Big Eight, was held to 25 net yards in 12 attempts and Roland, second ranked rusher in the conference, netted only 9 yards in the same number of attempts.

Grisham, a 205-pound sophomore, led all runners with 116 yards—5 more than Missouri's entire team gained.

Notre Dame Whips Tarheels By 21-7

By KURT FREUDENTHAL

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Alert Notre Dame capitalized on three pass interceptions for touchdowns and a 21-7 victory over North Carolina in an intersectional football game Saturday before 35,553 fans, smallest Irish home crowd in 19 years.

The Irish stars were defensive halfback Tom MacDonald, who intercepted three aerials by Junior Edge, giving him eight interceptions for the season to tie a single season school record, and halfback Don Hogan, who gained 117 yards in 15 carries.

Two of MacDonald's interceptions and another by Gerry Grey in the fourth period led to two touchdowns as the Irish rang up their third consecutive victory and evened their season record at 4 and 4.

North Carolina, going into the half with a 7-0 lead, suffered its sixth loss against three victories.

The crowd, smallest since only 30,000 fans saw the game against Illinois here in 1943, was held down by threatening weather and 38-degree temperature.

Angelo Bertelli intercepted eight passes in 1942, a mark tied by MacDonald Saturday as the Irish licked the Tarheels for the 11th time in the 12-year series.

Edge completed 10 of 22 passes for 95 yards, but only three in the second half as Notre Dame's defense stiffened. Notre Dame's Daryle Lamonica, who tossed four touchdown passes against Pitt last week, made good on just three of 13 attempts for 56 yards.

North Carolina scored the second time it got the ball, marching 40 yards in nine plays with fullback Ken Willard scoring from the one.

Notre Dame failed to threaten in the first half, but the Irish scored twice within three minutes late in the third period, both times after MacDonald pass interceptions.

Sophomore fullback Joe Farrell scored the first two tallies and Lamonica plunted for the third in the fourth period, after Gerry Gray's pass interception. Hogan's 59-yard run to the four set up the score.

North Carolina failed to threaten seriously in the second half.

Although night long rains made the field slippery, only one fumble was lost. Farrell committed the blunder, but North Carolina couldn't take advantage of it.

Fullback Ed Kesler was North Carolina's most consistent ground gainer with 50 yards in 19 rushes.

West Virginia led 12-0 with 35 seconds remaining in the third period before The Citadel fell apart in the face of a battering Mountaineer offense.

Seven players took part in the scoring splurge, with none scoring more than one touchdown.

Vassar Girls Hurl Challenge At Kennedys

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Those Vassar College girls finally broke even Saturday in a touch football game with men. Letting the tie go to their curls, they immediately challenged the John F. Kennedy family of Washington, D.C.

The girls, who previously had lost 14-6 to a team of men from Siena College near Albany, tied male Vassar faculty members this time, 12-12. Earlier, a Vassar team had lost to a squad from Yale.

Miss Elizabeth Wilbur, a senior halfback from Villanova, Pa., told a reporter afterwards that the tie proved her club was "just rounding into top form."

Then she issued the challenge to the Kennedy family. Mrs. Kennedy attended Vassar, some time before the Hudson River girls' school got her to the joys of the gridiron.

Miss Wilbur noted there has been some talk about the prowess of the Kennedy family at touch football.

Her senior team, one of three on the campus, has games scheduled with teams from Princeton and Lehigh. The Princeton team, representing the Cannon Eating Club, is meeting the girls on Sunday.

Vassar insists on playing 11 girls against 8 men in such games.

Texas In Shutout Win Over TCU; Near Title

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Clutch runs by Jerry Cook and costly Texas Christian penalties carried Texas to a 14-0 football triumph over the Horned Frogs and within one-half game of the Cotton Bowl Saturday.

Undefeated Texas, with a 5-0-1 record, now can tie Texas A&M ON Thanksgiving Day and clinch the Cotton Bowl spot. It can take the Southwest Conference championship with a victory.

Paying no heed to a muddy field, the Longhorns slashed and tore Texas Christian into submission after being repulsed repeating gritty Horned Frogs in the first half.

The Texas defense kept TCU inside its 32-yard line the first two periods, inside its 34 the next and only in the final quarter could the weary Frogs get as far as their 40.

Cook's 19-yard run and a pass interference penalty that set the ball on the TCU 3 gave Texas its first touchdown.

Tom Wade, who piloted Texas expertly all day, was stopped on the 2 and Tommy Ford, who also featured with his runs, plowed to the 1. Ray Poage, who scored both of the Texas touchdowns, smashed over for the score.

The other Texas touchdown came in the final period with a 12-yard run by Cook getting to the TCU 19, where a personal foul by Jerry Terrell for tackling Wade out of bounds put the ball on the TCU 8. Wade pitched out to Poage, who scored both of the Texas touchdowns, smashed over for the score.

Tony Crosby, the bare-footed Texas kicker, booted both points after touchdown. He also missed on two field goal tries.

A crowd of 42,393—largest ever to see a Texas-TCU game—sat in intermitent rain and 44-degree temperatures to watch Texas play one of its finest defensive games of all.

Sonny Gibbs, the TCU quarterback, had his worst passing day, completing only five with two intercepted.

Tech To Place Tickets On Sale

RUSTON, La., 17 (Special) — Sale of season tickets for Louisiana Tech's 11 home basketball games started Friday, according to Athletic Director Joe Ailiet.

The Techmen open the season Dec. 6 against Mississippi State and play Ole Miss here Dec. 8. Other home tilts, other than those against Gulf States conference foes, include Arkansas Tech, Southeast Oklahoma, Centenary, and Southern Mississippi.

Season tickets, which cost $10, are on sale in the athletic office at the college in Memorial gymnasium. Persons who had reserved seats last year have until Dec. 1 to retain the same seats.

AGAINST STATE

Tech Opens Cage Play December 6

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech will open basketball play Dec. 6 against Mississippi State and the Techsters will field a more experienced team this year but one hampered by a lack of height.

Tech Coach Cecil Crowley will have six lettermen available and not a single senior on the squad. Max Lewis, a senior veteran and team captain, was killed just prior to the start of the fall term when struck by lightning while operating a tractor.

Monogram winners back include junior Joe Abendroth, 6-3 all - conference forward last year led the team in scoring and rebounding; Ray Penny, 6-3 soph forward from Coushatta; Dave Hruska, 6-1 junior guard from Minden; Ron McNabb, 6-0 junior guard from Shreveport; Butch Miller, 6-1 junior guard from Jackson, Miss., and Jerry Hood, 6-4 soph center from Ruston.

Abendroth, the ex - Byrd star, tallied 341 points for an average of 14.8 per game and picked off an average of eight rebounds per game. Missing will be the second highest scorer, guard Jack Fair of Ashland, and 6-5 center Jim Graves of Ferriday.

Among returning squadmen are guards Jim Cranford of Simsboro, Gordon Gibson of Shreveport Byrd, Arnold Ramsey of Quitman, and Donnie Allen of Covington; forwards Robert Bretz of Ruston and Max Howard of Pineville, and center Jesse Bridges of Pleasant Hill.

Two freshmen are among candidates for the squad. They include Gene Lee, a 6-5 forward from Bloomington, Ill., and Joey Barron, a 6-3 high scoring forward from Spearsville.

The Techsters will be trying to rebound from a 6 - 17 record in 1961-62 and a fifth place tie in the GSC with a 3-7 loop record.

In drills, five letterman have been running on the first team, with McNabb presently sidelined with an ankle injury. The Techmen will have to depend upon team speed and a high shotting percentage to offset their height advantage.

Syracuse Wins From Colonials By 35-0 Count

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse demonstrated that the best offense was a good defense Saturday as hard-charging Orange linemen spearheaded their team to a 35-0 victory over George Washington of the Southern Conference.

Three Syracuse tallies were set up by pass interceptions that were prompted by Syracuse harassment of Colonial passers. Another Syracuse score came on a sensational 59-yard punt return by John Mackey, a halfback converted from end a week ago.

Mackey also set up the first Orange score by returning a pass interceptions 51 yards to the George Washington 4.

The Orange line, packing superior weight, continuously broke through to drop Colonial quarterbacks Frank Pazzaglia and Merv Holland for huge losses.

George Washington's best scoring opportunity came late in the second quarter when John Hill, a guard, plucked a fumble by Syracuse halfback Don King, out of the air and returned it 15 yards to the Syracuse 37.

The Colonials were able to advance the ball to the Syracuse 19 only to lose 29 yards in the last three plays of the half. On the final play, Pazzaglia was shaken up and as a result he saw limited action in the second half.

Columbia Wins Over Penn, 21-7

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The passing combination of quarterback Archie Roberts to fullback Al Butts carried Columbia to a 21-7 Ivy League football victory over Penn Saturday, enabling the Lions to post three straight over the Quakers for the first time in their 42-game series.

Roberts, who set a league seasonal pass yardage gaining record of 952 yards, scored Columbia's first touchdown from the 1, tossed 58 yards to Butts for the second, and set up Butts' second score of the day, a 2-yard drive over left guard.

Buffalo, 6-0

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Johnny Stofa tossed a 21-yard scoring pass for Buffalo in the second period Saturday and then the Bulls fought off a determined Colgate aerial assault for a 6-0 football victory over the Red Raiders in a snowstorm. It was Buffalo's first victory over Colgate in 64 years.

Kansas Romps To 33-21 Win

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Kansas fullback Armand Baughman bulled through California defenses for 142 yards and three touchdowns, leading Kansas to a 33-21 intersectional football victory Saturday.

The Jayhawkers at one time threatened a rout with a 21-0 lead late in the first half, but the spirited Golden Bears stormed back, slicing it to 27-21.

Then Kansas wrapped it up with a 73-yard mahch with 2½ minutes left. Halfback Gale Sayers, used as a decoy most of the last half, broke 23 yards around right end for the touchdown.

OVER AUBURN

Georgia 11 Rolls To Upset Victory

By TONY HEFFERMAN

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI)—Quarterback, Larry Rakestraw of Georgia, bothered by a knee injury most of the season, lived up to his potential Saturday to lead the Bulldogs to a stunning 30-21 victory over the heavily favored Auburn Tigers.

Sophomore halfback Joe Burson contributed an 83-yard run with a pass interception to the major upset by heretofore unimpressive Georgia.

AUBURN, Ala. (AP)—Statistics of the Georgia-Auburn football game:

	GEORGIA	AUBURN
First downs	14	23
Rushing yardage	114	115
Passing yardage	219	167
Passes	12-23	18-35
Passes intercepted by	11
Punts	5-25	4-44.25
Fumbles lost	0	3
Yards penalized	69	20

The Bulldogs, 11-point underdogs, came from behind in the second half to maintain their superiority over the Tigers in their ancient series.

This was their 66th meeting since 1892 in Southeastern Conference play. It was Georgia's 31st victory compared to 29 losses to Auburn and six ties.

Rakestraw passed with precision and ran like a fullback to help even his team's season record at 3-3-3.

The key play came in the fourth period with Georgia leading 17-14. Auburn took over the ball on its 25 and quarterback Jimmy Sidle led his Tigers down to the Georgia 16. Sidle passed freely all the way to get Auburn within striking distance. But one pass went astray.

Sidle, back on the Bulldog 25 after a nine yard loss, passed to the right side and out of nowhere came defensive left halfback Burson. He snared the ball and ran 83 yards for a touchdown. Bill McCullough kicked the extrapoint to make the score 24-14.

Minutes later Auburn came back and scored to make it 24-21. The touchdown came on a six-yard pass from Sidle to halfback Mickey Sutton. It looked as if Auburn might be back in the game.

The Tigers held Georgia to Bulldog territory with about three minutes left to play, but then Jake Saye punted beautifully to the Tiger five-yard line.

Tucker Frederickson picked up the ball and fumbled and 231-pound guard Paul Holmes recovered for Georgia.

Minutes later, Rakestraw passed to his favorite target of the day, halfback Don Porterfield, from the four-yard line into the end zone to put the game on ice. It was Porterfield's third touchdown pass of the day.

The game was played in spring-like weather under cloudy skies, before 35,000 fans.

The Tigers drew first blood on an interception by defensive halfback Billy Edge, who grabbed a pass from Georgia substitute quarterback Saye on his own 27. Edge ran all the way down the sideline for paydirt to put Auburn in front and Woody Woodall's kick made it 7-0.

When Georgia gained possession after the kickoff, Rakestraw directed the Bulldogs to the opponents 13 and from there passed to Porterfield in the end zone. McCullough's kick was good to even the score.

The Tigers bounced back with about two minutes to play in the first half to go ahead 14-7.

The key play was bullet pass from Sidle at the Bulldog 35 to Frederickson who bulled his way to the four. Two plays later Larry Laster went over for the score.

The Bulldogs scored the first time they got the ball in the second half.

Rakestraw ran and passed his team to the 15, then found Porterfield alone in the end zone and hit him for the TD. At the beginning of the fourth period McCullough kicked a fourth-down field goal to put the Bulldogs ahead for good, 17-14, and set the stage for the final period fireworks.

HOW MUCH ADDITIONAL WILL THE PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS COST ME?

ANSWER: At the end of 1963, two mills will be added to your present tax rate. This means that for each $1,000 of assessment, you will pay only $2.00 more per year.

EXAMPLES: The owner of a home assessed at $500 will pay only $1.00 extra per year, beginning at the end of 1963.
The owner of a home assessed at $1,000 will pay only $2.00 extra per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $2,000 will pay only $4.00 per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $3,000 will pay only $6.00 per year.

This is a very small increase for the long overdue and much needed improvements which are recommended to you. Vote yes on all five propositions in Tuesday's election.

Dog House Time

This is the time of the year when hunters tell Fido to move over, because Thanksgiving is here and that signals the beginning of everything.

It was the beginning of a nation when the Pilgrims and the Indians sat down to break bread together. But when the Hunters and the people sit down this Thanksgiving Day the turkey and dressing will be choked down hurriedly because:

QUAIL SEASON opens Thanksgiving Day.

DEER SEASON opens the day after Thanksgiving Day.

And those few sportsmen who will not be out to bag either bird or buck probably will be in a big hurry to go work on their duck blinds because:

DUCK SEASON opens November 30 a week after the deer season opens.

It's unfortunate that the deer season opens on or around Thanksgiving Day each year, because this tends to wreck too many family plans for Thanksgiving observances. It's unfortunate that Thanksgiving is being pushed aside for sports and a commercial rush to Christmas.

But be that as it may, the big hunting seasons are here and the prospects are good.

If it would only rain some.

Northeast Louisiana has a good deer population — all over, not just in the Delta parishes, although Tensas and Madison are still the state's leaders.

And with the increase of the deer population so goes the increase in hunters. More people are deer hunting as the big transition to the high - powered rifle transpires.

This should mean that hunters or would - be hunters should make note to use more care than ever. A movement in the brush or reflection in the water could be a man or a woman and not a buck.

So look twice and look again before squeezing the trigger.

At the moment, or at this writing, the woods are extremely dry and the mast is scattered. Hunters are urged to be careful with their camp fires and cigarettes. Hunters are advised that where there's mast there are deer.

The outlook for the bird season is much the same — a good quail crop with more people hunting. It's too dry and warm now for the dogs, but conditions will improve as winter comes on.

We'll have more on ducks next year.

Meantime, be careful and don't shoot a man. They say our hunting safety record is good, but the loss of one life is not worth all the deer in the countryside.

Game Management Areas

Deer hunters should pay close attention to the regulations on the game management areas, since the areas have different seasons that must be observed.

However, all the game management areas with the exception of the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area require hunters to pick up daily permits from the check stations.

In the case of the Russell Sage areas, hunters must have a seasonal permit that is available at the wildlife office on Black Bayou at Monroe.

Hunters must pick up daily permits and return them at the check stations on all the other game management areas.

In addition, still hunting only is permitted on the game management areas. This means no dogs. This also means no camping on the areas.

And unless there is some rain between now and the season's opening, hunters are asked not to build fires on the areas. Be careful with cigarettes also.

Conditions in the woods are extremely dry.

Now, here is a breakdown on the seasons of the game management areas in Northeast Louisiana. Read it carefully.

CHICAGO MILLS GAME MANAGEMENT AREA. That portion of the game management area in Madison and Franklin will have a 5-day "bucks only" season beginning November 23 - 27. Location of the check stations in Franklin will be at (No 1) Eureka - Junction of parish road and hwy. 572 about two miles east of Gilbert; (2) Turkey Bluff-Junction of hwy 882 about three miles east of Swampers; (3) Tensas River about 10 miles south of the Tensas River bridge or about six miles north of Cooter Point where the pipeline crosses the Tensas River. Location of the check stations in Madison will be at (1) Hunter Bend Road where Hunter Bend Road joins hwy. 577; (2) Sharkey Road, located at junction of hwy. 65; (3) Bill & June's Store about seven miles south of Waverly on hwy. 577; (4) Tendal, at the entrance marker; (5) hwy. 80 at Lake One. That portion of the Chicago Mills area in Tensas Parish will have two days of "any deer" hunting on November 23rd and November 24th, and three days of "bucks only" hunting on November 25-27. Check stations will be located at the Cooter Point boat landing, Tensas River bridge between Franklin and Tensas, and at Jordon Ferry about 1½ miles south of Tensas Bluff. All deer killed on the area must be checked at one of the permit stations.

CALDWELL GAME MANAGEMENT AREA. Season will open "for bucks only" November 23 - 27. Check stations will be located at (No. 1) entrance marker one mile east of hwy. 559 at Locust Grove; (2) one - quarter mile south of Sandy Bayou on corner of the area; (3) two miles south of hwy. 4 at White Oak Landing on Boeuf River.

RUSSELL SAGE WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT AREA. Season will be open November 23 - 25 and December 26 - 30. No check stations will be operated, but agents will conduct spot checks. Seasonal permits are required. This is a "bucks only" season.

JACKSON - EIENVILLE GAME MANAGEMENT AREA. An "any deer" season will be held on opening day, November 23, with "bucks only" season following November 24 - 28. Check stations will be located at (No. 1) Quitman on highway 167; and (2) at the Union Church one mile off hwy. 147.

EAST CARROLL GAME MANAGEMENT AREA. Season will be on "bucks only" November 23-27. Check stations will be located at (1) junction of Valentine's drainage ditch and parish road four miles west of Sondheimer, and at (2) Scott's Grocery Store at the junction of 580 and 877 on Joe's Bayou.

UNION GAME MANAGEMENT AREA. Season will be on "bucks only" November 23-27. Check stations will be located at (1) main entrance on the Truxno - Concord road about a mile from the Tennessee cemetery, and at (2) Big Cane Creek bridge on the Truxno - Concord road. Also, a weighing out station will be located at the overnight cabin just off the Truxno - Concord road.

This is the beginning of Thanksgiving week and in a few days from now the little men will be making lots of news afield.

Down at Hebert in Richland Parish, a new wildlife club has named itself "Dave's Bayou 57 Club." At a meeting this week, the club selected two of its members to serve as special deputies to assist game wardens during the season.

Membership in the new club is open to all residents of Wards 5 and 7 of Richland. Next meeting is November 20th at 7 p.m. in the Woolen Lake Community Center. That's Tuesday night.

On the subject of game wardens, Ouachita Parish will hire four temporary wardens for the deer season. This is good, but the serious problems of enforcing the game laws occur just before the deer season opens and just after it closes. That's when the early hunters and late huneters operate.

Little Man's Corner

At Harrisonburg, E. B. McGuffee has been re - elected president of the Catahoula Independent Sportsmen's Association. Other officers include Keeth Ford, vice - president, and Pat Gibson, secretary - treasurer.

Two prizes of $15 and $10 were approved to the first and second place winners in a deet hunting contest — to be determined by the members who kill the deer with the most antlers.

And beginning next week, in this column, we'll begin a series of mentions on the new animals, reptiles and birds at the Monroe zoo. There's a lot of interest in the zoo now and background information on the attractions should be interesting.

In the Vidalia area, Percy May, Bill Strickland and Martin Stone have been catching the bass in the barpits below that town. Jimmy Hodges and Al Strickland of Vidalia landed the limit of bass at Pandora Lake.

Baseball Player Swaps Likely

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — All signs point to a possible record number of player swaps during baseball's annual three-week inter - league trading period starting next Wednesday, Nov. 21.

The success of the San Francisco Giants this past season and that of the Cincinnati Reds in 1961, both attributed largely to players obtained from the American League, is expected to spur more inter-league dealings than ever before.

Virtually all clubs have expressed a desire to strengthen themselves in one department or another. Hence there should be a flurry of activity at the minor league convention opening in Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 26 and at the major league sessions in New York Nov. 30-Dec. 1.

Many familiar names have been mentioned in possible deals. They include such stars as Dick Groat, Don Hoak and Dick Stuart of Pittsburgh; Lew Burdette and Joe Adcock, Milwaukee; Duke Snider, Wally Moon and John Roseboro, Los Angeles Dodgers; John Blanchard and Phil Linz, New York Yankees; Roger Craig, Charlie Neal and Frank Thomas, New York Mets; Ed Bailey, San Francisco; Earl Battey, Minnesota; Chuck Estrada, Baltimore; Woodie Held, Cleveland; Billy Bruton, Detroit; Jerry Lumpe, Kansas City, and Pete Runnels and Gene Conley, Boston.

Not all of these players will be traded, of course, but it's a safe bet that a number of them will be wearing different uniforms next spring, most likely in the rival league.

One of the reasons for the inter-league trading popularity is there is no opportunity for the traded player to come back and haunt his old team as would be the case if he were traded to a club in the same league.

This point was emphasized by Charles Finley. The owner of the Kansas Athletics was quoted recently: "If we make any deals, it will be with National League clubs. It's better that way. The players you trade don't come back to haunt you."

Under the inter-league trading rule, now in its fourth year, a player doesn't have to be cleared through the waiver mill by clubs in his own league, as is the case at all other times.

That's how the Giants were able to acquire pitchers Billy O'Dell, Billy Pierce and Don Larsen and outfielder Harvey Kuenn, who were a big help in the team's successful pennant drive last season. That's how the Reds were able to land third baseman Gene Freese and first baseman Gordy Coleman, who figured prominently in their 1961 championship season.

A much discussed trade that may be consummated at the winter meetings is one involving Minnesota and Baltimore. The Twins are said to be ready to trade Battey, their all-star catcher, to the Orioles for a starting pitcher, either Estrade or Milt Pappas.

The Yankees also are reportedly interested in either of the Oriole right-handers, and are said to have offered Blanchard in exchange. Twins' President Cal Griffith and Yankees' General Manager Roy Hamey admit they are seeking a pitcher but wouldn't say which one.

Buzzie Bavasi of the Dodgers admittedly is interested in Lumpe, the Athletics' fine second baseman, as a replacement for Jim Gilliam, who would switch to third base.

"We would like to have Lumpe," he said. "The Athletics want and need good pitching and we're prepared to give them a couple of good young ones."

Bavasi declined to name the pitchers offered but it is understood he has offered catcher Roseboro along with a pitcher.

The recent trade between St. Louis and Chicago in which pitchers Lindy McDaniel and Larry Jackson went to the Cubs in a six-player swap that sent George Altman and Don Cardwell to the Cards, foiled a Pittsburgh attempt to trade shortstop Groat to the Cards for righ-hander Jackson. The Yankees also were interested in Jackson.

Pirate General Manager Joe Brown has talked with American League clubs reportedly interested in Hoak and Stuart. The Pirates plan to start next season with Donn Clendenon at first and rookie Bob Bailey at third.

"Our main idea in a trade is to strengthen our pitching," said Brown, who refused to confirm that any of the players mentioned figured in the swap talk. "But we also need a catcher to back up Smoky Burgess."

Washington is seeking a shortstop. The Nats have made overtures to Cleveland for Held and to the Yankees for Linz, offering one of three starting pitchers. They are southpaw Claude Osteen, right-handers Dave Stenhouse or Bennie Daniels.

It is almost certain that Bo Belinsky will be pitching for a team other than the Los Angeles Angeles next season. The Yankees, who recently sent veteran Bob Turley to the Angels, are interested in the precocious sotuhpaw who made more headlines with his off-the-field activities than with his pitching after hs early season no-hitter. But Bo could be headed anywhere.

Houston, which tried unsuccessfully last winter to land Runnels, a home town boy, may get its man this time. The Colts are said to be willing to part with Roman Mejias, their leading hitter and run producer. The Red Sox are known to be seeking a right-handed power hitter to take advantage of the friendly left field wall at Fenway Park.

"Our talent has improved this year so that we don't have to force any deals," said Paul Richards, the Colts' general manager. "We have two or three deals in mind that may or may not be made later on."

General Manager Fred Haney of the Angels is seeking another starting pitcher and a right-handed hitting third baseman.

"I've talked to several clubs but have made no progress," admitted Haney. "Every time I talk turkey, they ask for Ken McBride, Lee Thomas or Bob Rodgers and that ends everything."

The Mets could use almost anybody worth while but the trouble is they have very few worthwhile players to give in exchange. The most desirable of the Mets appear to be pitchers Jay Hook, Al Jackson and Roger Craig. The Mets offered Craig, their biggest winner last season, to the Giants for Willie McCovey but were rebuffed.

"I have been in constant communication with a lot of clubs in both major leagues," said Mets' General Manager George Weiss, "but every phone conversation has ended with either the other fellow or I saying, "I'll see you in Rochester.'"

Army Is Beaten By Pittsburgh 11

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Leeson's placement after Pitt's lone touchdown beat Army Saturday 7-6 in a head-knocking football game marred by Army's sloppy ball handling.

Bob Roeder drove into the end zone from the 4 in the second period after Pitt's Jim Irwin had recovered John Seymour's fumble on the Army 15. Roeder scored on a fourth - and - two situation, skirting right end on a power sweep.

Joe Blackgrove slammed over from the 3 at 10:15 of the third period for the lone Army score. It had been set up by the aroused Chinese Bandits, who had swarmed over Jim Traficant and Paul Martha, throwing them for a total loss of 50 yards in three plays. Blackgrove picked up most of the yardage in the 32-yard march that also included a 15-yard gainer by Ken Waldrop on a reverse.

The Cadets were lining up quickly without going into a huddle during that drive.

With the game hanging in the balance, Cammy Lewis tried to run the ball over for a two-point conversion but he fumbled when hit short of the goal line. The fumble was not important because he would not have made the distance.

Army reached the Pitt 34 in the final period before another fumble, this time by Don Parcells, stopped them. Irwin again recovered for Pitt.

The teams played it close to the vest most of the way and the game settled down to a punting duel between Pete Billy of Pitt and Dick Peterson of Army.

The two teams threw only a total of 15 passes and completed only five for a combined passing gain of 89 yards.

Army lost the ball four times on fumbles and twice on interceptions.

Army muffed a good chance when Lewis fumbled on the Pitt 15 on the first play of the second quarter. Gary Kaltenbach recovered for Pitt, making its first New York appearance since the famous scoreless series with Fordham in the 1930s.

Leeson was the leading ground gainer with 44 yards for 12 carries. Blackgrove topped Army with 36 in 10 carries.

Spartans Down Wildcats, 31-7 In Big 10 Tilt

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Michigan State halted sophomore Tom Myers, the nation's leading passer, and ended Northwestern's Big Ten Conference title and Rose Bowl football hopes 31-7 Saturday.

Overcoming a rash of their own mistakes, the Spartans turned a blocked punt and a pass interception into touchdowns and completely dominated play after Northwestern had grabbed an early 7-0 lead.

Myers, who went into the game with 104 completions in 160 attempts for 1,403 yards and 13 touchdowns, was kept off balance throughout the game as the hard charging Michigan State defensive tempts for 1,403 yards and 13 touchdowns, was kept off balance throughout the game as the hard-charging Michigan State defensive line threw him for losses repeatedly. Myers completed eight of 24 passes for a net of 47 yards.

No less than six times, Michigan State handed the ball to Northwestern on fumbles and pass interceptions but the Wildcats couldn't take advantage.

George Saimes and Sherman Lewis, each scoring a touchdown, battered the Northwestern defenses with a powerful running game. Lewis gained 87 yards in 18 carries and Saimes finished with 63 yards in 13 attempts.

Buckeyes Stop Oregon Eleven In 26-7 Contest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State got a lot of offensive help from a couple of sparingly-used defensive players Saturday as the Buckeyes defeated Oregon 26-7 in an intersectional football contest before 72,828 fans.

The rainy-day crowd was as much a shocker as the score since it was the smallest throng to see Ohio State in action here in several years.

Bill Mrukowski, senior, came out of the discards to quarterback the Bucks to victory. Two weeks ago he was so low on the totem pole he did not even make the trip to Iowa. But he was good enough this time to score two touchdowns and pilot the Ohio State club faultlessly. He was shoved into the signal-calling spot in place of injured John Mummey.

Chick Mamula, a junior defensive tackle, scored his first points as he took over the place-kicking chores for injured Dick Van Raaphorst. Mamula made good with two conversions and field goals from 25 and 40 yards—the two defensive newcomers scoring 20 of Ohio State's 26 points.

Texas Tech In 1st Victory Of Season, 21-12

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Frustrated Texas Tech, sparked by a 98-yard pass interception return by end David Parks for the clinching touchdown, rose up to beat University of Colorado, 21-12, Saturday for its first victory of the season before 10,000 snow-chilled fans.

The Red Raiders, controlling action in the first half, struck for two touchdowns by fullback Coolige Hunt and protected a 14-6 intermission lead.

The Buffaloes, who now have the identical 1-8 record of Tech, scored on a 2-yard pass in the second quarter from quarterback Frank Cesarek to halfback John McGuire and in the fourth quarter on a yard plunge by Cesarek.

Park's interception return was the fourth longest in the Southwest Conference history and set a Tech school record. The previous school mark was a 95-yard TD return by Lefty Sollis in 1932 against Colorado Mines.

Hunt left the game in the third quarter with an apparent neck injury. Hospital officials declined to say just what the injury was or how seriously hurt Hunt is.

Princeton Rallies

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Fighting Princeton came from behind twice to whip stubborn Yale 14-10 in the 85th renewal of an ancient football series that could have gone either way Saturday.

The winning touchdown was an 8-yard power play end run by Dan Terpack at 6:35 of the final quarter.

Wolfpack Rolls For 24-12 Win

RALEIGH (AP) —North Carolina State broke the frustration of seven straight winless Saturdays with a decisive 24-12 thumping of Virginia in a spirted football game between two Atlantic Coast Conference also-rans.

he Wolfpack built up a 24-0 lead in advancing to its second triumph of the season against six setbacks and a tie. Virginia went down to its fourth defeat in eight games.

Sophomore quarterback Jim Rossi hurled two touchdown passes, one a 70-yard toss to halfback Mike Clark in the second period. The other went 14 yards to Joe Scarpati in the third.

Holland Scores 4 In Wisconsin Win

By JERRY LISKA

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Halfback Lou Holland scored four touchdowns and zoomed fourth-ranked Wisconsin to an easy, but important Big Ten Conference football conquest of lowly Illinois 35-6 Saturday.

The triumph apparently gained Wisconsin a Rose Bowl bid, even though the Big Ten season will not close until next Saturday.

Holland, 5-foot-10, 180-pound junior, produced three first quarter touchdowns on his first four plays of the game as the Badgers hiked their Big Ten record to 5-1 and their over-all mark to 7-1.

The Badgers, who were brilliantly led by quarterback Ron VanderKelen, on this bleak, dreary Dad's Day at Illinois, set the stage for a clinching Big Ten title finale against Minnesota next Saturday at Madison, Wis.

In view of Minnesota's 7-6 conquest of Purdue, plus the fact the Gophers are ineligible for a Rose Bowl bid, the Badgers apparently nailed down a Pasadena post-season trip.

Holland scored on scrimmage runs of 35, 18 and 15 yards and speared a 16-yard scoring pass from VanderKelen in his remarkable performance.

Illinois, which had scored a resounding upset of Purdue two weeks ago, scored its only touchdown with 34 seconds remaining in the first half, and then on a fluke play.

After Wisconsin had surged to a 28-0 lead, the Illini counted on a 13-yard pass from Mike Taliaferro which was deflected on the goal line by Badger defender John Fabry into the hands of Illini halfback Trenton Jackson for a touchdown.

Kerbow Carries Owls By Aggies In SWC Contest

HOUSTON (AP) — Randy Kerbow, a 187-pound senior, had a hand or foot in every Rice point Saturday as the Owls defeated Texas A&M 23-3 in a Southwest Conference football game.

Kerbow scored the first 10 Owl points by kicking a 36-yard field goal and plunging over for a touchdown from the 1, then hit Jerry Kelley and John Sylvester with touchdown passes that covered 64 and 25 yards.

The Rice defense meanwhile riddled the A&M attack by intercepting four passes and covering three fumbles wile permitting the Aggies to cross midfield only twice the first three periods.

Paul Piper made the first interception on the second play of the game and Kerbow kicked his field goal seven plays later.

Marines On Guantanamo Want To Fight Or Get Out

By JACK V. FOX

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba (UPI)—On a cactus-covered hill above Kittery Beach and overlooking Guantanamo's steel fence border with Cuba, the Marines of Baker Company have slept in foxholes for three straight weeks and they would like to know two things:

Why didn't they bust into Fidel Castro's Oriente Province as soon as they got here?

If they are not going to fight, when are they going to get out?

Their chaplain tells them they will be out by the first frost. This week it was 95 in the shade every day.

It's not that morale is low in the company commanded by Capt. Barry Colassard of Great Neck, N.Y. This unit, in fact, is in high and joking spirits despite the heat, the bugs and the sitting tight. One reason is that Colassard, a handsome young Syracuse graduate, has a tremendous sense of humor which communicates down to his men.

On Tuesday Colassard's outfit was involved in a mock battle with an enemy theoretically coming across the fence. The captain had been tremendously busy supervising Seabees who are erecting pillboxes and fortifications on the hill until it resembles a tropical Maginot Line.

Unable to spare the time for the exercise, Colassard instructed his radio man to inform battalion headquarters:

"The captain died a heroic death. He was last seen running toward the fence with a grenade."

Colassard said he deliberated first reporting that he had fled to the rear but decided against it.

Baker Company flew here from Camp LeJeune, N.C., arriving on Saturday, Oct. 20—two days before Kennedy's speech announcing the crisis.

"We didn't know where we were going until the plane landed and we stepped out in Cuba," said Cpl. Robert Sweda of Dunkirk, N.Y.

The men almost unanimously thought they were going into combat immediately and they were keyed up to it.

As the days pass, they grow more frustrated—particularly because they are so cut off from news of the high-level maneuverings in the Cuban crisis.

On the immediate front, only a few of them even got a look at a Cuban militiamen.

Along the road which parallels the fence, sentries stand rotating four-hour guard duty at hilltop posts, and a few patrol up and down the road. In the course of the day, they see perhaps 20 Cubans carrying Czech-made rifles and wearing Russian style helmets.

One of them waved to Pfc. William Bosley of Charleston, W. Va., inviting him to come over to the fence. Then he shouted in Spanish. Bosley ignored him.

On the hills on their side the Cubans have been busy photographing the Marine fortifications. An officer in the typical beret of the militia supervised the telescopic camera work.

Executive officer of Baker Company is Lieut. Joseph Allegretti of Chicago. The 25-year-old Allegretti has been married only 13 weeks and he is one of those most anxious to get the answer whether they stay or go.

Colassard has been trying to get each man back once a week to the harbor area of the naval base. Located there are swimming pools, bowling alleys, baseball fields, fishing and sailing boats, nightly movies and well-stocked clubs for all ranks.

Not until a few days ago did the men get anything except C rations on the hilltop position. Now they are brought up one hot meal a day.

Swartz Four-H Clubbers Meet

Members of the Swartz 4 - H club met Friday when they were visited by 4-H agents Mrs. Donna M. Moore and Floyd Kent.

President Phillip Hill opened the meeting and cleared routine business on the agenda before the visitors were introduced.

The program included music, refreshments and some of the fifth grade members presented a play, "Cartwrights and Neighbors."

Sarah Price brought cookies for the group.

Negro Is Held In Murder Of His Wife

A 46-year-old Negro man was in the Ouachita Parish jail Saturday night, held on a murder charge in the iron pipe slaying of his wife at a Negro nightspot.

Monroe police who investigated the death identified him as Frank Daniel Hill, 4103 Elm St., and the dead woman as Henrietta Hill, Negro, 37, of the same address.

Dr. John P. Burton, Ouachita Parish coroner, said the woman died from blows on the head, inflicted with a four-inch long, 1½-inch width section of iron pipe. The incident occurred at the Oxford Street Bar around midnight Friday, apparently resulting from a disagreement between the couple.

Hill, booked at 1:05 a.m., surrendered to the police and admitted welding the pipe length with which the woman was struck several times in the head outside the bar. However, the incident was still under investigation late Saturday.

Both Monroe and West Monroe police were kept busy Saturday investigating a number of minor thefts and burglaries.

Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly said the Negro American Legion Hall, on Powell Avenue, was broken into and between $8 and $5, four cartons of cigarettes and two cartons of gum taken. Entrance to the building was gained sometime Friday night or early Saturday morning by tearing off a screen and breaking though a window.

Monroe officers were also investigating the burglary of a soft drink machine located inside Ritters' Wrecking Yard, 1919 DeSiard St. The machine was looted after the party or parties entered the building through a hole in the roof. Less than $2 was believed taken.

In West Monroe, two power hack saws were reported stolen from separate homes Saturday. West Monroe officers received a report Saturday morning from Clifton Williams, 206 Lee St., West Monroe, that a 20-inch blade saw, yellow brown in color, was taken from outside his residence sometime Friday night. He said the saw was valued at $230.

Saturday afternoon, another report was received of a saw missing from the home of F. D. Nelson, 2106 Cypress St., West Monroe. Nelson described the saw as a Sears product with an 18-inch blade. It was taken sometime between Wednesday afternoon and Saturday morning.

Austria Votes On Parliament

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Austrians will elect their sixth postwar Parliament Sunday. Both the Conservative People's party and the Socialists, coalition partners since 1945, hope to win additional seats, but no major upheaval is expected.

A total of 4,305,409 persons out of a population of nearly seven million is eligible to help choose 165 deputies for four year terms. Election authorities expect a turnout of more than 90 per cent.

In the outgoing chamber, the Conservatives of Chancellor Alfons Gorbach held 79 seats and the Socialists of Vice Chancellor Bruno Pittermann had 78. The only opposition group, the right wing Freedom or liberal party, held eight seats.

Art Exhibit Series Slated At Northeast

MONROE, La. — A series of art exhibits, beginning today with a showing by nine Monroe area artists, will be held at Northeast Louisiana State College under the sponsorship of the Northeast Student Council and Kappa Pi, national art fraternity.

THE FOLLOWING STATEMENT BY JUDGE HARPER SPEAKS FOR ITSELF!

Reprinted from the Monroe Morning World of Friday, Nov. 16th. just in case you might have missed these profound observations by one of Monroe's most respected citizens.

Judge Harper Gives Support To Bond Issue

Monroe City Judge W. M. Harper Thursday endorsed the $11,250,000 bond issue which will be voted on next Tuesday by Monroe property owners.

Judge Harper's statement on the issue, which pointed out the necessity for it, follows in part:

When I settled in Monroe over a half-century ago the townspeople were still openly criticising Mayor Forsythe for acquisition of Forsythe Park as an unneeded luxury. A few years subsequently bitter opposition was registered by the same group against construction of a too elaborate power and water plant. The passing years have proven the wisdom of both Forsythe Park and the utility plant.

Mayor Arnold Bernstein was bitterly assailed for extravagance in over - building Neville High School and equally condemned for acquisition of Bernstein Park. Time has wholly vindicated the wisdom and farsightedness of Mayor Bernstein in both projects.

Actually I do not recall a single public improvement issue ever presented in Monroe that did not draw some degree of opposition, but time and experience have always justified the improvements.

Today, Monroe is asked, not solely by the Mayor and City Council, but equally by a representative group of leading, farsighted citizens to present to you the present bond issue at the polls next Tuesday. The entire issue is in group or package form in obedience to public demand in order to obviate multiple bond elections.

The proposed bond issue covers improvements needed citywide. There are strong and compelling reasons for each project offered, if Monroe is to adequately care for the needs not only of today but of tomorrow's bright and promising community.

The only issue I have heard questioned in the least is the public auditorium. But have we not badly outgrown the facilities of both Brown Hall and Neville Auditorium? Can we longer usurp both institution's facilities? Actually, as a cold matter of law, either institution could deny the use of its auditorium for public uses other than those of the institution itself, because they were provided with funds dedicated for institutional use only. Neither Brown Hall or Neville auditorium has facilities to accommodate activities that could and would come to Monroe if proper auditorium facilities were available. Unquestionably it will cost. But must we go into a state of retrogression because of cost? Relatively, I submit, today's costs are no more than yesterday's I well remember when a 24 - pound sack of flour cost only 75 cents. I also remember as forcibly that the average daily wage then was $1.25. Doubtless future costs will be correspondingly more. However I predict that Monroe's posterity will applaud the unselfish foresightedness of today's citizenry in providing an auditorium that will lend itself to entertainment and cultural betterment for many decades to come. Nearby El Dorado and Lafayette, both of which are smaller than Monroe in population, have fine public auditoriums that have proven blessings to both communities. So, frankly, I do not see how any citizen endowed with average vision and perspective can be heard to oppose the needs of present and future citizens of our fair city of the manifold benefits that flow from an up-to-date public auditorium.

We simply will not discuss the need for a new City Hall. Everyone recognizes the present antiquated, delapidated structure to be a humiliating, national disgrace.

W. M. HARPER

Rockefeller Faces Pressure From Rival GOP Groups In '64 Nomination Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller apparently faces strong pressure from GOP conservatives and liberals in shaping the course he hopes will lead to his nomination for president in 1964.

The New York governor, who dislikes labels, is tabbed in the minds of most politicians as a liberal, or at least a moderate. His position on major domestic issues is not far from that of the man he would hope to defeat, President Kennedy.

During the election campaign, for example, Rockefeller pledged to push a state program aimed at making "all the people well-housed, well-clothed, well-fed well-educated and well-protected from adversity."

To many Republicans this sounded as if the governor was for a modified version of the welfare state, although on a pay-as-you-go basis. While the governor's campaign promise that there will be no increase in state taxes may present some difficulties, there is every evidence he will stick to hid budget-balancing philosophy.

Rockefeller's demonstrated ability in the past to balance income and expenditures has made him palatable to some GOP conservatives without damaging his standing among the party's liberals.

But the governor appears likely to have to consider a number of factors in charting his course toward 1964.

In the first place, the primary asset in his arsenal of political weapons is his twice-demonstrated ability to carry New York. Most republicans are rather certain they'll have to have New York's electoral votes if they are to defeat Kennedy's bid for a second term.

But New York presents some special problems. A Conservative ticket headed by David H. Jaquith as a candidate for governor polled 126,131 votes in the Nov. 6 balloting. If anything Jaquith was more violent in his denunciations of Rockefeller than was the Democratic nominee, Robert M. Morgenthau.

The Conservatives are guaranteed a place on the 1964 ballot, if they want to put up candidates.

An Open Letter To The City Council And The Citizens Of Monroe

We, the undersigned property owners and voters of Monroe, wish to commend the Monroe City Council for the excellent manner in which they have gathered information concerning Monroe's capital improvement needs. We are very pleased that the City Council had the foresight to employ experts for the purpose of determining our needs, estimated cost, and proper location of these new facilities. We also wish to commend the citizens committee which has worked with the City Council, the architects, consultants and engineers. This group of citizens worked very hard, giving of their time and ability for the overall benefit and development of our city.

We believe that this committee and consultants, along with the City Council, has done an excellent job in assembling the necessary information so that the property owners of Monroe can make an intelligent judgement when voting November 20th. The reports and the information contained in them, presented to the citizens committee and the City Council, were compiled by architects, consultants and engineers who are experts in their various fields. As a result of these very fine studies and reports, the City Council, cooperating with the citizens committee, was able to formulate a long range program geared to the city's unusual growth and development.

The five (5) projects . . . Sewerage Treatment Plant, Municipal Auditorium and Civic Center, City Hall and governmental center, Airport Improvements and Fire Department Improvements are projects that are long overdue.

CITY HALL . . . Our City Hall was constructed in 1910 when Monroe's population was 10,209. The jail was constructed to house 36 prisoners and the records at City Hall show that the daily average population of the city jail is more than one hundred!

SEWERAGE TREATMENT PLANT . . . This project will greatly abate the pollution of the Ouachita River, one of our greatest natural resources.

MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM AND CIVIC CENTER . . . Monroe, as the cultural, trade, medical and educational center of an expanding area, presently having a population in excess of 350,000 is handicapped by not having an auditorium facility wherein varied activities can be staged.

AIRPORT AND TERMINAL FACILITIES . . . serve not only the City of Monroe, but the area described above. Our present facilities are completely inadequate to handle the tremendous growth in air travel. During the last year more than 40,000 people boarded or deplaned at our municipal airport. We have grown from one airline to four airlines and must bring our airport and the terminal building up to modern day standards.

FIRE DEPARTMENT . . . Improvement of our Fire Department is essential to maintain our present low insurance rates. Additional facilities will assure our continued low rate and will be a step toward an even more favorable rate.

If Monroe is to maintain its position and continue its growth and development, be competitive as a center with other centers, such as Shreveport, Jackson and Alexandria, we must match our growth with proper facilities.

We pledge our 100% support to all of these improvements and request the traditionally progressive property owners of the City of Monroe to join with us in voting for all five projects, thereby insuring our continued expansion and development.

Respectfully,

With Thanksgiving Week in the offing, visitors are coming into town for the holiday. An especially pleasant aspect of the season is the gathering of out-of-town family members.

LYDIA NICHOLS is expecting a house full of guests. Included in the party will be her brother, CLAUDE OAKLAND of San Francisco; another brother and family, JOHN B. OAKLAND, wife VIRGINIA, and children, MARY, BERNIE, and CELESTE, from St. Louis, Missouri; and JOHN GADWAY, a Tulane student whose home is in Homestead, Florida. They will arrive on Wednesday and be in town until next Sunday.

Flying in today from New Orleans are LOUISE NORMANN and CONNIE FAUST. They will spend the week with their grandparents, the TOM LEIGHS, on South Grand.

Also here from New Orleans this week were TOM MILES and STEWART MILES, who left yesterday after a visit of several days. They were guests of their grandmother, DAISY TERZIA, and other relatives here.

Speaking of Lydia Nichols, as we were above, she and VERA TROY were hostesses at a charming little party Friday afternoon. Lydia has been this year's director of the Friday games for Bayou Bridge club, while Vera is past director. Games are played at Bayou DeSiard country club. Vera and Lydia invited those taking part in the games this week to come by the Nichols' home for refreshments Friday afternoon. Arrangements of pink, white, and lavander chrysanthemums decorated the living room and den for the party. Iced drinks and light snacks were served.

Last Friday afternoon, BROOKSIE HAMAKER and JO MATTISON entertained at a bridge party at Bayou DeSiard country club. Arrangements of fall leaves and bronze chrysanthemums were used in the club ballroom. Before the games, apple dumplings with whipped cream were served. Ten tables of players took part, with prizes going to JEAN WILLIAMS, high; MARY LEE KING, second; and GWEN HARDY, travelling prize for slam.

An elegant assortment of desserts were served with coffee and spiced tea when JEANNETTE AYCOCK invited a group of friends in on Wednesday afternoon. American Beauty roses in a silver vase formed the focal decor in the living room. Yellow and bronze chrysanthemums filled a silver Revere bowl on the dining table, while the same blossoms were used in brass scales on the buffet. Choice of goodies included mincemeat tarts, miniature pumpkin pies, luscious prune cake with caramel icing, Brownies, pound cake with orange glaze, and salted nuts.

At this season of the year, football - listening parties are a popular form of informal entertainment. Last Saturday night the home of EVELYN and ROY COLE, JR., was scene of this type of party. Five couples attended, each contributing a dish to the potluck supper. The buffet, which included ham, potatoes augratin, green salad, and hot breads, was decorated with an arrangement of fruit. Guests served themselves in the dining room and then were seated around radios in living room and den to hear the LSU - TCU game.

A goodly number of local football fans drove to Jackson, Mississippi yesterday for the LSU-Mississippi State game. Among the Tiger fans were JANE and DAN SARTOR, PAT and DICK BLANCHARD, DIBBLE and BARNEY PATE, JAKE USSERY with son JIM and guest DAVID KELLY, the BUDDY BODRONS, JUDY and GENE WORTHEN, the LARRY ROBERTS.

Due home today are the W. E. DENTS, JR., sons BUDDY and MARK. They attended the game in Jackson yesterday, and spent the night with MRS. W. E. DENT, SR., there.

A harvest theme was carried out in decorations when VERA HOWELL and ELOISE BAILEY entertained at a coffee Thursday morning at the Howell home. Yellow chrysanthemums were used on a bowl table in the living room, and again in a silver sugar bowl on the coffee table. Centering the dining table was a wooden tray overflowing with glided fruit and yellow chrysanthemums. Hot shrimp dip, cheese straws, rum muffins, and salted pecans were served with coffee to about eighteen ladies invited for the morning.

Some twenty - five couples surprised the SHELBY HILLS with a house-warming Wednesday night in their recently renovated home on Marie Place. The guests arrived together, bringing refreshments of roast beef, hot biscuits, lobster mousse, and devilled oysters. CLAY WILSON accompanied the group on the guitar as they sang Juanita's original song "This New House".

On Thursday, Babette DOERNBERG was hostess at luncheon on the porch of Bayou DeSiard Country club. Pink roses arranged with purple ageratum and grapes centered the pink-covered table. The menu served to twelve guests included Waldorf salad in apple shells, turkey mornay with asparagus, and baked butterscotch custard.

Invitations were in the mail this week for the Revelers' Dance club fall party, scheduled for Wednesday evening, Thanksgiving Eve, from nine until one, in the Paragon ballroom. Jerry Lane and his orchestra will provide music for the semi-formal affair.

Cleverest invitations of the season were those mailed to MYLA LANCE and JIMMY BRIGHT's party last Friday night. These showed a boy and girl entering a gate marked "Club 13", and stated "We've joined the club. Come help us celebrate." The club theme was carried out in green and white decorations used in the Westminister recreation center. Thirteen tall slender tapers burned in a cornucopia of white flowers, and the numerals "13" marked individual petit fours. About one hundred members of the junior high set attended the party.

For his fifth birthday, ROBBIE CURRY entertained with a cowboy party at home. Ten little boys, wearing their jeans, arrived for play in the yard. Favors were tiny locomotives filled with candy cigarettes. Hamburger lunch, with cupcakes and ice cream, was served.

Charming party for seven-year-old girls was that honoring DEDE FRAZIER on her birthday Wednesday. A Raggedy Ann theme was carried out with the use of a Raggedy Ann table decoration and a large cake baked in the shape of the doll. Places for eighteen little guests were each marked by a favor, consisting of a Raggedy Ann doll holding a placecard. Raggedy Ann stories were read to the group as refreshments were served. Later a program was presented by the guests, each contributing an entertainment. A Twist contest climaxed the party, with the prize going to CHRISTIE CLEMENTS.

Ten girls of the junior high set were invited to spend the night party Friday at the home of CYNTHIA TERZIA. Festivities began with supper at five - thirty. The buffet, decorated with bronze chrysanthemums and pyracantha, was set up in the new family room of the Terzia home. The menu included shrimp Creole, salad, and French bread. Games were planned for the evening, with hot chocolate and popcorn served later.

Jean Gentry honored her granddaughter, Sylvia Jean Huenefeld on her fourth birthday when she entertained eight little guests with a luncheon at home. The menu included creamed turkey, congealed fruit salad, banana splits and cherry birthday cake.

Our poem for the Thanksgiving season is by Monroe's own EULALIA M'COY:

When evening skies are blending blue
With red and gold in every hue
Reflected from the leafy spread
Where once a golden harvest grew—
That is Thanksgiving.
When earth, once green, turns brown instead.
And trees are bare when trails are tread
And woods in stalwart stateliness
Arise to weather winter's dread—
That is Thanksgiving.
When all about is happiness—
So much that life and lore possess!
And loved ones gather, festive, gay
And joyous in their thankfulness—
That is Thanksgiving.
When happy hearts look up to say,
In gratitude for God's good way,
"We thank Thee for our land, and pray
Long wave our Flag!" then is the day
That is Thanksgiving.

PROTECT HOOD

After washing a hooded sweater, stuff the hood with tissue to hold it open. This helps it to dry in shape, and lets air circulate so that it will dry faster.

Make Frame For Small Window

Dress up a window that's too small for frilly curtains or draperies by making a thin plywood cornice for the top. Then, cover it with one of the new patterns or colors in adhesive coverings. The material can be pressed smoothly into place in minutes.

Outline the window, too, if you like, by pressing strips of the adhesive covering on the window molding, the sill and on the apron under the sill.

WITH 33 COMPLETIONS

Oil, Gas Activity Soars In District During Week

Drillers in the Monroe Oil & Gas District last week recorded a total of 33 completions in a 14-parish area—the highest figure in over a year. Ouachita Parish held 25 of them.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook pointed out the bulk of the home parish finals had been brought in over a period of months, but were held for gauging, accounting for the sudden spate of completions.

Activity, nevertheless, was holding at unseasonably high levels near the approach of winter, and northeast Louisiana drillers listed spottings on a total of 20 new locations. Wells actively drilling or testing over the 14 parishes totalled 26.

New locations were up from 18 the week before, while active rigs fell moderately from 29. Again, as in recent months, they were scattered, with eight parishes accounting for the new locations and nine with active rigs.

All the Ouachita Parish completions were in the Monroe Gas Field and all were shallow gas producers drilled to around 2300 feet. The Cardinal Drilling Company had 20 of the units, while J. C. Trahan Drilling Company was operating five.

Union Parish had five finals, Concordia had two and Tensas, one.

Ouachita Parish had but one of the new locations, also in the Monroe Gas Field. Catahoula Parish accounted for five, Concordia had four and there were two each in LaSalle, Avoyelles, Tensas and Union Parishes. Richland Parish had one new location.

Of the active wells, Ouachita had two. Both were drilling. Douglas Whitaker's Cadeville SUO Johnston No. 1 at 6785 feet, and J. G. Straban's A. B. Carroll No. 2 at 1200 feet.

There were two recompletions during the week and both came in LaSalle Parish. In the Nebo Hemphill Field was Hunt Petroleum Corporation's Goodpine F No. 62, while Cities Service Petroleum Company's Taylor Unit No. 1 is in the Little Creek Field.

A total of 11 rigs were plugged and abandoned during the week and the new total on inactive sites stood at 106. Locations numbered 38; 36 were drilling.

A capsule look at Cook's weekly report was as follows:

IN MIZE AREA

New Oil Field Find Possible In Smith

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A new oil field find may be near in Smith County at Triad Oil & Gas company's wildcat, the Clarke No. 1, sec. 9-1n-15w, about four miles northeast of Mize.

The venture is reported to have logged oil shows at 10,538-79 feet and also at 10,566 feet. Wire line testing at 10,566 feet indicated possible commercial production.

The shows were thought to be in the Paluxy formation with the operators drilling ahead to contract depth of 13,600 feet.

In Adams County, Hughes & New Oil Company officially completed their wildcat, the Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 29-5n-ew, as the discovery well of a new Wilcox sand field. The well was completed from a sand at 4,868-69 feet, flowing 108 barrels of 42 gravity oil per day. The new producing area has been named the Hutchings Landing Field.

In Greene County, Cities Service Petroleum company continued to drill below 12,200 feet in its potential new oil discovery.

The wildcat is the Robinson Land Co. No. 1, sec. 15-4n-8w, which has logged oil sands at 7,876-97 feet and at 11,358-77 feet with both zones recovering high gravity oil on drill stem test run in open hole. Contract depth for the venture is 13,000 feet.

American Petrofina Co. of Texas has set production casing in its Rankin County wildcat, the Rhodes-Sowell No. 1, sec. 18-5n-5e, to evaluate commercial worth of oil shows logged at 9,825-40 feet. The well was drilled to a total depth of 11,253 feet, and is located approximately four miles southwest of Pelahatchie.

Marshall R. Young secured permit to deepen his Hancock County wildcat, the O'Toole No. 1, sec. 7-7s-14w, located about four miles north of the Kiln field. The venture was permitted to 10,800 feet and after the electrical log was run, operator secured permit to deepen to 12,300 feet. Operator is reported to be releasing no information on the well.

In Clarke County, two important wildcat ventures were below 8,000 feet. Sun Oil Co. drilled below 8,300 feet in its Longbell Petroleum Co. No. 1, sec. 34-4n-16e, a scheduled 11,500 foot test to explore the Smackover lime formation. Larco Drilling Co. is below 8,300 feet in its Longbell No. 1, sec. 6-10n8w, a 10,200 foot try.

Field drilling during the past week saw four new oilers completed. In the Summerland Field on the Jones County side, Four States Drilling Co., completed its Easterling No. 1, sec. 3-9n-14w, pumping 231 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 9,448-56 feet.

At Dexter in Walthall County Gulf Coast Drilling & Exploration, Inc., finaled its Morris No. 2, sec. 35-2n-12e, flowing 143 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 9,669-74 feet.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. completed its USA no. 5, sec. 16-4n-1w, in the Kelly Hill Field of Wilkinson County. The well flowed 120 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 6,693-95 feet.

At West Langsdale in Clarke County, Texaco, Inc., completed its Longbell No. 3, sec. 27-1n-17e, flowing 78 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 2,990 feet.

In the Homewood Field of Adams County, E. C. Wentworth completed his Natchez Country Club No. B-1, sec. 12-7n-ew, pumping 60 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 4,358-60 feet.

API President Describes 1962 As A Good Year

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — The chairman of the American Petroleum Institute describes 1962 as an exceptionally good year.

L. F. McCollum, Houston, says some problems will be carried into 1963 but the industry — at home and abroad — has set a number of records this year.

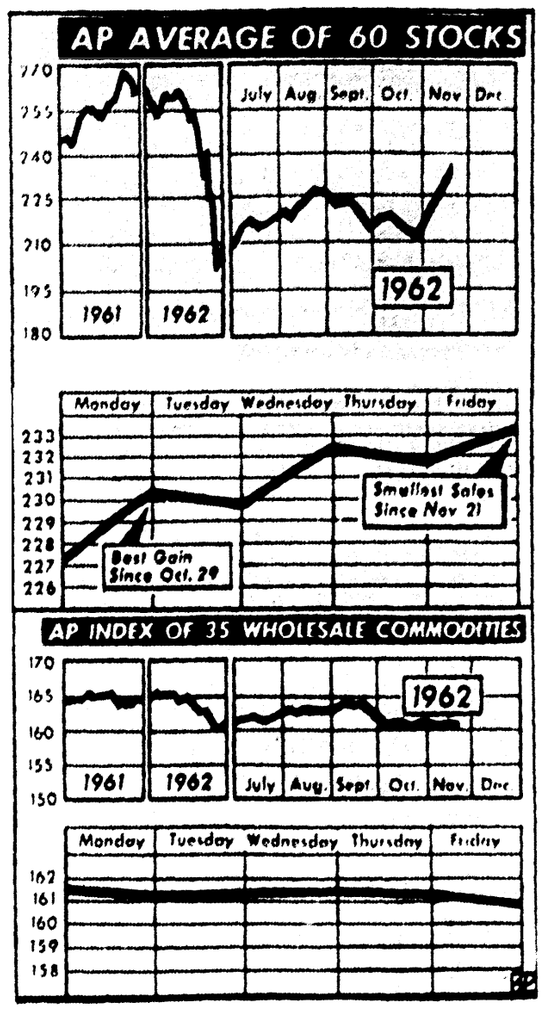

New production and demand records have been set for crude oil, natural gas, and petrochemicals.

Total domestic demand for petroleum products is expected to average 10,200,000 barrels daily by the end of the year.

A new high for total demand had been expected but the indicated 4.2 per cent gain over 1961 —the largest annual increase since 1955—dwarfs most forecasts. Most predictions for 1962 had anticipated an increase of only 1.5 to 2 per cent.

Major factors behind the sharp spurt in demand have been increased military requirements and healthy gains in demand for gasoline and heating oils.

The 4.2 per cent increase for 1962, however, is not prompting sharp optimism for 1963.

THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks advanced for the third consecutive week, closing Friday at 233.1, up from 227.2 in the previous week. The commodity index, led by industrials, declined to 160.9 this week from 161.1 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

ECONOMISTS THINK

1963 Recession Prospects Fade

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) Economists took another look at business prospects during the week and some saw the likelihood of an early 1963 recession fading.

Improved reports on the economic pace, highlighted by booming automobile sales, inspired optimism.

And Kennedy administration officials renewed their call for a substantial income tax cut next year, arguing that an expected $7.8 billion federal budget deficit should be no deterrent.

The stock market responded with some good gains for the third week in a row. Brokers said small investors—then lost confidence at least partially restored — were coming back into the market.

A poll of 45 economists and business leaders showed that nearly two-thirds believe there will be no recession through next year. Those who still expect a letdown feel it will be mild.

The surge of new car sales is giving the economy "a potent shot of confidence," said Byron J. Nichols, general manager of Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge division.

"It could be that what has been happening to the automobile industry in recent weeks is the tip off that general business conditions ahead will be much better than any of us have been led to expect," he added.

Another industrialist, William H. Shaw, manager of business economics in Du Pont's Textile Fibers division, said that if there is a recession it will come later, rather than early next year. He looks for another quarter or two of hesitant expansion.

"The chances of avoiding recession in early 1963 look a little better now than they did four to six weeks ago," commented the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. "This change mirrors not only the Cuban episode, which seems likely to produce some increase in both military and civil defense spending, but also a moderate brightening of business news."

The administration's announcement that it expected a budget deficit of $7.8 billion in this fiscal year—second highest in peacetime—was considered by some to have inflationary aspects.

The Budget Bureau said, however, that, "With the existing level of unemployment and unused plant capacity, the deficit is neither inflationary nor dangerous to our balance-of-payments position."

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and Walter W. Heller, chief economic adviser to President Kennedy, asserted that the bigger than anticipated budget deficit should not be allowed to get in the way of a tax cut.

OFFICIALS VISIT

Columbian Carbon Co. officials visited Monroe during the week. They were Lyle L. Shepard, president; E. B. Brooks, vice president, and W. C. Ekholm, general manager of manufacturing for the company.

M. R. Howell, general manager of Carbon Black Manufacturing of the Monroe divisional headquarters, conducted the visitors on a tour of the Monroe offices and laboratories. Following a meeting in which Howell and his staff outlined the division's performances, the group attended a luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Shepard complimented the group on the successful operations in the division, and briefly reviewed economic factors influencing the industry and the company. Ekholm, a former Monroyan, accompanied Shepard and Brooks on a tour of other Monroe area operations of the company.

WINS TRIP

Jack Spaulding of Monroe Office Company won a trip to Chicago, Ill., recently for his firm's sales record in a contest held by Victor Business Machines Co., Division Victor comptometer Corporation.

Spaulding was flown to Chicago and back in the company's private plane.

RECOGNIZED

Two Monroe men were recognized in the November issue of United Gas Log, the company's employee publication, for anniversary celebrations totaling 55 years.

The veteran United Gas employees, and the number of years they have served the company, are E. M. Granberry Sr., 30 years, and R. A. Hughes, 25 years.

Cotton Futures Show Gains For Week's Activity

NEW YORK (AP)—New York cotton futures, generally higher at the start, gave up part of their gains this week but wound up mostly ahead for the week.

At the close Friday, prices were up $1.45 a bale to down 20 cents.

All deliveries lost ground in the preceding week when futures finished 50 cents to $2.35 a bale lower.

At the outset, the entire list was influenced by a relatively sharp gain in the nearby December delivery, attributed primarily to a drop in the certificated stocks of cotton.

However, most contracts worked gradually lower in backing and filling the remainder of the week.

Despite the buoying factor of a government report reflecting a rise in cotton placed under loan.

This bullish influence was somewhat offset by persistent slow export volume.

Exports for the current season through Nov. 13 edged up to 583,000 bales. In the corresponding period last year, volume approximated 1.4 million bales.

The U.S. Agriculture Department has forecast a pickup later on.

Mart Shows Advances For Third Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Bolstered by favorable economic news and forecasts, the stock market last week took two mildly declining sessions in stride and rang up its third consecutive weekly advance.

Profit-taking from the sustained climb was not strong enough to dent the surge.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 14.85 for the week to 630.98, exceeding its gain of the previous week.

Some brokers had looked for a corrective reaction which they considered only natural in the face of the three-week advance. However, the market's performance prompted one investment analyst to say:

"The intermediate trend of the market is higher subject to minor setbacks."

Motors took a prominent part in the week's advance. They were in demand because of record new car sales in the first 10 days of November and a forecast that the good 1962 model year will be followed by another in 1963.

Aerospace issues were active and fairly strong, too, on expectations that defense spending will be increased to contend with international crisis.

Some economists revised their earlier predictions and said the likelihood of a recession early in 1963 is fading.

The Kennedy administration estimated the budget deficit for the current fiscal year at $7.8 billion, a figure which some Wall Street sources considered inflationary.

Increased demand for steel, mainly due to orders from the booming automobile industry, was another favorable factor.

The market pulled a surprise Monday, rolling up a sharp advance in heavy trading of slightly more than 5 million shares. Because of semi-holiday conditions in Wall Street due to Veterans day, a quiet market had been expected.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 5.9 to 233.1 during the week.

Volume for the week totaled 23,787,955 shares against 17,413,545 the prior week.

The bond markets turned mixed after two weeks of steadily rising prices. U.S. Government bonds receded from 1962 highs and resumed the weekly up-and-down pattern that prevailed through October. Corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange posted a healthy gain.

Corporate volume traded in the Exchange rose to $33,545,000 par value from $21,098,000 the previous week and was the highest since $36,920,000 July 9-13.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Fiction Titles Now In The Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Among the new books added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week, there are several interesting new fiction titles. "The Reluctant Queen" is the new book by Molly Costain Haycraft (who by the way is the daughter of Howard B. Costain) This is the story that a former generation loved in the book "When Knighthood Was in Flower" by Charles Major. It is the story of Mary Tudor, the young sister of Henry VIII. As a political pawn he forced her to marry the aging King of France, Louis XII, although she was deeply in love with Henry's oldest and trusted friend, Charles Brandon, later the Duke of Suffolk. How she outwitted her brother makes an exciting story that gains new freshness in this retelling. Noel B. Gerson, writer of historical novels, also uses the pen name of Samuel Edwards. Under this name he has released a new book "Master of Castille." This is a fictional biography of Alvaro de Luna, Chief constable of Castille in the tumultuous years prior to Spanish unification. The hero is one of the most complex and fascinating men in history; the setting draws upon the fiery intrigue of Renaissance Spain; and the love story evolves from a liasion that scandalized all the courts of Europe.

"To Love and Corrupt" is a very fine piece of writing by Joseph Viertel. It is the story of Joe Naples, a self - made millionaire. Starting out as a bricklayer at the age of twelve, he has made a financial empire in the American tradition. Now at the age of fifty - two he has been called before a Congressional Committee to answer questions about venal unions, bribery of beaurecrats and other illegal practices in the Construction buisness. Joe is forced to take a good hard look at himself and we share this look. "To Love and Corrupt" is a powerful book, which has a remarkable impact.

With her own special witchery, Shirley Jackson has once again fashioned a strange, terrible and beautiful tale, called "We have always lived in the Castle." This book deals with the mystery hanging over three people living in a big old house on the hill. Shunned by the villagers, they live their private life behind closed doors. Those who enjoyed Mrs. Jackson's "The Haunting of Hill House" will want to read this one.

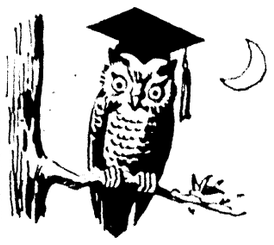

"Uneasy Lies the Head" is the autobiography of King Hussein of Jordan. This is a fascinating story of a ruler and of the middle East. Everyone who is interested in this troubled part of the world will gain new insight from reading this book. The author has written a fascinating story, that loses not one bit from the fact that it is absolutely true. The latest book in the American trails series is "The Old Post Road" by Stewart H. Holbrook. This is the fascinating account of the Boston Post Road and is a superb exploration of the most famous of all post roads and an account of its exciting and colorful history from the first rider in 1763 to the present day. This is a book for all those who like to read about our country's past and the ways in which it is tied to our present day life.

John Chase of New Orleans has produced an interesting and factual book, which he calls "Today's Cartoon." If this is your special field of interest, you will surely want to see it. A most valuable addition to the reference collection of the library is "The Statistical Abstract of the United States, 1962" published by the Bureau of the Census. Here are found all sorts of pertinent and exact information and the most up - to - date statistics in many fields.

We are happy to be able to tell you that the exciting exhibit of Children's Books at the Main Library has been held over by popular request for another week. It will be open to the public on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of this coming week. Thursday of course is a holiday and all branches of the Library will be closed. The Bookmobile will not make its run at all during this next week.

WILL AMERICA

LEARN TOO LATE?

Our lead in science and invention, in business, trade and world affairs came from learning how. Today higher education is the main teacher of our future leaders . . . in technical skill and in world outlook.

But higher education is facing a crisis. Colleges are in a squeeze. Many have actual shortages, while in less than 10 years college applicants will double.

If we are to hold our lead, our higher institutions must have modern laboratory facilities, more classrooms and, above all, qualified teachers.

HELP THE COLLEGE OF YOUR CHOICE NOW!

HOW MUCH ADDITIONAL WILL THE PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS COST ME?

ANSWER: At the end of 1963, two mills will be added to your present tax rate. This means that for each $1,000 of assessment, you will pay only $2.00 more per year.

EXAMPLES: The owner of a home assessed at $500 will pay only $1.00 extra per year, beginning at the end of 1963.
The owner of a home assessed at $1,000 will pay only $2.00 extra per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $2,000 will pay only $4.00 per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $3,000 will pay only $6.00 per year.

This is a very small increase for the long overdue and much needed improvements which are recommended to you. Vote yes on all five propositions in Tuesday's election.

Candlelight Vows Unite Couple In Sarepta Church

In a candlelight ceremony solemnized at 7 p.m. Saturday, November 17 in New Sarepta Baptist Church, Miss Dolores Ann Dean, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Dean of Sarepta, became the bride of Roland Colvin of Cotton Valley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer S. Colvin of Start.

Rev. Scott Turner performed the double ring ceremony before the altar which was decorated with myraid tapers in branched candelabra, garlanded with plumosa fern and white satin bows. Antique Danish silver candle trees held votive lights and the candelabras were connected with satin ribbon. Pews on either side of the aisle were marked with white hearts, plumosa, satin bows and candles.

Miss Nancy Gray sang "Because," "Wither Thou Goest" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by the organist, Mrs. Rankin.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of white silk peau de soie. The moulded bodice featured long fitted sleeves and scalloped scoop neckline appliqued with reembroidered Alencon lace embellished with seed pearls. The controlled skirt was designed with unpressed pleats over the hips and a detachable full chapel train, extending from an Alencon lace midriff. Aurora crystal beads accented her scalloped pearl crown which held her fingertip veil of silk illusion. She wore a diamond pendant, a gift of the bridegroom, and carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and pearlized leaves centered with a yellow-throated white orchid, on a white Bible.

Mrs. Billy Dean, matron of honor, wore a gown of orchid starlight satin with a tiara of aurora sequins and lace and an aurora crystal necklace. She carried a crescent bouquet of orchid pompons with maline and ribbon streamers in deeper shades. Bridesmaids, dressed identically to the honor attendant were Misses Rose Mary Dean, Linda Weaver, Betty Ray Ellis, Nina Sue Smith, Peggy McGraw and Rose Mary Brown. They carried round bouquets of orchid pompons.

Serving Mr. Colvin as best man was Billy Dean. Groomsmen-ushers were Bruce Dean, Bobby Dean, Jimmy Smith, Billy Brown, Wayne Sandlin and Dwayne Mason. Kelly Beasley acted as ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Dean wore a green lace jacket dress with matching satin shoes and bag, green feather hat and white kid gloves. Her corsage was a cymbidium orchid in white and fuchsia. The bridegroom's mother wore a rose lace dress with matching shoes and bag, white gloves and hat of white velvet flowers. Her corsage was a rose and white cymbidium orchid.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church parlors, decorated throughout with candelabra. The memory candle, encircled with orchid maline and pompons graced the table with the guest book. The bride's bouquet and those of her attendants formed the central decor for the serving table which also held two five-branched silver candelabra with the silver punch bowl and tiered wedding cake at opposite ends. A massive arrangement of white gladioli and pompons combined with orchid maline, pompons and silver wedding rings graced the piano.

Orchid tulle rice bags were presented the guests from silver trays by Jan Peters, Carla Ellis and Kathy Ellis, who wore orchid frocks with matching tulle and sequined headbands and white corsages.

For a wedding trip to the Smoky Mountains, the bride changed into a beige wool crepe suit with hat in complementary tones of orange, green and beige. She wore matching accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will establish a home in Sarepta.

The bride graduated from Sarepta high school, received her B.S. degree from Louisiana Tech and took graduate work at Stephen F. Austin. Mr. Colvin graduated from Start high school, received a B.S. degree from Northeast Louisiana State College and took graduate work at Louisiana Tech.

Women Borrow Men's Fashions

There seems no end to the men's styles which women will swipe. Just when a lull appear, an entire new batch of swiped fashions turns up. This year the swiping has been done from cowboys and French sailors.

The cowboy suit look is a high-fashion rage, with lean jacket, swingy skirt, cowboy scarf and sombrero hat. Cowboy scarves decorate every other casual dress in the sportswear market. Cowboy hipster pants and skirts are the rage of the young crowd.

Now comes the French sailor look, launched by the new Gallic movie, "Jules et Jim." The sailor cap, flat and visored, is one of fall's big millinery styles. Skinny striped pullovers and bell bottomed pants will be the resort look come January.

Lutheran Faith

To have faith is to trust.

Here's an example:

In a past generation, Blondin walked across Niagara Falls on a tightrope. One of his friends was once asked if Blondin could carry a man on his back while crossing the Falls.

The friend's answer was yes. But when asked if he would get on Blondin's back and allow Blondin to carry him across the Falls, his answer was no, adding, "I believe Blondin can do it, but I don't trust him."

Lutherans not only believe Jesus Christ can be their Lord, they trust Him—moment by moment—as their Lord.

If you do not attend a Church you are cordially invited to attend . . .

Grand Docteur

It was 50 years ago when Dr. Albert Schweitzer first set foot on African soil. In the years since then he has alleviated the suffering of many natives who have come to his hospital for medical help.

By PETER GROSE

LAMBARENE, Gabon (AP)—The old man in the dirty cream trousers smoothed his mane of white hair and moved around the long dining table to an old upright piano.

He played a few strong and simple chords as his two dozen co-workers and guests sang a hymn. It was their second hymn of the evening, after the dinner dishes had been cleared away.

Then in silence the old man made his slow way back around the table. He bowed his head and, in the soft German accents of his native Alsace, Albert Schweitzer said the Lord's Prayer.

WORK DAY ENDS

It was the end of another workday at Dr. Schweitzer's hospital on the banks of the Ogowe River at Lambarene.

Africa's political revolution has transformed the map of the continent, but Schweitzer's world here remains virtually untouched by the winds of change.

The most famous doctor in the world still displays the missionary vigor and ideals of the day 50 years ago when he first set foot in the equatorial forest, but some aspiring African leaders today find both the ideals and the vigor distasteful.

Schweitzer has turned his medical work over to a staff of young doctors. Now nearly 88, he passes his own days in strenuous physical labor, building for the future. His birthday is Jan. 14.

Bent, but unfaltering, he works a seven-hour day with his African building crews, directing in detail the erection of new wings for his hospital village houses, a new pier for the river canoes and a new bridge across a meandering forest stream.

WIELDS SHOVEL

With unbelievable energy the old man—doctor, philosopher and musician—wields a shovel and hoe to show African laborers how to make brick foundations level and true.

At night, with the physical work done, Schweitzer reads and writes by gaslight until midnight or after never losing touch with the outside world that has showered him with as much honor as any living man.

When relaxed Schweitzer talks in a high, musical voice. His youthful eyes twinkle, he winks at visitors as he teases them gently and parries their questions. The smile under his walrus moustache is broad and quick.

On the job he is a ruthless taskmaster, upbraiding Europeans and Africans alike who fall short of his exacting standards.

"They will not work if I do not stand over and show them," he said. "The work must be done, so this is what I have to do."

Schweitzer's camp at Lambarene, the presence and attitude of the old man himself, are controversial in modern Africa.

To the new generation of Africans in their boastful capitals he is an embarrassing 19th-century figure, patronizing and domineering, as outmoded as his old colonialist's white sun helmet.

"He is doing things for us, not with us," said one of the most thoughtful nationalist leaders, now a high official in the United Nations.

His devoted co-workers, however, argue that the modern Africa of the United Nations and Capital cities is a far cry from the palm - lined banks of the Ogowe River where the Schweitzer hospital serves a vast bush population.

Schweitzer is outspoken in his belief that independence came to many parts of Africa too soon, but he confronts the new situations with humility.

When Schweitzer arrived in French Equatorial Africa in 1913, he built his hospital in an area remote from modern facilities. Now there is an impressive government hospital in Lambarene just a few miles from Schweitzer's village.

SPECIAL TREATMENT

But instead of drawing patients away from Schweitzer's old and makeshift center the modern hospital regularly sends the more difficult patients across the river for treatment only Schweitzer can provide.

Western visitors have criticized the seemingly filthy conditions at the Schweitzer hospital, where goats and chickens roam within a few feet of the patients' straw beds.

Schweitzer's reply is that where rigid cleanliness is medically important — around the operating table and maternity section — the sanitary standards are up to any hospital in Africa.

"For the rest," he tells visitors, "it must be understood this is not a hospital like those we have in Europe. It is an African village to which people can come to receive medical treatment."

The villagers do come, in droves from miles around.

"There is no doubt they prefer to walk miles to the hospital of the 'grand docteur' than any of the more modern hospitals around," said a young missionary not associated with Schweitzer. "They know they will be better cared for."

LIKENED TO PARABLE

Schweitzer's work at Lambarene has been likened to the parable of the Good Samaritan in the modern world. The old man insists the work he is now doing is more important than any traveling or lecturing. He has never been in an airplane.

At his desk after dark Schweitzer reads countless letters from friends and admirers, answering them in his own precise hand — he has never used a typewriter. On the corner of the desk he places some bread and leftover food to feed the ants swarming around as he works.

Respect for every being that lives is Schweitzer's basis philosophy. Flies, bees, even cockroaches that may appear in the dining room are neatly scooped up in a bottle and taken to the door to be let free.

Over 300 pet animals run free around the camp — goats, turkeys, monkeys, chickens, dogs and cats. Each member of the staff is charged with feeding one group of pets with leftovers. Schweitzer himself tends to his antelopes and a pelican named Parsifal.

Meals and work hours are signalled by large church bells, gifts from Germany on Schweitzer's birthdays.

The hospital compound sprawling through the trees accommodates patients and their families. No sick person is ever turned away, no matter how crowded the hospital may be.

GRAND DOCTEUR

At Lambarene and other villages in Gabon, Schweitzer is known simply as the "grand docteur."

"They know nothing about me except that I have worked here for a long time," he said. "It is because I am a little bit old that they respect me."

Schweitzer and his European staff live in a cluster of frame row houses around a central dining room where all meals are served. Every evening the doctor-theologian leads his household in a devotional service, playing hymns on a piano almost as old as he is and discussing each night a passage of Scripture.

Though one of the world's leading organists, Schweitzer has never been able to keep an organ at Lambarene. "The dampness and heat would ruin any organ in a few weeks," explained Schweitzer's daughter, Mrs. Rhena Eckert. "We have tried everything — it's a miracle even this old piano will still play."

Over the years various proposals have been made to install running water and electricity in the camp, but Schweitzer has rejected them as unnecessary. The hospital, however, has modern generators for x-ray equipment and operating lights.

SUPPORT

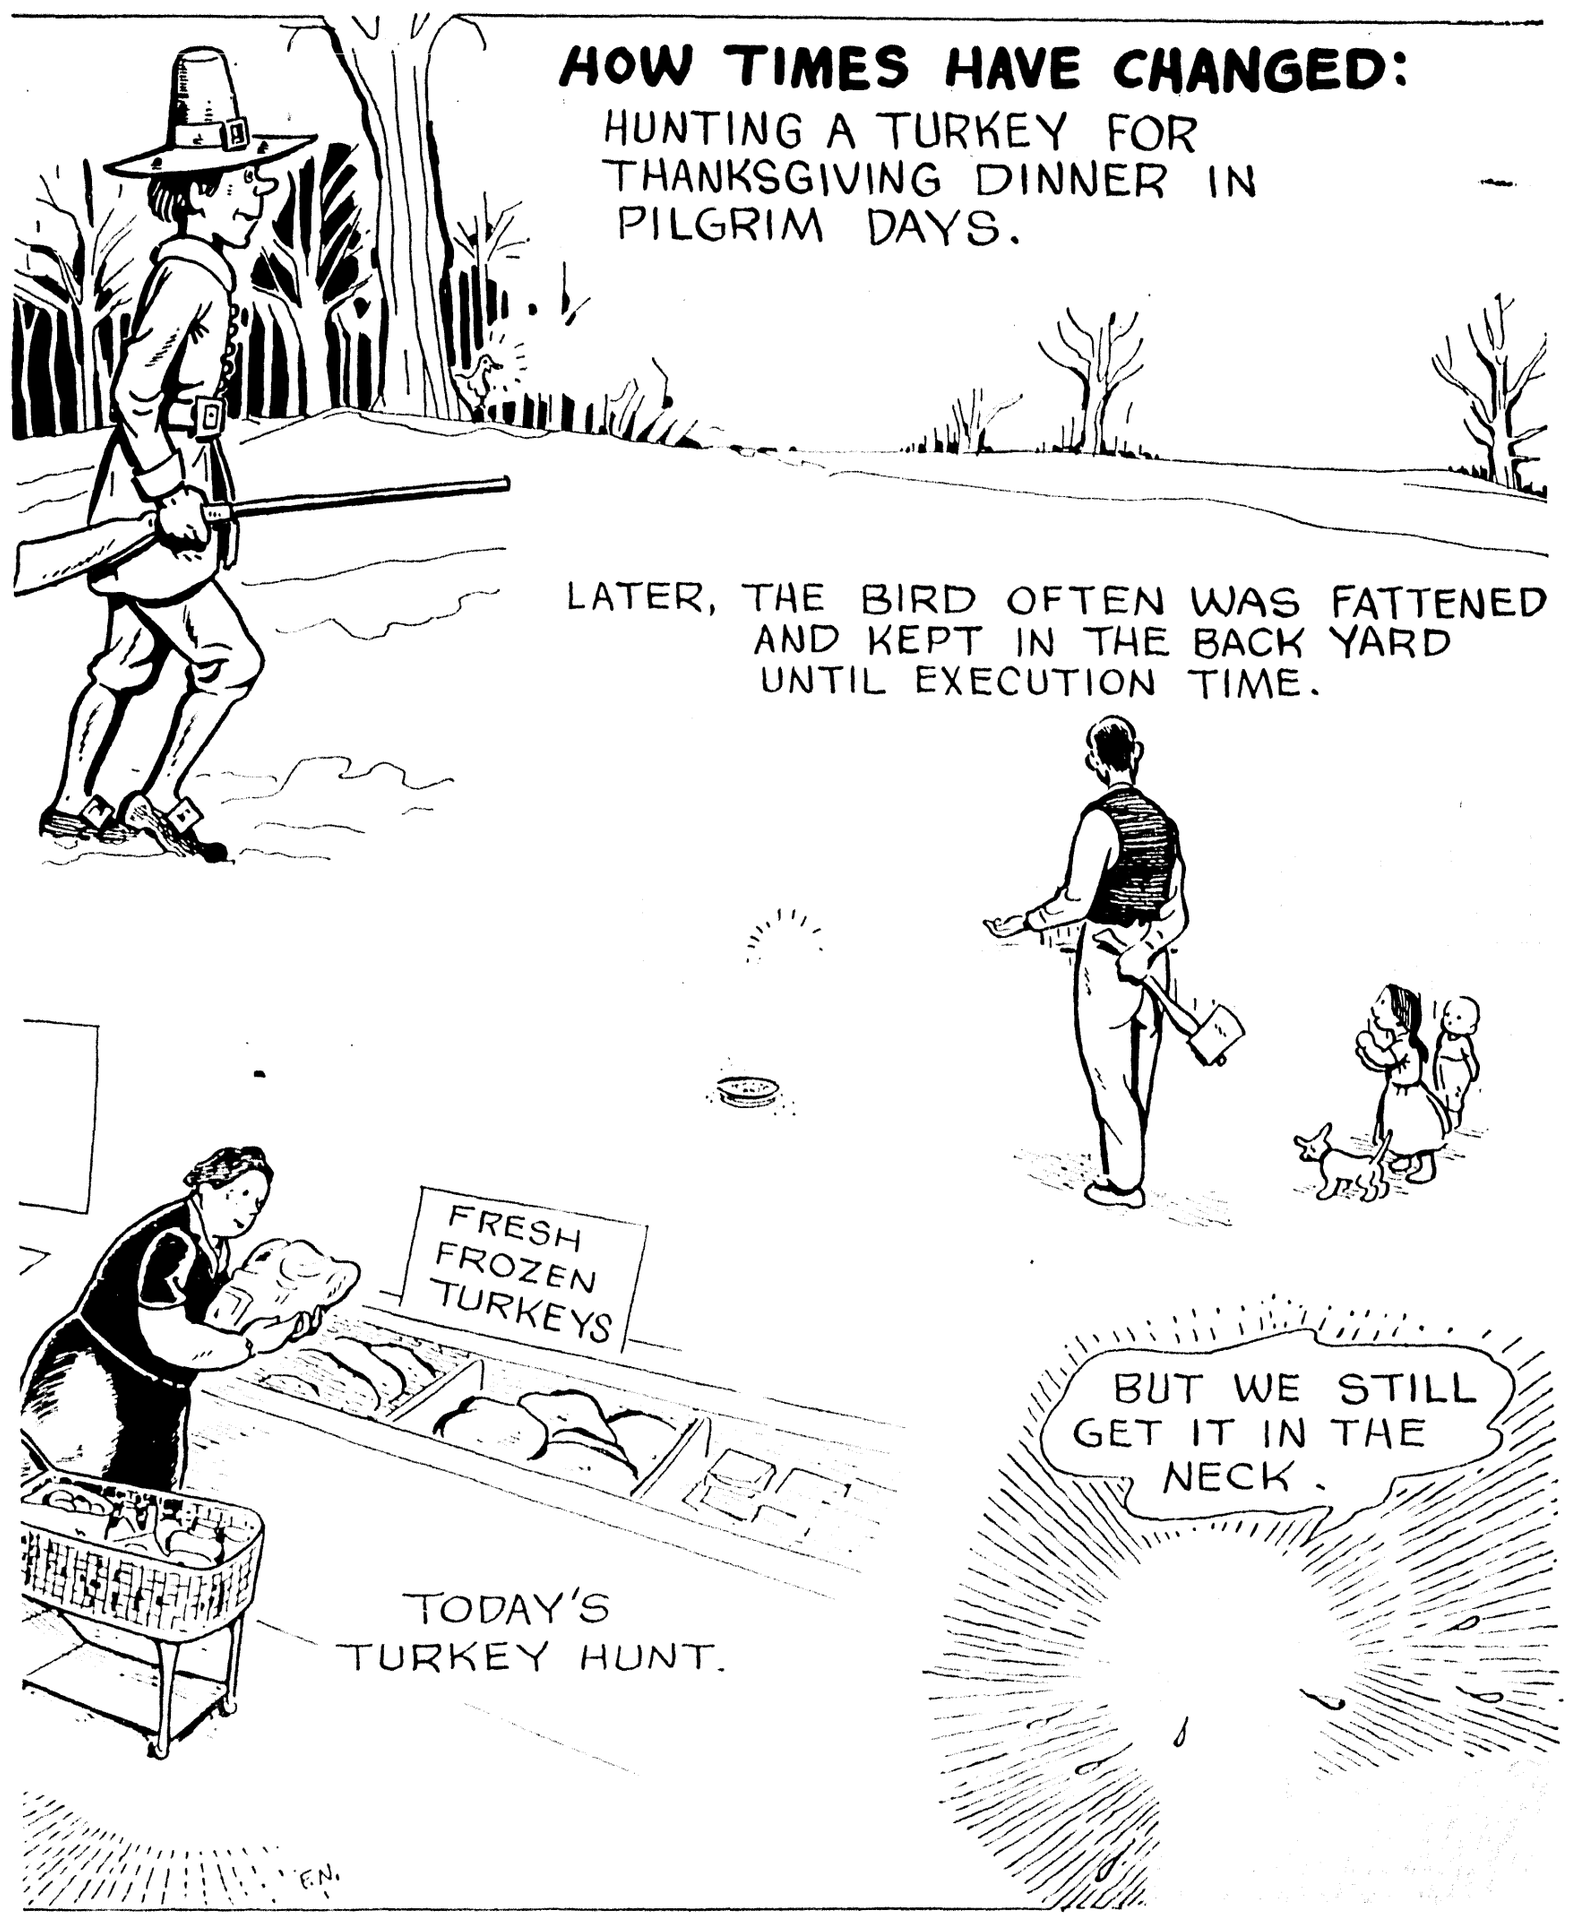

Schweitzer's work is supported by national committees in Europe and America. The hospital has no organizational structure or budget.

"If we have to do something we just ask the committees if there is money available," explained Miss Ali Silver, a Dutch nurse who has worked with Schweitzer since 1947.

Miss Silver and Miss Mathilde Kottmann, a gentle Alsatian lady of 38 years' experience at Lambarene, look after the doctor's affairs and the detailed operation of the hospital.

"We never stop to count how many workers we have," Miss Silver said. "We just assign jobs to everyone until there is no one left.

"There is no question of hierarchy or status — we all work together for one man, and he has no title in the hospital. He is just Dr. Schweitzer."

Treasure Hunters Find Old Spanish Wreck

A Spanish fleet carrying 20 million pesos in silver from Mexico to Spain was caught in a hurricane off the Florida Keys 229 years ago. The search for the lost loot started as soon as the wind died and has been going on ever since. Recently, a quartet of amateur treasure hunters found what they believe is a hull overlooked by all of their predecessors.

By ROBERT D. CLARK

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — For the best of all reasons, four weekend treasure hunters are fitting out to dive full-time in the Straits of Florida.

They figure they've found a long - sought Spanish treasure galleon of the 18th century. The wreck is at working depth and appears untouched since it sank more than three miles off Islamorada in the Florida Keys.

Martin Meylach, boat carpenter; Don Thomas auto glass dealer; Don Gurguilo, charter boat captain, and Art Sapp, aircraft electrician, are confident their discovery is a ship listed as Tres Puentes.

That could translate to Three Bridges, an odd name for a ship. Or it might mean the craft was a three-decker.

CAUGHT IN STORM

Spanish annals say Tres Puentes and about 20 sister ships were caught off the Keys by a hurricane on July 15, 1733, as they wallowed toward Spain on an annual treasure run from the rich colony in Mexico.

The storm dashed most of the fleet against coral reefs just south of the Keys. A few were refloated. Some that were not, have been located since and stripped by generations of divers, but Tres Puentes, farther offshore, apparently escaped searchers until now.

Is she a bonanza? The finders aren't sure. They say official accounts show that Don Rodrigo de Torres y Morales' fleet was lugging 20 million pesos worth of silver when it came to grief, but that, over several months, the Spaniards recovered 12 million pesos worth before the hulks broke up and settled beyond reach of primitive diving methods.

HARD WORK

"You can bet there'll be a lot of hard work before we can tell what the Tres Puentes is worth," Meylach said.

"It was work finding her, too, even though we had help from the old Spaniards as well as the advantage of modern equipment."

Help from the past was a quaint - looking chart. Meylach said salvage - minded Spaniards marked on it the graves of their hurricane-shattered galleons. The chart somehow came into possession of the British Museum, and the southern Florida quartet obtained a photographic copy of this to go by while peering, day after day, into the reef-strewn ocean from an airplane.

"You have to hand it to Don Rodrigo's navigators," Meylach said. "They had pretty crude instruments. I have some from other wrecks.

"Land and reef areas on the chart were out of proportion. Yet certain measurements and comparisons with Coast Guard charts of today could be made.

"The wreck we found was only about half a mile from where the chart indicated it should lie."

Disaster, not discovery, nearly befell the treasure hunters on the day they met success. An oil-line break in their amphibian plane forced an emergency set-down and time - consuming repairs. The takeoff—for home—was gloomy.

"It was then, with water-visibility and light poor, that we found it," Meylach related.

"Only we didn't know it at the time. What we saw prompted just another routine drop of a marker - buoy on a spot of only moderate promise. A farewell gesture, so to speak, because as you may imagine we had had it.

"Checking the buoy—by diving under it—the next day was just a formality. It was in this spirit of depression that we found the ancient ship."

It would be a mistake to think the find still resembled a ship after 229 years in Davy Jones' locker. Not a timber was in view. What made the divers happy were scores of round stones, softball to basketball sized, lying in a cigar - shaped mound about 65 by 12 feet in a patch of grass-grown sand.

To treasure divers in south Florida's seas, boulder heaps mean only one thing—the ballast of a ship, a real old-timer. After 1800, most ocean craft were ballasted with pig iron.

As swiftly as they could work under water, the treasure seekers dug beneath an edge of the mound. They unearthed what they expected, Meylach said — massive ribs from a ship's hull.

"We always find ballast on top," said Meylach. "The cargo, the hardware, the guns, even the structural timbers of these old wrecks seem to work their way into the sand underneath.

"From other wrecks, in several years of diving, we have brought up coins, rings, weapons, pottery, mugs and religious medallions. To recover some of them, we had to go as far as six feet into the ocean floor.

AIR LIFT

"Now we have air lifts—pipes that work something like a vacuum cleaner. With these bringing up sand and small objects, we can go through the wreck and its relics in about a month."

The discoverers, all working men, hope to find backing for a full-time assault on their wreck. Meylach said the Old Mystic Seaport Museum near Groton, Conn., underwrote a similar exploration of the Tres Puentes' sister ship, San Francisco, not long ago with good results.

But with or without backing, the four treasure hunters expect a lot of toil.

Clothesline Disappearing From Scene

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — The clothesline's going the way of the buggy whip. Ditto for clothes pins.

They're not being used much in many homes. In some homes, the clothesline these days functions as a jump rope.

The reason: More and more homemakers are switching to automatic clothes dryers.

The facts: Since 1945 some 12.4 million dryers have been sold in the U.S. Sales have shown increases each year. In the next month, for example, 25 times as many dryers as were sold in all of 1946 will be sold.

Dryer Saves Time

The savings in time heads the list of reasons homemakers are giving up hanging on the line. An industry time and motion study indicates that the average homemaker with an automatic dryer saves 300 hours of work a year. Said another way: 37.5 eight-hour working days.

The statisticians also figure the use of a dryer saves the typical homemaker lifting and carting nearly three tons of laundry in a year.

Clothesline users also have to contend with specks of soot. But professional observers with special scientific equipment find other problems in the seemingly simple task of getting the wash dry on the line.

One of these, Frank Lindsay, manager of a testing laboratory for an appliance firm, said modern detergents contain fluorescent brighteners — chemical compounds that give clothes a super white zing.

Seems the woman who couples detergents with the old-fashioned clothesline on washdays not only mixes the old with the new but nixes the benefits of the brightener.

"The sunshine greatly reduces the effect of these fluorescent brighteners," Lindsay said.

Other studies by the U.S. Department of Agriculture indicate that line drying outside in the sun causes more grayness and weakening of fabric than dryer drying.

As with every advance, clothes dryers heap one new headache on homemakers: How to get a repairman in a hurry.

MRS. JOHN JOSEPH SPATAFORA JR.

John Joseph Spatafora Jr., Shreveport Girl Are Wed

Miss Doris Elane Wallace, daughter of Mrs. J. J. Wallace, Shreveport and the late Mr. Wallace, became the bride of John Joseph Spatafora Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John Joseph Spatafora Sr., of Monroe, on Saturday, November 3. The 5 p.m. ceremony was solemnized in St John's Catholic Church at Shreveport.

Bouquets of white gladioli and pompons decorated the altars.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Harold Olive. Her ballerina length bridal gown of Chantilly lace with jewelled basque bodice featured a scalloped scoop neckline and long tapered sleeves. Back of the bouffant shepardess skirt had tiers of crystal pleated tulle edged with the Chantilly lace. Her bouffant veil of illusion was attached to a pearl crown and she carried a white Bible, with a bouquet of white orchids, stephanotis and miniature ivy.

Miss Barbara Kennedy, Shreveport, was maid of honor. She wore a dress of aqua blue taffeta with overskirt of lace and carried a bouquet of white pompons.

Steve Spatafora, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man.

For the occasion the bride's mother wore a royal blue Italian silk dress in shirtwaist style with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Spatafora, mother of the bridegroom, wore a turquoise sheath in lightweight wool with accessories to match and a pink carnation corsage.

Following the cremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother. Serving as hostesses were Mrs. John J. Phillips, Mrs. Lewis Hunter and Mrs. Ben McDonell.

The bride is a graduate of Shreveport high school and attended a business college there. Mr. Spatafora graduated from St. Matthew's high school in Monroe and received his degree in pharmacy from the University of Mississippi at Oxford, Miss. Following a wedding trip to Texas the couple has established a home in Monroe.

ALL IN THE MIND

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Your heart pounds. You overperspire. You overeat. You can't sleep. These symptoms may tell your doctor that the disorder is not at all somatic but psychosomatic, reports Dr. Ivan C. Berlein, University of Miami School of Medicine. Pounding heart, cold sweats, feeling of jitteriness are but ways in which the body is saying — "I feel threatened."

Dr. Berlein noted also that if one cannot sleep or wakes too early and cannot get to sleep, the meaning can be that the patient fears self - destruction or sex impulses. The doctor said these are but a few among the many signs of mental illness a physician should be able to recognize.

MISS ESTHER LOUISE RAGAN

Miss Ragan, Mr. Downing Plan November 27 Vows

November 27 is the date chosen by Miss Esther Louise Ragan, 1616 South First, Monroe, and Edward Machell Downing, 2309 DeBastrop Drive, Monroe, for their wedding which will be solemnized at 7:30 p.m. in College Town Church of Christ. Meredith P. Johnson, minister of the church, will officiate.

The bride - elect is the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Curtis B. Ragan Sr., Monroe and the granddaughter of A. L. Kinley, Monroe, and the late Mr. and Mrs. A. Ragan of Macon, Georgia. She is a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school.

Mr. Downing is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Smith Downing, 2309 DeBastrop Drive and the grandson of the late Mrs. Emma Dickens of Cleveland, Tex., and the late Mr. and Mrs. Smith McBride Downing of Monroe.

The future bridegroom is a graduate of Ouachita Parish high school and attended Northwestern State College in Natchitoches. He is presently employed with the Louisiana Highway Department of Engineering. The couple plans to establish a home at 1705 South 8th in Monroe.

Miss Ragan has chosen Miss Marie Krantz of New Orleans to serve as maid of honor and Mr. Downing will have J. E. Peters Jr. of Monroe as best man.

Gay Decor Transforms Bathroom

By BETTY PEPIS

Q: My bathroom is too plain. The tiled half of the walls are yellow with a black border. We first had the painted portion of walls in yellow but this seemed dull. Now they are turquoise and this doesn't look right. Two doors and window trim are blue. Should these be the color of the tiles? What color would you suggest for walls, ceiling and swag curtains?

A: It is usually better to keep walls in same color range as the tile, however, the yellow could be a sunny or citrus shade. Doors, woodwork and ceiling should be the color of the tile and painted walls. For a gay note have towels, soap and other accessories in vivid yellow and brilliant orange. Use a stripe in white, yellow and orange for the curtains and have a fluffy, washable orange rug. If you follow this plan and the bathroom still seems dull to you, you might consider one wall decorated in drawings or prints.

Q: Walls and woodwork in one of the bedrooms in our house are in a petal pink. The bedspread is pink and the rug a dark rose. What colors would you recommend for the dust ruffle and the draperies?

A: I think a small scale floral print in a petal pink ground with deeper pink, green and white in the design would be pleasant for both dust ruffle and draperies. Accessories could be white and green.

Q: I selected a pale blue for the walls in my living - dining room. What color would you suggest for the upholstery on sofa and two chairs? Also what color carpet should I have? I would like the dining room chairs covered in a practical color.

A: A soft shade of gold is a good contrast with blue. I would have this color for the carpet and sofa. Have a fabric in a small or medium design of blue and gold for the two chairs. The draperies could be blue, a shade deeper than walls, or they could be a pale gold. Have the dining room chairs in a deep, rich blue.

Q: Please tell me what is wrong with my living room. Walls are white, rug is gray and draperies are gold. The sofa upholstered in a black and white tweed, a chair is teal - blue and a black Early American rocker has an afghan in teal, melon and black thrown over the back. Toss pillows are teal and melon.

A: To give a more unified feeling to the room, have white draperies. I suggest eliminating teal - blue and substitute a melon color for teal chair and cover the teal pillows in white. Have white and melon accessories. Touch of teal in afghan will contribute interest without being conspicuous.

CLOSED CIRCUIT UNIT

Classroom Television Is Used At Northwestern

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — A new team may establish significant records for Northwestern State College in an area quite different from the strife of athletic combat — a teacher-team in the new academic technique of instruction by closed-circuit television.

Representatives of the State Department of Education, other Louisiana institutions, and area newspapers, radio, and television stations inspected the educational television facilities of the college Tuesday morning in a special open house program climaxing American Education Week.

They witnessed a demonstration by Mrs. Ora G. Williams, assistant professor of English, of the techniques she utilizes in the instruction twice weekly of 315 students of a course in remedial English over the closed-circuit network which reaches 15 classrooms in buildings throughout the campus.

How does one teacher effectively teach 315 students? The answer is she doesn't — not alone. Mrs. Williams is the "master" teacher. She lectures twice weekly, after much preparation, for 50 minutes from the central studio. In classrooms students follow the instruction on receivers, along with a fully qualified instructor. Following the lecture, a 45-minute workshop session begins immediately. Students apply the rules of English covered in the lecture.

A recent national survey report found that televised courses have been much more carefully planned and organized than conventional courses, and combination of the skills of the studio teacher and of the classroom teacher has made possible a cooperative teaching effort far better than either teacher could achieve alone.

"OPPORTUNITIES"

Dr. Lee T. Allbritten, dean of the graduate school and dean of instruction, said: "On the basis of my observation of teaching by closed circuit television at NSC, I believe that this medium offers opportunities for the optimum utilization of faculty talents within a department. The unique qualifications of several instructors can be effectively combined for the educational benefit of a large number of students with a minimum of interference with the other duties of the staff."

Mrs. Williams recently summarized what she believed to be the advantages of live television course. she does, of course, teach other English courses by conventional classroom lecture techniques. These advantages she listed as better planned lessons, less adherence to one textbook, use of charts, diagrams, and other audio-visual materials, presentation of more exercises and tests than formerly, and uniformity of material and grading. Immediate follow-up in the workshop period under teacher supervision, she believes, provides two learning experiences, lecture and practical application.

The concentration of material offered without interruption in the 50-minute lecture is considered an advantage. Attention of students to the television instructor is, in general, better than attention to the instructor in the workshop. The student must be attentive in order to learn the material which must be applied once the TV lecture is concluded.

A logical question is, "can students ask questions during the lecture?" Two - way telephones are available in the classrooms and questions can be relayed. However, it should be obvious that, with 315 students, many questions would make the lecture impossible. Instead students hold their questions for the classroom instructor. Also, many times the instructors report to the TV lecturer questions which her students asked. These are discussed at the beginning of the next television lecture.

This situation was also covered in the national report of the Ford Foundation and The Fund for the Advancement of Education. It reported: "Of course, not all teachers were sorry to see questions eliminated; some believed that if one outcome of televised instruction would be to force students sometimes to find answers to questions on their own, the students would thereby become more resourceful in directing their own learning."

The number of failing grades thus far this semester in remedial English is significantly lower than at the same time last year in conventional classes.

National statistics reveal little differences in student achievement in televised courses as compared with that in conventional classroom situations.

But what about the students? How do they feel about pursuing a course by television? Not all of them favor it. Here are two comments from students in the English course.

"LITTLE CONTACT"

Wilbur H. Owens, Shreveport: "I do not like English lectures on educational television because I feel the student has little or no contact with the teacher. You have no sense of being a part of the lecture. If a question should arise in your mind, it is impossible to get an answer until after the lecture. Then other things get in the way of asking it, and it goes unanswered."

Constance Carol Grigg Goldonna — "One reason that I like English lectures on television is that the person speaking does not get interrupted by the asking of questions. The speaker is able to make points clear without students causing confusion. If there are questions to be asked, then one may ask them after the lecture. This gives the person time to think through the question without asking an unnecessary question. English lectures on television save more time and get more accomplished."

A second offering currently being taught via the educational television network is an introductory, non - laboratory biology course. The instructor is Dwayne N. Kruse, assistant professor of biology. He lectures Mondays, Wednesday, and Fridays before a live classroom audience. Cameras and microphones relay the lecture to other classrooms and a total of 280 students are reached simultaneously. Graduate students serve as monitors in class rooms where they are available to answer questions and assist the undergraduates. A "help" session is conducted one evening weekly, in addition to regular class periods.

In grading of student achievement thus far, there is no marked difference between the class receiving "live" instruction and the two watching television receivers. In fact, Kruse reports, one television section has done better than the "live" group while the latter's achievement has been slightly better than the other "viewer" students.

ILLUSTRATIONS

Kruse utilizes films, slides, and special drawings to illustrate his lectures. Again students may submit questions through the graduate assistants but these are, generally, delayed. Technical problems affecting reception are reported immediately, however.

The biology instructor indicated that he plans to recommend a change for the spring semester course. He would lecture via television Mondays and Wednesdays but conventional classroom lectures would be planned for Fridays at three different times. This, in addition, to the "help" session, he believes, would provide more effective instruction.

An experimental class was initiated last spring in science, an introductory inorganic chemistry course. Dr. Alan H. Crosby, head of the department of physical science, reported that a special survey indicated there was no difference between the students achievement in the televised class when compared with those in "live" classes. Special experiments have been conducted in the televising of laboratory experiments. It has been found that some demonstrations via television, utilizing "blow-ups," close pick-ups, have provided more effective laboratory instruction.

A series of orientation lectures were provided some 400 students through combined live and televised sessions. Administrative and staff members presented discussions on such topics as class attendance, the library, study habits, traffic regulations, finances, education, organizations and clubs, and the history and organization of the college. These programs were presented to the student simultaneously in five rooms under the direction of Dr. Fonde W. McElwee, director of testing service.

TEACHER TRAINING

Illustrative of the varied potential of closed - circuit television in the academic program is its adaptation to demonstration teaching in the teacher-education program. Last summer, an elementary school demonstration class in arithmetic was televised. Student teachers followed the lesson within the classroom while a large group of students watched the televised demonstration. A mobile unit has been established in Warren Easton Hall elementary school building, to provide for such televised teacher education programs.

President John S. Kyser, in discussing the beginning of full-scale closed - circuit television, said: "Initiation of televised instruction is not an attempt to derive economy through utilization of fewer teachers. Rather, it is one phase of our continuing program of academic progress with the ultimate goal being, of course, more effective instruction. Another phase of this program was the establishment last year on our campus of The Center for Experimental Research and Development in Learning and Teaching. Northwestern, one of Louisiana's oldest state colleges, was first to establish a School of Nursing, first to establish a Graduate School, and now, first to begin full-scale closed circuit television courses."

The television program at Northwestern is under the technical direction of Thomas L. Hennigan, coordinator of educational television and director of audio visual services. Frank Mayers, assistant professor of speech, is producer - director, and Paul L. Keyser, electronic engineer.

SETUP COMPLETE

Located in Fournet Hall, chemistry - physics building, the television facilities are complete and adequate. In addition to the studio area, there are also an office, and electronics shop, a film room, an announcer's booth, and a control room. Studio equipment includes two cameras and monitor in addition to lighting equipment, drapes, and furniture.

The control room is completely equipped and includes several monitors for viewing pictures provided by studio cameras, and all necessary remote controls.

A film room provides equipment for the automatic remote projection of films, film-strips, and slides.

More than one mile of coaxial cable forms the "campus loop." Line amplifiers boost and maintain a consistently strong signal. Telephone lines provide two - way communication with each classroom in the network. Presently, the receiving classrooms are located in seven buildings where 15 rooms are "wired" for reception. Standard 21-inch receivers are provided in the classrooms, two in most cases, at the front of the room.

Yes, at Northwestern, Johnny can learn to read — and to write — English, and can acquire a knowledge of selected subject matter areas, by watching television, something he learned to do at home quite well long before he attained college age.

NORTHWESTERN STATE College students at Natchitoches follow a lecture in Remedial English over the school's closed-circuit television network presented by Mrs. Ora G. Williams, assistant professor of English. Full-scale instruction by television was initiated at the College this fall. Classes in Orientation, English, and Biology were presented from Fournet Hall, chemistry-physics building, to students in classrooms in seven buildings throughout the campus.

Eden Assails Chamberlain In His Book

LONDON (AP) — A new book by the Earl of Avon — formerly Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden — bitterly assails the late Neville Chamberlain for thwarting British-American understanding in 1938 which Eden says could have averted World War II.

Breaking a 24-year silence on the subject, Eden tells the full story of his resignation as foreign secretary in Chamberlain's government 18 months before Hitler attacked Poland.

Essentially, Eden's break with Chamberlain at so crucial a period came because they differed fundamentally as to how to deal with Germany, Italy and Japan, Eden wrote.

"He (Chamberlain) believed the dictators to be anxious for genuine agreements and himself to be the only man who could negotiate them. I strongly doubted whether either Hitler or Mussolini was in any way interested in coming to worthwhile terms with us and I wanted to strengthen our hand by every means, amongst which closer Anglo-American relations had a first place."

The immediate dispute that compelled Eden's sensational resignation in 1938 was Chamberlain's readiness to recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

But Eden discloses for the first time that he wanted to quit a month earlier — in January 1938 — when Chamberlain stymied a project by the late President Roosevelt to curb dictator nations.

Roosevelt had wanted to line America alongside Britain in the project. He had initiated arrangements for British-American naval cooperation in the Far East as the threat of Japanese expansionism developed.

His plan was to appeal for a concerted worldwide attempt to restore international standards, to slow down the arms race, to redefine the rules of war, and to reconsider some of the post-World War I settlements.

But active British support was considered vital.

Chamberlain and his Cabinet intimates regarded Roosevelt's secret approach as naive and woolly and woolly rubbish, Eden says. The plan in effect was dismissed.

Circuit Court Reverses Self

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Recognizing an Alabama court's interpretation of an Alabama law, the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals has reversed itself and cleared the way for the New York Times to be sued in Alabama.

The ruling traces to libel suits filed against the Times by seven officials and former officials of Birmingham and Bessemer, Ala. They originally sought $3.1 million, contending they were damaged publicly and personally by articles published in the Times about race relations in the Birmingham area.

The state law involved permits the secretary of state to accept service of suits on out of state corporations.

Thai Fashion Show Staged In Palace Setting

BANGKOK, Thailand (UPI)—A fashion show, U.S. style, rates as a prosaic affair compared to one when the Thais turn on the "works" for visitors.

For one thing, the setting was a palace occupied by a Thai princess.

For another, everyone except the models was barefoot—reporters, photographers, princess, and guests including ambassadors' wives.

And for a third, the "audience" included lizards, people's best friend in this mosquito-ridden city, because the lizard diet is one of insects. The lizards slithered around the ceiling as if they thoroughly enjoyed the limelight of photographers' flash and strobe.

The setting for a show of sports, daytime and evening clothes, all of silks made in Thailand, was Suan Pakkard Palace, a series of five wooden houses with their open-to-the-air construction dating to the 19th Century of this country.

They're furnished with Thai antiques dating to the second century and are set among formal gardens with pools filled with water lilies. The group of houses includes a lacquer pavilion, called an outstanding example of Thai architecture.

The pavilion originally stood in the grounds of a Buddhist monastery near Ayudhya, Thailand. It was dismantled, brought to Bangkok and re-erected as a 50th birthday present to its owner—Princess Chumbhot of Nagor Svarga—from her husband, who was a member of the family now the reigning dynasty in Thailand.

Prince Chumbhot died three years ago, and his widow, a tiny, handsome woman with flashing white teeth and a coil of dark hair wound at the nape of her neck, has continued the family project of collecting Thai works of art and craft for public enjoyment.

The princess explained in English as she took a group of 12 visiting women reporters on a tour before the fashion show. "I know you understand why we remove our shoes.

"Those needle heels, you know."

She added that the palace, except for her own living quarters, was open to the public and the wear and tear of shoes generally on the polished teak floors are tremendous. Rugs protected the runway area used by the models.

The fashions shown won't set Paris or New York back as style centers, but all, from the star of Siam, a firm which handles Thai silk from the weaving and dyeing stages through to the finished garment, were handsomely done.

The firm is managed by Lewis Cykman, a native of San Francisco, Calif., whose wife, Vera, is head designer.

Clothes from casual capri trousers with tunic tops to formal wear adapted from old-time Thai costumes stressed clear, brilliant colors.

Not a little basic black dress in the lot.

Mrs. Kenneth Todd Young, Jr., wife of the U.S. Ambassador to Thailand, explained to me why—"Here, she said, "black is worn strictly for mourning."

DRY SKIN CARE

For exceptionally dry skin, try this: spread a film of light oil over your throat and face. Then follow up by applying dense soap lather with circular motions, using lukewarm water. Finish up with a warm rinse.

ENGAGEMENT and approaching marriage of Miss Brenda Hornsby, daughter of Mrs. Augusta Hornsby, 107 Standifer and the late David A. Hornsby, to Jimmy Doolittle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alva Doolittle, Stone Avenue, is announced today by her mother. The couple will exchange wedding vows on December 7 in Southside Baptist Church.

Fashion Dictates Spats For Milady's Frigid Toes

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the weather's frigid, we women who can't head for California, Florida or some other sunny place usually shiver.

But shivering, even in Maine, won't happen as much this winter as it did last — or so dame fashion dictates.

Just in time for lowly temperatures is the dame's edict that spats for a dame are the highest of fashion. Ditto for high - top shoes — some reaching almost to the knees.

But what's most remarkable, the hat makers somehow struck the cover-up note at the same time. It's the greatest of contemporary fashion sense to wear a hat with its own smartly styled scarf to keep ears, neck and chin warm.

Shivers are banished further by the fur-lined coats — and it's so warming to note, most of the coats have full-length sleeves. You know, the old-fashioned kind that reach to the wrist.

Heaven knows when there will be a winter when it's so absolutely fashionably correct to face the cold weather perfectly dressed for it!

The sporty knitted hats and fur pull-downs made their debut a few years ago and are still popular for casual wear. (But when they made their debut, coat sleeves started crawling up the arm. Some didn't stop until just below the elbow).

The dame says it's now also perfectly chic for dressier wear to be seen in the chic hats that keep ears toasty warm via a matched scarf or hood.

Most of the scarves, of jersey or lightweight wool, or even suede are attached to the hat and tie under the chin into a tuck-on ascot or wrap completely around the neck.

Some come in the shape of hood, or baby caps, and the hat is put on over them.

An added attraction of the attached-scarf hats is that a big hat can be worn and cold gusts of wind won't blow it off.

Sombreros, rollers, bretons, brimmed clouches and large beret in fur or felt come with matching attached scarves.

Satin and velvet evening hats offer graceful hoods to wear under or over the hat.

A few toques and pillboxes come with hoods or scarves that are tied over them, a la Yves St. Laurent.

If bundling has anything to do with fighting off colds, females, at least, will be reaching less frequently for the pill box this winter.

SAVING BABIES

CHICAGO (UPI) — Over 300,000 babies born last year are alive today as a result of advances in medical care since the turn of the century. The Health Information Foundation, making this point noted that these infants represent the number of additional lives saved in a single year because the infant mortality rate has declined so sharply.

"Measured by any yardstick, this is wonderful progress," the Foundation said. "Yet no matter how satisfying, an analysis of infant deaths shows that much remains to be accomplished. If the level of survival attained in Utah —the state with the best record — had been achieved throughout the country last year, for instance some 27,000 more infants would have lived."

Christmas Gift Ideas Shown West Oak Club

Mrs. D. V. Loflin, presented original and clever ideas for Christmas gifts and decorations when she appeared as guest speaker of the West Oak Garden club Thursday evening in the home of Mrs. L. T. Harper on Beechwood Drive. Mrs. P. L. Foreman was co - hostess.

Mrs. August Danti, president, conducted the meeting during which plans were discussed for the Twin City Garden Council spring flower show.

Following Mrs. Loflin's program presentation, plans were made by the club members for their annual Christmas party to be held December 13 in the home of Mrs. L. R. Anderson with Mrs. Leslie Clark as co-hostess. A Christmas gift exchange will be held at this meeting.

At conclusion of the evening refreshments were served from the dining table, overlaid with a cutwork cloth. Centerpiece for the table was an arrangement of radiant zinnias in hues of orange, flanked by brass candlesticks holding orange candles.

REVIVE BLOSSOMS

To revive weary flower blossoms, try using a household detergent, the Society of American Florists suggests. Mix a level teaspoonful of detergent in a quart of water, and let the flower stems soak in it for an hour. Then place the stems in a quart of fresh water into which a chemical preservative has been added, or six teaspoonsful of sugar and one of vinegar.

USE OF COLOR

If you doubt your judgment on flower color combinations, follow these general rules. It's always safe to combine pink with lavender, white, lime or blue; blue with white, dark green, shrimp or yellow. Green goes well with any flower color because most flowers have green foliage. Deep shades of any color look well with light shades of any directly contrasting color, as deep blue with pale green.

Bond Election Important

Monroe property owners go to the polls next Tuesday in probably one of the most important bond elections they have ever been called on to approve.

The bond issue, for $11,250,000, is for projects that are musts if Monroe is to be progressive and move forward as it should to maintain its leadership in this area.

Many of the projects have been needed badly for a number of years and failure to provide them not only has been detrimental to the city's best interests but has to a large extent put a damper on civic pride.

A constant reminder of the need for a new city hall, for example, is found in the fact that the present building has been condemned as a "fire trap" and is antiquated and inadequate.

In fact, it is a disgrace to a city the size of Monroe.

In other words, if Monroe is to get its share of new industries and growth, it must have certain types of civic improvements. And those listed in the call for Tuesday would go a long way toward improving the city's present standing.

The five propositions, which property owners can vote on separately, are as follows:

No. 1 — $2,750,000 for the construction of a sewage treatment plant.

No. 2 — $1,650,000 for the construction of a municipal auditorium and civic center.

No. 3 — $650,000 to expand the city fire department, including the purchase of new equipment and construction of new station facilities. This, in itself, will result in a reduction of insurance rates.

No. 4 — $2,800,000 for the construction of a new City Hall, including a jail and city court.

No. 5 — $400,000 for a new airport terminal building and other facilities.

As important as any on the list is the need for a new auditorium. This project alone probably would mean more in actual money for the city and its residents than any of the others.

It is interesting to note what other cities have done with this type of auditorium.

For example, here are just a few of the events that the city of Corpus Christi, Tex. has held in its auditorium, which is similar to the one proposed here, during the past year:

Book reviews, lectures, band concerts, musicals, stage shows, banquets, public meetings, conventions, disaster headquarters, graduation exercises, receptions, ice shows, basketball tournaments and games, tennis, wedding receptions, theater-in-the-round, summer melodramas, name-band concerts, beauty pageants, home shows, art fairs, antique shows, flower shows, Boy and Girl Scout expositions, religious meetings, political rallies.

M. Brown, manager of the Corpus Christi auditorium, said:

"After eight years of working with an arena-type auditorium and exhibit facility I find there is no limit to the uses the public will find.

A similar report comes from Lafayette, La. During the past 15 months, that city has hosted 61 conventions alone. The auditorium was used 329 times during the year 1961-1962; 131,384 persons went through the doors, there were 30 stage shows and even a major broadway company appeared there.

Said Harold Weston, manager:

"To the Lafayette citizens this has meant an entirely new industry. The true value of an auditorium is never realized until after it is built and the people of any given community can then see what an asset it is."

Possibilities of using the building for a fallout shelter are also worth considering.

The bond issue is not the "brainchild" of just a few. It was worked up by a large group of public-spirited citizens from all walks of life, whose main interest was to see that Monroe receives what it needs to become one of the great cities of the state.

Each proposal has been explained thoroughly to individuals and groups. There are no hidden costs, no hidden projects.

The cost figures for each project and the locations were compiled by experts, and then submitted to the citizen group which approved them after many long hours of study.

It was after all of this was done that the Monroe City Council, at the request of the citizen group, called the bond election.

Mayor W. L. Howard has pointed out that if approved the project will be completed by late 1967 or early 1968.

He said the council plans to sell $6 million in bonds in 1963, $3 million in bonds in 1965, and the balance in 1966.

Everyone knows that a city must move forward or backward. There is no such thing as standing still. A city either keeps step with progress and advances or it decays and falls by the wayside as more progressive cities attract industries and people.

Of course, there are always objectionable features to any bond issue; there always will be. Each of us can see things we would like to have a little different.

But in considering a major improvement program, the overall picture must be viewed. This has been done in this case and the best possible program has been placed before the citizens of Monroe.

The proposed additional two-mill tax, which is the total increase in present taxes for the projects, is not large. It will be a small price to pay for giving the city a handsome face, for providing civic advantages and for encouraging the economic growth of our city so our boys and girls can stay in their own progressive city instead of having to move to another.

We sincerely believe that if you vote yes next Tuesday on all five proposals you will be doing a great service for our city and our community.

Fitting Man To Space

In the opinion of Dr. Tobey Freedman, a physician specializing in space medicine problems for North American Aviation, Inc., man can be changed, in an amazingly short time, so that he will be able to live in comfort on planets of extremely high or low temperatures and with little oxygen.

Continuing, Dr. Freedman said, "People will change their failing hearts and livers the way we change tires after 30,000 miles.

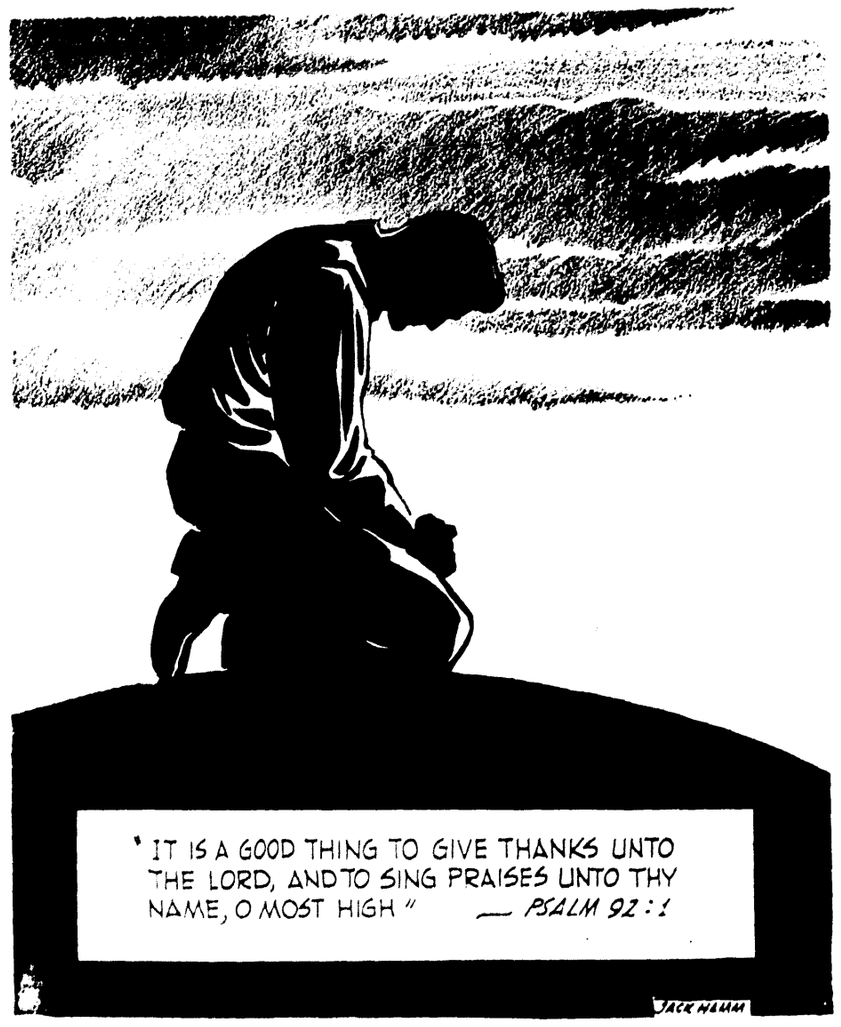

He pictured a new race of supermen — radiation-proof, incredibly strong and smarter than computers. He cited certain races which he said have developed literally superhuman abilities by hit or miss methods.

Dr. Freedman stated:

"Tibetan lamas can maintain normal skin temperatures in sub-zero cold. Yogis buried alive live on a fraction of normal oxygen consumption. Eskimos thrive on a high-fat diet that would give us all coronaries. Peruvian Indians do heavy labor at altitudes where you and I couldn't breathe.

"These remarkable adaptations have been accomplished without the benefit of science. Now science, for the first time, has taken the trouble to look into these phenomena. Trances and suspended animation, long in the same boat as the Indian rope trick, are now legitimate objects of research under the names of hypnosis and hypothermic hibernation."

Appeal To Veterans

MONROE, La.

To the Editor:

I am appealing to all veterans to wake up and come forward and be counted. The time is coming when you veterans who have not joined some veterans organization will wonder just what has happened.

The veterans organizations of Ouachita Parish need all service men to join now, as the time is coming when there will be need for a strong membership to represent us in Washington. It is necessary that we have a large membership if we expect to pass any new bills in congress for the welfare of the veterans, or hold the ones we have now.

The Veterans of World War II and Korean War have received many benefits after being discharged, such as on the job training schooling, a chance to get a home without any down payment and many other things that the veterans of World War I did not get. These were obtained only through the long fight of the veterans of W.W. I.

What is the matter with the younger veterans? The small amount that it costs to join a veteran organization is mighty cheap insurance. At one time L. B. Faulk Post had 835 W. W. I members but now we can hardly get 500 members any year, although there are many times more veterans in this parish. We should have three or four thousand members instead of four or five hundred.

I often hear some of the younger veterans say, "Oh, yes I will get my army pension when I become 65 years old. They don't act like they want to when they don't care enough to spend $5.50 a year to help the veterans that are in need now."

In numbers there is strength but you cannot expect some one to help you if you do not help yourself. And to help yourself you will have to join some veterans organization and continue to maintain your membership, as you cannot expect them to help you with your claims when you are not a member.

The last bill that was passed in congress affecting the veterans of World War I had a sliding scale. If you have an income less than $1,000 per year you get $90. per month. Over $1,000 you get $75 and on down according to your income, but they declared railroad retirement income, which was not fair, as the Railroad workers are paying much more per cent on the dollar earned than Social Security workers have to pay per dollar income but they did not declare it income. Just why did they take a bite at the Railroad workers. This will show you just why we need plenty of representatives in Washington. All I can say is, join some veterans organization at once.

River And Disposal

WEST MONROE, La.

To the Editor:

Our city is going to be compelled to attack the problem concerning the present use of the river for sewerage disposal. And we should not be reluctant in beginning negotiations with adjoining and other outlying areas in the parish where overall population is as great as our own.

Working cooperately with these areas is obviously to the advantage of all in the matter of costs per capita. And, too, it would give us a decided advantage in applying for grant — in aid from our government.

It is our considered opinion that in going it alone without first consulting the other areas affected, such as Olin and Sterlington, would not be consistent with good will and overall costs.

On Nixon

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I have read your articles on the "Nixon Obituary" and I agree with your findings. I am not surprised at the program, due to having had some misunderstandings with the same commentator when he was with another network. I am surprised, though, that it was cleared for release by this network, one for which I have had a lot of respect in the past.

I guess networks, as well as people, have a way of changing, and not all for the better.

As for the ex - convict and his comments, it would take someone like this commentator to bring out his reactions to a man who, no matter what his shortcomings might be, was instrumental in bringing him to justice. I suppose he had his reason, if he has any such thing.

I have never been a strong Nixon follower, but regardless of my own opinion, I do think he has been a very honest, capable and courageous man, who had to vindicate himself 10 years ago from charges brought by his political enemies, standing alone on it. Ike remarked that Nixon would "have to be as clean as a hound's tooth" to be his running mate in the '52 elections. Well, at least, Nixon took it in South America, (tomatoes and all), much better than Ike took the tongue lashing from Khrushchev, neither did he promise to be good in the future. All in all, he did a good job.

It seems strange that, with so many in the Congress, that he, Nixon, was pretty well alone in his efforts to get at the truth on Alger Hiss and some of his associates, a thing which I have often noticed when a member starts fighting communism in this country. The late Senator McCarthy was given "the works" by the Senate, a dirty deal if ever there was one, could not get any help from the White House, nor a reason why Captain Peress was made a major before being released from the service. Senator McClellan is in the spot McCarthy held, and is finding it no bed of roses.

How a man such as Alger Hiss came to be high in the State Department before being brought to justice is another mysterious happening in Washington — none of which reflect much to the credit of those in power there. As for the broadcasting companies, I saw one white man interviewed out of several weeks blatting during the Albany, Georgia, case of several weeks ago. Numerous pictures, and a lot of time were taken up in interviews with King, Anderson and several Negroes in that thing, but just once did I see a white man questioned on the matters. I watch the newscasts regularly, too.

I really can't see where Nixon's talk to the press, where he was caustic in his remarks, are to be held against him. He was, and is a hard worker, a man with strong convictions, a lot of courage, and, whether I agree with him or not, he is no tool of any group; possibly never perfect, but always trying. As for that perfect man — we had one once — and they crucified him too.

Are We Prepared

To the Editor:

Are we prepared? That is the question. To put it bluntly, we, the people of the United States, are not prepared for war. We sit back and laugh at the people that get fallout shelters but those people are the wise citizens. Half the people do not know anything about nuclear war, which is a matter of very grave importance. A large number of American children do not know the first thing about war, therefore if we had a war they would not know where to go or what to do. I say a war is coming! It may be tomorrow or it may be five years from now, but it is coming.

Why do they print pamphlets on what to do and where to go in case of fallout? If you have ever asked yourself that question you probably got a plain, simple answer. You know as well as I know that if our government didn't think we were in danger of war they would never print these books. I urge each and everyone of the citizens of the United States to go to their local Civil Defense office and get pamphlets on how to protect yourself in case of radioactive fallout. I also urge the citizens of the United States to prepare their children in case of a nuclear attack. Don't be afraid you'll scare your child. I know you'd much rather know that they know what was happening and where to go and what to do in case of war. Remember, you may be at work when it happens.

By writing this article I hope I have waked up a few citizens of the United States.

New U.S. Airport

Built By Federal Aviation Agency At Cost Of $106 Million

President Kennedy has dedicated the huge $106 million Dulles International Airport at nearby Chantilly, Virginia.

Unlike any other airport in operation today, the all federally - built colossus located near the site of the Civil War battleground is the world's first airport designed primarily for jet age aircraft.

Built by the Federal Aviation Agency 27 miles west of Washington, D. C., the airport has been described by FAA Administrator N. E. Halaby as "an international gateway to this country of which every citizen can be proud."

Boldly conceived and strikingly executed, the airport was designed to satisfy both passenger needs and the challenge of complex airport operations posed by high - speed jets.

The need for a new airport in the Washington area was recognized some two decades ago—before commercial jet transports came into use. Even then, the project was not without controversy and it was to be a decade before Congress actually authorized its construction.

Approximately eight years after it was authorized, a site selection committee designated Chantilly in 1958, as the place for the super jet airport. The selection came after 45 previous sites had been discarded for one or a number of reasons.

No sooner had the site been selected than it came under fire from members of the Maryland Congressional delegation who contended Friendship Airport near Baltimore could better serve the Washington - Baltimore area.

Friendship had been suffering from lack of passenger traffic since it was established but came into its own with the advent of jet aircraft. Washington's National Airport was not considered adequate by government standards to accommodate jets.

A second jet airport in the Washington - Baltimore area constituted a threat to the financial success of Friendship and members of the Maryland delegation made no secret about their feelings for Dulles.

They contended Dulles was owned and operated by the FAA and charged pressure was being brought to bear to "force" airlines to schedule the majority of their flights into Dulles. These flights would by necessity be diverted from Friendship.

Since Friendship was paid for and is operated by Baltimore's taxpayers, its proponents contend Dulles, in effect, puts the federal government in competition with private enterprise.

FAA Administrator Halaby denies any pressure has been used to get Dulles more favorable treatment from the airlines. He contends that in time public demand for air transportation will be such that both Dulles and Friendship will be operating at capacity.

Other experts in the field disagree with Halaby's optimistic prediction. They see either Friendship or Dulles as capturing the jet trade with the loser becoming a ghost town.

The airlines themselves will be the key to which of the two airports survives, at least for the next few years. Will they switch the bulk of their flights to Dulles or try to juggle their schedules between the two or stay at Friendship?

It'll be the traveling public which will make the airlines' mind up for them. The airlines naturally go where the passenger dollar is and abandon unprofitable routes unless ordered to do otherwise by the government.

How the public will take to Dulles remains to be seen. Both airports are about equally available from downtown Washington with Dulles several minutes closer.

Dulles is by far the most modern airport in the world, featuring mobile lounges to whisk passengers from the terminal directly to the aircraft and the last word in terminal and baggage handling facilities.

The new airport is at a disadvantage, however, because unlike Friendship, which is 13 miles from Baltimore, Dulles has nothing on the other side of it to generate passenger volume.

All of Dulles' passenger traffic will come from the Washington area while Friendship can count on Baltimore and the metropoli-

Missile Threat

Ominous Danger Behind Kennedy On-Site Inspection Plans

An ominous new missile threat is behind President Kennedy's decision to continue pressing for "on - the - site" inspection of Soviet missile bases in Cuba.

The latest U-2 Intelligence-photo flights over Cuba uncovered four newly - installed medium - range "cruise" type missiles on their launchers near sites where Soviet military technicians dismantled their intermediate range ballistic missiles.

These winged missiles, capable of carrying a 4,000 - pound nuclear warhead, have a range of from 200 to 750 miles. Many of their features are similar to the Air Force's air - breathing Snark, except its longer (5,000 - mile) range.

The SS-N-3, as this missile is identified, has a speed estimated at around 500 miles per hour. It appears to be about two and one-half times longer than the SS-N-1s that now ring the Cuban coastline. There are 18 of these shorter-range missiles.

In the hands of the erratic Castro, the Joint Chiefs of Staff consider these new SS-N-3 missiles as dangerous as the IL-28s, the twin - engine jet bombers President Kennedy is demanding that Premier Khrushchev withdraw from Cuba.

The aerial photos show the Soviet bombers, similar to the Air Force's B-47s, now on three airfields. A total of 36 IL-28s have been photographed. Fourteen have been uncrated and are believed ready to be flown; four have been seen in the air.

This alarming intelligence is causing President Kennedy to seriously consider a J.C.S. recommendation to tighten up the "limited" naval - air blockade of Cuba.

Under the J.C.S. proposal, all military supplies to the island, including jet fuel and oil, would be banned. Ships carrying these supplies would be intercepted and turned back. At present, the Navy has been ordered to stop only ships carrying "offensive" weapons and their component parts.

THE ALMANAC

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, Nov. 18, the 322nd day of 1962 with 43 to follow.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning star is Mars.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1883, the United States adopted Standard Time. The nation henceforth was to be divided into four time zones designated as Eastern, Central, Mountain and Pacific.

In 1903, the United States and Panama signed a treaty which led to the building of the Panama Canal.

In 1936, the regime of Gen. Francisco Franco in Spain was recognized by the Fascist governments of Germany and Italy.

In 1939, John L. Lewis was elected president of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, successor to the original Committee for Industrial Organizations.

A thought for the day—President Thomas Jefferson said: "Never buy what you do not want because it is cheap; it will be dear to you."

Bible Digest

"Let your speech be always with grace, seasoned with salt that ye may know how ye ought to answer every man." Colossians 4:6.

A lot depends on not only what you have to say but how you say it. The grace in our talk is the proof of God in our lives.

Holiday Centerpiece Can Match China Pattern

Highlight your table settings, for holiday or other special entertaining, with flower centerpieces that harmonize with your favorite dinnerware patterns.

Whether you plan a formal, or informal, sitdown or buffet dinner, the dinnerware you propose to use should determine your choice of flowers, and of the colors of your linens and dining accessories, advises the Society of American Florists.

Use the color or design of your dinnerware as a guide in planning a floral centerpiece, giving first consideration to color. However, try to achieve a definite harmonious link between your centerpiece and dinnerware in both color and design motif, SAF says.

Since flowers are available in such wide varieties and colors, you should be able to match almost any color in your favorite dinnerware. Should your plates have more than one color, your centerpiece can be made to harmonize with any one color, or with several colors in combination.

You can create interesting, unusual and striking centerpieces to highlight your table settings by using fresh flowers alone or combined with foliages, fruit and vegetables, and dried material.

If your china is of floral or fruit design, for instance, you often can duplicate in your centerpiece the actual flowers, or fruit, depicted on your plates. Where your plates have a center design and a colored border, even the border color can be repeated in the flower container.

For example, let's assume you are planning an informal, sitdown dinner. You decide to use your favorite fruit pattern dinnerware — with olive - green border — depicting, against a white background, a red and a yellow-red apple, with stems and foliage attached, and a few yellow-colored grapes. You plan to use a tablecloth which is a lighter shade of the yellow - green colors of the pattern, and yellow napkins.

To highlight this table setting, a good choice for your centerpiece would be a combination of yellow fugi mums and maroon-colored pompons, supplemented by brilliant red and yellow apples, bunches of wine - colored grapes and grape ivy. Your use of an olive - green flower container would echo the border color of the plates giving you a perfectly coordinated setting.

Often, the design motif of dinnerware can be repeated in an accessory included in the flower arrangement. If you were using, for an informal buffet dinner, plates designed with a large rooster, in red, brown and yellow colors against a white background, your centerpiece could contain one or two miniature rooster figures. An arrangement of red carnations, varicolored croton leaves and dock with a few wood shavings at the base of the arrangement, would add to the air of informality and duplicate the colors of the dinnerware.

For a formal sitdown dinner, if your dinnerware featured a few delicate blue flowers against a white background, a centerpiece of blue cornflowers combined with agapanthus, sweet peas and white pompons would be an excellent choice, displayed on a light blue tablecloth with white napkins.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made by Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Joshua Young, Houston, Texas of the engagement of their daughter, Kathryn to James Donald Parks Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. James Donald Parks, also of Houston. The bride-elect, who is the niece of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Marks of this city, attended Louisiana Polytechnic Institute in Ruston and is now a student at the University of Texas. Her fiance attends Texas Christian University. The wedding will be December 22 in St. Paul's Methodist church in Houston.

Burlap Coats Require Lining To Keep Shape

By FLORENCE de SANTIS

Q: A friend and I are making coats out of burlap. What would you suggest for a lining, to avoid the scratchiness when worn? We want the coats for spring, since the fabric is tan slubbed with orange, and don't want to quilt-line it.

A: Burlap must have some kind of body in the lining, if only to keep its shape. I would suggest Pellon interfacing, then taffeta rayon. Rayon alone isn't enough, as the burlap fibres will stick through it.

Q: I am going to a wedding in Mobile, Ala., late in December. Should I wear dressy black to the wedding, with a mink stole, or a cashmere coat, mink collared, with mink hat? What dress with it? What would be suitable for my teen-age daughter?

A: No black for a wedding! Cashmere coat and mink hat are fine. Dress can be simple silk, in beige, off-white, even soft colors (pink, orange, green) which blend with its tone. Watch out for clothing being too heavy. Mobile is no cooler in December than fall here.

For your daughter, a dress such as she would wear to church here, her usual dress coat, simple hat and pumps are in good taste.

Q: Can bridesmaids wear both white fur muffs and long gloves? The dresses have short sleeves.

A: Both muffs and gloves are too much. Muffs are used usually only with such fabrics as velvet or peau de soie for the dresses. If your dresses are in a suitable fabric, choose muffs if you like, but not gloves, too.

Q: Is there anything special about a wardrobe for a trip to Australia? I am going there next summer.

A: Consult a travel bureau for likely winter climate, since you will be going there in their winter, and temperatures ranged from tropical in the north to freezing in the south. But as for fashions, no differences that need worry you.

Second Kitchen Meets Needs Of Changing Times

A second kitchen for the home —a trend brought on by changing living patterns — is making a strong bid for the attention already granted the second bathroom and the second car.

The second kitchen serves admirably when:

The family room is at the other end of the house or on a different floor from the kitchen; there are semi-detached quarters for other members of the family, such as parents - in - law or grown children; there is a need for late snacks or baby's midnight bottle without long treks; and when the recreation room is far removed from the kitchen.

In every case, it is important to have the same intrinsic quality features as the master kitchen. These include easy-to-clean surfacing materials, plenty of light and electrical outlets in the immediate area, and adequate working and service space.

However, a second kitchen need not be an entire food preparation or serving center; in fact, it often consists mainly of a refrigerator and sink. Some of the self - contained units on the market combine heating and cooking facilities with beverage glasses, coffee pot outlets, storage areas and utensil holders.

Cozy Hats Seen For Winter

Mata Hari has done a good deed at last. In her new fashion incarnation, she has brought in wrapped, warmly cozy hats for this winter.

Big fur hats with jersey scarves attached wrap up models' heads and necks. Designers made them for slinky, spy - style glamour, but women have unanimously approved them for warmth.

Favorite shapes are the beret and the toque. Irene of New York does a Russian - looking toque with matching muffler stole, both in curly unshorn lamb. Halston does a beaver pillbox over jersey scarf. Sally Victor's high toque of leopard cuffed in leather also goes on over a wrapping jersey scarf-hood.

Berets in fluffy furs like kit fox, lynx and opossum are set on satin bands, completely cover ears and head. Matching fur ascots or muffling scarves go with these. John Frederics' snood beret' is in precious sable fur.

Womanly Sin Is Age-Old Lie

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Every now and then a family asks Robinson Presbrey, momument maker, not to chisel the vital statistics onto a certain tombstone.

The deceased, usually a woman who has spent a lifetime battling to keep her age out of print, has requested that she also be permitted to spend the hereafter confusing the graveyard historians.

However, gravestone sculptors are more charitable about the vanities of women than are agencies which issue drivers licenses, marriage licenses and passports.

Clerks in these places will add 10 to 15 years to the most ingenue-looking female just about as fast as she will reluctantly admit the accurate number.

But a woman's word (and certainly not her looks) is not enough in other states where drivers licenses expire according to birth dates. Her story must be corroborated with the ruthless truth of a birth certificate.

WHITE LIES

In marriage bureaus, if New York City's is any criterion, women would rather risk perjury than confess their age to the clerk and the man they hope to marry.

A few flip replies such as "old enough," or "over 21." But when these won't do, they blush furiously, and scribble out the awful number.

"They'll shave their age a lot," admits Deputy of the New York Marriage Bureau Thomas A. Lenane. "And then maybe an hour or two later they'll come back wanting to get the whole matter straightened out."

If it isn't, the bride's vain fibbing may complicate matters in later life.

"Sometimes they come back here years later chagrined because they lied. They can't get their birth records, and they need the marriage license to verify their age to social security, or life insurance people."

In New York it takes a supreme court ruling to amend a marriage license.

FEMININE PROTESTS

Perhaps because a woman, Miss Frances A. Knight, is director of the U. S. Passport office, this legal agency is more sympathetic.

During the past 10 years a number of recommendations to omit ages on passports have been made to Congress. But they never got anywhere. They probably would have if the Congressman's wives had been passing on them.

"We get an awful lot of complaints from women and I think their arguments are well founded, says soft - hearted Joseph R. Callahan, head passport deputy here.

"Since you really can't tell how old a woman is these days, I don't see that listing her age proves much."

Still he insists that his agents are always adamant about getting the correct birth date, "as long as it's the law," despite pathetic feminine pleadings.

Survey Reveals Men's Secrets At Housework

By PATRICIA McCORMACK

NEW YORK (UPI)—Half the men in the country wash dishes.

Two-thirds of them also wash windows but draw the line at waxing floors—plainly, woman's work.

The facts about housework habits of the nation's males were considered "secret and confidential" until William J. Colihan blabbed.

The way he talked about his fellow man, he's likely to rate as a contemporary Benedict Arnold in the battle of the sexes.

His report about "Some Secrets We Know About Men" plainly betrayed members of his sex.

But Colihan, an advertising executive, thought it only fair to blab. Last year about this time he revealed "Some Secrets We Know About Women." Females in his life—and many he didn't know—caused such a fuss that he had to put the shoe on the other foot.

Colihan did it before the same group, wives of members of the National Wholesale Drug Association meeting in San Francisco. The secrets he revealed are based on enough surveys to line a 25-foot book shelf in his office.

Every secret, you see, is well-documented—so no male need try denying the facts. Samples:

—The more intelligent a man is, the more likely he is to read comic sections of newspapers.

—If a man buys cheap whiskey or cannot afford a new car, he will say so. A woman will hedge.

—Men are not unwilling to work around the house, as their dish-washing records show.

—Men on shopping sprees like to get into a store and get out. But men don't get the emotional satisfaction out of shopping that women do.

—During interviews when husbands were present, the wife claimed responsibility for making certain decisions 12 per cent of the time. When he wasn't present, her authority suddenly jumped to 26 per cent.

—Alcoholic beverages are first introduced to the household through the husband's influence. But after the marriage, the husbands tend to drink less, wives more.

—When it comes to dieting, men are more determined to stick to the diet. Women are more diet conscious, but weaker in the will-power department.

DETERMINE HEIGHT

To determine how tall to make a flower arrangement for the center of a dining room table, use this "rule of thumb" provided by the Society of American Florists: Place your elbow on the table in front of the arrangement and clench your fist. The flowers should be no higher than your fist, to permit cross - table conversation.

Glamorous 'Glamellias' Keynote Fall Wedding

Our enterprising florists, not content with what nature and the hybridizers can do, have invented a new flower. Made of gladiolus petals and formed like a camellia, it is called, logically enough, a glamellia. To make glamellias, florists dismember several gladiolus flowers and then wire selected petals together at the base. The result is a lovely and distinctive blossom.

Glamellias, of course, have no natural stems, and they were originally intended for use in corsages. The Society of American Florists points out that they also make ideal wedding flowers. The wide range of colors and the ready availability of gladioli make glamellias the answer to a bride's flower problems at almost any season of the year.

For autumn weddings, the Society suggests a white gladiolus tiara for the bride, with a large flower in the center and buds at the end. Big white glamellias, with sprays of smaller gladiolus flowers, make up her bouquet.

For the bridesmaids and maid of honor, glamellias should be in appropriate autumn colors. Light red or yellow glamellias combine with sprays of matching pompon chrysanthemums to make a distinctive and charming bouquet. A single large glamellia of the same color is worn in the hair. And for a finishing touch, pompons edge elbow-length gloves.

Many other combinations may be worked out, of course. Since gladioli come in every flower color but blue, and in a wide range of shades within each color, glamellias can be fitted into any color scheme at any time of year. For autumn, there are the deep yellows, corals and light reds. For winter, consider the deep reds, which combine beautifully with holly and other evergreens. And for spring and summer, nothing could be lovelier than the light yellows, the various shades of pink, and the pinkish lavenders.

DAD PROPOSES, MOM DISPOSES

NEW YORK (UPI) — Dad still makes the final decision when it comes to buying the family car—but his choice is depending more and more these days on what Mom wants.

The power of the distaff side in influencing car - buying verdicts has increased in direct ratio to the increase in the number of women drivers, reports C. I. T. Credit Corp., auto financing firm. The number of women drivers has burgeoned from 15 million in 1950 to more than 36 million this year.

Wave Of Uneasiness Seems To Be Plaguing The World

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

A wave of uneasiness seems to be plaguing the entire world Communist movement in the wake of the Cuban showdown.

The arguing, bickering, explaining and excuse-making now going on hint that confusion is building up toward a crisis for world communism.

One cause appears to be the anxiety of the Khrushchev leadership to keep Communist cold war maneuvers from getting beyond the point of no return and touching off a hot war.

Another source of burgeoning crisis seems to stem from a dilemma which will be brought strongly into focus when the Soviet party Central Committee meets Monday. Its agenda stresses the need for radical industrial and agricultural reforms. This suggests that to make the Soviet system function, Khrushchev must undermine some basic revolutionary theories.

IMPELLED

All this has impelled Red stalwarts in the West to search for excuses for a Soviet policy which, to many of the rank and file, must appear to be outrageous surrender of opportunities to advance the cause.

Thus, a veteran of Moscow policy flipflops, Italian leader Palmiro Togliatti, told his own party that "uncertainties and ambiguities have become apparent" in the movement. These ambiguities must include:

The ideological wrangle with the Chinese and Albanian Communists. It is growing in violence. The Soviet party denounces Albania, and the Chinese by implication, as modern-day Trotskyites, which in itself is confusing. Trotsky was the enemy of Stalin, and the Chinese today, in defiance of Khrushchev, cling doggedly to Stalin as a hero and to his dogma.

The Chinese armed attack on India. This has alienated many in Asia and Africa who might have been easy prey to Red blandish ments. It has set back what Red jargon calls "the national liberation movement," meaning revolutionary movements subject to infiltration and capture by the Communists.

Red China's insistence that Khrushchev is "denying the revolutionary character of Marxism-Leninism," and thus harming the world movement. It blasts "concessions" to the West, and the Kremlin admits it made concessions in the Cuban crisis. The Red Chinese and Albanians insist there is only one way to deal with capitalism: "by imposing victory on it, grabbing the power."

Inside the U.S.S.R., Khrushchev's attitude toward doctrine must be painfully obvious to the Communist world.

The newspaper Sovietskaya Rossiya reported Russian workers left a Siberian project, but the story had a doubtful aroma. The workers' action may have been taken with official approval as part of a campaign to dramatize what's wrong with the economy, to demonstrate what Khrushchev's supporters insist is a need for "material incentive," in a word, that's the profit motive.

Sovietskaya Rossiya quoted the boss of the Siberian workers as saying: "If you cannot interest a person from a material point of view you are not going to keep him on the job."

RANK HERESY

This is, at one and the same time, rank heresy and utter nonsense. It is heretical in Communist terms because it supports creeping capitalism. It is nonsense, because the Communists know well how to keep workers on the job, no matter what the aggravation. It was not a question of strikes, but of the inability to get the most out of workers on the job for lack of sufficient incentive.

Communism Now Loud In Turkey

By HAL McCLURE

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Communism's clamoring voice is growing louder and stronger in Turkey.

Recent student riots and demonstrations have been blamed, in part, on Communist agitation.

Communist radio broadcasts, increasing in number and stridency, are pounding away at American and North Atlantic Treaty Organization bases in Turkey and demanding their removal.

The Soviet Embassy here has been accused of spending millions of lira to subvert Turks.

Government leaders, while confident Turkey will never move into the Communist camp, are worried. Prime Minister Ismet Inonu, at the height of the Cuban crisis, warned his people of the dangers of "outside" agitation — and sabotage — to "confuse and weaken Turkey's position."

Besides belonging to NATO, Turkey has a defense and economic pact with the United States. America has three big air bases here and there are an estimated 15 missile sites equipped with intermediate range Jupiters.

"Why should U.S. rocket nuclear weapons remain close to the borders of the U.S.S.R., including those in Turkey?" Radio Moscow asked this week.

"The Soviet Union has never attacked Turkey and has in no way attempted to do so, while the U.S., in contrast to the U.S.S.R., embarked on an armed attack on Cuba last year," it added.

Apparently, Moscow still hopes to find support for dismantling American bases here. Premier Khrushchev, the day before he offered to stop work on his missile bases in Cuba, suggested removal of the weapons there be swapped for dismantling U.S. rockets here.

Besides Radio Moscow, Turkish language broadcasts emanate from Baku on the Caspian Sea, Budapest and East Germany.

The noisiest of the Communist voices is that of a clandestine station called Bizim Radyo — our radio — which claims to represent the outlawed Turkish Communist party. That station is believed to be in East Germany.

Suicide-Proof Sleeping Pills May Be Made

By FRANK E. CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thirteen years ago Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., suggested a way of preventing death from an overdose of sleeping pills. Kefauver's way that may prove right.

Dr. Theodore Koppanyi says Kefauver's lead prompted research at the Georgetown School of Medicine — into making barbiturate sleeping pills suicide-proof and accident-proof. Koppanyi heads the school's department of pharmacology.

Koppanyi said the method involves incorporating into sleeping pills another drug called Metrazole which acts as a stimulant — thereby providing an antidote to a barbiturate overdose.

And, he told a reporter, research is still under way — with promising preliminary results — to improve on the method and eliminate one possible physiological drawback to it.

Kefauver, in 1949, gave national publicity to an idea — credited originally to German scientists — to incorporate into every barbiturate tablet a small quantity of ipecac, a drug commonly used in medicine to promote vomiting.

In This Week, Kefauver wrote: "Take a little ipecac and it doesn't act at all — you don't even feel it. Increase the dose beyond a certain point, however, and it will make you vomit. You bring it up, together with anything else you've swallowed.

"Used in sleeping pills, therefore, it acts as a perfect safety valve. You can't overdose yourself because the overdose brings its own correction."

Gambia Could Be A Political Test

By ROBERT N. LINDSAY

BATHURST, Gambia (AP) — This West African colony, Britain's oldest and poorest on the continent, has the makings of a test in power politics.

Neighboring Senegal would love to have Gambia join it. Some Gambia politicians say Ghana, far down the coast, is angling to have Gambia link up in a union involving Ghana, Guinea and Mali.

The bulk of Gambia's predominantly Moslem peasant farmers, struggling to make a living from growing peanuts, are not greatly interested in such things. They are more concerned with feeding their families and giving their children the education many of them lack.

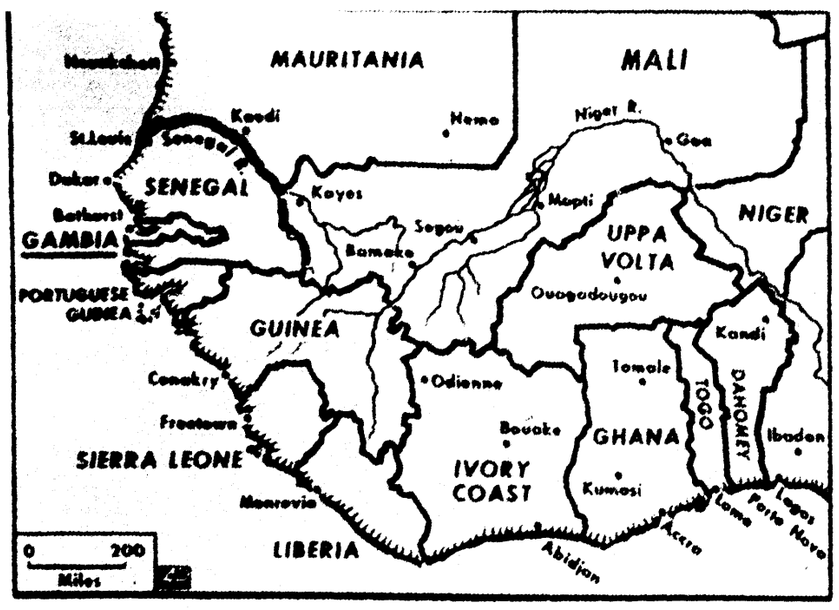

Gambia, with 4,000 square miles, is smaller than Connecticut and has a population of only 300,000. The colony pokes into Senegal like a long finger, and geography suggests that union with Senegal would be logical. But Senegal is French - speaking, and its administrative system and currency are different. Senegal, though independent, keeps very close to Metropolitan France if for no other reason than to insure continued economic assistance. Political leaders in Gambia, where the official language is English, are close to Britain, relying on it to prop up the country's shaky economy.

Gambian leaders do not seem in a hurry for full independence. They suggest two to three years of their present internal self-government before facing up to the hazards of independence. British officials hope Gambia will not delay too long. They want to avoid possible international criticism that they are holding onto their last west African colony.

Meantime there seems a reluctance on Britain's part to provide financing for development project including two the Gambians believe essential — a modern airport and port improvements. Gambians assert Britain hesitates to put more money into plans that could be absorbed by Senegal when the colony gets its dependence.

Nine out of 10 Gambians live on bare subsistence level, with the lowest per capita income in West Africa. Until less than 10 years ago farmers plowed with primitive tools, a kind of Dutch hoe and a sock-sock hand trowel. Efforts are being made to encourage ox plowing.

A by-product of this type of farming is ox-cart transportation to get rice from the fields and to carry building bricks and firewood.

Venezuela Doesn't Fear Communists

By WATSON S. SIMS

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — During the tension created by the arms blockade of Cuba a form letter appeared in mail boxes of many of the 17,000 U.S. residents of Caracas.

"For each Cuba-bound ship sabotaged by you we will answer with drastic action that will make you reconsider your decision," said the letter. "In the case of a direct invasion of Cuba we will invoke a decree of war to the death until not one single American remains alive in our territory."

The letter, signed "National Guerrilla Command of Armed Forces of National Liberation," caused little stir in a country that has attracted United States investments and residents for decades.

The strongly pro-U.S. government of President Romulo Betancourt dismissed it as a sign of frustration in pro-Castro elements among Venezuela's 40,000 Communists, many of whom advocate the overthrow of the government.

NEVER HUNT

"Letters never hurt anyone," said a U.S. citizen who has lived in Caracas eight years. "You get used to things like this."

But precautions have been taken by dozens of U.S. firms operating in this city of skyscrapers and packed highways.

A typical front office boasts a shotgun guard as well as a pretty receptionist. Calling cards will not get visitors past the guard. Escort or other formal identification is required. The guards began appearing after a series of incidents involving United States establishments. A bomb went off in a bathroom of the U.S. Embassy; another bomb injured five persons at a hotel operated by a U.S. company; and five gunmen shot up offices of the English language newspaper. The most damaging blow came Oct. 27 when four substations of a U.S. petroleum company were dynamited.

Betancourt angrily declared the substations were blown up on direct orders from Havana. He has asked the Organization of American States to act.

There is little sign of flight by U.S. business interests which have some $4 billion invested in Venezuela, more than in any other country except Canada.

The U.S. businesses could not easily withdraw, even if they wished. Their interests have become closely allied with Venezuela's during the many years in which American capital has flowed into this country. U.S. oil companies alone have $3 billion invested here. Operating on a basis of 70 per cent of proceeds to the Venezuelan government, U.S. developers have made this one of the largest oil-exporting countries.

They provide the Betancourt government more than $1 billion yearly, about 60 per cent of its total income.

WANTS MORE

Betancourt's government wants more, rather than less, foreign investment, and some U.S. capital is still coming in. A Ford assembly plant is among a half dozen enterprises under construction.

Measures have been taken to protect investors. After the hotel bombing the government suspended constitutional guarantees and began a roundup of terrorists. When the oil stations were dynamited army reservists were called up and marines were sent to patrol petroleum fields.

The president has asked the Supreme Court to outlaw the Communist party. Arrests seem likely even for Communist members of Congress. Many terrorists are in prison.

Caught in the middle, the American community has generally maintained its composure, but few U.S. citizens lack some story. One was at a lawn dinner party when a homemade bomb rolled from a nearby cliff. The bomb came apart and failed to explode. Another resident had just left a bathroom when a bomb exploded in a water closet. Bombs or noisemakers are heard almost nightly in districts where Americans live.

A few Americans wear pistols, but most display philosophic calm.

"The president is determined to control the situation and things are getting better every day," said one. "People on the streets are friendly to Americans and you always have the feeling the police are on your side."

Others acknowledge a growing sense of insecurity.

"I get letters from the states saying I should bring the children home," said one housewife. "When I am left alone I get to thinking my parents may be right."

Queen Will Observe 15th Anniversary

LONDON (AP) — The 15th wedding anniversary of Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip, next Tuesday, will find them separated by thousands of miles.

The queen will be in London. Her husband will be in Australia for the British Empire Games.

Palace informants say they will frequently communicate with one another — a courtly way of saying they will exchange greetings by telephone or telegram.

Fifteen years after their wedding, the queen and her consort are considerably changed.

She is slimmer, trimmer and less retiring. She dresses better than she did as Princess Elizabeth.

Also, she's more relaxed. She seems to have acquired some of her husband's quick wit and ability to make people around her feel at ease in the presence of royalty.

The queen is 36, Philip 41. He has held his weight but his hair is thinning.

His influence on his wife and the palace has been enormous.

The court is less stuffy, more in touch with the times.

Informal palace luncheons — all sorts of people are invited — have become a regular institution.

An ardent polo player, but still no lover of horse racing, Prince Philip appears to miss as many of the traditional horsey events as he can.

The queen, on the other hand, is a horse owner, horse breeder, horse rider and horse racer.

The queen and Philip have three children — Charles, 14; Anne, 12, and Andrew, who'll be 3 Feb. 19.

Close friends say the royal couple would like at least another child.

UNRECOGNIZED CODE

GREENVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A federal judge sent two men to jail for adhering to "the code of the hills." The two, both identified as east Tennessee moonshiners, refused to tell where moonshiners or moonshine stills might be found — on grounds "the code of the hills" forbade them to do so.

U.S. Dist. Judge Charles Neese said his court didn't recognize that code, and sent the pair to jail for contempt.

BOOKS

Biography Is Very Critical

JUSEP TORRES CAMPALANS. By Max Aub. Translated from the Spanish by Herbert Weinstock. Doubleday. $5.95.

Classification: artistic novelty.

The real question about this book is: how elaborate can a hoax be? And you might answer pretty elaborate.

On the surface, this is a critical biography of a printer who was born in the Spanish province of Catalan in 1886, who took part in the cubist developments early in this century, and finally became an exile in Mexico.

All the trappings of art criticism are here. There is a long section of "annals" which really is fascinating. There are a biographical section, reproductions of criticisms in esoteric publications, a catalog of an exhibition that never was held, illustrations of the painter's works and copious footnotes.

Some of the great names of modern art are bandied about; particularly, there are passages describing Torres Campalans' relations with Picasso. And there are long quotations from the subject of this volume, very doubletalk pronouncements about art.

The catch to the whole affair is that Torres Campalans is a mythical figure.

So what does that make this book? It is a highly intricate burlesque of modern art, an ingenious and detailed flubdub of painterly gibberish that will amaze the reader. It is said that Max Aub is a real person, but the reader may wonder. Put this down as a remarkable tour de force.

Story About Alexander The Great Is Good

The Conqueror, by Edison Marshall (Doubleday, $5.95): Nearly 2,300 years ago, a Macedonian barely out of his teens led an army into Asia on one of the most fantastic careers of conquest anyone ever undertook. History remembers him as Alexander the Great, legend calls him a demigod.

This is a biography of Alexander, who is said to have died at 33 lamenting there were "no new worlds to conquer." The present biographer does not share this pessimistic view of Alexander's plans.

With an army amounting initially to no more than 30,000 men, Alexander took most of present-day Turkey, Syria, Egypt, Israel, Jordan, Iraq and Iran with parts of Russia, Afghanistan and India.

The two notable women in his life — Thais, the Athenian courtesan, and Roxana, the Bactrian princess — tried to dissuade him from the ruthlessness that grew more pronounced late in his life, when madness, intensified by a brain tumor?) encouraged his belief that he was the son of Zeus.

Civil War Diary Is Historical

A DIARY OF BATTLE, The Personal Journals of Col Charles S. Wainwright, 1861-65. Edited by Allen Nevins. Harcourt, Brace and World. $8.75.

The diary is truly a historical find. Historian Nevins, who edited it brilliantly, says this is the "most comprehensive and historically useful field diary by a Civil War officer that I have seen." It is not at all an extravagant evaluation.

Col. Wainwright was an artillery officer in the Army of the Potomac. He entered the service in 1861 and served through the Grand Review after Appomattox. He left his story in five notebooks — 525,000 words in all — and then vanished into the obscurity from which he came. It is too bad that more is not known known about him; he must have been a remarkable personality.

The value of his diary lies in the broad range of his observations. He reports on battles with appropriate criticism; he describes the towns and homes which he visits and the people with whom he talks; he speaks of generals and privates, horses and rations, picking blackberries and burying the dead.

Wainwright was not entirely an admirable character. He was a snob, for one thing; at one point he notes that he has not found one officer in his division "I care to be intimate with." Some of his opinions are violently prejudiced by his Democratic affiliation. President Lincoln was gawky, uncouth and lacking in dignity. But he rather admired George Brinton McClellan. Yet he is scrupulously honest — he could not bring himself to appropriate some stamps found in an abandoned home for his own collection — and he is forthright and sincere.

Nevins' footnotes and interpolative summations tremendously help in keeping Wainwright's opinions in perspective, especially on incidents like an extremely biased account of Lincoln's visit to the battlefield of Antietam. He has not tampered with Wainwright's text, beyond deleting repetitious and arid sections. Thus we have a rich and revealing narrative of one man's experiences in the war. As Nevins remarks in his introduction, "not many men leave so imposing and valuable a monument for posterity to study."

We Seven; Top Story On Space

WE SEVEN. By the Astronauts. Simon & Schuster. $6.50.

You'd think that after the million of words that have poured forth from all the media of communications about the astronauts, little would be left to say.

Yet this volume has a worthwhile place in the chronicles of Project Mercury, as a collection of first person stories about how the seven men reacted to their training and their missions.

John H. Glenn leads off with the background information about his experience, selection and early training, followed by each of the other six.

Then comes a section on the team aspects of the training and flight programs, by Deke Slayton, Gordon Cooper and Walter Schirra. Glenn, Schirra and Scott Carpenter discuss the equipment of the space capsules and ground stations, after which Slayton, Glenn, Carpenter, Gus Grissom and Alan Shepard pile up detailed descriptions of the many training techniques that prepared the astronauts for space, and Glenn talks about some of the glitches (flaws) that had to be cleared up.

Shepard describes the first American suborbital flight, and Grissom the second, after which Glenn, Carpenter and Shepard build up the details — technical and psychological — which surrounded the first orbital flights. The book ends with graphic, running accounts of the orbits of Glenn and Carpenter (Schirra's came too late for press time).

The reader will be impressed not only with the technical competence of these men, but also with their balance, their devotion to the over-all objectives of the project, and the little touches that show how they let off steam with jocular pranks and small jokes.

Glenn emerges as the dedicated, avuncular type with a thorough grasp of every problem; Carpenter is perhaps the most articulate in describing the emotional and psychological reactions to space flight, and Schirra probably has the saltiest personality.

MISS BARBARA PITRE'S engagement to Mac Richard Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sidney Johnson of Saline, La., is announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Pitre of Hodge. The wedding will take place November 30 at 7 p.m. in the Hodge Baptist Church with Rev. J. D. Wagnon officiating.

MILK PURIFIER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The principle of ion exchange through a plastic membrane can be employed to remove radioactive substances from milk at a cost of perhaps a half cent a quart, reports Dr. Harry P. Gregor, of Brooklyn Polytechnic Institute.

The machine invented by Dr. Gregor, described in "Dental Times," resembles in its operation the so - called artificial kidney which removes uric acid and other substances from the blood of persons whose kidneys are temporarily non-functioning.

'CRASHING' COLOR?

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — One cause of head - on collisions could be the color of the car. Studies at the University of California in Los Angeles show a driver's judgment of how far away an approaching car may be influenced by the color. Blue and yellow make an object seem closest. Gray makes the oncoming car appear farthest away.

Tests proved that at 200 feet objects colored blue or yellow seem as much as six feet closer than objects colored gray — a discrepancy great enough to explain fatal errors in judging distance.

MEAN THINGS!

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Robin King has a theory about inanimate objects. They hate people, says he. As a result, the mean things make people angry.

He has a whole alphabet full of them. Take "B" — for buttons. He says they fall off, roll under tables. Drawers are mean because they wrinkle shirts, they stick, they fall on toes. King's ABC of mean things — "The Angry Book" (Norton) — is for children. He lists "washing" as a mean thing invented by parents.

LEANING BLUEPRINT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "Obesity in school - age children is much more likely to be due to lack of physical activity than to eating unusually large amounts of food," Dr. Frederick J. Stare of the Harvard School of Public Health, said at a recent meeting of school lunch officials.

Dr. Stare recommended physical activity, not only in games and sports, but also in properly supervised exercise or calisthenics. He also suggested that plump school children drink skim milk — or one of the newer skimmed milks in which the nonfat milk solids have been increased.

SPICY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Fennel was once believed to be one of the nine sacred herbs which could counteract the nine causes of disease. Now it imparts a distinctive flavor to pastries, candies and boiled fish.

Rich Furs Top New Fall Suits

This fall the world of suit styles is a wide and wonderful one, and you can write your own passport into high fashion from the many flattering suit models available.

First — it's a season of fine fabric . . . with elegant mohairs, in loopy or souffle cuts; there are a wide variety of soft woolens in brushed surfaces; worsteds in diagonals, chevrons, pettipoints and basket weaves; and plaids, checks and tweeds — all scoring for high fashion favor.

There's also a fabulous fabric group of handsome wool jerseys, double knits, paisley - printed wools and wool challis to give under stated elegance to the new suits.

Again color comes to the fore, with a wondrous range of browns — in hues to please every woman's taste. Creamy cocoa tones and deep burnished browns go along with softer brown neutrals. Reds are as clear as can be, with a fresh vibrance and brilliance.

A greyed winter white shows up as a rice tone, while winter navy is brighter and bluer; greens are reminiscent of glowing pines and such familiar standbys as gold, wine and taupe are reminiscent of sparkling vintages.

Black continues to be a favorite for fall. In addition to its smart solo performances, black creates a harmonious duet with other colors in plaids, tweeds and checks.

However, the big news in fall-into-winter suits is — FUR! Fur is the final lavish iflip of elegance to an already lovely suit picture.

Fur at collars, cuffs, hemlines and at borders blend beautifully with the basic elegant, understated lines of new suit fashions.

Fur runs the gamut from smooth, shiny lustre of persian is the final lavish fillip of elegance of long - haired lynx and fox.

In silhouette, suits — fur trimmed or untrimmed — are neat, pared - down and youthful looking. Every curve is controlled, and tailored to hold its shape.

Jackets vary in length from top of the hips to the ¾ walking length. No matter what length, they gently skim the body yet give vital definition to the bosom and wasitline.

Sleeves on suits generally return to narrow full lengths, while set-in sleeves, small notched collars help heighten the lean, relaxed look.

Suit skirts have trouser-type pockets, panel fronts and are newly eased and gored.

Blazer type jackets over pleated skirts; variations on Norfolk-belted styles, and fly - front chesterfield styles give credence to fall's popular "Bond Street" look.

Suits often wear an easy princess cut with raised bustline and higher waistline. The back is usually rounded while the front looks concave. Under - bosom seams or flap pockets and buttons are placed just above the natural waistline to enhance this look.

Curved seams appear everywhere. Skirts are most often A-line or slightly flared. Collars, when not small and pointed, are usually flatteringly ring-shaped.

Collarless, side closing jackets are new on the scene and give flattery to many of the fall '62 suits.

Walking suits or tunic suits most often point up the curved shape and are usually shown with a tunic blouse sashed at the waist.

In the fur trimmed suit collections, it's a veritable zoo parade of furs. Mink, persian lamb, otter, sable, and sable - dyed baum marten, opposum, fitch, leopard, beaver, lynx and fox are happily giving flattery to the newest suits.

Scarves, stoles and muffled necklines lend intrigue and excitement to many of the newest styles.

The new flame reds and bewitching browns are fabulously flattered with the fur touches.

In colder climates women will welcome the group of new suits with cuddly fur linings that match the trim of fur collar and cuffs.

In addition to the effective trim the various seam handlings give to new suits, flap pockets, bows, big bold buttons and braid also give spicy accents.

The overall suit scene has much fashion elegance — with a host of flattering detail to give milady an eminently suitable look for fall '62.

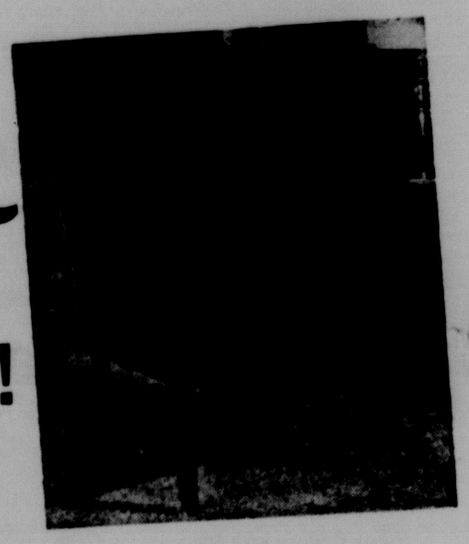

LEATHER TOUCHED

To the simple and classic shapes of young fall fashions, leather trims add luxury touches. There are leather buttons, leather piping, leather on collars, on pockets and, of course, leather belts in wide to spaghetti-string versions.

WANT-AD WONDERS Trade Mark

Want Ads Supplies Prison With Vicious Dogs

"We got the dogs quietly, through want ads in newspapers," said Raiford Prison Director H. G. Cockran. We asked for large, vicious dogs that couldn't be used as pets. The dogs live between the double fence around the security building. They are separated from each other by fence partitions. No one can walk close to the fence, they lunge at it with bared fangs. This is an excellent security measure since men are inherently afraid of large vicious dogs.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

"Dear Eunice:

"How can I insert corded binding between waist and skirt of a dress without the stitching being too far from the cording?"

Mrs. L.D.W.

Dear Mrs. L. D. W.:

When you cover the cording with the bias strip of fabric, use your zipper foot so you can stitch very close to the cord.

The first step in applying this covered cording to your dress is to pin it to the bodice so that the machine stitching will be exactly over the seamline. Machine stitch this to the bodice, again using the zipper foot. This stitching will be directly over the first stitching.

Last, pin the skirt over the bodice and machine stitch the two sections together, using the stitching that appears on the wrong side of the bodice as a guide. Once again, use the zipper foot, and if you have been accurate with each step, you will have professional results.

GOOD GIRL GIFT

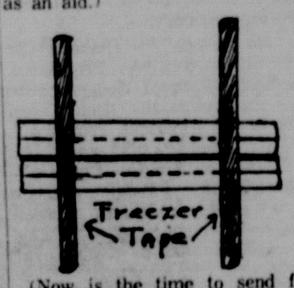

Mrs. B. R. says: "I put my scraps of fabric, bits of lace, bias tapes, left over trimmings, buttons, etc. in a gift box. I then add a spool of thread, a few pins and needles and a small doll and PRESTO, you have a Christmas gift that will make any little girl very happy (with very little cost to you).

USE TAPE

Mrs. Barbara Averill, Fairfield, Ia., wins this week's Tailor Trix pressing board for this suggestion:

"The use of colored freezer tape is a simple way to hold the welts for your bound buttonholes in place as you are stitching. It also will provide an accurate mark for the stitching to begin and end.

"Use a narrow strip of colored freezer tape and lay it over the two welts for the buttonholes exactly even with your guide basting. Do the same for the other end of the buttonhole where the stitching will end." (This is especially helpful for the beginner and is the easiest way ever suggested to me as an aid.)

(Now is the time to send for your free leaflet on detailed instructions for "Bound Buttonholes." Send your request with a large, self - addressed, stamped envelope to Sew Simple in care of this newspaper.)

SNOW MITTS NEEDED

Mrs. D. L. of Vancouver, British Columbia, asks if anyone has a pattern for large snow mitts for children. The mitts are made of a soft plastic fabric with a jersey type backing and are so roomy they can be worn over other wool gloves. They are especially nice for keeping gloves and jacket sleeves from getting wet during the snow season.

If you know of such a pattern, please send it to Sew Simple.

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"My daughter is taking sewing in high school and needed a slide fastener for her dress. The only one available was made of plastic and I am wondering if there is any special information available on this new type of fastener?"

Mrs. F. V.

Dear Mrs. F. V.:

Yours is just one of many letters I have received concerning these new type fasteners. I have checked into them rather thoroughly and will relate the information I have gathered. As with any new product, we must be educated to the "do's and don'ts." The new fasteners you are referring to are NYLON, not plastic. If you will give them the care you would give any fine nylon product, they will respond by giving you many extra benefits.

The fastener is made of nylon coils which mesh together, leaving no sharp edges to catch threads or frayed fabrics. They are noticeably smaller, lighter weight, color fast and more flexible, yet the strength remains the same.

The only thing that can permanently weaken these nylon fasteners is EXCESSIVE HEAT. Close the fastener before ironing (this was always recommended for metal ones). If it must remain open while you press, use a press cloth over the fastener area. If it has been weakened by excessive direct heat, it will have a tendency to separate.

May I also suggest that if you are making any garment that will be fitted very tight at the waistline, such as a bathing suit, or a formal-type dress with a very fitted bodice, you use grosgrain belting at the waistline. It should be just slightly tighter than the dress and hook separately. In this way, the unusual strain will not be on the fastener itself.

(If any of you can add any additional information or tell of experiences concerning these fasteners, please write to me as soon as possible.) Send your letters to Sew Simple, in care of Monroe Morning World.

Hat Is World's Oldest Status Symbol

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Writer

In these status - conscious days, paradoxically, a lady chooses a hat without regard to her social position.

Yet the head covering, from the queen's crown to the peasant's kerchief, is the most consistent prestige symbol in history.

Nor is any other article of apparel steeped in so much tradition, or even superstition.

It is doubtful that many women know that the pillbox, for example, was worn long ago by the Persian women in hopes that it would ease childbirth.

Nor is it likely that many devotees of the red hat realize that Roman Vestal Virgins wore red on their heads to ward off evil spirits.

Despite Queen Nefertiti's famous blue hat, which was actually a crown, the upper class Grecian ladies get historical credit for starting the hat fashion. They enjoyed wearing embroidered berets and pillboxes, too, but did not cotton to the Persian superstition.

Byzantine Empress Theodora added the jeweled cloche cap to history. And by the Middle Ages tailed hoods were getting admiring glances. By the middle 1400's Queen Isabelle of France introduced a tall conical hat called the hennin which shared the stage with high rolled turbans for almost two hundred years.

Indeed, these grew to such heights that castle doorways and ceilings were ripped out and rebuilt so that women could pass through without knocking off their hats.

The expression, pin money, goes all the way back to this period for very costly pins were needed to fasten veil adornments to these hats. Women of all classes saved their money to buy the pins.

The word millinery grew out of the Renaissance when Milan, Italy, developed a reputation for such fine straw and superior hat craft that a person owning a hat from this city was ever so chic.

By the 17th century the ostrich was in danger of extinction. Women shocked their men-folk by stealing the style of their broad brimmed cavalier hat with rolled or cocked brim and ornamented them with all the weeping ostrich plumes they could afford.

Then, just as today's bouffant hairdo increased the popularity of the little hat, wide - wired-out coiffeurs of the late 1600s brought about the small cap and lace coif.

In Gainsborough's time the brimmed hat made a comeback in tremendous proportions, laden with plumes and ribbons and sometimes concealing little water glasses for fresh flowers.

But being feminine, and therefore fickle, the ladies also imitated the shepherdesses wearing simple straw hats tied with velvet ribbon.

On the other hand lace or gauze was wadded into wide puffed crowns, and hat brims and powdered wigs grew to such heights that just before the French Revolution pages walked behind them with long notched poles to hold up the headpiece construction.

Young Queen Victoria wore brimmed leghorns trimmed with lace flounces. And in America the Gibson girls fancied another type of broad brimmed hat called a skimmer.

All women wore lace caps indoors. There were night caps, rising caps, morning caps, and even lacy theater caps worn under large hats. Out of doors the lady wore her bonnet and carried her cap in a man's collar box in order to change at the next indoor destination.

As fashion does, millinery took the other extreme during the 1920s paring the head shape to cranium - hugging cloches and adding the barest of brims.

Today the legalities and supersititions are missing, but the hat shapes of centuries ago are still there. They are disguised a bit by modern fabrics, redesigned a bit to compliment contemporary fashion. But the romance of eras ago is stitched into every topper.

Night gowns with built-in bras, introduced on the market last year, have been so successful that a host of lingerie manufacturers are turning out soft bras, without night gowns, for use by the pajama devotee.

There are two types of bra gowns - - - the soft bra bodice, fastened in front or just elasticized and attached to a skirt, or the minimal bra mounted under a shift or midriff fitted gown.

Fur coats derived from a variety of animals are becoming as important to men as status symbols as they are to women.

For the definitely outgoing personalities are cat skin coats usually in ¾ length versions. Also just short of the knees are sleek double-breasted. For the man on the way up, are sheared Alaskan seal coats with notched collars.

Type of coat for the man at the top is a black full length persian lamb chesterfield with seal skin collar.

Try Exotic Party Fare

Like a hero sandwich, the Anchoiade, an exotic Mediterranean speciality is made from a loaf of Italian bread, split in half lengthwise. To make this sandwich chop 24 figs, 20 anchovy filets, 24 walnuts, 2 cloves garlic, and ¼ cup parsley, very fine.

Brush both sides of the bread with anchovy oil and add enough oil to the filling to make a paste. Spread the filling between the bread halves, press together firmly and bake for 15 minutes in preheated oven at 375 degrees. When the bread is hot and crisp, slice into 1-inch slices and serve very hot.

STARRING THE singing and speaking voice of the incomparable Judy Garland, UPA's animated full-length musical feature, "Gay Purr-ee," a Warner Bros. release in Technicolor opening Wednesday at the Paramount Theatre, recounts the rollicking adventures of a group of colorful French cats.

Curtain Call

If you missed reading about it elsewhere, tryouts for "Hansel and Gretel," are set for Monday and Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at Strauss Playhouse.

Half a dozen children and three adults are needed for this full-length stage version of Grimm's classic fairy tale. Rehearsals will start at once under the direction of Raymond Lucero, our technical director, so that the play will be ready for the week after Christmas.

Little Theatre is pleased and proud to be associated with the Junior Charity League of Monroe in this venture.

ANNOUNCEMENT

Little Theatre members will be sent in the near future an announcement of the performance date for "Gigi," with the customary form for making advance reservations by mail. Toby Smith and Scherck Bogen complete the cast as Sidonie, the maid, and Victor, the chauffeur.

This will be Mrs. Smith's stage debut, although daughters, Ronnie and Patty, appeared in "Bye, Bye Birdie." Scherck Bogen's stage credits are too lengthy to enumerate, but he was last seen in "Inherit The Wind."

In tribute to "Gigi's" Parisian locale, plans are afoot to convert the lobby into a corner of France. A dozen of those fabulous travel posters have been received from Air France, while Marc Bloch is undertaking a background mural. Instead of a solid gold chauffeur, we hope to have a gendarme at the door for this run.

The sets for "GiGi" are fast taking shape. They will reflect the ornate decor of the turn of the century. The period costumes now on order will add to the opulent atmosphere. We predict that our members are going to enjoy "Gigi" every bit as much as "The Solid Gold Cadillac."

ATTENDANCE

A handful from Monroe attended "Guys and Dolls," in El Dorado week before last. This was the most ambitious production of their Little Theatre so far and attracted the phenomenal box-office count of about 2,300 during a three night run. It brought back memories of our own "Guys And Dolls," in 1960, our last musical at Selman Field.

Little Theatre members who failed to attend Northeast's production of "Papa Is All," last week missed a good show with fine performances by Murray Burfford, Mike Parkerson, Bill Wells, Karen Leach, Joan Machen and Charles Machen. We hope to see all of them on the stage at Strauss Playhouse before too long, as well as their director, Claude Fuller.

In town to visit relations during the past few weeks was Mrs. Carl B. Hupman, the former Lucyle Godwin, who as recreation director for Monroe 30 years ago played a vital part in the events that led up to the founding of Little Theatre.

She brought Charles Wells of the National Recreation Association here to give a drama workshop course.

The so-called Dramatic Institute gave several one-act plays which led to the organization of the Little Theatre of Monroe in May, 1932. We know that Mrs. Hupman was thrilled to visit Strauss Playhouse and see what has been accomplished since.

The first president of Little Theatre was Mrs. Elmer Richards who now lives in the suburbs of New York City. She writes that she has kept her love of the theatre and enjoys the memory of her part in holding together an organization of culture for Monroe during its difficult early days.

The word from Orange is that Slade Brown is directing their Little Theatre's production of "Bye Bye Birdie," which opens tomorrow for a week's run. Slade, of course, was co-producer of the Broadway show and will soon return to New York to get his new entry, "A Happy Lot," into production. Jane Brown, we are told, was recently offered the lead in a Beaumont opera production, but had to decline for lack of time.

AMUSEMENTS

AT PARAMOUNT

'Gay Purr-ee' Set For This Week

Starring the voices of the incomparable Judy Garland and Broadway and TV singing sensation Robert Goulet, UPA's animated full length musical feature, "Gay Purr-ee," opens Wednesday at the Paramount Theatre. The singing and speaking voices of Red Buttons, Hermione Gingold and Paul Frees are also co-starred in the Warner Bros. release in Technicolor which details the adventures of a demure French kitten caught up in the glitter and glamor of Paris.

Harold Arlen and E. Y. (Yip) Harburg, whose many stage and screen hits have included the scores for "The Wizard of Oz" and "Cabin in the Sky" with songs like "Stormy Weather," "I Love A Parade" and the immortal Garland musical signature "Somewhere Over The Rainbow," wrote the score — with eight new songs —for "Gay Purr-ee."

Miss Garland sings four of the film's beguiling songs and duets a fifth one with Goulet, who soared to overnight stardom following his stage bow in "Camelot."

"Gay Purr-ee" revolves about the adventures of a beautiful young lady cat who lives in the south of France and dreams of seeing Paris. Eventually, the cat, named Mewsette takes off for the Champs Elysees, followed by her heartbroken boy friend, Jaune Tom. Tom is accompanied by his little friend Robespieere, whose voice is supplied by Red Buttons.

In Paris, Mewsette falls into the clutches of the villainous Merowrice, a slick boulevardier who takes her to the salon of Mme. Rubens - Chatte for grooming. When Jaune - Tom and Robespierre finally track Mewsette down, Meowrice has them shanghaied and shipped off to Alaska. Mewsette becomes the darling of Paris society and Meowrice reveals to her that he has made arrangements to marry her off to a rich old coal cat from Pittsburgh. Fortunately, Jaune Tom and Robespierre return in time to rescue her.

DAZZLING

Mewsette's triumph in Paris Society provides "Gay Purr-ee" with one of its most dazzling sequences. It is the Paris of the 1890's and Mewsette captures the fancy of the city's artists and the sequence shows her painted in the styles of Cazanne, Monet, Braque, Seurat, Modigliani, Degas, Toulouse - Lautrec, Rousseau, Gauguin, Renoir and Picasso.

"Gay Purr-ee" was produced by Henry Saperstein and directed by Abe Levitow. The story was written by Dorothy and Chuck Jones.

AT THE JIM

Skipper Presley Beauty Catcher

Elvis Presley becomes skipper of a fishing vessel and catches a lot of pretty girls in the Hal Wallis Technicolor production, "Girls! Girls! Girls!," opening Wednesday at the Jim Theatre.

The picture, directed by Norman Taurog for Paramount, has a corps of cuddlesome cuties which number more than three score girls, all of them in some degree of association with Presley.

Their principals include Stella Stevens and newcomer Laurel Goodwin and the beauteous Beall twins, Betty and Barbara, in addition to which there are 35 dancing beauties representing places of origin around the world, and more than a score of pulchritudinous American and tropical native types, variously encountered on beach, on boat deck and in night club.

PERSONALITY

In this, Elvis' eleventh picture, Stella Stevens already is a name personality, and Laurel Goodwin appears to be going places after her start here. In fact, enthusiastic reaction by Paramount executives to Miss Goodwin's performance in "Girls! Girls! Girls!," and after viewing the first rough cut of "Papa's Delicate Condition," starring Jackie Gleason, in which she portrays a co-starring role, studio officials exercise their option on the services of the new young star.

VARIATIONS

It has been thus in varying degree ever since Elvis started out in pictures with "Love Me Tender," in which Debra Paget was his vis-a-vis. Then came "Loving You," with Lizbeth Scott, Jana Lund and Dolores Hart. Miss Hart, who repeated with Elvis two pictures later in "King Creole," is now a reckonable star in her own right.

"Jailhouse Rock" found Elvis beguiled by Judy Tyler, Jennifer Holden and Anne Neyland. Carolyn Jones and Dolores Hart were with him in "King Creole," and both have gone ahead to fame.

HOW MUCH ADDITIONAL WILL THE PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS COST ME?

ANSWER: At the end of 1963, two mills will be added to your present tax rate. This means that for each $1,000 of assessment, you will pay only $2.00 more per year.

EXAMPLES: The owner of a home assessed at $500 will pay only $1.00 extra per year, beginning at the end of 1963.
The owner of a home assessed at $1,000 will pay only $2.00 extra per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $2,000 will pay only $4.00 per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $3,000 will pay only $6.00 per year.

This is a very small increase for the long overdue and much needed improvements which are recommended to you. Vote yes on all five propositions in Tuesday's election.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

Artistry In Designs

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

A beautiful show was given by Mrs. Frank Kaylor of Ruston, last Wednesday for the Garden Center and T.V.

Many persons are familiar with the driftwood arrangements made by Mrs. Kaylor on past shows, and, I know you were really watching for this date to arrive so you could again enjoy her artistic hand in arranging this prized and sought-for "mystery wood."

Mrs. Kaylor opened her show by explaining just where the best places are for finding driftwood, and how to first mount it to obtain the best results in arranging.

She said she found that it was best to visit the beach early in the morning or soon after a storm in search of wood that has been blown to the shore. The hidden bays off the beaten path on the deserted beaches are good places to look. When driftwood is well seasoned there is very little to do to it except brush away the sand and sea moss.

NATURAL FINISH

The naturalness of it is much nicer than trying to give it a finish with paint or stain, unless, for some special type arrangement where this would add to it's mood. Mrs. Kaylor has a knack of using her wood in it's natural state.

One of her arrangements featured a black painted branch. It was very striking, however. She had a reason for painting this particular branch. The container used was a low black ceramic bowl on a black rectangular base. This created a bold, modern feeling.

For line material she used three branches of pussywillow and glycerinized French mulberry. The grey and wine colors contrasted with the black wood causing a striking, modern mood. The focal area contained a glycerinized banana blossom which held it's color perfectly. Two fresh castor bean leaves were placed low to cover the holder and complete the design.

DESCRIBED

Mrs. Kaylor made and described eight outstanding designs. I would love to describe each of them, but, due to lack of space I'll have to pick out just a few of them. Another design contained twisted branches anchored into a round, brown wooden bowl with styrafoam for a holder. She used the colorful leaves of the crape myrtle as a filler around the pomegranate in the focal area. Also, as a filler she used crooked neck squash, red and green peppers and a lime which added the necessary contrasting color — green with the red tones.

To finish this design Mrs. Kaylor wired pecans together to form a grape-like cluster and hung them from the edge of the design over the lip of the bowl. This arrangement was made for the dining table, Mrs. Kaylor explained.

A blue ribbon winner in a recent flower show contained an interesting upright piece of light brown wood which had been mounted on a large brown rectangular base. Three cattails with brown dock formed the tallest placement behind the wood. Following the line of the wood were dried okra pods curving in matching rhythm with the curve of the wood. There was more dock at the base with an interesting cluster of dried mushrooms which hid the needle cup holder and formed a natural setting for a real, life - like ceramic brown bear—the focal point of the design. Mrs. Kaylor uses this design on her buffet in the dining room.

EUCALYPTUS

A design that I cannot leave out is the one that contained lovely glycerinized eucalyptus branches for line, following a curving branch of wood that had been rubbed with hot linseed oil to give a deeper shade of tan. The container of this design is the eye-catcher, made of horse shoes. Two shoes were laid flat and welded together. Two more welded together form the stem of an oval shaped can which had been welded to the sides of the shoes.

The whole container was painted brown, then rubbed with black paint to give it a red - brown color. A tan base was used under this design, matching the shade of the wood in the arrangement perfectly. Brown dock was used low for filler with castor bean leaves at the base, and for the final touch — a bunch of poke berries hung over the end of the container .

For the holidays, Mrs. Kaylor used a lovely soft white ceramic madonna figurine which had the container attached. In this container (in a needle point holder) she placed a curving branch of wisteria which had been painted white. This formed a perfect halo above the madonna. Within the line of the wisteria she used holly sprayed pink and glittered slightly. Also, Christmas beads were sprayed with the same pink. Low in the design forming a background for the madonna was a cluster of skeletonized magnolia leaves, also sprayed a light pink. A pale pink cluster of artificial grapes hung from the container and curved around the feet of the figurine. Mrs. Kaylor made this design for her hall console table to be used during the Christmas holidays.

Wish I could go on, but, I'll have to save space for a final word. Thanks to Mrs. Kaylor from all of us. I hope you didn't miss this wonderful show. Better still, I hope you saw it at the garden center.

This week we have Dr. John Wright from Louisiana Tech at Ruston. As many of you already know, Dr. Wright is horticulture professor at Tech. He is a teacher of flower arranging, and is very talented in this line as well as in his great knowledge of horticulture. We are always so glad when he brings us a program. So, be watching Wednesday.

Stamp News

The first United States Christmas postage stamp, discussed previously in this column, depicts the traditional holiday symbols —burning tapers and an evergreen wreath with a red bow. The lettering is in Old English. The new 4-center which was first placed on sale in Pittsburgh will remain available for sale until Dec. 31.

Intended for use on season's greeting cards, the new stamp ties in with the Post Office Department's "Shop and Mail Early" campaign. According to Postmaster General J. Edward Day, the stamp will serve a double function. It will supply a colorful fillip to greeting cards and encourage the use of first-class postal rate for such cards thus providing preferred handling and return-to-sender service in the event of nondelivery.

Day also announced that there are plans to reissue a Christmas stamp during future holiday seasons.

The U.S. Post Office Department announced that precanceled postal cards designed to cut operating costs and speed delivery will go on sale in November for use next Jan. 7, when postal rates increase. The new 4-cent card, on white stock, is an improvement on the buff colored ones in use for many years. A light purple portrait of Abraham Lincoln appears on the card, replacing the purple Statue of Liberty 3-cent issue.

In addition, it was also announced that a new embossed 8-cent airmail stamped envelope will be first placed on sale at Chantilly, Va., Nov. 17, to coincide with the dedication of the Dulles International Airport. This new envelope also is being provided to meet the increase in the postal rates effective Jan. 7. The stamp on the envelope will depict a modern jet airliner in flight.

Congo issued a set of overprinted stamps to commemorate the reorganization of the Cyrille Adoula ministry. The basic stamp shows Dag Hammarskjold, and was originally issued on July 11. New values are overprinted.

Soil Needs Some Humus

By AUDREY DAWSON

Many problems encountered by the gardener in growing annuals and perennials, shrubs and trees are directly associated with the lack of organic matter or humus in the soil.

These next two months gardeners have a real opportunity to use leaves, grass clippings and other vegetative waste in compost piles or as mulches in flower beds and around plantings of shrubs and trees.

If you want to build a compost-pile, select a well drained area in the back yard and begin storing autumn leaves and other left over vegetation. A suitable container for the compost may be a pit in the ground or a low pen made of boards and wire.

To increase the plant food value and also to hasten decomposition, sprinkle a small amount of a well balanced fertilizer between layers. After six or eight months of rotting, add the humus to flower beds that are low in humus.

CONDITIONS

Gardeners have been especially conscious during this past summer of the hard compact soil conditions when existing soils were low in humus. Many plants suffered. Humus provides soils with the water-holding capacity needed during periods of drought. Begin practicing conservation at home, save leaves, grass clippings and vegetative waste from the kitchen. These materials are available and valuable in building a better soil for a better landscape.

If you, Mrs. Young Homemaker, have never cooked a turkey here are some helpful hints for you. Frozen turkey must be thawed before roasting. An eight-pound turkey requires 15 to 20 hours in the refrigerator to thaw. That 20 pound turkey will require at least 2 days in the refrigerator to thaw enough to remove the giblets from the neck and body cavities.

Now the roasting guide; Fryers or roasters very young birds, 4-8 lbs., cook 3 to 4½ hours at 325 degrees F. Fully grown young birds 6-12 lbs., 3½ to 5 hours; 12-16 lbs. 5 to 6 hours; 16-20 lbs., 6 to 7½ hours; 20-24 lbs.; 7½ to 9 hours, at 325 degrees F.

Now for that left over turkey—be sure to freeze it. Strip off the white meat in big pieces and cut the dark meat from the thighs and leg bones. Next cut off smaller pieces of white and dark — then wrap portions of the cooked turkey in freezer wrap. Label and freeze quickly. You may simmer the turkey bones for a stock to be used in soup, gumbo or casserole.

NEW FURNITURE

If you are planning to buy new bedroom furniture for that Christmas present, the man of the family will welcome new units especially designed for men's clothing and accessories. The designers have measured space needs to form a skeleton of design for stacks of shirts, sweaters, underwear and other smaller items of apparel. The wardrobe units are about the size and shape of an average five or six drawer chest and they are available in several different styles. They're especially designed for men by men, meeting masculine needs.

SURVIVAL

One of the best ways rural residents have of surviving a nuclear attack is by understanding radiation and avoiding it. A. V. Patterson Jr., of LSU Agriculture Extension Service and coordinator of Louisiana Rural Civil Defense, explains that any enemy attack would in all probability be directed against the military and large industrial centers.

He says that the biggest hazard in rural areas would be caused by fallout, most of which will fall within two days after a blast. Gamma rays are the greatest immediate danger as they are very penetrating and can injure living tissue.

Beta radiation is not penetrating, but can cause bad skin burns, and if ingested could seriously injure internal organs of man or livestock.

The best protection from Gamma rays is a good cover to absorb radiation, while the best protection for beta rays is to avoid contact with radioactive dust and keep it out of food and water.

SOUTHERN GARDENER

Garden Wall Adds Charm

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

Southern gardeners often come home from vacations in England and France determined to build walls like those they have seen in those countries.

A great deal of the character and charm of English and French gardens comes from their enclosures of hedges and walls. In contrast to the great open spaces of our southern gardens, these enclosures give one the feeling of privacy.

The faces of walls provide a perfect background for both flower gardens themselves and for vines and esappliered shrubs.

PURPOSE OF WALLS

The walls around the most ancient gardens in the old countries were built for safety, protection from wild and domestic animals and for privacy. Now-a-days, the Englishman or the Frenchman builds a wall around his garden for privacy and beauty and for the winter warmth which gardeners in ancient times learned to value in growing tender fruits and flowers which would not survive the winters anywhere but close to the walls.

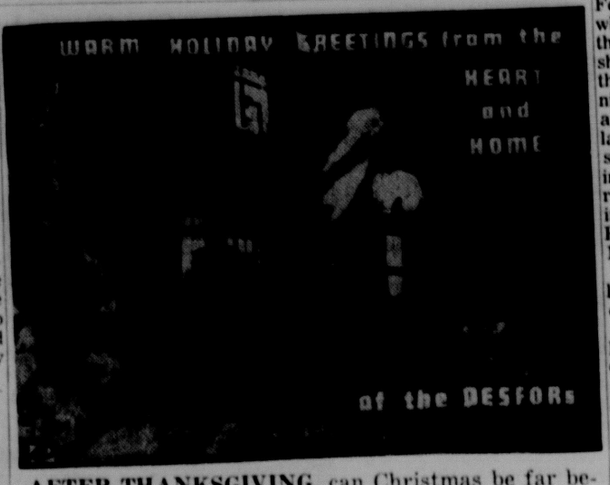

Before we southerners attempt to capture the old-world charm of garden walls, we must take several things into consideration. In our climate, high enclosing walls must be shaded. Unshaded walls collect heat during the daytime and give it off at night to such an extent that we cannot live near them in summer or have them around such areas as the sitting terrace. The patios of New Orleans are densely shaded against the summer sun. In winter, or course, they are sunny and cheerful.

HUMIDITY

The humidity of our southern climate is another thing that makes, high solid enclosing walls impractical around living areas and small gardens. This is the reason for the great popularity of light brick walls with an open pattern which allows the air to flow through them. Such a design is not only graceful and lighter in effect than heavy solid walls but very practical for enclosing small areas.

For coolness and the flow of air, southern gardeners have always favored hedges over walls. Another consideration was the cost of walls. If they were costly in times gone by, the cost of wall construction is well nigh prohibitive today. Most of us can still afford, however, sections of wall at the end of our gardens or at the ends of the axes of garden walks. Free standing pieces of wall are often incorporated in hedge enclosures for gardens to good effect.

Sometimes small gardens or sections of gardens can be effectively enclosed with low walls. In gardens on several different levels, the retaining walls, steps and paved areas lend some of the same feeling of permanence and enclosure that we experience in the old world gardens we have visited.

CAMERA Angles

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

This is a get ready warning for camera fans.

Thanksgiving dinner is hardly digested when wham! the Christmas holiday season is upon us. or so it seems. And that means that now is the time to get started if you plan a personal photographic greeting card for Yuletide sending.

PROPS

There may be props to gather for a special picture with a topical theme or a clever idea to be dreamed up for shooting. Some photographers settle for a nice new portrait of the baby, the youngsters or the family. Others dig into their negative file and come up with an appropriate picture taken last Christmas, perhaps of a religious or spiritual nature. And for some, this is the opportunity to send their best picture of the past year's shooting, a photo they're proud of or which shows where they've been on vacation.

Then there's the rest of the card to work on. It's a good idea to get the actual cards and envelopes first so your pictures can be made for a specific size.

You have to match the quality of your negative to a particular contrast grade of paper. That is, if it's a normal negative you'll need No. 2 paper; if it's a contrasty negative it'll require No. 1 paper and if it lacks contrast it'll take either No. 3 or No. 4 paper.

MASKS

Camera stores usually carry an assortment of negative masks with a variety of holiday messages to choose from. You can select either a horizontal or a vertical format depending on the photograph to be inserted.

Some photo hobbyists design, draw or assemble their own accompanying message. This is combined with the hobbyist's photograph and a photo copy is made of the combination. Finished cards are printed from the copy negative.

It requires far less work and photo technique in the planning stage if the camera fan merely leaves room to inscribe his holiday greetings in pen and ink. If he has a large mailing list, however, this will leave much work and hand strain for later.

Of course there are some wily photographers who eliminate all of these alternatives about how to get the message across by including it in some manner in their original photograph. It has been written on the children's blackboard, spelled out in toy blocks, imprinted in snow or sand, seen on a television or movie screen or lettered on a window in frost. Undoubtedly there will be space age applications of some of these old ideas in this year's crop of cards.

RUNNING THE SCALES

Spirit Of 1920's In Dream Operetta

By JOHN CALE

(Editor's Note: Today's column was written by former Little Theatre President Robert Evans from information furnished in a program for a local song and dance review dated 1922. The writer's keen analytical sense shows how much history can be gleaned from notes, personalities and advertisements appearing on the program of what must have been the entertainment spectacle of the year about 40 years back.

Discovery of a forty - year-old program sheds interesting light on our town as it was in 1922. Found by Mrs. Ben Marshall whose mother was in the cast, the program was printed for a show called "All At Sea" under the auspices of Monroe Community Service. It was apparently a composite of the more popular Gilbert and Sullivan tunes, some two dozen in all, woven into a so - called "Dream Operetta" with a complicated plot involving H. M. S. Pinafore, The Pirates of Penzance and The Mikado.

In addition to twenty - three leading roles, there were five choruses, numbering nearly 100, furnished by Rotary, Kiwanis, Lions, the Woman's Department Club and Miss Armandine Renaud. "All At Sea" was presented on June 30, 1922 on a floating stage at the Riverside Club on the banks of the Ouachita.

EXPRESSION

Community Service was a national organization that had just established a chapter in Monroe. Its purpose was "to liberate the power of expression of people and communities" through the cultural and recreational use of leisure time. George G. Weaks, Sr., president of Monroe Community Service at the time, contributed a foreword to the program of "All At Sea" in which he summarized the activities of the organization in the Twin Cities.

He reported that over twenty Community Sings had been held, with a combined attendance of more than 10,000. A story telling pageant for children on the court house square climaxed Public School Play Week during which every school child was instructed in playground games.

Then there was a Home Play Week campaign when over 800 parents signed agreements to play a half hour each day with their children. Play leaders classes trained volunteers to conduct "Fun and Frolic Evenings" for local clubs and churches. A Community Chorus came into being which was responsible for promoting the operetta.

OUTSIDE

Outside talent was imported to assist with "All At Sea," for the director of production is listed as George Junkin of the department of educational dramatics of the national organization, while the director of music was W. R. Waghorne of Houston Community Service. W. C. Bechtold was executive director for the Monroe group, Mrs. J. E. Doughtie general chairman of the music division and Leon Hammonds director of the orchestra and accompanist.

The program tells much about the Monroe of forty years ago. The combined population of the Twin Cities was given as 15,000. Arnold Bernstein was mayor of Monroe which he described in the program as "the most rapidly growing city in the South" with "something doing here all the time." The city - owned street cars operated on a 5 cents fare, school children half - price; one line ran to the salt water natatorium on Riverside which the city provided without charge to the public.

About 65 business firms took advertisements in the program. A cursory tally indicates that some twenty - five survive to this day. Allowing for death, war and depression, a loss of one a year on the average does not speak too badly for our local business climate.

Tired business men were urged to relax and enjoy themselves on the Ouachita Roof Garden at admission of 25 cents plus 10 cents a dance. One movie theatre charged 17 cents for adults and 5 cents for children. A console phonograph with a hand crank could be bought for $115 on easy payments.

EXTINCT CARS

The only hotels to advertise in the program were the Le Grand, listed as "the home of the traveling man" and the Monroe where European plan was $1 to $2.50. Three extinct cars, the Hudson, Essex and Packard, were offered, along with the Lincoln, Ford, Buick and Dodge. The Ouachita National Bank boasted capital and surplus of $900,000.

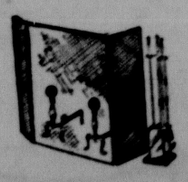

Time has taken a heavy toll of the men and women listed in the program. The street cars, the 5 cents fare, the old natatorium and Community Service itself are gone. But Monroe is still a growing city and there is still something doing all the time.

Popular taste in entertainment no longer runs toward community sings and the "fun and frolic evening" of 1922 might not go over so well today. Even Gilbert and Sullivan seem to have lost their appeal among the younger generation. Instead the Little Theatre of Monroe, the Northeast State Concerts Association, music and drama groups at the college, Cinema 63 and other special film showings, the community recreation centers and a wide variety of cultural and recreational events provide outlets for the leisure interests of the area.

As to how many parents are playing a half hour each day with their children against the distraction of television and activity outside the home, no reliable statistics are available.

responsible citizens against

$4,650,000.00 civic arena...

why?

BECAUSE of the cost — it costs too much. The proposed civic arena and exhibition center would cost a total of approximately seven and one - half million dollars ($4,650,000 principal and about $2,790,000 interest.)

BECAUSE of the cost — it's just too high! The price of this structure would cost taxpayers over $20,000 each month for the next 30 years.

BECAUSE of the cost — it's too much a luxury which taxpayers cannot afford. Interest payments, alone, o nthis structure would cost taxpayers approximately $7,750 each month for the next 30 years.

BECAUSE of the cost — almost five million dollars for an arena and exhibition center when a 1½ million dollar auditorium type structure will fill our needs, as it has done in Lafayette and similar cities of Monroe's size.

BECAUSE of the cost — it is entirely out of proportion with our needs and our means. Lafayette, a city of Monroe's size, has a theatre type auditorium and civic center which will seat 2,346 people and feed over 800 people banquet style — Lafayette's auditorium cost about 1½ million dollars.

BECAUSE of the cost — and the fact that it is not a theatre type auditorium, but an arena and exhibition hall. Architects have pointed out that a theatre type auditorium will be needed at a later date and would cost approximately 2 million dollars — requiring an additional Bond Issue.

BECAUSE of the cost — it's too much! The cost of operation, and maintenance is not included in the principal cost of $4,650,000 or the total cost, including interest, of about $7,440,000.

BECAUSE of the cost — everyone would like to have a new civic auditorium just as most folks would like to have a new car, a better home, a mink coat or a river yacht — but wanting and being able to afford are two different things. Can we afford a magnificient structure of this cost? Responsible citizens must live within their means. Monroe, which is made up of and supported by taxpaying citizens, must do the same.

BECAUSE of the cost – Monroe needs improvements— a new City Hall, Jail, City Court and Utilities Commission Office — Monroe needs a Sewerage Treatment Plant, improvements in the Fire Department and an Airport Terminal building. Though the cost is high, responsible citizens realize these needs and should be willing to bear the tax burden of $6,600,000 required to fill these needs.

HOWEVER — responsible citizens have a right to question the economic feasibility of an arena type exhibition center costing a total of over seven million dollars when faced with many other civic and educational improvement needs which should take the priority of taxpayers' money.

RESPONSIBLE CITIZENS realize that, regardless of the number of mills increase, a seven and one-half million dollar obligation costs seven and one-half million dollars. Money is money — cost is cost — and economy in government must begin at home.

RESPONSIBLE CITIZENS ARE FOR THE BOND ISSUES WITH THE EXCEPTION OF THE CIVIC ARENA

BECAUSE IT COSTS TOO MUCH!

An Open Letter To The City Council And The Citizens Of Monroe

We, the undersigned property owners and voters of Monroe, wish to commend the Monroe City Council for the excellent manner in which they have gathered information concerning Monroe's capital improvement needs. We are very pleased that the City Council had the foresight to employ experts for the purpose of determining our needs, estimated cost, and proper location of these new facilities. We also wish to commend the citizens committee which has worked with the City Council, the architects, consultants and engineers. This group of citizens worked very hard, giving of their time and ability for the overall benefit and development of our city.

We believe that this committee and consultants, along with the City Council, has done an excellent job in assembling the necessary information so that the property owners of Monroe can make an intelligent judgement when voting November 20th. The reports and the information contained in them, presented to the citizens committee and the City Council, were compiled by architects, consultants and engineers who are experts in their various fields. As a result of these very fine studies and reports, the City Council, cooperating with the citizens committee, was able to formulate a long range program geared to the city's unusual growth and development.

The five (5) projects . . . Sewerage Treatment Plant, Municipal Auditorium and Civic Center, City Hall and governmental center, Airport Improvements and Fire Department Improvements are projects that are long overdue.

CITY HALL . . . Our City Hall was constructed in 1910 when Monroe's population was 10,209. The jail was constructed to house 36 prisoners and the records at City Hall show that the daily average population of the city jail is more than one hundred!

SEWERAGE TREATMENT PLANT . . . This project will greatly abate the pollution of the Ouachita River, one of our greatest natural resources.

MUNICIPAL AUDITORIUM AND CIVIC CENTER . . . Monroe, as the cultural, trade, medical and educational center of an expanding area, presently having a population in excess of 350,000 is handicapped by not having an auditorium facility wherein varied activities can be staged.

AIRPORT AND TERMINAL FACILITIES . . . serve not only the City of Monroe, but the area described above. Our present facilities are completely inadequate to handle the tremendous growth in air travel. During the last year more than 40,000 people boarded or deplaned at our municipal airport. We have grown from one airline to four airlines and must bring our airport and the terminal building up to modern day standards.

FIRE DEPARTMENT . . . Improvement of our Fire Department is essential to maintain our present low insurance rates. Additional facilities will assure our continued low rate and will be a step toward an even more favorable rate.

If Monroe is to maintain its position and continue its growth and development, be competitive as a center with other centers, such as Shreveport, Jackson and Alexandria, we must match our growth with proper facilities.

We pledge our 100% support to all of these improvements and request the traditionally progressive property owners of the City of Monroe to join with us in voting for all five projects, thereby insuring our continued expansion and development.

Northeast Drops Final Game Of Season To Delta Statesmen, 12-0

Stovall Carries For Two Scores

By SAM HANNA
World Staff Writer

JACKSON, Miss. — Bowl-minded LSU, playing like the post-season classic are all taken, refused to swallow a second dose of Mississippi medicine here Saturday night, smashing Mississippi State, 28-0, before an umbrella crowd of 40,000 fans.

Generating a hot offense on a cold night, the Bayou Bengals ignored a pesky drizzle of rain to touch off their biggest offensive show of the season.

They scored in the first three quarters on a balanced ground attack that featured two touchdowns by All - American candidate Jerry Stovall of West Monroe.

And that ran Stovall's point total to 60 for the season, which ends next Saturday at New Orleans with Tulane — the last step to climb before the bowl bids are official.

Halbacks Bo Campbell and Ray Wilkins, both running on Coach Charley McClendon's Go Team unit, accounted for the Tiger scores in the second period.

With a 15-7 defeat by Ole Miss glaring on the Bengal record, the Tigers rolled to their seventh victory of the season for an overall 7-4-1 record.

Mississippi State, outmanned by an obviously deeper LSU team, gained only two yards on the ground and 123 in the air in a battle that had the Bulldogs bottled up most of this chilly night.

Led by quarterback Charlie Furlow, the Maroons drove to the Tigers' 18 yardline mid-way of the fourth quarter for their deepest penetration of the game. But Tiger end Jack Gates made a shoestring interception to end the threat.

The Tigers, meantime, marched for 290 yards on a slippery field, threw only five times and completed two for a total of 314 yards gained.

But this tells only half the story as Mississippi State played the entire first half and most of the third period before making its first down.

While Stovall and Campbell and Wilkins scored for LSU, the Tiger attack was aided by the running blasts of fullback Charlie Cranford and halfback Danny LeBlanc.

Cranford carried nine times for 49 yards and sparked a fourth period drive with two long gains that ended on the Bulldog 19. At this point it appeared as though the Maroons of Mississippi State would score as Furlow connected on three consecutive passes, but LSU took over on its own 27.

The Tigers first touchdown, a 6-yard power sweep by Stovall, climaxed an 82-yard sustained drive that began the second time LSU got the ball.

Quarterback Lynn Amedee kicked all the LSU conversions.

Halfway in the second period, the Bengals marched 41 yards in eight plays to set the stage for Campbell's touchdown dash — the same power sweep that Stovall scored on earlier.

LSU's Bob Flurry came through with a big play minutes later when he grabbed a Furlow pass that had been deflected on the Mississippi State 28.

With less than two minutes remaining in the half, Amedee hit Cranford on a 22 - yard pass play that carried to the three and from there Wilkins went in standing up.

Thus, LSU left the field at half time with a 21-0 lead, biggest of the season.

Mississippi State, trying to square the season with its fourth victory, couldn't get rolling in the second half and the Tigers took over on their own 44.

With quarterback Jimmy Field engineering the drive, LSU followed the thundering drives of LeBlanc from Lake Charles, for the final touchdown of the night.

LeBlanc produced the big gains of the drive before Stovall scored from two yards out.

After the game, coach Paul Davis of Mississippi State couldn't compare LSU with Alabama who beat his Maroons 20-0 earlier in the season.

"There are too many different factors," Davis explained. "I had some boys hurt tonight and we were in much better shape when we played Alabama." He described the Tigers as a fine team.

McClendon said he was pleased with LSU's performance, explaining, "We went after them. And we vowed to put some fun back into football and we did."

LSU Tigers Are Contacted By 4 Bowls

JACKSON, Miss. (Staff Special) — LSU has been contacted by four bowl representatives including the Cotton Bowl at Dallas, Athletic Director Jim Corbett said Saturday night.

"Of course we could not make a decision until after the Tulane game and that will depend on the bids," he said.

Corbett, commenting on the bowl picture as LSU rolled to its seventh victory of the season over Mississippi State, said representatives from four bowls had "unofficially" contacted LSU — Cotton Bowl, Gator Bowl, Liberty Bowl and Blue Bonnett Bowl.

"And this is all unofficial, since we cannot accept any invitation until the Tulane game is over," Corbett said.

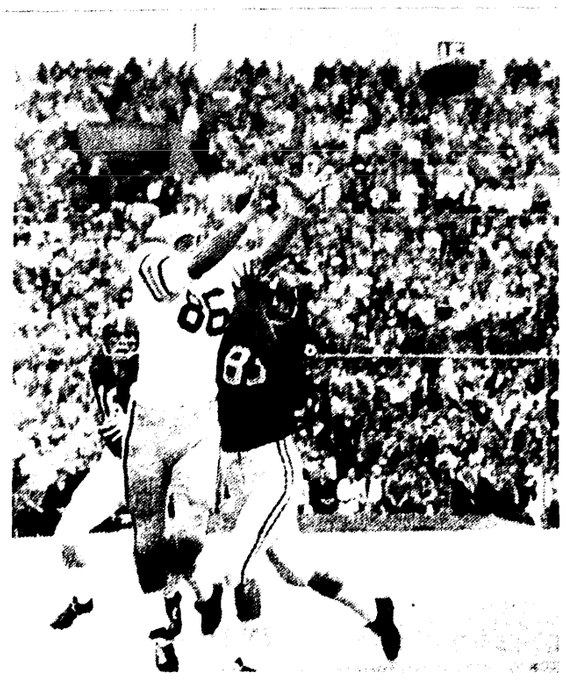

The Tigers meet the Tulane Greenies in the season finale next Saturday at New Orleans.

When asked by a reporter if LSU would accept an invitation from the Sugar Bowl to meet Ole Miss., Corbett smiled and replied, "That would depend on Coach Vaught."

The Rebels handed LSU the only defeat of the season, 15-7.

LSU won the Orange Bowl last year, but Corbett did not include the Orange in the list of bowls now talking to LSU.

"We would be happy to receive an invitation from any bowl," Corbett said.

A GEORGIA TECH pass from quarterback Billy Lothridge intended for end Ted Davis (86) is broken up in the first quarter of Saturday's game with the University of Alabama. Alabama defenders are quarterback Jack Hurlbut (16) and Richard Williamson (83). (AP Wirephoto)

Demons Capture GSC; Roll Over Lions, 19 To 6

NATCHITOCHES, La. (AP) — Northwestern State, finally living up to its preseason rating, captured the Gulf States Championship Saturday night with a 19-6 victory over Southeastern Louisiana, the nation's ninth-ranked small college power.

Some 3,000 rain - drenched fans saw NSC quarterback Don Beasley flip two touchdown passes as the Demons ran up a 19-0 lead before SLC tallied late in the fourth period.

NSC, capturing its first undisputed GSC championship in the league's 15 - year history, took advantage of SLC miscues. The Lions fumbled nine times, losing the ball six times.

On the first play from scrimmage, SLC's Dickie Cothern fumbled and Sammy Odom recovered for NSC at the SLC 31. Sticking mainly to the ground, the Demons drove to the 13 where quarterback Herbie Smith tossed 11 yards to Glenn Talbert for a first down at the 2. Two plays later fullback Claude Patrick bulled in from the one. The kick failed.

In the second period, another SLC fumble gave NSC the ball at the SLC 48. Moving on the ground, the Demons carried to the 11, from where Beasley threw to Kenny Thompson for the score. Ed Horton converted.

The final NSC touchdown in the fourth period followed another SLC miscue. The Demons got the ball at the SLC 22 and on the third play Beasley passed 17 yards to end Jackie Smith. A 2-point conversion try failed.

Following the kickoff, SLC marched to its touchdown with junior halfback Charles Hayes going in from the 3. A 2-point running play failed.

Cotton Paces Statesmen In Muddy Game

CLEVELAND, Miss. (Special) — Louisiana product Donnie Cotton skidded and squirmed for both touchdowns to lead Delta State to a 12-0 victory over Northeast Louisiana in a wet, muddy football game Saturday night. The last contest of the year for Northeast.

Cotton swept three yards in the third period for the game's first touchdown and went two yards off tackle for another mud - way in the fourth period.

The well - traveled Cotton, a Baton Rouge prep star played freshman ball at Tulane, signed with Southwestern and ended up at Delta, was easily the game's top star. He ran 18 times for 114 yards to lead all ball carriers and set up both of his touchdowns with long runs.

A scant crowd sat through rain to watch the game. The showers let up about five minutes before the game started, started at game time and lasted throughout the contest. The field was ankle deep in water.

Northeast ended its season with a 2-6 record. The loss was the Indians' fourth straight to Delta and the Tribe's inability to score made it three shutouts in a row for the Mississippi club.

Robert Payne was the leading ground gainer for Northeast with 35 yards in 10 carries. Joe Thrailkill got 23 yards in five tries and Ronnie Myrick 22 yards in five carries.

Payne injured a leg late in the game and had to be carried off the field. Myrick was also injured in the third period and did not return to the contest.

Both teams played around midfield most of the opening period but Northeast made its most serious threat of the contest early in the second.

After Robert Payne returned a Delta punt 17 - yards to the Delta 43, he and brother Devonne alternated in moving the ball to the 31. Ken Newton picked up one yard before Myrick swept wide for 14 - yards and a first on the 14. But Newton gained only two, a pass was incomplete and Devonne Payne got three yards.

On fourth down Pete Vincent attempted a field goal from the 19 which was wide.

Northeast made a mild threat in the third period thanks to a 30 - yard punt by John Kelly.

Kelly's punt went out of bounds on the three. Delta ran two plays and kicked. Northeast taking over on the Statesmen's 35 - yard marker.

Robert Payne gained three but then lost two. Then a Vincent pass was intercepted by Johnny Norquist on the 29.

The Statesmen then moved 71-yards in six plays for the first touchdown. Ken Farmer got 15 of the yards before Cotton real reeled off a brilliant 38 - yard scamper and then ran 13 - yards to the three. He carried it over from that point.

Farmer's PAT attempt was blocked by Tommy Latham.

Northeast took the kickoff and moved to the Delta 36, thanks mainly to a 14 - yard pass from Vincent to Latham, who made a great catch.

But the drive stalled and Kelly punted out of bounds on the 20. Delta then went 80 - yards in 16 plays for the second score with Cotton keeping this drive in high gear with a 26 - yard dash. He scored midway of the fourth, on a two yard smash off tackle.

Cotton's running try for the extra point was short.

Northeast reached the Delta State 19 thanks to a couple of penalties, one a personal four rap and the other a 17 - yard pass interference call on the last play of the game.

The pass interference penalty gave Northeast an extra play after the game was over but Vincent's desperation pass was no good.

The victory was Delta State's sixth of the year against two defeats. The Statesmen meet East Central Oklahoma Thanksgiving Day.

Baylor Takes Victory Over Air Force 11

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP)—Baylor stole an Air Force pass, turned it into a 21-yard touchdown aerial, then fought off the airmen for a 10-3 football victory on slippery, snow-trimmed Falcon Stadium Saturday.

A bitter 10 mile an hour wind and 25-degree cloudy weather chilled both teams and blew away Air Force's post - season bowl hopes.

Baylor's second victory in eight games left Air Force with a 4-5 record.

Halfback Kelly Roberts, a 168-pound offensive and defensive workhorse for the Texans, grabbed Air Force quarterback Terry Isaacson's second down pass and ran back to the Falcon 22 to pave the way for Baylor's second quarter touchdown.

On a third - and-nine situation, quarterback Don Trull passed down the middle to halfback Lawrence Elkins for a 21-yard touchdown strike.

Taking possession of the ball on his 43 with only 30 seconds left in the half, Trull connected on successive 17-yard passes to set up a 34-yard field goal by Carl Choate to give Baylor a 10-0 halftime lead.

Trull's throws were caught by Gwinn Corley and Ronnie Goodwin.

Memphis State Romps To Sixth Straight Victory

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) —Fireplug fullback Dave Casinelli rumbled for three touchdowns to ignite Memphis State to its sixth consecutive victory here Saturday with a never-in-doubt 50 - 0 win over helpless Arlington State.

The Tigers, who combined an air-tight defense with an awesome display of sheer might, crossed the Rebel goal line five times in the first half and added two more touchdowns in the final stanza.

A small crowd of 6,692 watched the massacre in chilly, rain-threatened weather.

Quarterback Russell Vollmer broke the scoring ice with a one-yard sneak. Casinelli, with a unique stand - up running style that left defenders horizontal, bulled over from the three for the Tigers' second tally to close out the first quarter.

HOMECOMING

Southern Beats Bulldogs, 29-18

HATTIESBURGH, Miss. (Special) — Halfback Johnny Sklopan scored twice here Saturday afternoon sparking the highly ranked University of Southern Mississippi to a 29-18 homecoming victory over a determined Louisiana Tech team.

The game closed season activity for both squads.

Sklopan scored Southern's second touchdown in the first quarter on a 73 - yard pass from quarterback Bill Coleman and plunged across from the one in the fourth quarter after combining with the game's leading rusher, fullback George Sekul, to carry the bulk of a 65 - yard drive.

Southern's first score in the initial period came when quarterback James Berry picked off one of Mickey Slaughter's passes, intended for Jerry Griffin, and raced 45 - yards for the tally. Fullback Jerral Wilson kicked the PAT.

Tech's Paul Labenne put the cap on a 45 - yard Bulldog drive in the first quarter and put the Tech-sters on the scoreboard with a three - yard plunge. Slaughter's passes of 18, 14 and nine yards to Griffin sparked the scoring drive.

Slaughter attempted to pass to Labenne for a two - point conversion and missed.

Early in the third quarter defensive standout Robert Malone recovered a Southern fumble on the Tech 38 and the Bulldogs marched 62 - yards in eight plays to score. The longest play of the drive was a 15 - yard pass from Slaughter to Griffin. Labenne carried over for the score from the nine - yard line and took several Southern defenders with him.

Another two - point conversion attempt failed.

The second quarter was a scoreless standoff. Interceptions stopped scoring drives for both teams defenses. Berry intercepted another Slaughter pass for the Southerners and Slaughter snatched one out of the air for Tech.

Southern held a 14-6 lead over the Bulldogs at the half. Labenne's early third quarter run cut the margin to 13-12.

After Tech's third quarter kickoff, Southern marched to the Tech one yard line where the Bulldog Blue Team's defense threw the USM offense for a seven - yard fourth down loss.

Unable to move the ball, Tech was forced into a punting situation and Southern tackle Danny Salmon rushed in to block. David Lee's punt and end Ben McLeod recovered in the end zone to increase Southern's lead to 23-12. Coleman passed to Jim Barbaree for the conversion and the quarter ended two plays later.

Tech cut the lead again early in the fourth when Billy Laird sparked a Bulldog drive with six straight completed passes, the last one a three - yarder to Mickey Strother for the score. Laird's conversion attempt to Wayne Davis fell incomplete.

Southern drove for its final touchdown on the next series and sent Sklopan over tackle for his second score. An attempted pass for the PAT failed.

Slaughter completed 11 of 24 passes for 122 yards and Laird threw six of 12 for 76 yards.

Sekul led Southern's rushers with a total of 82 yards and Sklopan followed with 64.

Griffin hauled in five Tech passes for 71 yards and Lee managed 63 - yards on five receptions.

The victory gave Southern a 16-6 lead in the overall series with Tech. Each team has won two games in the last four years during the series.

Halfback Labenne carried eight times for the Tech squad and netted 39 - yards. Wayne Nolan followed with seven carries for 31 - yards.

Baylor Whips Kentucky For Upset Victory

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Xavier's Musketeers pulled on of the big upsets of the 1962 college football season by defeating Kentucky 14-9 Saturday.

The underdog Muskies, outplayed in the first half, bounced back behind a hard-charging forward wall led by Fred Reherman from Hardinsburg, Ky., and ran at will against listless Kentucky in the final two periods.

Xavier put the clincher on with 5:12 to play when fullback Jim Korb scored from 2 yards out, capping a 66-yard drive. Quarterback Walt Bryniarski gambled for a two-point conversion and made it on a run. This gave the Musketeers a 14-7 lead.

Kentucky took the kickoff but was unable to move as Reherman led stubborn line resistance.

Xavier took over and put its strategy to work. Bryniarski, with the ball on Xavier's 25, took the snap and to the amazement of everybody raced into the Xavier end zone for a safety.

There was only 12 seconds left and Kentucky missed on two pass attempts to go down to only their second loss in 20 games to Xavier in the series finale.

Kentucky scored with 7:54 left in the first period when quarterback Jerry Wollum hit end Bill Jenkins on an 18-yard pass play. This drive covered 66 yards in nine plays.

The Wildcats missed a golden opportunity in the final seconds of the half when they moved to Xavier's 1-foot line for a first down. On the next play, Woolum attempted a pitchout. It was defected in the air and recovered by Xavier.

The Musketeers put their first touchdown on the board with 5:12 left in the third when Korb pushed over from the 2.

Oil, Gas Activity Soars In District During Week

Drillers in the Monroe Oil & Gas District last week recorded a total of 33 completions in a 14-parish area—the highest figure in over a year. Ouachita Parish held 25 of them.

District Manager Duncan S. Cook pointed out the bulk of the home parish finals had been brought in over a period of months, but were held for gauging, accounting for the sudden spate of completions.

Activity, nevertheless, was holding at unseasonably high levels near the approach of winter, and northeast Louisiana drillers listed spottings on a total of 20 new locations. Wells actively drilling or testing over the 14 parishes totalled 26.

New locations were up from 18 the week before, while active rigs fell moderately from 29. Again, as in recent months, they were scattered, with eight parishes accounting for the new locations and nine with active rigs.

All the Ouachita Parish completions were in the Monroe Gas Field and all were shallow gas producers drilled to around 2300 feet. The Cardinal Drilling Company had 20 of the units, while J. C. Trahan Drilling Company was operating five.

Union Parish had five finals, Concordia had two and Tensas, one.

Ouachita Parsh had but one of the new locations, also in the Monroe Gas Field. Catahoula Parish accounted for five, Concordia had four and there were two each in LaSalle, Avoyelles, Tensas and Union Parishes. Richland Parish had one new location.

Of the active wells, Ouachita had two. Both were drilling, Douglas Whitaker's Cadeville SUO Johnston No. 1 at 6785 feet, and J. G. Strahan's A. B. Carroll No. 2 at 1200 feet.

There were two recompletions during the week and both came in LaSalle Parish. In the Nebo Hemphill Field was Hunt Petroleum Corporation's Goodpine F No. 62, while Cities Service Petroleum Company's Taylor Unit No. 1 is in the Little Creek Field.

A total of 11 rigs were plugged and abandoned during the week and the new total on inactive sites stood at 106. Locations numbered 38; 36 were drilling.

A capsule look at Cook's weekly report was as follows:

IN MIZE AREA

New Oil Field Find Possible In Smith

JACKSON, Miss. (AP)—A new oil field find may be near in Smith County at Triad Oil & Gas company's wildcat, the Clarke No. 1, sec. 9-1n-15w, about four miles northeast of Mize.

The venture is reported to have logged oil shows at 10,538-79 feet and also at 10,566 feet. Wire line testing at 10,566 feet indicated possible commercial production.

The shows were thought to be in the Paluxy formation with the operators drilling ahead to contract depth of 13,600 feet.

In Adams County, Hughes & New Oil Company officially completed their wildcat, the Board of Supervisors No. 1, sec. 29-5n-ew, as the discovery well of a new Wilcox sand field. The well was completed from a sand at 4,868-69 feet, flowing 108 barrels of 42 gravity oil per day. The new producing area has been named the Hutchings Landing Field.

In Greene County, Cities Service Petroleum company continued to drill below 12,200 feet in its potential new oil discovery.

The wildcat is the Robinson Land Co. No. 1, sec. 15-4n-8w, which has logged oil sands at 7,876-97 feet and at 11,358-77 feet with both zones recovering high gravity oil on drill stem test run in open hole. Contract depth for the venture is 13,000 feet.

American Petrofina Co. of Texas has set production casing in its Rankin County wildcat, the Rhodes-Sowell No. 1, sec. 18-5n-5e, to evaluate commercial worth of oil shows logged at 9,825-40 feet. The well was drilled to a total depth of 11,253 feet, and is located approximately four miles southwest of Pelahatchie.

Marshall R. Young secured permit to deepen his Hancock County wildcat, the O'Toole No. 1, sec. 7-7s-14w, located about four miles north of the Kiln field. The venture was permitted to 10,800 feet and after the electrical log was run, operator secured permit to deepen to 12,300 feet. Operator is reported to be releasing no information on the well.

In Clarke County, two important wildcat ventures were below 8,000 feet. Sun Oil Co. drilled below 8,300 feet in its Longbell Petroleum Co. No. 1, sec. 34-4n-16e, a scheduled 11,500 foot test to explore the Smackover lime formation. Larco Drilling Co. is below 8,300 feet in its Longbell No. 1, sec. 6-10n8w, a 10,200 foot try.

Field drilling during the past week saw four new oilers completed. In the Summerland Field on the Jones County side, Four States Drilling Co., completed its Easterling No. 1, sec. 3-9n-14w, pumping 231 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 9,448-56 feet.

At Dexter in Walthall County Gulf Coast Drilling & Exploration, Inc., finaled its Morris No. 2, sec. 35-2n-12e, flowing 143 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 9,669-74 feet.

Pan American Petroleum Corp. completed its USA no. 5, sec. 16-4n-1w, in the Kelly Hill Field of Wilkinson County. The well flowed 120 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 6,693-95 feet.

At West Langsdale in Clarke County, Texaco, Inc., completed its Longbell No. 3, sec. 27-1n-17e, flowing 78 barrels of oil per day from a sand at 2,990 feet.

In the Homewood Field of Adams County, E. C. Wentworth completed his Natchez Country Club No. B-1, sec. 12-7n-ew, pumping 60 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 4,358-60 feet.

API President Describes 1962 As A Good Year

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON (AP) — The chairman of the American Petroleum Institute describes 1962 as an exceptionally good year.

L. F. McCollum, Houston, says some problems will be carried into 1963 but the industry — at home and abroad — has set a number of records this year.

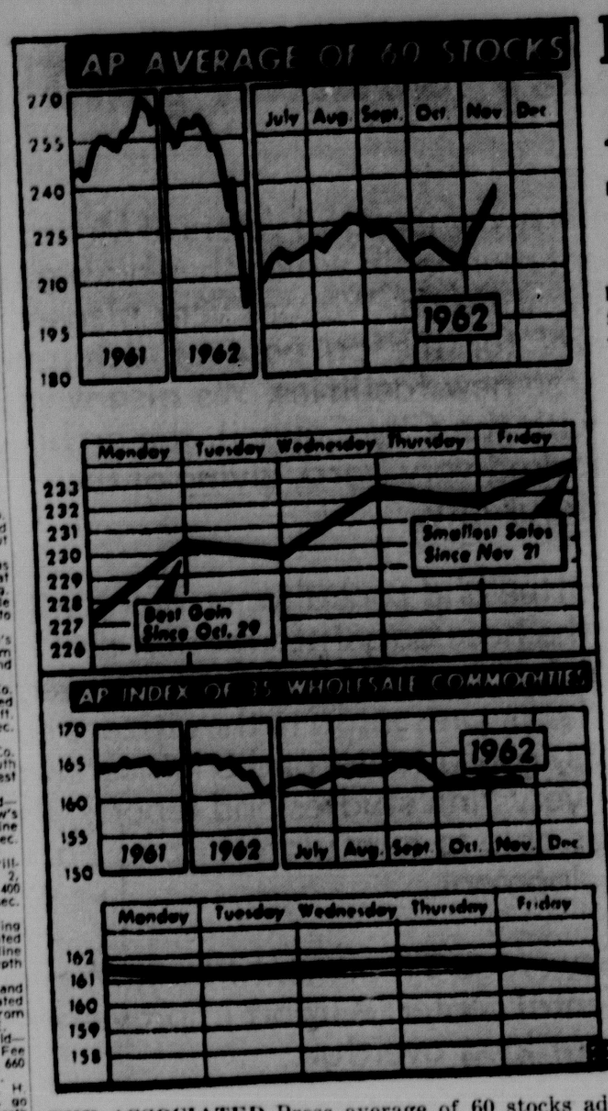

New production and demand records have been set for crude oil, natural gas, and petrochemicals.

Total domestic demand for petroleum products is expected to average 10,200,000 barrels daily by the end of the year.

A new high for total demand had been expected but the indicated 4.2 per cent gain over 1961 —the largest annual increase since 1955—dwarfs most forecasts. Most predictions for 1962 had anticipated an increase of only 1.5 to 2 per cent.

Major factors behind the sharp spurt in demand have been increased military requirements and healthy gains in demand for gasoline and heating oils.

The 4.2 per cent increase for 1962, however, is not prompting sharp optimism for 1963.

THE ASSOCIATED Press average of 60 stocks advanced for the third consecutive week, closing Friday at 233.1, up from 227.2 in the previous week. The commodity index, led by industrials, declined to 160.9 this week from 161.4 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto Chart)

ECONOMISTS THINK

1963 Recession Prospects Fade

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Economists took another look at business prospects during the week and some saw the likelihood of an early 1963 recession fading.

Improved reports on the economic pace, highlighted by booming automobile sales, inspired optimism.

And Kennedy administration officials renewed their call for a substantial income tax cut next year, arguing that an expected $7.8 billion federal budget deficit should be no deterrent.

The stock market responded with some good gains for the third week in a row. Brokers said small investors—their lost confidence at least partially restored — were coming back into the market.

A poll of 45 economists and business leaders showed that nearly two-thirds believe there will be no recession through next year. Those who still expect a letdown feel it will be mild.

The surge of new car sales is giving the economy "a potent shot of confidence," said Byron J. Nichols, general manager of Chrysler Corp.'s Dodge division.

"It could be that what has been happening to the automobile industry in recent weeks is the tip-off that general business conditions ahead will be much better than any of us have been led to expect," he added.

Another industrialist, William H. Shaw, manager of business economics in Du Pont's Textile Fibers division, said that if there is a recession it will come later, rather than early next year. He looks for another quarter or two of hesitant expansion.

"The chances of avoiding recession in early 1963 look a little better now than they did four to six weeks ago," commented the Morgan Guaranty Trust Co. of New York. "This change mirrors not only the Cuban episode, which seems likely to produce some increase in both military and civil defense spending, but also a moderate brightening of business news."

The administration's announcement that it expected a budget deficit of $7.8 billion in this fiscal year—second highest in peacetime—was considered by some to have inflationary aspects.

The Budget Bureau said, however, that, "With the existing level of unemployment and unused plant capacity, the deficit is neither inflationary nor dangerous to our balance-of-payments position."

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon and Walter W. Heller, chief economic adviser to President Kennedy, asserted that the bigger than anticipated budget deficit should not be allowed to get in the way of a tax cut.

Business Briefs

OFFICIALS VISIT

Columbian Carbon Co. officials visited Monroe during the week. They were Lyle L. Shepard, president; E. B. Brooks, vice president; and W. C. Ekholm, general manager of manufacturing for the company.

M. R. Howell, general manager of Carbon Black Manufacturing of the Monroe divisional headquarters, conducted the visitors on a tour of the Monroe offices and laboratories. Following a meeting in which Howell and his staff outlined the division's performances, the group attended a luncheon at the Bayou DeSiard Country Club.

Shepard complimented the group on the successful operations in the division, and briefly reviewed economic factors influencing the industry and the company. Ekholm, a former Monroyan, accompanied Shepard and Brooks on a tour of other Monroe area operations of the company.

WINS TRIP

Jack Spaulding of Monroe Office Company won a trip to Chicago, Ill., recently for his firm's sales record in a contest held by Victor Business Machines Co., Division Victor comptometer Corporation.

Spaulding was flown to Chicago and back in the company's private plane.

RECOGNIZED

Two Monroe men were recognized in the November issue of United Gas Log, the company's employee publication, for anniversary celebrations totaling 55 years.

The veteran United Gas employees, and the number of years they have served the company, are E. M. Granberry Sr., 30 years, and R. A. Hughes, 25 years.

Cotton Futures Show Gains For Week's Activity

NEW YORK (AP)—New York cotton futures, generally higher at the start, gave up part of their gains this week but wound up mostly ahead for the week.

At the close Friday, prices were up $1.45 a bale to down 20 cents.

All deliveries lost ground in the preceding week when futures finished 50 cents to $2.35 a bale lower.

At the outset, the entire list was influenced by a relatively sharp gain in the nearby December delivery, attributed primarily to a drop in the certificated stocks of cotton.

However, most contracts worked gradually lower in backing and filling the remainder of the week.

Despite the buoying factor of a government report reflecting a rise in cotton placed under loan.

This bullish influence was somewhat offset by persistent slow export volume.

Exports for the current season through Nov. 13 edged up to 583,000 bales. In the corresponding period last year, volume approximated 1.4 million bales.

The U.S. Agriculture Department has forecast a pickup later on.

Mart Shows Advances For Third Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Bolstered by favorable economic news and forecasts, the stock market last week took two mildly declining sessions in stride and rang up its third consecutive weekly advance.

Profit-taking from the sustained climb was not strong enough to dent the surge.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials rose 14.85 for the week to 630.98, exceeding its gain of the previous week.

Some brokers had looked for a corrective reaction which they considered only natural in the face of the three-week advance. However, the market's performance prompted one investment analyst to say:

"The intermediate trend of the market is higher subject to minor setbacks."

Motors took a prominent part in the week's advance. They were in demand because of record new car sales in the first 10 days of November and a forecast that the good 1962 model year will be followed by another in 1963.

Aerospace issues were active and fairly strong, too, on expectations that defense spending will be increased to contend with international crisis.

Some economists revised their earlier predictions and said the likelihood of a recession early in 1963 is fading.

The Kennedy administration estimated the budget deficit for the current fiscal year at $7.8 billion, a figure which some Wall Street sources considered inflationary.

Increased demand for steel, mainly due to orders from the booming automobile industry, was another favorable factor.

The market pulled a surprise Monday, rolling up a sharp advance in heavy trading of slightly more than 5 million shares. Because of semi-holiday conditions in Wall Street due to Veterans day, a quiet market had been expected.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced 5.9 to 233.1 during the week.

Volume for the week totaled 23,787,955 shares against 17,413,545 the prior week.

The bond markets turned nixed after two weeks of steadily rising prices. U.S. Government bonds receded from 1962 highs and resumed the weekly up-and-down pattern that prevailed through October. Corporates traded on the New York Stock Exchange posted a healthy gain.

Corporate volume traded in the Exchange rose to $33,545,000 par value from $21,098,000 the previous week and was the highest since $36,920,000 July 9-13.

GUIDE TO GOOD READING

New Fiction Titles Now In The Library

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Among the new books added to the collection of the Ouachita Parish Public Library during the past week, there are several interesting new fiction titles. "The Reluctant Queen" is the new book by Molly Costain Haycraft (who by the way is the daughter of Howard B. Costain) This is the story that a former generation loved in the book "When Knighthood Was in Flower" by Charles Major. It is the story of Mary Tudor, the young sister of Henry VIII. As a political pawn he forced her to marry the aging King of France, Louis XII, although she was deeply in love with Henry's oldest and trusted friend, Charles Brandon, later the Duke of Suffolk. How she outwitted her brother makes an exciting story that gains new freshness in this retelling. Noel B. Gerson, writer of historical novels, also uses the pen name of Samuel Edwards. Under this name he has released a new book "Master of Castille." This is a fictional biography of Alvaro de Luna, Chief constable of Castille in the tumultuous years prior to Spanish unification. The hero is one of the most complex and fascinating men in history; the setting draws upon the fiery intrigue of Renaissance Spain; and the love story evolves from a liasion that scandalized all the courts of Europe.

"To Love and Corrupt" is a very fine piece of writing by Joseph Viertel. It is the story of Joe Naples, a self - made millionaire. Starting out as a bricklayer at the age of twelve, he has made a financial empire in the American tradition. Now at the age of fifty - two he has been called before a Congressional Committee to answer questions about venal unions, bribery of beaurecrats and other illegal practices in the Construction buisness. Joe is forced to take a good hard look at himself and we share this look. "To Love and Corrupt" is a powerful book, which has a remarkable impact.

With her own special witchery, Shirley Jackson has once again fashioned a strange, terrible and beautiful tale, called "We have always lived in the Castle." This book deals with the mystery hanging over three people living in a big old house on the hill. Shunned by the villagers, they live their private life behind closed doors. Those who enjoyed Miss Jackson's "The Haunting of Hill House" will want to read this one.

"Uneasy Lies the Head" is the autobiography of King Hussein of Jordan. This is a fascinating story of a ruler and of the middle East. Everyone who is interested in this troubled part of the world will gain new insight from reading this book. The author has written a fascinating story, that loses not one bit from the fact that it is absolutely true. The latest book in the American trails series is "The Old Post Road" by Stewart H. Holbrook. This is the fascinating account of the Boston Post Road and is a superb exploration of the most famous of all post roads and an account of its exciting and colorful history from the first rider in 1763 to the present day. This is a book for all those who like to read about our country's past and the ways in which it is tied to our present day life.

John Chase of New Orleans has produced an interesting and factual book, which he calls "Today's Cartoon." If this is your special field of interest, you will surely want to see it. A most valuable addition to the reference collection of the library is "The Statistical Abstract of the United States. 1962" published by the Bureau of the Census. Here are found all sorts of pertinent and exact information and the most up - to - date statistics in many fields.

We are happy to be able to tell you that the exciting exhibit of Children's Books at the Main Library has been held over by popular request for another week. It will be open to the public on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of this coming week. Thursday of course is a holiday and all branches of the Library will be closed. The Bookmobile will not make its run at all during this next week.

WILL AMERICA

LEARN TOO LATE?

Our lead in science and invention, in business, trade and world affairs came from learning how. Today higher education is the main teacher of our future leaders . . . in technical skill and in world outlook.

But higher education is facing a crisis. Colleges are in a squeeze. Many have actual shortages, while in less than 10 years college applicants will double.

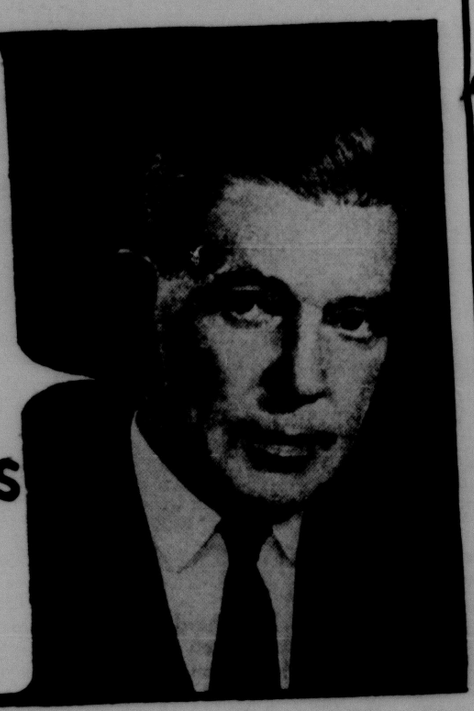

If we are to hold our lead, our higher institutions must have modern laboratory facilities, more classrooms and, above all, qualified teachers.

HELP THE COLLEGE OF YOUR CHOICE NOW!

To learn more about the college crisis write to HIGHER EDUCATION, Box 36, New York Times Station, New York 36, N. Y.

HOW MUCH ADDITIONAL WILL THE PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS COST ME?

ANSWER: At the end of 1963, two mills will be added to your present tax rate. This means that for each $1,000 of assessment, you will pay only $2.00 more per year.

EXAMPLES: The owner of a home assessed at $500 will pay only $1.00 extra per year, beginning at the end of 1963.
The owner of a home assessed at $1,000 will pay only $2.00 extra per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $2,000 will pay only $4.00 per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $3,000 will pay only $6.00 per year.

This is a very small increase for the long overdue and much needed improvements which are recommended to you. Vote yes on all five propositions in Tuesday's election.

CLOSED CIRCUIT UNIT

Classroom Television Is Used At Northwestern

NORTHWESTERN STATE College students at Natchitoches follow a lecture in Remedial English over the school's closed-circuit television network presented by Mrs. Ora G. Williams, assistant professor of English. Full-scale instruction by television was initiated at the College this fall. Classes in Orientation, English, and Biology were presented from Fournet Hall, chemistry-physics building, to students in classrooms in seven buildings throughout the campus.

NATCHITOCHES (Special) — A new team may establish significant records for Northwestern State College in an area quite different from the strife of athletic combat — a teacher-team in the new academic technique of instruction by closed-circuit television.

Representatives of the State Department of Education, other Louisiana institutions, and area newspapers, radio, and television stations inspected the educational television facilities of the college Saturday morning in a special open house program climaxing American Education Week.

They witnessed a demonstration by Mrs. Ora G. Williams, assistant professor of English, of the teaching techniques she utilizes in the instruction twice weekly of 315 students of a course in remedial English over the closed-circuit network which reaches 15 classrooms in buildings throughout the campus.

How does one teacher effectively teach 315 students? The answer is she doesn't — not alone. Mrs. Williams is the "master" teacher. She lectures twice weekly, after much preparation, for 30 minutes from the central studio. In classrooms students follow the instruction on receivers, along with a fully qualified instructor. Following the lecture, a 45-minute workshop session begins immediately. Students apply the rules of English covered in the lecture.

A recent national survey report found that "televised courses have been much more carefully planned and organized than conventional courses, and combination of the skills of the studio teacher and of the classroom teacher has made possible a cooperative teaching effort far better than either teacher could achieve alone."

"OPPORTUNITIES"

Dr. Leo T. Allbritten, dean of the graduate school and dean of instruction, said: "On the basis of my observation of teaching by closed circuit television at NSC, I believe that this medium offers opportunities for the optimum utilization of faculty talents within a department. The unique qualifications of several instructors can be effectively combined for the educational benefit of a large number of students with a minimum of interference with the other duties of the staff."

Mrs. Williams recently summarized what she believed to be the advantages of her television course; she does, of course, teach other English courses by conventional classroom lecture techniques. These advantages she listed as better planned lessons, less adherence to one textbook, use of charts, diagrams, and other audio-visual materials; presentation of more exercises and tests than formerly, and uniformity of material and grading. Immediate follow-up in the workshop period under teacher supervision, she believes, provides two learning experiences: lecture and practical application.

The concentration of material offered without interruption in the 30-minute lecture is considered an advantage. Attention of students to the television instructor is, in general, better than attention to the instructor in the workshop. The student must be attentive in order to learn the material which must be applied once the TV lecture is concluded.

A logical question is, "can students ask questions during the lecture?" Two - way telephones are available in the classrooms and questions can be relayed However, it should be obvious that, with 315 students, many questions would make the lecture impossible. Instead, students hold their questions for the classroom instructor. Also, many times the instructors report to the TV lecturer questions which her students asked. These are discussed at the beginning of the next television lecture.

This situation was also covered in the national report of the Ford Foundation and The Fund for the Advancement of Education. It reported: "Of course, not all teachers were sorry to see questions eliminated; some believed that if one outcome of televised instruction would be to force students sometimes to find answers to questions on their own, the students would thereby become more resourceful in directing their own learning."

The number of failing grades thus far this semester in remedial English is significantly lower than at the same time last year in conventional classes.

National statistics reveal little differences in student achievement in televised courses as compared with that in conventional classroom situations.

But what about the students? How do they feel about pursuing a course by television? Not all of them favor it. Here are two comments from students in the English course:

"LITTLE CONTACT"

Wilbur H. Owens, Shreveport—"I do not like English lectures on educational television because I feel the student has little or no contact with the teacher. You have no sense of being a part of the lecture. If a question should arise in your mind, it is impossible to get an answer until after the lecture. Then, other things get in the way of asking it, and it goes unanswered."

Constance Carol Grigg, Goldonna — "One reason that I like English lectures on television is that the person speaking does not get interrupted by the asking of questions. The speaker is able to make points clear without students causing confusion. If there are questions to be asked, then one may ask them after the lecture. This gives the person time to think through the questions without asking an unnecessary question. English lectures on television save more time and get more accomplished."

A second offering currently being taught via the educational television network is an introductory, non - laboratory biology course. The instructor is Dwayne N. Kruse, assistant professor of biology. He lectures Mondays, Wednesday, and Fridays before a live classroom audience. Cameras and microphones relay the lecture to other classrooms and a total of 280 students are reached simultaneously. Graduate students serve as monitors in classrooms where they are available to answer questions and assist the undergraduates. A "help" session is conducted one evening weekly, in addition to regular class periods.

In grading of student achievement thus far, there is no marked difference between the class receiving "live" instruction and the two watching television receivers. In fact, Kruse reports, one television section has done better than the "live" group while the latter's achievement has been slightly better than the other "viewer" students.

ILLUSTRATIONS

Kruse utilizes films, slides, and special drawings to illustrate his lectures. Again, students may submit questions through the graduate assistants but these are, generally, delayed. Technical problems affecting reception are reported immediately, however.

The biology instructor indicated that he plans to recommend a change for the spring semester course. He would lecture via television Mondays and Wednesdays but conventional classroom lectures would be planned for Fridays at three different times. This, in addition, to the "help" session, he believes, would provide more effective instruction

An experimental class was initiated last spring in science, an introductory inorganic chemistry course. Dr. Alan H. Crosby, head of the department of physical science, reported that a special survey indicated there was no difference between the students achievement in the televised class when compared with those in "live" classes. Special experiments have been conducted in the televising of laboratory experiments. It has been found that some demonstrations via television, utilizing "blow-ups," close pick-ups, have provided more effective laboratory instruction.

A series of orientation lectures were provided some 400 students through combined live and televised sessions. Administrative and staff members presented discussions on such topics as class attendance, the library, study habits, traffic regulations, financing education, organizations and clubs, and the history and organization of the college. These programs were presented to the student simultaneously in five rooms under the direction of Dr. Tandy W. McElwee, director of testing service.

TEACHER TRAINING

Illustrative of the varied potential of closed - circuit television in the academic program is its adaptation to demonstration teaching in the teacher-education program. Last summer, an elementary school demonstration class in arithmetic was televised. Student teachers followed the lesson within the classroom while a large group of students watched the televised demonstration. A mobile unit has been established in Warren Easton Hall, elementary school building, to provide for such televised teacher - education programs.

President John S. Kyser, in discussing the beginning of full-scale closed - circuit television, said: "Initiation of televised instruction is not an attempt to derive economy through utilization of fewer teachers. Rather, it is one phase of our continuing program of academic pioneering with the ultimate goal being, of course, more effective instruction. Another phase of this program was the establishment last year on our campus of The Center for Experimental Research and Development in Learning and Teaching. Northwestern, one of Louisiana's oldest state colleges, was first to establish a School of Nursing; first to establish a Graduate School; and, now, first to begin full-scale closed circuit television courses."

The television program at Northwestern is under the technical direction of Thomas L. Hennigan, coordinator of educational television and director of audio-visual services. Frank Magers, assistant professor of speech, is producer - director, and Paul L. Keyser, electronic engineer.

SETUP COMPLETE

Located in Fournet Hall, chemistry - physics building, the television facilities are complete and adequate. In addition to the studio area, there are also an office, and electronics shop, a film room, an announcer's booth, and a control room. Studio equipment includes two cameras and monitor in addition to lighting equipment, drapes, and furniture.

The control room is completely equipped and includes several monitors for viewing pictures provided by studio cameras, and all necessary remote controls.

A film room provides equipment for the automatic remote projection of films, filmstrips, and slides.

More than one mile of coaxial cable forms the "campus loop." Line amplifiers boost and maintain a consistently strong signal. Telephone lines provide two - way communication with each classroom in the network. Presently, the receiving classrooms are located in seven buildings where 15 rooms are "wired" for reception. Standard 21-inch receivers are provided in the classrooms, two in most cases, at the front of the room.

Yes, at Northwestern, Johnny can learn to read — and to write — English, and can acquire a knowledge of selected subject matter areas, by watching television, something he learned to do at home quite well long before he attained college age.

Eden Assails Chamberlain In His Book

LONDON (AP) — A new book by the Earl of Avon — formerly Prime Minister Sir Anthony Eden — bitterly assails the late Neville Chamberlain for thwarting British-American understanding in 1938 which Eden says could have averted World War II.

Breaking a 24-year silence on the subject, Eden tells the full story of his resignation as foreign secretary in Chamberlain's government 18 months before Hitler attacked Poland.

Essentially, Eden's break with Chamberlain at so crucial a period came because they differed fundamentally as to how to deal with Germany, Italy and Japan. Eden wrote:

"He (Chamberlain) believed the dictators to be anxious for genuine agreements and himself to be the only man who could negotiate them. I strongly doubted whether either Hitler or Mussolini was in any way interested in coming to worthwhile terms with us and I wanted to strengthen our hand by every means, amongst which closer Anglo-American relations had a first place."

The immediate dispute that compelled Eden's sensational resignation in 1938 was Chamberlain's readiness to recognize Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

But Eden discloses for the first time that he wanted to quit a month earlier—in January 1938—when Chamberlain stymied a project by the late President Roosevelt to curb dictator nations.

Roosevelt had wanted to line America alongside Britain in the project. He had initiated arrangements for British-American naval cooperation in the Far East as the threat of Japanese expansionism developed.

His plan was to appeal for a concerted worldwide attempt to restore international standards, to slow down the arms race, to redefine the rules of war, and to reconsider some of the post-World War I settlements.

But active British support was considered vital.

Chamberlain and his Cabinet intimates regarded Roosevelt's secret approach as naive and wooly and wooly rubbish, Eden says. The plan in effect was dismissed.

Circuit Court Reverses Self

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Recognizing an Alabama court's interpretation of an Alabama law, the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals has reversed itself and cleared the way for the New York Times to be sued in Alabama.

The ruling traces to libel suits filed against the Times by seven officials and former officials of Birmingham and Bessemer, Ala. They originally sought $3.1 million, contending they were damaged publicly and personally by articles published in the Times about race relations in the Birmingham area.

The state law involved permits the secretary of state to accept service of suits on out of state corporations.

Georgia Tech Upset Bama's Crimson Tide

By DAVID M. MOFFIT

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Georgia Tech Yellow Jackets came through with a gritty defense in the final period here Saturday to upset high-ranking Alabama 7-6 and hand the Crimson Tide its first loss in 27 games.

Linebacker Don Toner intercepted a pass with barely a minute left on the clock as the second-ranking Tideman appeared headed toward a cinch score that would have given them their 20th consecutive victory.

A record crowd of 52,971 went crazy as Tech ran out the clock.

Georgia Tech fullback Mike McNames, a defensive demon all afternoon who intercepted two Alabama passes himself, scored Georgia Tech's touchdown late in the second period on a fierce nine-yard burst off tackle, two plays after he had race down to the Alabama 14 on a 26-yard pass interception return.

Quarterback Billy Lothridge, Tech's triple-threat, kicked what proved to be the winning point.

Alabama, unable to get into Tech territory during the entire first half, put the pressure on in the final two periods, but the Tide's only score came on a break late in the final period.

Georgia Tech had been backed up to its own 15-yard line by a 63-yard quick-kick by Alabama halfback Cotton Clark when Lothridge attempted to punt Tech out of danger. He bobbled the snap and although he got the kick away, the officials ruled his knee had touched the ground at the Georgia Tech nine-yard line and gave the ball to Alabama there.

Alabama shrugged off a five-yard penalty for illegal motion and swept down to the Tech two-yard line on the passing of sophomore quarterback Joe Namath. From there, Clark, leading scorer in the Southeastern Conference, plunged in from two yards out for his 14th touchdown of the season.

Alabama gambled for the two points, but failed when McNames cackled quarterback Jack Hurlbut as he attempted to roll out to the right.

Alabama got the ball back on the next kick-off when Benny Nelson recovered an on-sides kickoff on the Tech 35-yard line. On the first play end Frank Sexton intercepted a Namath pass at the Tech 30, ran it back to the Alabama 42 and then fumbled it back to Alabama.

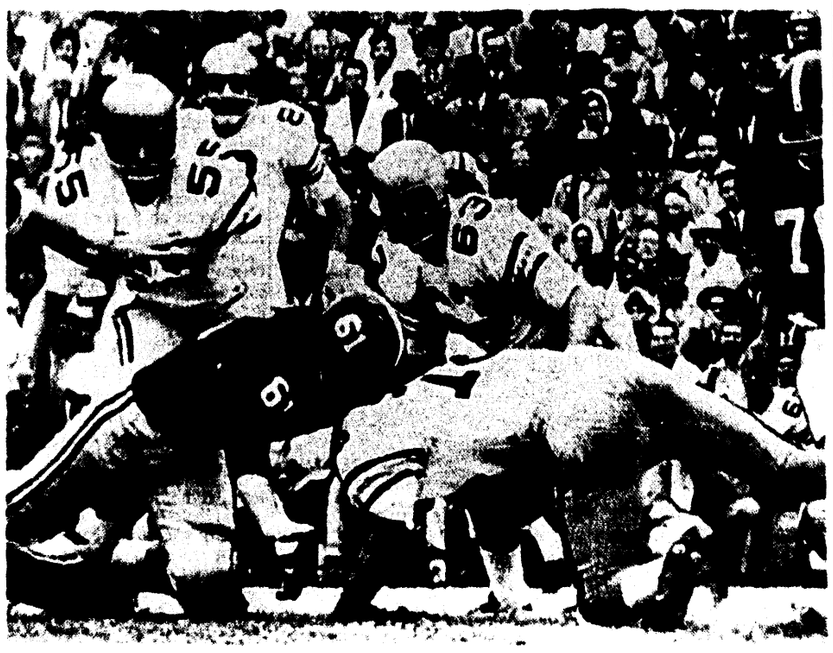

At this point, Alabama began driving relentlessly toward the Georgia Tech goal line. The Tide had a first down on the Tech 13 before Toner made the interception that doomed Alabama to its first defeat since early in the 1960 season.

Alabama was tied 3-3 by Texas in the Blue Bonnet Bowl on Jan. 1, 1960.

In the first half, Georgia Tech threw away two scoring opportunities, the first time losing the ball on an interception after sweeping down to the 'Bama 15 and the second time missing a field goal after driving to the Alabama 12.

TAKE OVER SEC LEAD

Rebs Manage Narrow Win Over Tennesse

By LOWRY BOWMAN

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI)—Unbeaten, third-ranked Mississippi, pushed to the bloody, brawling limit, cashed in on two Tennessee errors Saturday for a 19 to 6 victory.

The victory, coupled with Alabama's 7-6 loss to Georgia Tech, gave Mississippi the undisputed lead in the Southeastern Conference.

Louis B. Guy, a lanky wingback on John Vaught's juggernaut from Oxford, flew an even 100 yards with a pass interception to break Tennessee's back in the third period. Guy, who hopes to be a doctor, had started it off with a touchdown before the game was two minutes old.

But two errors of judgment cost Tennessee its chance for an upset in a game that was broken up by a fist and foot-swinging battle in the final period.

Tennessee won the toss and chose to kick off. That was the first mistake.

Mississippi quarterback Glynn Griffing pitched out to Chuck Morris on a 52-yard play on the first effort, and five plays later caught Guy in the end zone with a four-yard pass and what looked like a coming rout.

But Tennessee fought back with an effort that pushed Ole Miss to the wall for the first time this year.

Tennessee tailback Mallon Faircloth pounced on Ole Miss fullback Perry Dunn's fumble as the second half started and powered the Vols to the Mississippi four-yard line. Then Faircloth tried to pass for the score, and that was the second mistake.

Guy came out of nowhere to grab the ball inside the Ole Miss end zone and outrace the Tennessee team up the field for the touchdown that made the difference.

Ig was rocking, socking football on a muddy field. Both teams forgot the strategy and buckled down to head-on running and tackling.

The massive Ole Miss line, anchored by 272-pound Jim Dunaway, rolled 46 yards to a score in the final period with Buck Randall going over from one yard out. But Tennessee never quit.

The Vols marched back 67 yards against the most powerful defense in the conference, and tailback Bobby Morton hit John Hudson with a 16-yard scoring pass with five minutes left.

Both teams left the bench and began a free-swinging fist battle at the goal line. Officials finally broke it up.

Trojans In Win Over Navy, 13-6

By BOB MYERS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Speedy halfback Willie Brown cracked open a tight and fumble-plagued football game with a 56-yard touchdown run in the third quarter and gave Southern California a 13-6 victory over a spirited Navy team that ran the Trojans' unbeaten streak to eight Saturday.

The dangerous Middies from Annapolis had a 4-4 record going into the game and were two-touchdown underdogs to the second-ranked Trojans but almost scored an upset in the closing minutes.

The heartbreaker occurred with the ball on the Souther California 5, when fullback Pat Donnelly fumbled going into the end zone and the ball was recovered by Trojan Gary Potter.

It developed that Donnelly was hit hard on the goal line by quarterback Pete Beathard and a second jolt by a Trojan tackle, Gary Kirner, completed the disastrous moment.

Navy again got the ball in the final minute and 6 seconds and quarterback Roger Staubach sparked another rally and the Middies were threatening to score. Staubach completed a 10-yard pass to Jim Stewart on the Trojan 20 when time ran out.

Navy had its luck, too. Southern California fumbled the ball away four times and the first fumble on the opening kickoff set the stage for the Middies' touchdown.

Halfback Ken Del Conte took the kickoff, fumbled when hit by Fred Marline, and Ron Testa recovered on the Trojan 22. Staubach picked up 4 and then on a pass-run option play, ran to his right and on the final 18 yards for the touchdown. Potter blocked the try for the extra point.

Florida State brought to Gainesvillege one of its finest teams, fresh from a tie with Georgia Tech a week ago, and the Seminoles were confident they had the horses to win for the first time in the five-year rivalry.

But the capacity crowd of 46,000 saw Florida also dominate the second half with its power runners, Larry Dupree and Jim O'Donnell, plus the timely passes of Tom Shannon and Tom Batten.

Shannon threw a 15-yard touchdown pass to Bruce Starling after State scored first on Keity Kinderman's 2-yard smash that capped a 72-yard drive.

Doug Messer's place kick put State ahead 7-6 at halftime as Jimmy Hall had missed a conversion kick for Florida.

After Clarke's punt return put Florida in front, the Gators marched 66 yards, sending Ron Stoner the last 5 yards.

State moved on the passes of Eddie Feely and Steve Tensi and reached Florida's defense that triumphed as State made only 81 yards rushing.

After a slow start this season, the Gators have won five of their last six games and have a 6-3 mark with only Miami ahead Dec. 1—unless a bowl invitation should appear.

Florida's first touchdown came after a State fumble at the 25. The Gators had been stopped only seconds before at the 7 when they tried running. So this time they took to the air.

Shannon tossed to Tom Kelley for a first down at the 15 and on the next play he found Starling alone in the end zone.

Taylor Sets Mark As Harvard Wins

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Big Bill Taylor, a transplanted Midwesterner from Minnesota, set a Harvard record Saturday by scoring four touchdowns and leading the Crimson to a 31 - 19 Ivy League football victory over Brown.

Taylor, a 190 - pound senior from Crookston, Minn., scored on a 17 - yard run, a 21 - yard sweep down the sidelines, a 3 - yard run and a 77 - yard scoring pass from quarterback Mike Bassett to wind up his spree.

Taylor's four touchdowns were the most ever scored by a Harvard player in an Ivy League game.

Dartmouth Barely Gets By Cornell

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Highly favored Dartmouth escaped with its scalp Saturday outlasting a fired up Cornell eleven 28-21 and clinching the 1962 Ivy League football championship.

The unbeaten Indians, a game away from their first perfect season since 1925, found themselves in a rugged test from the opening minutes. The Big Red never relaxed and went down to the wire, scoring with four seconds remaining.

The field goal, a 27-yarder by Tommy (True-Toe) McKnelly, provided the winning points. Minutes before, Arkansas failed on a two-point conversion try after halfback Jesse Branch's 11-yard touchdown run.

But the real Porker hero was guard Mike Hales, who broke through and stopped a SMU field goal attempt with one minute left.

It was a third down try from the 17 by John Richey. Hales took the ball in the stomach and it bounced back to the 32. SMU had another try from there but quarterback Roger Braugh passed incomplete on fourth down with 22 seconds left.

Until the Razorbacks rose up in the final period, SMU appeared to have the game in its pocket. The Mustangs had put together a 78-yard scoring drive and Richey's extra point gave them a 7-0 advantage through three periods.

Twice the Mustangs turned back Porker scoring threats, first when Arkansas fullback Danny Brabham fumbled on first down at the 3 and again when McKnelly got a bad snap and had to pass instead of kick on a field goal try from the 23 in the second quarter.

LESESNE LEADS

Vandy Wins 20-0 Over Tulane Club

By RUSS DALEY

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Quarterback Hank Lesesne put on a one-man offensive show Saturday as long frustrated Vanderbilt whipped Tulane 20-0 and broke a 16game losing streak.

Lesesne, a senior who has been an off and on performer this season, was definitely on Saturday as he passed and ran Vandy to one of its sweetest wins—and its first of the 1962 season. The loss kept Tulane winless, stretching the Green Wave's losing streak to nine straight.

When the afternoon ended, Lesesne had piled up more yardage running and passing than the whole Tulane team. When he found his receivers covered, he ran. When he passed, he had no particular favorite target, tossing to end Dick Teets, halfbacks Jeff Starling and Steve Shaw and even to fullback Charlie Trabue.

For a time it looked like another frustrating afternoon for both teams as they struggled through a scoreless first period. Lesesne got Vandy in the scoring column with a one-yard plunge in the second period and after that there was no doubt as to who would finally win.

The game was played under a lowering sky and the lights had to be turned on in the final period.

Lesesne led Vandy 36 yards in 16 plays for it's second final period score and from then on it was a case of Tulane trying to stave off the Commodores who knew they were finally going to win one.

The final TD was another Lesesne production, an 11 yard pass to Starling with less than one minute to play.

Vandy's eager line made Tulane's "shotgun" offense fire mostly blanks and Tulane never seriously threatened for score.

Halfback Shaw got Vandy's second score on a one-yard run.

The win came in the next to last game for Vanderbilt Coach Art Guepe who has resigned effective after the closing game Dec. 1 with Tennessee.

Jack Concannon Leads BC Victory

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — Jack Concannon, making a shambles of Boston University's best in the nation pass defense, threw four touchdown aerials Saturday and set up two others as the bowl-hopeful Boston College Eagles rambled to a 41-25 victory over their crosstown rival.

The rangy junior quarterback, bringing his touchdown pass total to 12 for the season, pitched scoring strikes of 62, 55, 34 and 13 yards.

Lema In Lead After 3 Rounds At Mobile Open

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — Tony Lema, the beanpole from San Leandro, Calif., fired his third consecutive subpar round Saturday to take a seven-shot lead in the fourth annual $15,000 Mobile Sertoma PGA open tournament with a 203.

"I played almost flawless golf," Lema said. "I didn't make any mistakes."

The 31-year-old Californian put together nines of 34-34—68 over the 7,000-yard municipal course, playing to a par of 36-36—72. His rounds of 67, 68, 68 put him 13 strokes under regulation figures.

Deadline Is Set For Entries In City Cage Play

The Monroe Recreation Department has set a deadline of Friday, November 23, on entries in their Winter Basketball Program.

At the present time more teams are needed in all of the Leagues. Recreation Department officials urge all teams that are planning to enter, to do so early and not wait until the last minute, so that scheduling will not be so difficult. Teams desiring to enter are asked to contact Jackie Neal at the Benoit Recreation Center, 1760 Oaklawn Drive, telephone 325-3305.

Leagues that will be in operation this year are: Pee Wee for boys and girls 12 and under, Midgets for boys 14 and under, Junior for boys 18 and under, Ladies for ladies 16 and above, Church for church members only, and City for independent teams in this area.

All of the Leagues are slated to start play the week of Monday, November 26. Teams desiring a place for practice may call the Benoit Center, 325-3305 or West Monroe Center, 325-1459 and reserve the game for a particular night.

Names selected for thoroughbred horses are limited to 16 letters counting spaces and punctuation and may not have more than three words.

Baseball Loop Planning Here Moves Ahead

Organization of an amateur baseball league for the immediate Monroe area seems assured and enough ground work has been done to bring about final organization at a meeting scheduled for Tuesday night, December 4, at 7:30 o'clock, at the L. B. Faulk American Legion Home.

"Enough interest has already been stimulated from interested baseball fans and merchants who are willing to help to make the league a success," Saul Adler, member of the American Legion's Ludwig committee, said Saturday.

The American Legion Post here plans to join Ouachita parish merchants in sponsoring the league which will schedule all its games at Legion Memorial Stadium here. Preliminary plans already call for an eight - team league in which each club plays a game a week, giving the stadium four playing dates a week.

League planners are sticking to an all - amateur arrangement and say no professional or semi - pro talent will be used. But talent must be 17 years old or older.

Assurances of support have been forthcoming from Monroe city officials, the Monroe Recreation Department, and the Monroe Little League board of directors as well as L. B. Faulk Post of the American Legion and parish merchants.

Hawkeyes Gain Big 10 Victory

IOWA CITY, Iowa (UPI)—Iowa quarterback Matt Szykowny rifled a 47-yard touchdown pass to Sammie Harris with only 2 minutes 43 seconds left Saturday to power the Hawkeyes to a jinx-ending 28-14 win over Michigan.

The Hawkeyes added another touchdown with only 45 seconds left to wrap up the Big Ten victory in their final home appearance of the year. It was only

Clemson Takes Avenge Victory

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Rod Rogers kicked a field goal with little more than a minute to play Saturday as Clemson avenged close football shaves of the past three seasons and defeated Maryland 17-14.

Coach Frank Howard decided to go for the winning three points only after Clemson lined up on the 1 for a touchdown try and was penalized for illegal motion. Rogers' successful boot sailed 23 yards.

It capped a rally for Clemson, which had trailed 14-0 in the second quarter, and came after an apparent 50-yard touchdown run by quarterback Dick Shiner of Maryland was nullified by a clip-

WANT-AD WONDERS

Want Ads Supplies Prison With Vicious Dogs

"We got the dogs quietly, through want ads in newspapers," said Raiford Prison Director H. G. Cockran. We asked for large, vicious dogs that couldn't be used as pets. The dogs live between the double fence around the security building. They are separated from each other by fence partitions. No one can walk close to the fence, they lunge at it with bared fangs. This is an excellent security measure since men are inherently afraid of large vicious dogs.

Notre Dame Whips Tarheels By 21-7

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (UPI) — Alert Notre Dame capitalized on three pass interceptions for touchdowns and a 21-7 victory over North Carolina in an intersectional football game Saturday before 35,553 fans, smallest Irish home crowd in 19 years.

The Irish stars were defensive halfback Tom MacDonald, who intercepted three aerials by Junior Edge, giving him eight interceptions for the season to tie a single season school record, and halfback Don Hogan, who gained 117 yards in 15 carries.

Two of MacDonald's interceptions and another by Gerry Grey in the fourth period led to two touchdowns as the Irish rang up their third consecutive victory and evened their season record at 4 and 4.

North Carolina, going into the half with a 7-0 lead, suffered its sixth loss against three victories.

The crowd, smallest since only 30,000 fans saw the game against Illinois here in 1943, was held down by threatening weather and 38-degree temperature.

Angelo Bertelli intercepted eight passes in 1942, a mark tied by MacDonald Saturday as the Irish licked the Tarheels for the 11th time in the 12-year series.

Edge completed 10 of 22 passes for 95 yards, but only three in the second half as Notre Dame's defense stiffened. Notre Dame's Daryle Lamonica, who tossed four touchdown passes against Pitt last week, made good on just three of 13 attempts for 56 yards.

North Carolina scored the second time it got the ball, marching 40 yards in nine plays with fullback Ken Willard scoring from the one.

Notre Dame failed to threaten in the first half, but the Irish scored twice within three minutes late in the third period, both times after MacDonald pass interceptions.

Sophomore fullback Joe Farrell scored the first two tallies and Lamonica plunted for the third in the fourth period, after Gerry Gray's pass interception. Hogan's 59-yard run to the four set up the score.

North Carolina failed to threaten seriously in the second half.

Although night long rains made the field slippery, only one fumble was lost. Farrell committed the blunder, but North Carolina couldn't take advantage of it.

Fullback Ed Kesler was North Carolina's most consistent ground gainer with 50 yards in 19 rushes.

Yost Leads Win Over Citadel 11 On New Marks

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) —Quarterback Jerry Yost set a new West Virginia University total offense record as the Mountaineers exploded for 37 points in 8 1-2 minutes of the second half to rout The Citadel 49-0 Saturday.

Yost picked up 241 yards passing and running for a total of 1,274 in nine games to surpass the mark of 1,202 set by Dick Longfellow in 1958.

West Virginia led 12-0 with 35 seconds remaining in the third period before The Citadel fell apart in the face of a battering Mountaineer offense.

Seven players took part in the scoring splurge, with none scoring more than one touchdown.

The Mountaineer scores came on a 16-yard run by Tom Woodeshick, a one-yard plunge by Glenn Holton, a five-yard run by Jim Moss, a two-yard plunge by Ron Colaw, an 80-yard run by Larry Tracewell, an eight-yard run by Jim Procopio and a 10-yard run by Dick Madison.

a month ago has the Oklahoma goalline been dented.

The Sooners wasted no time warming up before the crowd of 61,826.

Oklahoma's Joe Don Looney brought the opening kickoff back 40 yards to the Oklahoma 44. Then on the second play quarterback Monte Deere flipped a screen pass to halfback Virgil Boll, who scampered 42 yards behind fine blocking to the Missouri 9. Looney took it over from the 3 after Deere picked up 6 yards on a pair of keepers.

Butch Metcalf's kick made it 7-0 with only 2½ minutes gone.

A big play also set the Sooners' on the way to their second score. After taking the ball on the 20, fullback Jim Grisham slashed 30 yards up the middle and from that point the Sooners ground out the remaining yardage on power plays through the line.

Deere masterfully kept the Missouri defense off balance throughout the drive as he mixed the timing of his counts. Time and again Deere took an agonizingly losing time between plays. Then with the Tigers expecting the long count, Deere would quicken the count to catch them flatfooted.

The expected running duel between Looney and Missouri's Johnny Roland did not materialize. Looney, third-ranked rusher in the Big Eight, was held to 25 net yards in 12 attempts and Roland, second ranked rusher in the conference, netted only 9 yards in the same number of attempts.

Grisham, a 205-pound sophomore, led all runners with 116 yards—5 more than Missouri's entire team gained.

AGAINST STATE

Tech Opens Cage Play December 6

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Louisiana Tech will open basketball play Dec. 6 against Mississippi State and the Techsters will field a more experienced team this year but one hampered by a lack of height.

Tech Coach Cecil Crowley will have six lettermen available and not a single senior on the squad. Max Lewis, a senior veteran and team captain, was killed just prior to the start of the fall term when struck by lightning while operating a tractor.

Monogram winners back include junior Joe Abendroth, 6-3 all - conference forward last year led the team in scoring and rebounding, Ray Penny, 6-3 soph forward from Coushatta; Dave Hruska, 6-1 junior guard from Minden; Ron McNabb, 6-0 junior guard from Shreveport; Butch Miller, 6-1 junior guard from Jackson, Miss., and Jerry Hood, 6-4 soph center from Ruston.

Abendroth, the ex - Byrd star, tallied 341 points for an average of 14.8 per game and picked off an average of eight rebounds per game. Missing will be the second highest scorer, guard Jack Fair of Ashland, and 6-5 center Jim Graves of Ferriday.

Among returning squadmen are guards Jim Cranford of Simsboro, Gordon Gibson of Shreveport Byrd, Arnold Ramsey of Quitman, and Donnie Allen of Covington; forwards Robert Bretz of Ruston and Max Howard of Pineville, and center Jesse Bridges of Pleasant Hill.

Two freshmen are among candidates for the squad. They include Gene Lee, a 6-5 forward from Bloomington, Ill., and Joey Barron, a 6-3 high scoring forward from Spearsville. The Techsters will be trying to rebound from a 6 — 17 record in 1961-62 and a fifth place tie in the GSC with a 3-7 loop record.

In drills, five letterman have been running on the first team, with McNabb presently sidelined with an ankle injury. The Tech men will have to depend upon team speed and a high shotting percentage to offset their height advantage.

Vassar Girls Hurl Challenge At Kennedys

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Those Vassar College girls finally broke even Saturday in a touch football game with men. Letting the tie go to their curls, they immediately challenged the John F. Kennedy family of Washington, D.C.

The girls, who previously had lost 14-6 to a team of men from Siena College near Albany, tied male Vassar faculty members this time, 12-12. Earlier, a Vassar team had lost to a squad from Yale.

Miss Elizabeth Wilbur, a senior halfback from Villanova, Pa., told a reporter afterwards that the tie proved her club was "just rounding into top form."

Then she issued the challenge to the Kennedy family. Mrs. Kennedy attended Vassar, some time before the Hudson River girls' school got her to the joys of the gridiron.

Miss Wilbur noted there has been some talk about the prowess of the Kennedy family at touch football.

Her senior team, one of three on the campus, has games scheduled with teams from Princeton and Lehigh. The Princeton team, representing the Cannon Eating Club, is meeting the girls on Sunday.

Vassar insists on playing 11 girls against 8 men in such games.

COOK LEADS STEERS

Texas In Shutout Win Over TCU; Near Title

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)— Clutch runs by Jerry Cook and costly Texas Christian penalties carried Texas to a 14-0 football triumph over the Horned Frogs and within one-half game of the Cotton Bowl Saturday.

Undefeated Texas, with a 5-0-1 record, now can tie Texas A&M ON Thanksgiving Day and clinch the Cotton Bowl spot. It can take the Southwest Conference championship with a victory.

Paying no heed to a muddy field, the Longhorns slashed and tore Texas Christian into submission after being repulsed repeatedly by the gritty Horned Frogs in the first half.

The Texas defense kept TCU in its 32-yard line the first two periods, inside its 34 the next and only in the final quarter could the weary Frogs get as far as their 40.

Cook's 19-yard run and a pass interference penalty that set the ball on the TCU 3 gave Texas its first touchdown.

Tom Wade, who piloted Texas expertly all day, was stopped on the 2 and Tommy Ford, who also featured with his runs, plowed to the 1. Ray Poage, who scored both of the Texas touchdowns, smashed over for the score.

The other Texas touchdown came in the final period with a 12-yard run by Cook getting to the TCU 19, where a personal foul by Jerry Terrell for tackling Wade out of bounds put the ball on the TCU 8. Wade pitched out to Poage, who scored both of the Texas touchdowns, smashed over for the score.

Tony Crosby, the bare-footed Texas kicker, booted both point after touchdown. He also missed on two field goal tries.

A crowd of 42,393—largest ever to see a Texas-TCU game—sat in intermittent rain and 44-degree temperatures to watch Texas play one of its finest defensive games of all.

Sonny Gibbs, the TCU quarterback, had his worst passing day, completing only five with two intercepted.

Tech To Place Tickets On Sale

RUSTON, La. (Special) — Sale of season tickets for Louisiana Tech's 11 home basketball games started Friday, according to Athletic Director Joe Aillet.

The Techmen open the season Dec. 6 against Mississippi State and play Ole Miss here Dec. 8. Other home tilts, other than those against Gulf States conference foes, include Arkansas Tech, Southeast Oklahoma, Centenary, and Southern Mississippi.

Season tickets, which cost $10, are on sale in the athletic office at the college in Memorial gymnasium. Persons who had reserved seats last year have until Dec. 1 to retain the same seats.

Syracuse Wins From Colonials By 35-0 Count

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Syracuse demonstrated that the best offense was a good defense Saturday as hard-charging Orange linemen spearheaded their team to a 35-0 victory over George Washington of the Southern Conference.

Three Syracuse fallies were set up by pass interceptions that were prompted by Syracuse harassment of Colonial passers. Another Syracuse score came on a sensational 59-yard punt return by John Mackey, a halfback converted from end a week ago.

Mackey also set up the first Orange score by returning a pass interceptions 51 yards to the George Washington 4.

The Orange line, packing superior weight, continuously broke through to drop Colonial quarterbacks Frank Pazzaghia and Merv Holland for huge losses.

George Washington's best scoring opportunity came late in the second quarter when John Hill, a guard, plucked a fumble by Syracuse halfback Don King, out of the air and returned it 15 yards to the Syracuse 37.

The Colonials were able to advance the ball to the Syracuse 19 only to lose 29 yards in the last three plays of the half. On the final play, Pazzaglia was shaken up and as a result he saw limited action in the second half.

Columbia Wins Over Penn, 21-7

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The passing combination of quarterback Archie Roberts to fullback Al Butts carried Columbia to a 21-7 Ivy League football victory over Penn Saturday, enabling the Lions to post three straight over the Quakers for the first time in their 42-game series.

Roberts, who set a league seasonal pass yardage gaining record of 952 yards, scored Columbia's first touchdown from the 1, tossed 58 yards to Butts for the second, and set up Butts' second score of the day, a 2-yard drive over left guard.

Buffalo, 6-0

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Johnny Stofa tossed a 21-yard scoring pass for Buffalo in the second period Saturday and then the Bulls fought off a determined Colgate aerial assault for a 6-0 football victory over the Red Raiders in a snowstorm. It was Buffalo's first victory over Colgate in 64 years.

Kansas Romps To 33-21 Win

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP)—Kansas fullback Armand Baughman bulled through California defenses for 142 yards and three touchdowns, leading Kansas to a 33-21 intersectional football victory Saturday.

The Jayhawkers at one time threatened a rout with a 21-0 lead late in the first half, but the spirited Golden Bears stormed back, slicing it to 27-21.

Then Kansas wrapped it up with a 73-yard mahch with 2½ minutes left. Halfback Gale Sayers, used as a decoy most of the last half, broke 23 yards around right end for the touchdown.

OVER AUBURN

Georgia 11 Rolls To Upset Victory

By TONY HEFFERMAN

AUBURN, Ala. (UPI)—Quarterback Larry Rakestraw of Georgia, bothered by a knee injury most of the season, lived up to his potential Saturday to lead the Bulldogs to a stunning 30-21 victory over the heavily favored Auburn Tigers.

Sophomore halfback Joe Burson contributed an 83-yard run with a pass interception to the major upset by heretofore unimpressive Georgia.

The Bulldogs, 14-point underdogs, came from behind in the second half to maintain their superiority over the Tigers in their ancient series.

This was their 66th meeting since 1892 in Southeastern Conference play. It was Georgia's 31st victory compared to 29 losses to Auburn and six ties.

Rakestraw passed with precision and ran like a fullback to help even his team's season record at 3-3-3.

The key play came in the fourth period with Georgia leading 17-14. Auburn took over the ball on its 25 and quarterback Jimmy Sidle led his Tigers down to the Georgia 16. Sidle passed freely all the way to get Auburn within striking distance. But one pass went astray.

Sidle, back on the Bulldog 25 after a nine yard loss, passed to the right side and out of nowhere came defensive left halfback Burson. He snared the ball and ran 83 yards for a touchdown. Bill McCullough kicked the extrapoint to make the score 24-14.

Minutes later Auburn came back and scored to make it 24-21. The touchdown came on a six-yard pass from Sidle to halfback Mickey Sutton. It looked as if Auburn might be back in the game.

The Tigers held Georgia to Bulldog territory with about three minutes left to play, but then Jake Saye punted beautifully to the Tiger five-yard line.

Tucker Frederickson picked up the ball and fumbled and 231-pound guard Paul Holmes recovered for Georgia.

Minutes later, Rakestraw passed to his favorite target of the day, halfback Don Porterfield, from the four-yard line into the end zone to put the game on ice. It was Porterfield's third touchdown pass of the day.

The game was played in spring-like weather under cloudy skies before 35,000 fans.

The Tigers drew first blood on an interception by defensive halfback Billy Edge, who grabbed a pass from Georgia substitute quarterback Saye on his own 27. Edge ran all the way down the sideline for paydirt to put Auburn in front and Woody Woodall's kick made it 7-0.

When Georgia gained possession after the kickoff, Rakestraw directed the Bulldogs to the opponents 13 and from there passed to Porterfield in the end zone. McCullough's kick was good to even the score.

The Tigers bounced back with about two minutes to play in the first half to go ahead 14-7.

The key play was bullet pass from Sidle at the Bulldog 35 to Frederickson who bulled his way to the four. Two plays later Larry Laster went over for the score.

The Bulldogs scored the first time they got the ball in the second half.

Rakestraw ran and passed his team to the 15, then found Porterfield alone in the end zone and hit him for the TD. At the beginning of the fourth period McCullough kicked a fourth-down field goal to put the Bulldogs ahead for good, 17-14, and set the stage for the final period fireworks.

HOW MUCH ADDITIONAL WILL THE PROPOSED IMPROVEMENTS COST ME?

ANSWER: At the end of 1963, two mills will be added to your present tax rate. This means that for each $1,000 of assessment, you will pay only $2.00 more per year.

EXAMPLES: The owner of a home assessed at $500 will pay only $1.00 extra per year, beginning at the end of 1963.
The owner of a home assessed at $1,000 will pay only $2.00 extra per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $2,000 will pay only $4.00 per year.
The owner of a home assessed at $3,000 will pay only $6.00 per year.

This is a very small increase for the long overdue and much needed improvements which are recommended to you. Vote yes on all five propositions in Tuesday's election.

Dog House Time

This is the time of the year when hunters tell Fido to move over, because Thanksgiving is here and that signals the beginning of everything.

It was the beginning of a nation when the Pilgrims and the Indians sat down to break bread together. But when the Hunters and the people sit down this Thanksgiving Day the turkey and dressing will be choked down hurriedly because:

QUAIL SEASON opens Thanksgiving Day.

DEER SEASON opens the day after Thanksgiving Day.

And those few sportsmen who will not be out to bag either bird or buck probably will be in a big hurry to go work on their duck blinds because:

DUCK SEASON opens November 30 a week after the deer season opens.

It's unfortunate that the deer season opens on or around Thanksgiving Day each year, because this tends to wreck too many family plans for Thanksgiving observances. It's unfortunate that Thanksgiving is being pushed aside for sports and a commercial rush to Christmas.

But be that as it may, the big hunting seasons are here and the prospects are good.

If it would only rain some.

Northeast Louisiana has a good deer population — all over, not just in the Delta parishes, although Tensas and Madison are still the state's leaders.

And with the increase of the deer population so goes the increase in hunters. More people are deer hunting as the big transition to the high - powered rifle transpires.

This should mean that hunters or would - be hunters should make note to use more care than ever. A movement in the brush or reflection in the water could be a man or a woman and not a buck.

So look twice and look again before squeezing the trigger.

At the moment, or at this writing, the woods are extremely dry and the mast is scattered. Hunters are urged to be careful with their camp fires and cigarettes. Hunters are advised that where there's mast there are deer.

The outlook for the bird season is much the same — a good quail crop with more people hunting. It's too dry and warm now for the dogs, but conditions will improve as winter comes on.

We'll have more on ducks next year.

Meantime, be careful and don't shoot a man. They say our hunting safety record is good, but the loss of one life is not worth all the deer in the countryside.

Game Management Areas

Deer hunters should pay close attention to the regulations on the game management areas, since the areas have different seasons that must be observed.

However, all the game management areas with the exception of the Russell Sage Wildlife Management Area require hunters to pick up daily permits from the check stations.

In the case of the Russell Sage areas, hunters must have a seasonal permit that is available at the wildlife office on Black Bayou at Monroe.

Hunters must pick up daily permits and return them at the check stations on all the other game management areas.

In addition, still hunting only is permitted on the game management areas. This means no dogs. This also means no camping on the areas.

And unless there is some rain between now and the season's opening, hunters are asked not to build fires on the areas. Be careful with cigarettes also.

Conditions in the woods are extremely dry.

Now, here is a breakdown on the seasons of the game management areas in Northeast Louisiana. Read it carefully.

CHICAGO MILLS GAME MANAGEMENT AREA. That portion of the game management area in Madison and Franklin will have a 5-day "bucks only" season beginning November 23 - 27. Location of the check stations in Franklin will be at (No 1) Eureka - Junction of parish road and hwy. 572 about two miles east of Gilbert, (2) Turkey Bluff-Junction of hwy. 882 about three miles east of Swampers; (3) Tensas River about 10 miles south of the Tensas River bridge or about six miles north of Cooter Point where the pipeline crosses the Tensas River. Location of the check stations in Madison will be at (1) Hunter Bend Road where Hunter Bend Road joins hwy. 577, (2) Sharkey Road, located at junction of hwy. 65, (3) Bill & June's Store about seven miles south of Waverly on hwy. 577, (4) Tendal, at the entrance marker; (5) hwy. 80 at Lake One. That portion of the Chicago Mills area in Tensas Parish will have two days of "any deer" hunting on November 23rd and November 24th, and three days of "bucks only" hunting on November 25-27. Check stations will be located at the Cooter Point boat landing, Tensas River bridge between Franklin and Tensas, and at Jordon Ferry about 12 miles south of Tensas Bluff. All deer killed on the area must be checked at one of the permit stations.

CALDWELL GAME MANAGEMENT AREA. Season will open "for bucks only" November 23 - 27. Check stations will be located at (No. 1) entrance marker one mile east of hwy. 559 at Locust Grove; (2) one - quarter mile south of Sandy Bayou on corner of the area; (3) two miles south of hwy. 4 at White Oak Landing on Boeuf River.

RUSSELL SAGE WILDLIFE MANAGEMENT AREA. Season will be open November 23 - 25 and December 26 - 30. No check stations will be operated, but agents will conduct spot checks. Seasonal permits are required. This is a "bucks only" season.

JACKSON - EBENEZER GAME MANAGEMENT AREA. An "any deer" season will be held on opening day, November 23, with "bucks only" season following November 24 - 28. Check stations will be located at (No 1) Quitman on highway 167; and (2) at the Union Church one mile off hwy. 147.

EAST CARROLL GAME MANAGEMENT AREA. Season will be on "bucks only" November 23-27. Check stations will be located at (1) junction of Valentine's drainage ditch and parish road four miles west of Sondheimer, and at (2) Scott's Grocery Store at the junction of 580 and 877 on Joe's Bayou.

UNION GAME MANAGEMENT AREA. Season will be on "bucks only" November 23-27. Check stations will be located at (1) main entrance on the Truxno - Concord road about a mile from the Tennessee cemetery, and at (2) Big Cane Creek bridge on the Truxno - Concord road. Also a weighing out station will be located at the overnight cabin just off the Truxno - Concord road.

This is the beginning of Thanksgiving week and in a few days from now the little men will be making lots of news afield.

Down at Hebert in Richland Parish, a new wildlife club has named itself "Dave's Bayou 57 Club." At a meeting this week, the club selected two of its members to serve as special deputies to assist game wardens during the season.

Membership in the new club is open to all residents of Wards 5 and 7 of Richland. Next meeting is November 29th at 7 p.m. in the Woolen Lake Community Center. That's Tuesday night.

On the subject of game wardens, Ouachita Parish will hire four temporary wardens for the deer season. This is good, but the serious problems of enforcing the game laws occur just before the deer season opens and just after it closes. That's when the early hunters and late hunters operate.

Little Man's Corner

At Harrisonburg, E. B. McGuffee has been re - elected president of the Catahoula Independent Sportsmen's Association. Other officers include Keeth Ford, vice - president, and Pat Gibson, secretary - treasurer.

Two prizes of $15 and $10 were approved to the first and second place winners in a deer hunting contest — to be determined by the members who kill the deer with the most antlers.

And beginning next week, in this column, we'll begin a series of mentions on the new animals, reptiles and birds at the Monroe zoo. There's a lot of interest in the zoo now and background information on the attractions should be interesting.

In the Vidalia area, Percy May, Bill Strickland and Martin Stone have been catching the bass in the barpits below that town. Jimmy Hodges and Al Strickland of Vidalia landed the limit of bass at Pandora Lake.

Army Is Beaten By Pittsburgh 11

NEW YORK (AP) — Rick Leeson's placement after Pitt's lone touchdown beat Army Saturday 7-6 in a head-knocking football game marred by Army's sloppy ball handling.

Bob Roeder drove into the end zone from the 4 in the second period after Pitt's Jim Irwin had recovered John Seymour's fumble on the Army 15. Roeder scored on a fourth - and - two situation, skirting right end on a power sweep.

Joe Blackgrove slammed over from the 3 at 10:15 of the third period for the lone Army score. It had been set up by the aroused Chinese Bandits, who had swarmed over Jim Traficant and Paul Martha, throwing them for a total loss of 50 yards in three plays. Blackgrove picked up most of the yardage in the 32 yard march that also included a 15-yard gainer by Ken Waldrop on a reverse.

The Cadets were lining up quickly without going into a huddle during that drive.

With the game hanging in the balance, Cammy Lewis tried to run the ball over for a two-point conversion but he fumbled when a hit short of the goal line. The fumble was not important because he would not have made the distance.

Army reached the Pitt 34 in the final period before another fumble, this time by Don Parcells, stopped them. Irwin again recovered for Pitt.

The teams played it close to the vest most of the way and the game settled down to a punting duel between Pete Rally of Pitt and Dick Peterson of Army.

The two teams threw only a total of 15 passes and completed only five for a combined passing gain of 89 yards.

Army lost the ball four times on fumbles and twice on interceptions.

Army muffed a good chance when Lewis fumbled on the Pitt 15 on the first play of the second quarter. Gary Kaltenbach recovered for Pitt, making its first New York appearance since the famous scoreless series with Fordham in the 1930s.

Leeson was the leading ground gainer with 44 yards for 12 carries. Blackgrove topped Army with 36 in 10 carries.

Spartans Down Wildcats, 31-7 In Big 10 Tilt

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Michigan State halted sophomore Tom Myers, the nation's leading passer, and ended Northwestern's Big Ten Conference title and Rose Bowl football hopes 31-7 Saturday.

Overcoming a rash of their own mistakes, the Spartans turned a blocked punt and a pass interception into touchdowns and completely dominated play after Northwestern had grabbed an early 7-0 lead.

Myers, who went into the game with 104 completions in 160 attempts for 1,403 yards and 13 touchdowns, was kept off balance throughout the game as the hard charging Michigan State defensive tempts for 1,403 yards and 13 touchdowns, was kept off balance throughout the game as the hard-charging Michigan State defensive line threw him for losses repeatedly. Myers completed eight of 24 passes for a net of 47 yards.

No less than six times, Michigan State handed the ball to Northwestern on fumbles and pass interceptions but the Wildcats couldn't take advantage.

George Saimes and Sherman Lewis, each scoring a touchdown, battered the Northwestern defenses with a powerful running game. Lewis gained 87 yards in 18 carries and Saimes finished with 61 yards in 13 attempts.

Buckeyes Stop Oregon Eleven In 26-7 Contest

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State got a lot of offensive help from a couple of sparingly-used defensive players Saturday as the Buckeyes defeated Oregon 26-7 in an intersectional football contest before 72,828 fans.

The rainy-day crowd was as much a shocker as the score since it was the smallest throng to see Ohio State in action here in several years.

Bill Mrukowski, senior, came out of the discards to quarterback the Bucks to victory. Two weeks ago he was so low on the totem pole he did not even make the trip to Iowa. But he was good enough this time to score two touchdowns and pilot the Ohio State club faultlessly. He was shoved into the signal-calling spot in place of injured John Mummey.

Chick Mamula, a junior defensive tackle, scored his first points as he took over the place-kicking chores for injured Dick Van Raap. Horst Mamula made good with two conversions and field goals from 25 and 40 yards—the two defensive newcomers scoring 20 of Ohio State's 26 points.

Texas Tech In 1st Victory Of Season, 21-12

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — Frustrated Texas Tech, sparked by a 98-yard pass interception return by end David Parks for the clinching touchdown, rose up to beat University of Colorado, 21-12, Saturday for its first victory of the season before 10,000 snow-chilled fans.

The Red Raiders, controlling action in the first half, struck for two touchdowns by fullback Coolidge Hunt and protected a 14-6 intermission lead.

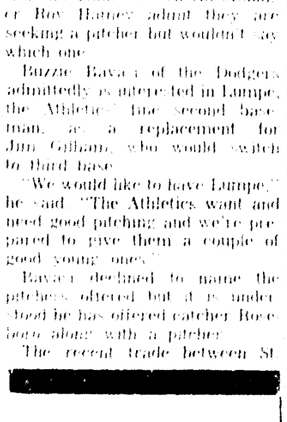

The Buffaloes, who now have the identical 1-8 record of Tech, scored on a 2-yard pass in the second quarter from quarterback Frank Cesarek to halfback John McGuire and in the fourth quarter on a yard plunge by Cesarek.

Park's interception return was the fourth longest in the Southwest Conference history and set a Tech school record. The previous school mark was a 95-yard TD return by Lefty Sollis in 1932 against Colorado Mines.

Hunt left the game in the third quarter with an apparent neck injury. Hospital officials declined to say just what the injury was or how seriously hurt Hunt is.

Baseball Player Swaps Likely

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP) — All signs point to a possible record number of player swaps during baseball's annual three-week inter - league trading period starting next Wednesday, Nov. 21.

The success of the San Francisco Giants this past season and that of the Cincinnati Reds in 1961, both attributed largely to players obtained from the American League, is expected to spur more inter-league dealings than ever before.

Virtually all clubs have expressed a desire to strengthen themselves in one department or another. Hence there should be a flurry of activity at the minor league convention opening in Rochester, N.Y., Nov. 26 and at the major league sessions in New York Nov. 30-Dec. 1.

Many familiar names have been mentioned in possible deals. They include such stars as Dick Groat, Don Hoak and Dick Stuart of Pittsburgh; Lew Burdette and Joe Adcock, Milwaukee; Duke Snider, Wally Moon and John Roseboro, Los Angeles Dodgers; John Blanchard and Phil Linz, New York Yankees; Roger Craig, Charlie Neal and Frank Thomas, New York Mets; Ed Bailey, San Francisco; Earl Battey, Minnesota; Chuck Estrada, Baltimore; Woodie Held, Cleveland; Billy Bruton, Detroit; Jerry Lumpe, Kansas City, and Pete Runnels and Gene Conley, Boston.

Not all of these players will be traded, of course, but it's a safe bet that a number of them will be wearing different uniforms next spring, most likely in the rival league.

One of the reasons for the inter-league trading popularity is there is no opportunity for the traded player to come back and haunt his old team as would be the case if he were traded to a club in the same league.

This point was emphasized by Charles Finley. The owner of the Kansas Athletics was quoted recently: "If we make any deals, it will be with National League clubs. It's better that way. The players you trade don't come back to haunt you."

Under the inter-league trading rule, now in its fourth year, a player doesn't have to be cleared through the waiver mill by clubs in his own league, as is the case at all other times.

That's how the Giants were able to acquire pitchers Billy O'Dell, Billy Pierce and Don Larsen and outfielder Harvey Kuenn, who were a big help in the team's successful pennant drive last season. That's how the Reds were able to land third baseman Gene Freese and first baseman Gordy Coleman, who figured prominently in their 1961 championship season.

A much discussed trade that may be consummated at the winter meetings is one involving Minnesota and Baltimore. The Twins are said to be ready to trade Battey, their all star catcher, to the Orioles for a starting pitcher, either Estrade or Milt Pappas.

The Yankees also are reportedly interested in either of the Oriole right handers, and are said to have offered Blanchard in exchange. Twins President Cal Griffith and Yankees' General Manager Roy Hamey admit they are seeking a pitcher but wouldn't say which one.

Buzzie Bavasi of the Dodgers admittedly is interested in Lumpe, the Athletics' lone second baseman, as a replacement for Jim Gilliam, who would switch to third base.

"We would like to have Lumpe," he said. "The Athletics want and need good pitching and we're prepared to give them a couple of good young ones."

Bavasi declined to name the pitchers offered but it is understood he has offered catcher Roseboro along with a pitcher.

The recent trade between St. Louis and Chicago in which pitchers Lindy McDaniel and Larry Jackson went to the Cubs in a six-player swap that sent George Altman and Don Cardwell to the Cards, foiled a Pittsburgh attempt to trade shortstop Groat to the Cards for righ-hander Jackson. The Yankees also were interested in Jackson.

Pirate General Manager Joe Brown has talked with American League clubs reportedly interested in Hoak and Stuart. The Pirates plan to start next season with Donn Clendenon at first and rookie Bob Bailey at third.

"Our main idea in a trade is to strengthen our pitching," said Brown, who refused to confirm that any of the players mentioned figured in the swap talk. "But we also need a catcher to back up Smoky Burgess."

Washington is seeking a shortstop. The Nats have made overtures to Cleveland for Held and to the Yankees for Linz, offering one of three starting pitchers. They are southpaw Claude Osteen, right-handers Dave Stenhouse or Bennie Daniels.

It is almost certain that Bo Belinsky will be pitching for a team other than the Los Angeles Angeles next season. The Yankees, who recently sent veteran Bob Turley to the Angels, are interested in the precocious sotuhpaw who made more headlines with his off-the-field activities than with his pitching after hs early season no-hitter. But Bo could be headed anywhere.

Houston, which tried unsuccessfully last winter to land Runnels, a home town boy, may get its man this time. The Colts are said to be willing to part with Roman Mejias, their leading hitter and run producer. The Red Sox are known to be seeking a right-handed power hitter to take advantage of the friendly left field wall at Fenway Park.

"Our talent has improved this year so that we don't have to force any deals," said Paul Richards, the Colts' general manager. "We have two or three deals in mind that may or may not be made later on."

General Manager Fred Haney of the Angels is seeking another starting pitcher and a right-handed hitting third baseman.

"I've talked to several clubs but have made no progress," admitted Haney. "Every time I talk turkey, they ask for Ken McBride.

"I have been in constant communication with a lot of clubs in both major leagues," said Mets' General Manager George Weiss, "but every phone conversation has ended with either the other fellow or I saying, "I'll see you in Rochester.'"

The Mets could use almost anybody worth while but the trouble is they have very few worthwhile players to give in exchange. The most desirable of the Mets appear to be pitchers Jay Hook, Al Jackson and Roger Craig. The Mets offered Craig, their biggest winner last season, to the Giants for Willie McCovey but were rebuffed.

"I have been in constant communication with a lot of clubs in both major leagues," said Mets' General Manager George Weiss, "but every phone conversation has ended with either the other fellow or I saying, "I'll see you in Rochester.'"

Holland Scores 4 In Wisconsin Win

By JERRY LISKA

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP) — Halfback Tom Holland scored four touchdowns and zoomed fourth-ranked Wisconsin to an easy, but important Big Ten Conference football conquest of lowly Illinois 35-6 Saturday.

The triumph apparently gained Wisconsin a Rose Bowl bid, even though the Big Ten season will not close until next Saturday.

Holland, a foot 10, 180-pound junior, produced three first quarter touchdowns on his first four plays of the game as the Badgers hiked their Big Ten record to 5-1 and their overall mark to 7-1.

The Badgers, who were brilliantly led by quarterback Ron VanderKelen, on the bleak, dreary Dad's Day at Illinois, set the stage for a clinching Big Ten title finale against Minnesota next Saturday at Madison, Wis.

In view of Minnesota's 7-6 conquest of Purdue, plus the fact the Gophers are ineligible for a Rose Bowl bid, the Badgers apparently nailed down a Pasadena post-season trip.

Holland scored on scrimmage runs of 35, 18 and 15 yards and speared a 16-yard scoring pass from VanderKelen in his remarkable performance.

Illinois, which had scored a resounding upset of Purdue two weeks ago, scored its only touchdown with 34 seconds remaining in the first half, and then on a fluke play.

After Wisconsin had surged to a 28-0 lead, the Illini counted on a 13-yard pass from Mike Taliaferro which was deflected on the goal line by Badger defender John Fabry into the hands of Illini halfback Trenton Jackson for a touchdown.

Kerbow Carries Owls By Aggies In SWC Contest

HOUSTON (AP) — Randy Kerbow, a 187-pound senior, had a hand or foot in every Rice point Saturday as the Owls defeated Texas A&M 23-3 in a Southwest Conference football game.

Kerbow scored the first 10 Owl points by kicking a 36-yard field goal and plunging over for a touchdown from the 1, then hit Jerry Kelley and John Sylvester with touchdown passes that covered 64 and 25 yards.

The Rice defense meanwhile riddled the A&M attack by intercepting four passes and covering three fumbles wile permitting the Aggies to cross midfield only twice the first three periods.

Paul Piper made the first interception on the second play of the game and Kerbow kicked his field goal seven plays later.

Rockefeller Faces Pressure From Rival GOP Groups In '64 Nomination Bid

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller apparently faces strong pressure from GOP conservatives and liberals in shaping the course he hopes will lead to his nomination for president in 1964.

He would hope to defeat President Kennedy.

The New York governor, who dislikes labels, is tabbed in the minds of most politicians as a liberal, or at least a moderate.

During the election campaign, for example, Rockefeller pledged to push a state program aimed at fare strong opposition from GOP conservatives as a liberal.

His making "all the people well-housed, well-clothed, well-fed well-educated and well-protected from adversity."

To many Republicans this sounded as if the governor was present some difficulties, there is no increase in state taxes may present some difficulties, there is ing among the party's liberals.

Rockefeller's demonstrated abil- factors in charting his course to ity in the past to balance income ward 1964.

In the first place, the primary asset in his arsenal of political weapons is his twice-demonstrated ability to carry New York, Most republicans are rather certain they'll have to have for a modified version of the welfare state, although on a pay-as-you-go basis. While the governor's campaign promise that there will be no increase in state taxes may have to consider a number of York's electoral votes if they are to defeat Kennedy's bid for a second term.

But New York presents some special problems. A Conservative ticket headed by David H. Jaguith as a candidate for governor polled 126,131 votes in the Nov. 6 balloting. If anything Jaquith was more violent in his denunciations of Rockefeller than was the Democratic nominee, Robert M. Morgenthau.

The Conservatives are guaranteed a place on the 1964 ballot, if they want to put up candidates.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR HELOISE:

I know we women always say to ourselves when we see something so simple . . . now why haven't I thought of that before? So I thought of a little hint I would like to pass along.

For women who do wear aprons . . . it is utterly ridiculous for us to make them out of cotton that has to be washed, starched and ironed weekly!

I took my favorite apron for a pattern and made myself one out of an old bath towel. I stole this idea from your column where you made your work blouses out of towels.

Heloise, it's wonderful! When my hands are wet, I just wipe them on the apron but . . . best of all . . . I can throw it in the laundry once or twice a week and wear it again with no ironing required.

Ginny

GOT A COLD?

DEAR HELOISE:

Here's a new one for your column. When anyone in the house has a cold or is sick, I put a rubber band around his drinking glass. Anyone seeing this knows not to use that glass.

Mrs. Glen Stoyer

JUST PINE FOR MEN

DEAR HELOISE:

I would like to share my secret with ladies who haven't room in their freezers for dampened clothes.

If your clothes don't seem just enough to give that odor when you touch the hot iron to them, go ahead and finish ironing all of them anyway. Then hang them in the bathroom on clothes hangers and spray the bathroom generously with room air deodorant.

Be sure to leave space between each garment so a little of the spray can reach all parts of the clothing. This has saved me many hours of sweat and toil during the hot summer months.

Also, for those who want to know how to clean the outside of cast-iron skillets . . . have you thought of using oven cleaner? If the skillets are badly crusted, more than one application may be necessary, but by using oven cleaner the skillets won't get bad again.

M. L. P.

MENU FOR MICE

DEAR HELOISE:

For mousetraps . . . use a raisin tied onto the trap with a piece of thread. The raisin doesn't crumble, and the mice seem to like the raisins.

Don't run your dishwasher every mealtime . . . wait until it's full . . . even once in several days. It saves electricity and water. This way all of the dishes are used instead of using the same few over and over. I rinse my dishes each day and leave them in the dishwasher . . . this, of course, would vary with different-sized families.

MARKUP FOR RECIPES

I wonder if anyone has ever tried using a ball-point laundry marker for copying recipes?

If the laundry markers are used . . . and you spill or drop anything on the recipe card (I have even dropped a card in water by accident) the recipe is still real sharp and clear.

Mr. William L. Burns

STUCK IN A JAM?

DEAR HELOISE:

I've got something to tell your friends about jar lids that rust, stick, etc.

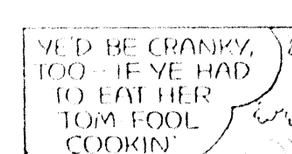

Just grease the inside of the lid with any cooking oil when you open the jar. Great! You will not have any more trouble if you will just dip a paper napkin in oil and apply around the jar ring. Sounds like a lot of time wasted but it's not. Rusted jar lids are no more!

Woopsie

CUTE COOKIE CAPER

DEAR HELOISE:

Instead of lining cookie sheets with foil try using foil alone. To do this, remove the rack from your oven before turning on the heat.

Tear a piece of foil the size you need . . . being careful to leave about a two-inch space on all sides. Now place this sheet of foil on the oven rack. Place whatever you are going to bake on the foil and return rack, food and foil to the hot oven.

When food is done, take your pot holders and remove rack and all and place on top of the range to cool. This works for cookies, biscuits, turnovers, frozen French-fried foods and any recipe that calls for a cookie sheet. Saves buying and storing cookie sheets too.

THE BARE FACTS

DEAR HELOISE:

I have a big house and lots of bare floors. Until I discovered this trick I was developing a fine case of housemaids' knee! I use a wonderful brand of self-polishing wax for my asphalt and linoleum, but in order to get it on the floor evenly and thinly enough I had to do it on my hands and knees.

I then discovered that if I dissolved the wax (usually with water) it would go on nicely with the applicator.

FOR SHOPPING LISTS

DEAR HELOISE:

I have found out that people can make their own blackboard . . . any size or shape . . . by buying a piece of plywood or wallboard. Purchase a can of "blackboard paint" . . . and paint the plywood or wallboard with three coats of this. Let dry. To wash this clean, use a damp sponge.

—Mrs. Alyce Bl-

GOLD STAR TARTAR

DEAR HELOISE:

That "cream of tartar" deal for spots on rugs is the most! I had an old cream of tartar can (probably a year old if it goes ing to get ambitious and start baking again.) Instead I put the dry cream of tartar on some awful spots on my carpet and the miracle happened . . . those spots are gone with the wind. (I just kept it on overnight and swept it up the next morning!)

—Jo R. Burke

JUST LIKE A SAUNA

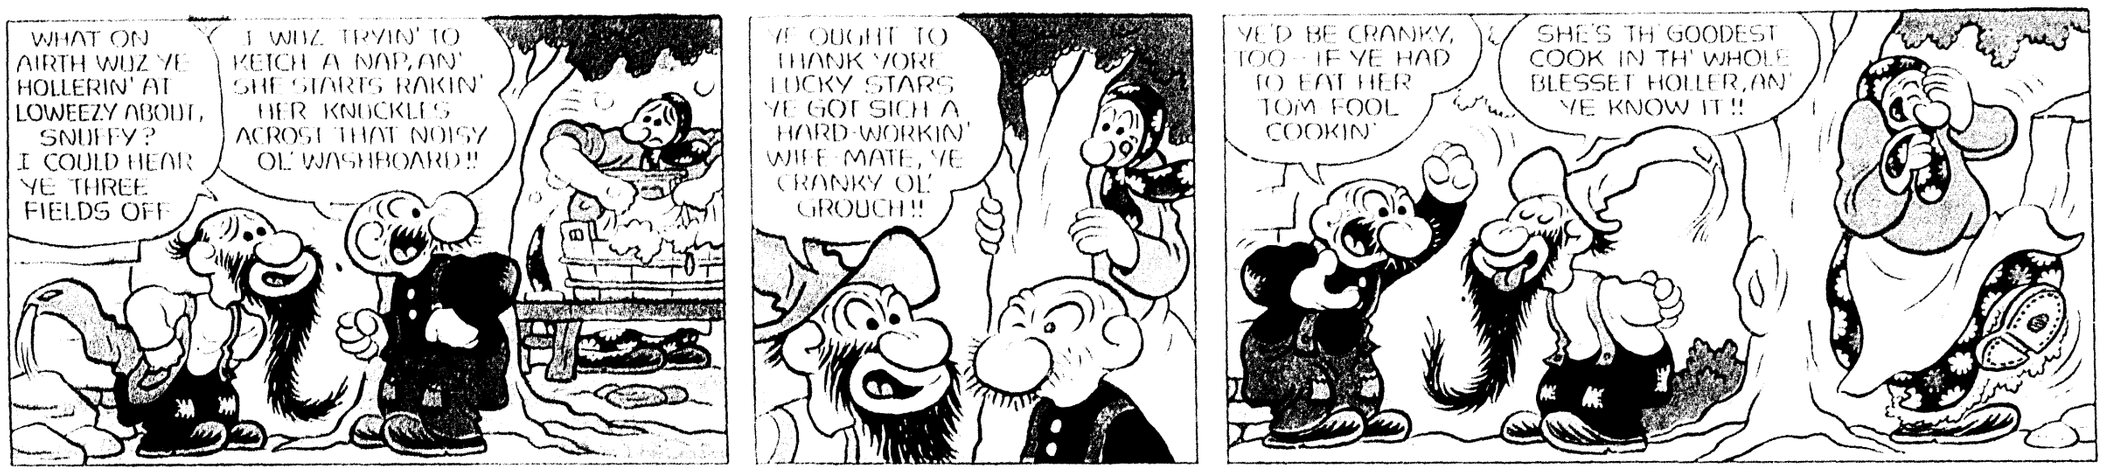

DEAR HELOISE:

The bathroom walls and the woodwork present no problem to clean if you close the door and leave the hot water running in the tub and basin for a few minutes. The steam will loosen the dirt, and then all one has to do is merely wipe the walls down!

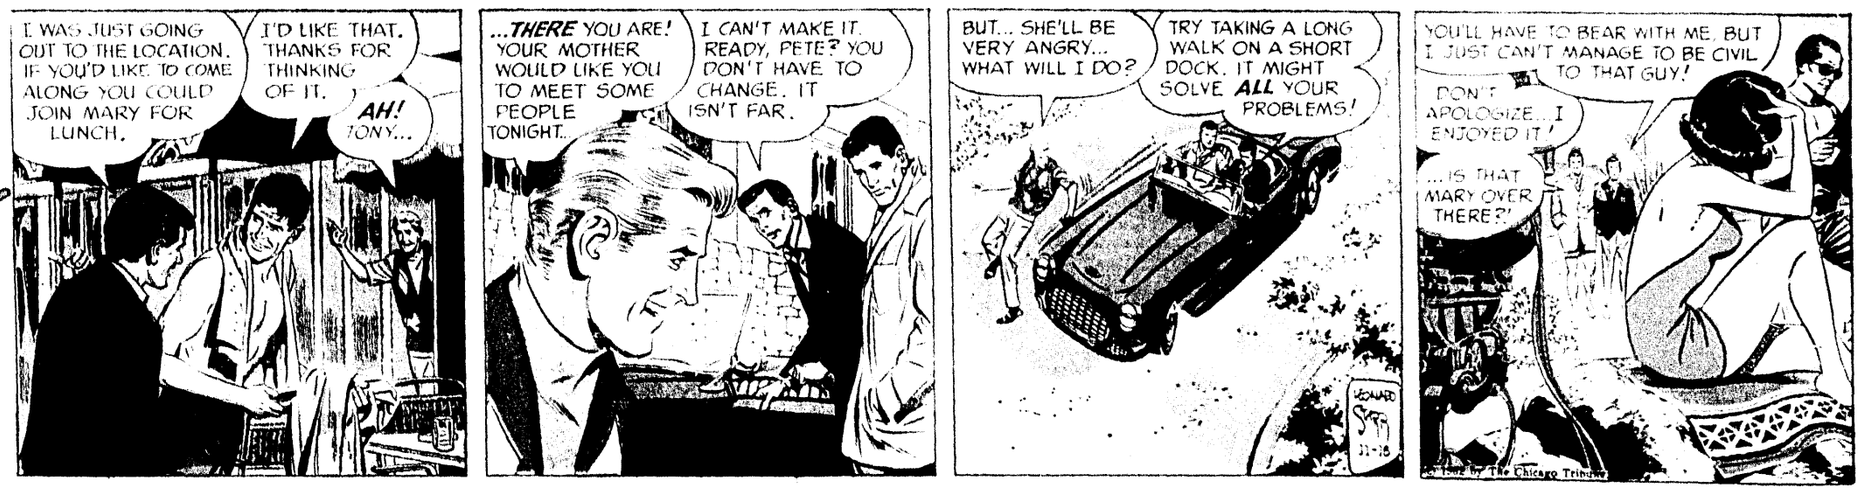

—Reader

This feature is written for you . . . the housewife and homemaker. If you have a hint, problem or suggestion you'd like to share . . . write to Heloise today in care of this newspaper. 11-18

CUTE COOKIE CAPER

DEAR HELOISE:

Instead of lining cookie sheets with foil try using foil alone. To do this, remove the rack from your oven before turning on the heat.

Tear a piece of foil the size you need . . . being careful to leave about a two-inch space on all sides. Now place this sheet of foil on the oven rack. Place whatever you are going to bake on the foil and return rack, food and foil to the hot oven.

When food is done, take your pot holders and remove rack and all and place on top of the range to cool. This works for cookies, biscuits, turnovers, frozen French-fried foods and any recipe that calls for a cookie sheet. Saves buying and storing cookie sheets too. Barbara

DEAR HELOISE:

I have a big house and lots of bare floors. Until I discovered this trick I was developing a fine case of housemaids' knee: I use a wonderful brand of self-polishing wax for my asphalt and linoleum, but in order to get it on the floor evenly and thinly enough I had to do it on my hands and knees.

I then discovered that if I dissolved the wax equally with water, it would go on nicely with the applicator. Jean Hole

FOR SHOPPING LISTS

DEAR HELOISE:

I have found out that people can make their own blackboard . . . any size or shape . . . by buying a piece of plywood or wallboard. Purchase a can of "blackboard paint" . . . and paint the plywood or wallboard with three coats of this. Let dry. To wash this clean, use a damp sponge.

—Mrs. Alyce Bright

GOLD STAR TARTAR

DEAR HELOISE:

That "cream of tartar" deal for spots on rugs is the most! I had an old cream of tartar can—probably a year old. (I was going to get ambitious and start baking again.) Instead I put the dry cream of tartar on some awful spots on my carpet and the miracle happened . . . those spots are gone with the wind. (I just kept it on overnight and swept it up the next morning!) —Jo R. Burke

DEAR HELOISE:

The bathroom walls and the woodwork present no problem to clean if you close the door and leave the hot water running in the tub and basin for a few minutes. The steam will loosen the dirt, and then all one has to do is merely wipe the walls down!

OH, COME NOW, ANNIE! I'M SURE ELWOOD IS GETTING ALONG FINE!
